DR. LANGEVIN REPORTS ON MEETING OF ASSOCIATION FOR HIGHER EDUCATION

Last week's Knightletter contained a reference to my attendance at the annual meeting of the Association for Higher Education in Chicago. This group, which is sponsored by the National Education Association, maintains individual rather than institutional memberships. However, because of the number of presidents and deans who attend, the meeting almost appears to represent institutional attachments.

The theme of the conference this year was "Higher Education Reflects on Itself and on The Larger Society." The mechanics of the conference provide for plenary meetings at which various people both in and out of higher education are featured, and discussion groups and information sessions which are assigned in advance to conference participants. Together, these make up a publication which comes out each year entitled "Current Issues in Higher Education," and which is quite valuable to the college administrator, as well as to the professors of the growing study of higher education as a professional area of interest.

Featured speakers of interest included Mr. Terry Sanford, former governor of North Carolina, who was and is active in the formation of the newly organized nationwide compact for education (and which, it seems to me, would be well worth a couple of hours of interesting faculty discussion); Senator J. W. Fulbright, who used the session as a forum to carry on his attack on the administration's Viet. Nam policy; and Vice-President Hubert Humphrey, who became the banquet speaker on evidently short notice to answer Senator Fulbright; John Dale Russell, an old-timer in the study of American higher education; Mr. Frank Bowles, director of the education program of the Ford Foundation; and others.

THREE CONCERTS SCHEDULED FOR NEXT WEEK IN EASTVOLD CHAPEL

Three musical concerts are scheduled for PLU next week. All concerts will be held in the Eastvold Chapel Auditorium.

Sunday at 4 p.m. Mrs. Charlotte Carretson, soprano, will present a faculty recital. The recital will include works by Handel, Schubert, Debussy and Britten.

The PLU Concert Band will present its annual spring concert Monday at 8 p.m. Playing under the direction of Professor Gordon O. Gilbertson, the 60-piece band will include contemporary works, classical favorites and marches in its program.

Kay Britten, internationally-famous folk-singer, will appear in concert at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday as part of the PLU Associated Students Artist Series. Boasting one of the most extensive repertoires of folk songs and ballads of any folk artist, Miss Britten is recognized as one of the foremost authorities on folk music of our day.

COPY HOOK

Have any extra books around? Rev. Theodore Stumpf, Jr., pastor of Sitka Lutheran Church, lost his entire library in the fire which swept Sitka a while back. If you have books lying around which you would like to give, bring them to the Public Relations Office and they will go out with a shipment due to leave some time next week.

CHUCKLE

The difference between a statesman and a politician is that a statesman thinks he belongs to the state and the politician thinks that the state belongs to him.

Discussion session speakers were too numerous to mention, but one of the more popular sessions featured Pres. Millard Roberts of Parsons College, Iowa, speaking on "Should Colleges use Business Management Principles in Their Operation?"

Sessions of particular interest to me, and which I attended involved:

- 1) Resolving the conflict of purpose between the search for truth and the teaching of values. (The panel determined that there was no such conflict).
- 2) The "new breed" of administrator.
- 3) Faculty participation on University or college governance.

Naturally, I had the chance also to visit and swap information with friends at other colleges and universities. The highlight, of course, was the virtually unannounced appearance of the Vice President.

This conference does very well with distribution of everything in mimeographed form. If you think you might be interested in thumbing through these materials, please do not hesitate to drop by my office. You may borrow one or the other of the items if you wish.

Two PLU teams will face squads from Pacific University this week as the Knights open spring sports activity.

The PLU golfers will open the season today when they travel to Forest Grove, Ore., to meet the Badger linksmen.

Saturday, the Knight track team opens the campaign against Pacific on the Parkland oval at 1 p.m.

Three lettermen form the nucleus of the 1966 PLU golf squad. Heading the list is Roy Ahre, a sophomore from Woodburn, Ore., who played at times as the Knight's number one man last spring.

Other veterans are Craig Hidy, a junior from Daly City, Calif., and Gary Bierwagen, a sophomore from Walla Walla.

Leading newcomers include Jay Robinson, Portland; Jack Strand, Spokane; and Jeff Watson, Olympia.

Les Rucker, who set two PLU individual records and was on the team that set two Knight relay marks, tops a list of six veterans on the PLU track squad. A senior from Yakima he set marks in the long jump and intermediate hurdles and was on the record-breaking 400 yard and mile relay squads.

Other veterans are mid-distance runner Barry Egeland, Tacoma; weightman Craig Knutzen, Seattle; high jumper Jim Rismiller, Seattle; 880-yard runner Chuck Snekvik, Walnut Creek, Calif; and sprinter Terry Tommervik, Tacoma.

The golfers return to action March 30 with a home match against Puget Sound followed by another home meet with St. Martin April 1.

The PLU baseball team is idle until March 31 when it travels to Willamette while the Knight tennis squad opens the season April 2 at Western Washington.
