

"The Odd Job Man" Lauded by Audience

Class Play Shows Exceptional Casting, Acting, Staging, and Direction

By Rachel Flint

Declared by an unusually appreciative audience to be one of the outstanding Senior Class Plays ever given at Pacific Lutheran College, "The Odd Job Man" was presented by the graduating class of 1932 on Friday evening in the College gymnasium. Well coached, well staged, and well acted, the play moved smoothly from start to finish. In a large measure the success of the production was due to the careful casting done by those in charge, each actor taking his or her part so capably that it is almost impossible to name anyone as giving an outstanding performance.

Harold Berentson as John Gordon, the gruff father, won the sympathy as well as the laughter of the audience in his attempts to "discipline" his three children. Esther Westby was perfect as Dolly, the baby of the family, with a passion for getting into scrapes and the overwhelming defect of a pug nose. Eric Hauke as Robert, heir to the Gordon wealth, whose interest lay not in algebra books but in ukuleles and blonds, and Amelia Hönquist as Kitty, a drug store clerk of the preferred complexion, who kept Bob's correspondence, furnished some merry moments in their scenes.

Evelyn Arneson, as Celia, made the most charmingly spoiled heroine imaginable, and Harry Southworth was convincing as the materialistic poet with whom she imagined herself in love. Helen Thrane too, was at her best in the difficult role of Miss Spencer, the former governess. In the minor role of Nora, the Gordon cook who was always on the verge of departure, Hildur Johanson was equally good.

Alven Schierman in the title role of Michael, "the odd job man," whose ability to pour oil upon the troubled waters of the Gordon home, won him that job for life, could not possibly have been better. If any characterization could be named as being outstanding, it was his.

School Will Operate Without Curtailment

Although the American Lutheran Church, the Augustana Synod, and the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America plan to eliminate seven out of 30 schools in the United States, Pacific Lutheran College will continue to operate without curtailment of any kind. This authority to continue was granted by the board of trustees, the eastern church officials, and the inter-synodical committee at the recent two-day conference held at Parkland, May 3-4.

The Elvestrom-Preus program, a plan that calls for the raising of one and a half million dollars within the next five years, instead of 20 years, was previously adopted as the development plan, will go into effect if the American Lutheran Church, the Augustana Synod, and the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America adopt this plan at their conference in June. At the May meeting of the board of trustees, the entire present faculty was re-elected for the coming year.

Four More Graduates Sign School Contracts

Four more Normal Department graduates have signed contracts recently. Harry Southworth has a position as teacher of the upper grades at the Collins school, near Olympia, Wash.; Frances Jane Levin has signed a contract as teacher of the first four grades at the Clover Creek school about 10 miles south of Tacoma; Clara Fjermedal has a position as teacher of the first four grades at Weyerhaeuser, Washington, and Evelyn Arneson has been given the position as principal at the Central Valley school at Pierceon, Washington.

Millard Quale, Harold Berentson, Harold Grey, and Muriel Watts have previously signed contracts.

On Monday the choir traveled to Kennewick, Washington, where they presented a concert that night. Tuesday night they sang at the Pendleton High School in Pendleton, Oregon. Tonight they will give a concert in Endicott, Washington, and tomorrow, one at Riverville. Returning home by way of Snoqualmie Pass, the choir will sing at Eatonville Friday evening. They expect to arrive at the college sometime Friday night.

Mission Society Work Discussed at Meeting

Ramstad Chosen Advisor in Absence of Professor Pflueger

The Mission Society met Wednesday, April 27, at seven o'clock. After songs, scripture reading, and prayer, Agnes Berge played a piano solo and Kathryn Johnson gave a reading. The remaining questions from the Question Box were discussed and Fred Mau reported on the Pocket Testament League. The treasurer reported that $30 had been sent to support a boy in Madagascar, and $5 given to the Lutheran Welfare Society.

Rev. Ramstad has been chosen as club advisor for the remainder of the year in the place of Prof. Pflueger. It has also been decided to hold a prayer meeting every Friday morning at seven o'clock in the Chapel basement, with Walter Young as leader. Everyone is invited to attend these meetings.

P. L. C. Holds Last Debate

The last debate of the school year was held between Yakima Junior College and P. L. C. on Tuesday, April 28. Harold Berentson and Norman Hokenstad upheld the negative on the question, "Resolved that the United States government shall enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry." The debate was a non-decision one, and ended a successful year for the Lutheran team.

Students Hear Talks

Dr. J. A. Aagaard and Dr. C. A. Brandelle Speak in Chapel

At the Chapel exercises on Wednesday, April 4, Dr. J. A. Aagaard, president of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, and Dr. C. A. Brandelle, president of the Augustana Synod, addressed the students and faculty.

Dr. Aagaard spoke briefly on the assistance the students can give in maintaining the college. He said that it is not the financial aid that the students give that counts so much. In his talk he urged that every one attending P. L. C. bring back with him next fall at least one new student, adding that each graduate should send a student to take his place.

Dr. Brandelle compared a student's schooling in the distant past with that at the present time, showing in his own interesting manner how much easier it is for the young men and women of today to obtain an education.

Hiking Club Has Constitution

The new constitution of the Girls' Hiking Club was read and accepted at the meeting held on Thursday, April 28.

For the third hike of the year, planned by Dorothy Delamarter, Ruth Goodwin, and Charlotte Shoup, the girls hiked from Mantou to Chambers' Creek and back.

Two Picnics Combined For Boat Trip May 20

Because of the short time left before commencement the annual all-school picnic will be combined this year with the usual picnic given by the freshman classes for the graduates. The outing, as now planned, will be on Friday, May 20, in the form of a boat trip. Stops will be made at the Bremerton Navy Yard for inspection of the ships and at Chico beach for lunch.

Expenses for the affair will be shared by the underclassmen. Shirley Hecht and Clarence Lenning have been appointed by the freshman president, Carl Martin, to meet with representatives from the sophomore class to conclude arrangements for the picnic.

L. D. R. Head Elected

Kathryn Johnson Chosen at Last Meeting of School Year

Kathryn Johnson was elected as the president of the L. D. R. for the coming year, at the last regular meeting of that organization held May 4, in the College recreation room. At this meeting the faculty ladies were guests of the girls.

The program began with the group singing of the L. D. R. song, followed by a word of welcome to the guests by the president. Mrs. O. A. Tingelstad gave a talk on behalf of the women, complimenting the girls on their work during the year. Grace Holte played a piano solo, and Dickie Lealand gave a reading. Margaret Forsyth gave a talk on the work done by the L. D. R., and Anna Mikkelson, accompanied by Grace Holte, sang "Beautiful Mother."

Kathryn Johnson and Pauline Schierman reported on the Women's Missionary Society Convention at Ballard, which they attended as representatives of the club.

Faculty Club Meets At J. O. Edwards' Home

Professor Higby Presents Paper on Diseases and Remedies

On Monday evening, April 29, the Faculty Club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Edwards. Professor Higby began the program by presenting a paper "Knowledge of Diseases and their Remedies," pertaining to methods of combating diseases by inoculation and other means. This report, urging that a course teaching students how to retain good health be included in the curriculum, brought forth a great deal of discussion.

Following this was a piano number by Peggy Ramstad and a number by the faculty ladies' quartet, accompanied by Mrs. Edwards. Dr. Tingelstad gave part of a thesis on the hope of Junior and Church Colleges, and how each must be maintained independent of the other. This paper will be continued at the next meeting. Refreshments concluded this session of the faculty.

Delta Rho Gammis Picnic

The Delta Rho Gamma girls held a picnic during the noon hour Friday, May 6, at the Fountain of Youth. The refreshment committee, consisting of Frances Andrews, Margaret Lammers, and Ruth Goodwin, served potato salad, sandwiches, pickles, and lemonade.

Roen Is Elected Student President

Martin, Flint, and Runsvold Are Other Officers Chosen; Board Members Also Selected

Clarence Roen was chosen president of the Associated Student Body at a special election Friday, winning over Norman Hokenstad by a narrow margin. Other officers chosen for the following year are: Carl Martin, vice president; Rachel Flint, secretary; and Peggy Runsvold, treasurer.

Others elected to next year's Board of Control, as outlined by the new constitution are: Clifford Mestford, advertising manager; Ray Lerbach, athletic manager; Jesse Pflueger, Sophomore representative; and Paul Preus, high school representative.

Those nominated for the various offices were: president, Clarence Roen; Walter Young, and Norman Hokenstad; vice president, Carl Martin and Holden Hauke; secretary, Nordis Arneson; Marie Johnson, and Rachel Flint; treasurer, Irvin Dammel and Trygve Runsvold; commissioner of advertising, Clifford Mestford, unopposed; commissioner of athletics, John Zackrisson, Walter Ustad and Ray Lerbach; Jesse Pflueger and Paul Preus ran unopposed for the offices of representatives.

To comply with the new constitution, which demands that the one elected receive a majority of all votes cast, re-voting was necessary in several cases.

"Tomorrow's Church" Is Convention Topic

"Tomorrow's Lutheran Church" was the main topic of the North Puget Sound Luther League Convention held at Bellingham, April 29 to May 1. Rev. N. M. Ylvisaker, executive secretary of the International Luther League, was the chief speaker. Sub-topics were discussed by delegates from different places.

Rev. A. K. Vinje, of Everett, was chosen by those present at the convention as president for a two-year term, succeeding Rev. A. M. Kraabel of Portland, who has served as president for the past four years. Other officers elected were: Rev. Carl Foss, Silverton, Oregon, vice president; Marie Ordal, Bellingham, Washington, secretary; and Chester Soley, Everett, Washington, treasurer. The new auditors are Arthur Olson, and Clifford Wold of Everett. Mrs. T. Gulhaugen is the new adviser to the Junior League which organized at the convention.

The convention voted to cooperate with the Tacoma-Mt. Baker District League of the Augustana Synod in conducting the annual Bible Institute at Draper Park, Des Moines, July 24-31, and to give part of the final convention collection to help pay the expenses of the Parkland Chautauqua.

Pep Club Holds Meeting

A meeting of the Pep Club was held on Thursday, April 28, with Harriet Schneider and Lillian Olson serving as hostesses. Nordis Arneson played several piano solos.

It was decided that the Pep Club would give a party for the day girls. The dormitory girls also decided to organize a baseball team to play against the day students' team.

A STEP FORWARD

For some time the German and French classes have been holding informal meetings. During the past month these meetings have developed into two clubs. Der Deutsche Verein and Le Cercle Francais. The appearance of these two clubs marks a distinct step forward in the activities of the school, a step which should create interest not only among the students and faculty but also among outside friends of the school.

These new clubs should benefit the students greatly, offering as they do a supplement to the classroom study through games, songs, and programs. Each club has as its purpose a closer acquaintance with the country whose particular language its members are studying. The members hope by a more intimate knowledge of these peoples to acquire that spirit of tolerance which makes for world peace. With an adviser who has the understanding and the ability of Mrs. Bondy, these clubs should be able to accomplish a great deal.

COURTESY IS APPRECIATED

The students are to be commended on the many courtesies that they showed the visitors last week. The attitude of the students toward these visitors was truly in accord with the student-body spirit. Many of these kindnesses were too small to be noticed. There were some, however, which were so obvious that one could not help seeing them. Some of them were really difficult to do; some were done even in the face of embarrassment. The students and faculty can be sure that these courtesies will be remembered by our visitors.

SUPPORT SAGA ADVERTISERS

Now that the securing of advertisements for the Saga is complete, everyone should be reminded to support these advertisers whenever he gets the opportunity. These advertisers have shown a real spirit of helpfulness to the student body that surely merits any patronage we can give them. Though the Saga is not yet published, it is not too early to begin this support. On the bulletin board is a list of all Saga advertisers who will be of assistance to the students in preparing for commencement and vacation. Advertisers in the Mooring Mast also merit the support of the students and faculty. When trading at the places advertised, don't forget to mention the two publications.

Chapel Gleanings

Love has its source in God.
Our hope is not only for this life.
A Christmas hope is built upon the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ from the dead.
God wants us to serve Him through our fellow-men.
Christ was the son of God but He was a man, too.
We should learn of Him who God is and what God is.
Christ has revealed the Father to us.
Prayer is a talk with God.
There are bigger things than material things.
Christ communed with His Father every day.
When we help our fellow-men Christ takes it that we are helping Him.
Christianity is the only view of life that will remain.

The world does not read the word of God.
He is the One who does the good in us.
Unbelievers living in their sins will not be saved.
Sin leads to destruction.
Have you peace with God?
It is hope that fills life with cheer and gladness.
He will deal with you according to His abounding mercy.
Are we crowning Him King in our own life?

Ravings by Rattlebrains

Alas I have news of the saddest sort for my dear public. I received a telegram from a dear friend in Shelbourn, saying that Napoleon is dying with his boots on, so I really must save the day for dear old Nap.

Virginia Byers says she actually flew into a temper yesterday when she asked if she could see something cheap in a felt hat and the milliner replied, "Here is a hat, and over there is the mirror."

In spring a young man's fancy usually turns to love, but it seems as if Art Spencer's has turned to Bernice Shaffer, or is it Frances Newton? And then again, what about the letter found on the campus by one of the fair co-eds?

It was written to Avalon Wojahn, and spoke of the hottest fire he would walk through just to gaze into her beautiful eyes, or the highest mountain he would climb just to touch her hand. (Copies sent on request and ten cents in stamps).

Johnny Fadness's car was seen hopping along the road in a peculiar fashion. Trygve Runsvold in his new Ford drove up and said, "What's the matter, Johnny, engine trouble?" Johnny replied, "No, I have the hiccoughs."

Mr. Beck must have been an electrician once in his life because this morning when Johnny Zachrisson came into history class late Mr. Beck yelled— "Say! Wire you insulate?"

Will some one please enlighten Ted Eyrant? He can't see yet why Mr. Hong flunked him in English today. He says, "The assignment was to write an essay on 'The Result of Laziness' and I handed in a blank sheet of paper."

The latest equipment in zoology is davenport. Ask "Red" Carlson for more information on this statement.

Esther Westby says that "Dancing With Tears in My Eyes" was a potato salad song. Not much point to that is there? But she says this salad had onions in it, too.

The reason Bill Whalen was late to class the other day was that when he looked in the mirror he couldn't see himself so he thought he had gone to class. It wasn't until a couple hours later that he discovered that the glass had fallen out of the mirror.

A soldier of the Royal Guard is coming to escort me back to the monarch's palace. Adieu, dear friends. Duty calls me. May we meet again.—The Professor.

Graduating Class Has Semi-Formal Affair

A semi-formal party was given by the seniors on Friday, April 29, in the recreation room. About 55 members of the class were present for the affair which was planned by Bob Reid, Evelyn Arneson, Frances Jane Larin, Art Spencer, and Eldur Johanson.

Games followed the program consisting of "Goodnight Sweetheart" and "By The Fireside," sung by Harold Berentson; a tap novelty by Barbara Xavier; piano solos by Ellen Soley; and a skit, "Let the Wedding Bells Ring." Punch, cake and ice cream were served as refreshments.

WHAT PRICE EDUCATION?

A recent Carnegie report purports to observe that the average college freshman possesses knowledge equivalent to or above that of a senior. This report prepared by Dr. Henry Smith Pritchett for the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, and based upon examinations administered to 10,000 college students in various parts of Pennsylvania, blames the asserted failure of the American educational system to educate on a lack of coordination of the specific items of knowledge.

Although we may accept Dr. Pritchett's conclusions with reservations, we must admit that they cast a serious reflection on our modern method of education. Probably one of its greatest defects is the system of compulsory courses, the "credit coinage" play of college education. Why should a student be forced to waste his time laboring with a subject which he has no interest and which has no interest for him? It may not be desirable to abolish compulsory courses altogether, but certainly there can be no required courses when they successfully pass examinations.

Dr. Pritchett may have interpreted his results too broadly, he perhaps confused knowledge with intelligence—of course the average undergraduate has not reached the peak of his knowledge at the end of his freshman year—but the sooner students may choose for study the subjects which are of most interest and accordingly of most value to them, the sooner will accusations that the college educational system is "falling, cease.—The Hemnicia.

"SPRING FERVOR"

The poet went forth in search of spring.

But not a birdie was heard to sing. And the poet had wanted one for a rhyme

About birds and flowers in the sweet springtime.

"Well," said the poet, "at least there are flowers."

And searched the prairie for hours and hours:

But stopped with a heart that was ready to break.

Upon finding naught but a three-foot snake.

So the poet returned to P. L. C.'s walls. And wandered disconsolately up the halls.

And found the first sign that spring was there.

In the dreamy gaze of a maiden fair.

Nor a violet blooming, no robin's song. But that one symptom could not be wrong?

What else could it be but spring romance? That was causing that far-off vacant glance?

What else could be causing those delightful sighs.

And the mist that clouded her big blue eyes?

And the poet's heart took a joyful leap When the maiden opened her mouth to speak.

"For," thought the poet, "though skies are drear,
Her words will prove that spring's really here."

But alas, the maid made a face and said,

"Honest to goodness, I wish I were dead!"

"It's those doughnuts, I guess; I just ate three.

"But, believe it or not, they're killing me!"

The poet had made just one more mistake;

It wasn't the spring; 'twas a stomach-ache.

Margaret Elliott Makes Tearful Plea to Cruel Inmate of Girls' Dorm

This is an appeal to that stony-hearted individual who, with malice and aforethought, or by mistake, entered Margaret Elliott's room and spirited away the pride and joy of this young lady's heart. For no one else can this missing object have the tender significance that it has for Miss Elliott, and members of the Girls' Hiking Club who helped her drag this trophy home from the last hike join with tear-drenched eyes, in asking for its return.

Last Thursday seven girls returning from Dorewell and vicinity found this object lying forlorn and forsaken beside the road. From this lowly station it was rescued by Margaret Elliott who tenderly strapped it in a stray newspaper, carried it all the weary miles to Manitou, carried it on the street car, braving curious glances from conductors and passengers; carried it at last to her room in the dorm. There, exhausted by her efforts, she slept, and awoke the next morning to find her treasure vanished!

Considering the deep sentimental significance of this object to its original owner, will the guilty person please return to Margaret Elliott, at once the large arrow Road-sign, which bears in black letters the inscription "Stellacom"

Even the "Prof" Can Learn!

Astounded! Familiar as he is with the theories of economics, the dear old "Prof" is hardly prepared for this. These bright Co-eds have gone him one better by practicing what he preached. And he's marveling that the prices they've whispered could, possibly have bought their enchanting, fashion-wise frocks.

Leaders Make Plans For Schools' Future

Meeting Held in P. L. C. Gym With Speeches Made by Synodical Leaders and Faculty

On Tuesday evening, May 3, a public mass meeting was held in the P. L. C. gymnasium in connection with the meeting of the synodical leaders of the American Lutheran Conference. Rev. J. P. Pfeuger opened the meeting with devotion. Dr. O. A. Tangelstad gave the opening address, outlining the problem of cooperation. Following this, the presidents of the American Lutheran Church, the Augustana Synod, and the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America replied in short addresses.

Dr. C. C. Hein, president of the American Lutheran church, mentioned the fact that first his church had begun a school in Olympia. They then combined this with Spokane College. When this school was closed the church turned its support to Pacific Lutheran College. Dr. Hein said that he would do all in his power to get a large appropriation for the College from his church, in spite of the fact that their own church expenses would be added to meet.

Dr. G. A. Brandell, president of the Augustana Synod, said that more than ten years ago his synod decided to support Pacific Lutheran College and that they were just as desirous of doing so now. He said that he would urge his synod to give as much assistance as possible.

Dr. J. A. Aasgaard, president of the N. L. C. A. stated that the most important thing is to get students. When the college has a larger enrollment, he said, financial aid will be forthcoming. He urged the pastors to do everything in their power to secure support and students, reminding them that the pastor's attitude usually determines the attitude of the congregation. "But above all," he said, "remember to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you."

After these addresses, Mr. Paul A. Preus presented resolutions for open discussion.

The Pacific Lutheran College Choir furnished two musical numbers and Miss Anna Mikkelsen, soprano, sang a solo.
