

Ericson And Rieke Chosen To Debate England's Top Men

The highest forensic honor to be given this year—the opportunity to participate in the International Debate, April 3—has been awarded Jon Ericson and Bill Rieke, according to Prof. O. H. Karl.

Ericson and Rieke will debate on the subject, "Resolved: The Communist Party Should Be Banned in Free Democratic States."

Newham Will Give Recital on March 30

Frederick L. Newham, associate professor of voice, will present his first recital at PLC March 30 at 8 p.m. in the SUB. He will be accompanied at the piano by R. Byard, instructor of piano.

Prof. Newham recitals are always new. He has given them in New York's Town Hall, Montreal, and numerous other cities in the U. S., Canada and Europe.

Some of his selections will be: "Ye Teu Hundred Dieties," Purcell; "In Youth Is Pleasure," Gibber; "It Were Not So," Bridget; "All Jags Tell Us," Coleridge; "If I Were the King of the Fishes," "Kishna's Gallery," "The Hair," and "Skye Fisher" by Kennedy-Fraser.

Fritts will accompany Prof. Newham and play the selection, "Pi-

Frederick L. Newham

Etude in D Flat Major," at the piano.

Large audiences will have an opportunity to hear Prof. Newham, who will present a special recital for the Tacoma Chamber Music Club at 8:30 p.m. in Weyerhaeuser Hall. Included on the program are numbers by Handel, Bach, and other contemporary English selections. He will be assisted at the piano by Edvard Svedberg.

His March engagements for Prof. Newham include accompanying for the choir in recital at the Bethel Lutheran church, Everett, on March 17; singing the baritone solo part in "The Passion," March 18 at the First Lutheran church, Tacoma; singing the tenor solo part in "The Seven Words of Christ," on Good Friday at the Central Lutheran church; and singing as soloist at the Garrison Methodist church, Fort Lewis, on Easter Sunday.

WEAVE IT OR NOT

Former PLC student, Sgt. Major Ripley, who left for a new assignment in Kansas City last week, was featured in his Believe It or Not column a few days ago. Ripley is now the only Sgt. Major in the PLC with two top English debaters from Cambridge University, Jack Ashley and Ronald Gough Waterhouse, who are now on a 15-day tour at colleges throughout the U. S. The debate will be given at 8:15 p.m. in the SUB.

Only PLC and the University of Washington were chosen from the Pacific Northwest to participate in these special debates. Stanford and USC represented the California area but no schools in Oregon participated. The Institute of International Education sends a team from Europe each year and the U. S. reciprocates by sending to Europe a representative national debate winner.

Ericson was chosen for this honor because of his tremendous debate record. He is participating for the third year on the debate squad and has reached the finals in all but two of 81 intercollegiate tournaments. He has won approximately 70 percent of his debates and excels particularly in oratory and extemporaneous speaking. So far this year he has won four trophies.

Rieke is in his second year on the squad. Before entering the senior division competition, he won 32 out of 44 junior division debates. Like Ericson, Rieke has won four trophies this year. He is outstanding in after-dinner speaking and impromptu.

Pi Kappa Delta, national speech honorary, will be host at a dinner before the debate. A tea for faculty and student body officers will be given in the afternoon.

Saga Royalty Candidate Must Petition April 1

Campaigning for Saga King and Queen candidates will be concentrated into one intensive week this year, Karl Bachner, Saga business manager, announced today.

The two winners will be crowned Friday evening, April 20, the first night of the two-night carnival. For the first time, the event will take place in Memorial gymnasium.

All petitions for candidates must have the signatures of 50 bona fide students and may be turned in to Karl Bachner or Paul Arlton any time between April 1 and April 13. Of course, the queen must be a freshman girl and the king must be a senior boy.

The campaign will open bright and early Monday morning, April 16, and will continue for the next five days. Voting will be held in the student body office on Friday afternoon, April 20. Campaigning will be allowed during voting hours any place on the campus except inside the Student Union.

Bachner emphasized the point that the sky was the limit as far as campaign stunts were concerned. In past years, some promoters have taken this advice literally and have chartered airplanes to shower the campus with propaganda.

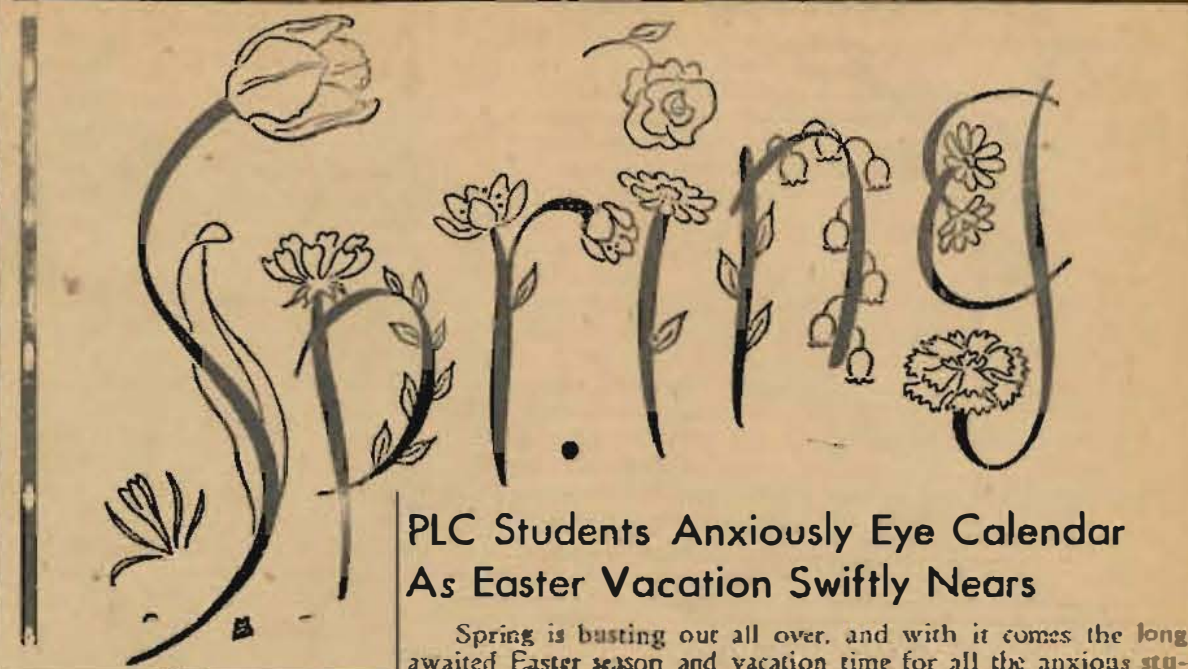

His cohort on the coronation committee, Paul Arlton, himself a promoter of successful candidates in two previous years, stressed that originality and cleverness count much more than the amount of money spent in publicizing a regal contender.

PLC Students Anxiously Eye Calendar As Easter Vacation Swiftly Nears

Spring is busting out all over, and with it comes the long awaited Easter season and vacation time for all the anxious students and weary professors who make up the PLC family. Indeed it is more than true that in spring a young student's mind turns to thoughts of home and holiday.

Yet Easter at a Christian college should bring more than the sheer anticipation of a lovely holiday, dyed eggs, and the return of Peter Cottontail. For this coming week is a holy week and the new season, a sacred time of spiritual reawakening. Therefore the students on this campus will rejoice in the chance to travel once again to that upper room, to kneel in the Garden of Gethsemane, and to stand in the court room of the high priest. Then as the week draws swiftly to a close we will walk the long and narrow path to Golgotha and there stand beneath the cross and at last hear the blessed words of our Saviour, "It is finished" and again "Father, into Thy hands I commend My spirit."

But more than this will be the blessing of Easter Sunday when we will journey to the open tomb into which the crucified Son of God was laid, and hear the heavenly messenger announce, "He is not here; He is risen." For once again our faith will find the rock-hewn tomb empty and we will discover anew the everlasting Easter assurance that our victorious Deliverer is resurrected from the dead.

In view of this the doors of Old Main will soon be tightly locked and the noisy corridors silenced. Buses, trains, cars, and airplanes will be bustling with the burden of happy PLC students and their luggage. Hopes and joys will blossom like the Easter lily, cares will vanish like the winter snows, and thoughts of home and rest will be pleasant.

Yet the greatest happiness and peace will come when the laughing, merry voices are reverently raised in prayer and praise to their God in the small, white country kirks and the gray stone cathedrals all over the countryside with parents and friends. Thus as we approach upon another Easter vacation may the spirit of this blessed season bless you and yours richly.

LSA To Have Easter Worship Service Sunday

An Easter worship service will be given by the LSA in place of its regular meeting Sunday. The program will take place at 8:30 in the chapel of the Parish house.

The Easter fellowship will include an organ prelude and postlude by Barbara Hedlund, devotions by Ron Buchholz, vocal solo by Kathryn Reule, piano selection by Carol Sletto, and hymns. Dr. J. P. Pflieger, professor of religion and philosophy, will give the sermon.

Students and faculty are invited to attend the special service which is being permitted entirely by the student body and PLC faculty.

Seniors Must Order Announcements Now

Orders will be taken at the book-store until Easter vacation for senior announcements and cards, according to A. A. Mykland, bookstore manager. Seniors may see samples and order the amount they desire until March 20, which is the deadline both for the requests and payments.

Graduation announcements have been standardized for the first time this year. There is a choice, however, of the type of printing desired on printed cards.

Pricing: Announcements, 14 cents each; and name cards from $1.50 to $3.00 dollars per hundred.

Seniors are asked to fill out orders immediately.

Mr. Carl Johnson, PLC Engineer, Dies

Carl J. Johnson, respected engineer at PLC, died last Sunday from a heart attack in a local hospital.

Well known for his deeds of kindness on the campus, and especially in the girls' dormitory, Mr. Johnson was taken ill suddenly while at work. He was in the hospital about three weeks.

Mr. Johnson was born in Gilmer, Minnesota, and came to Tacoma 14 years ago from Stanley, N. D. He was an active member of Trinity Lutheran church.

He is survived by his wife, Olga, two sons, Alvin J. and K. Norman Johnson, a PLC freshman; sisters, Mrs. Rena Dagen and Mrs. Martha Kevstad; and two brothers, Palmer and Henry Johnson.

A special faculty committee is making plans for a campus memorial to Mr. Johnson.

Club Meetings To Be Beginning of Week

The following clubs will meet next Monday and Tuesday:

- Monday: 7 p.m.—German club, Old Chapel.
- Tuesday: 6:30 p.m.—French club, Class Bldg.
- 7:00 p.m.—Ski club, S-108.
- 7:30 p.m.—Linné Society, S-108.

Curtain To Go Up Tonight On One-Act Mystery Comedey

First curtain for Curtain Call's production of two one-act plays will be tonight at 8 p.m. at Parkland gym where the show is being presented for the benefit of the Parkland Civilian Defense Committee.

"Silently Stral Away," a comedy, and "The Monkey's Paw," a tragedy, will also be presented in the PLC auditorium in the SUB tomorrow evening. curtain CURTAIN follows 10 p.m. lead time being 8 p.m. The comedy was also produced Wednesday evening for patients at American Lake Veterans hospital.

Cast in "Silently Stral Away" are Dale Keller, Joan Gardner, Dorothy Bloomfield and Howard Shell. It is directed by Roberts Schoessler. In "The Monkey's Paw" are Karl Bachner, Frances Biery, Glenn Werner, Bill Riecke and John Waldorf, and is directed by Margaret Kutz.

For the productions, Howard Worley is stage manager. Committee chairman of props is Kathryn Loc, assisted by Edith Engle, Jean Ryan and Mary Holmquist. On costumes is Marian Christiansen, chairman, and Barbara Ashberg and Kathy Eide.

Make-up committee chairman is Edna McCaB, assisted by Colleen Uhre and Joanne Schwarzwalter. Phil Myhre and Bob Meyers are on lighting. Publicity chairman is Harriet Olson, assisted by Pat Brandt and Phil Thorsheim.

Bob Johnson is chairman of the house committee, with Margaret Winters and Joan Soper, and Mrs. Dwight Zulauf is in charge of finance.

ONLY THE BEST

That man is rich:
 Who gives the world the best he has.

On college campuses all over the globe, as well as here at PLC, students are patiently struggling to carve themselves a position on the shelf of the future. Yet how futile and insignificant these attempts will be in the end unless they are utilized to give joy, comfort and happiness to others.

Louis Pasteur remarked in one of his addresses to the French Academy, "Young man say to yourself first, 'What have I done for my instruction?' and as you advance, 'What am I accomplishing?' until the time comes when you may have the immense happiness of thinking that you have contributed in some way to the welfare and progress of mankind."

Such advice would be wise to follow in traveling the pathway of education. For unless we make the most use of our knowledge and training while at college and learn to give of ourselves now, the years spent on the campus will have been for naught, and the day of graduation will find that we have merely been taking the top froth off life, and have been in essence empty, aimless, idle members of the college family.

Angelo Patri tells of a college lad who felt he had nothing, could do nothing, amounted to nothing to anybody. His grade point was crowding average. In hope of awakening his spirit he was told to find something he really wanted to. One day, hearing music, he followed the sound to the music room and told the astonished teacher that he "wanted to play that big fiddle," the bass viol.

He devoted himself to mastering the instrument and a new world opened to him. He became a tower of strength in the orchestra and a power for good in the school. When he laid his bow across his loved fiddle, tossed the shock of black hair out of his eyes and beamed on the audience he radiated happiness that touched the soul of everyone in the room. He had found something that spread joy and comfort to others and under its inspiration he grew like the green bay tree. Nobody now questions his fine intelligence nor his spiritual power.

So should be the reaction in colleges the world over, especially Christian colleges like ours. In the role of Christian college students we should always remember that no one is too helpless or too insignificant to give a bit of himself to the strengthening of his school and fellow students.

Such seemingly minor things as supporting the Red Cross drives and other campaigns on the campus, backing up the various school organizations and projects, and taking an active part and interest in furthering the cause and ideals of the school will in reality build the foundation for a more useful and enjoyable future.

With God's help and blessing PLC can grow in leadership and strength if we will find our place and give our best, for then and only then will we have a right to be proud of her aims and accomplishments. Remember that rich is the man who gives the best he has.

Chapel Quotes

Dr. A. J. Bergsaber:
 To live Christ means more than imitating Him . . . it means letting Him into our lives . . . a wholehearted surrender to Him.
 A baby is born with a clenched hand; it takes some of us a lifetime to learn to open it to others.

With the setting of the date for the DPK Tale on April 20, your moving reports continued some late and some on the campus and asked their questions and ideas about the traditional tale where the girl asks the boy of her choice for an evening of enjoyment.

A variety of reactions and statements were given and a few of them follow:

James Nordvall—"They're for the couples where the girl can maintain the boy for a change." Jack Enos—"If you've got the money, honey, I've got the time." Kathy Hirsche—"It's a good idea because that's the only way the boys here will date the girls." Rick Danich—"It's a good idea because that's the only way the girls here will date the boys." Peggy Holbrook—"They're ridiculous." Ed Dango—"I'm all out for 'em." Helma Litus—"They are fair for people with money." Roger Arnold—"I think this is a well thought-out idea." Mike Mykhaluk—"At PLC they are an everyday occurrence." David Roe—"I know them, if she has a Cadillac, that is." Marianne Pfeiffer—"Those three little words, money and car." Bill Utzinger—"It gives the girl a chance at me." Jona Engstrom—"They make chickens out of boys." Dick Johnson—"I don't like them, as the shoe is on the wrong foot." Daris George—"No one truly knows happiness, that has not suffered." Don Hefty—"No comment." Ardis Floren—"I think they are a headache." Nehla Erickson—"They're wonderful." Beverly Pine—"They're fine, if you know who you're going to ask." P.S.—It's not all free, fellas—for the dinner and fee, Emily Post says a courtesan is a must.

Professor of German Going to Vancouver

Mrs. Osaite Little, professor of German, will travel to Vancouver, B. C., Saturday, March 31, to attend a national meeting of the American Association of Teachers of German. Lectures, round table debate and discussion upon various aspects of teaching foreign language are to be the main purposes of the group's work. The association publication is the German Quarterly which is subscribed to by the college library.

The Easter season is being ushered in early this year and students are planning many different activities during the vacation they are getting that begins this coming Wednesday.

Some will be heading for home to family and friends; others will be patronizing the all sorts of new-covered shops. Still others will get decked out in new Easter bonnets and outfits for the upcoming Spring season.

The wedding of James Pease will draw several PLC girls to Portland over the week-end. Those planning to attend will be Nan Anderson, Frances Berry, Dorothy Bussard, Nancy Anderson, Jona Engstrom, and Mary Lynn Mykhaluk.

Montana bound to Missoula for the vacation days are Leticia Bergquist, Beverly Pine, Stan Reed, and Harry Jacobson. Audrey Engstrom is making the jump home to Kalispell, Montana. Kenny Dango will "hit the road" for Walla Walla "to see his dear wife."

Don Keegan and Bob Bragg will be two of the luckier PLCers for they will be doing down the slopes at Sun Valley, Idaho. Timberline and Paradise Lodges will also attract other Lute-oid enthusiasts. Have fun, snow-bunnies!

The traditional "house-cleanings" will also take place. Rosemary Nordham and Barbara Allberg feel that they are doomed to spend their vacation in this type of recreation and rest. Miss Elsie Berge also has spring housecleaning plans. Many students have pledged themselves to some hard studying to avert some of the last minute cramming. (Famous last words).

Band To Present Special Program

To show their appreciation to the new band sponsors, the band will give a special musical program at the Kiwanis Club, March 22, 8:00 P.M., according to Harry G. . . . and more than . . . the accuracy . . . spelled defeat . . .

The band will also give a performance for the Association executives who will be on the March 27.

In addition to these activities did a fine group of students did a fine job of cleaning up the grounds. . . . in April.

In Loving Memory—All the sorrow and sportsmanhood in grief at the untimely death of Mr. Johnson's death. . . . a beloved figure on the campus. . . . be a good presence and his patient help a good sport. . . . will always hold in our hearts comforting knowledge that he safely in the arms of Jesus.

Merchants Win Crown

Another shiny trophy has been added to PLC's huge collection, this time by the Parkland Merchants, local hoopsters. This squad, composed of PLC players, won the championship of the Evergreen League in Tacoma. They are familiar to locals as the Hot House Boys of the intramural league. An impressive season record of 27 wins and 6 losses, including Evergreen and intramural play, is held by the Parklanders.

Poem Tells of Loyal Cage Fans

By Bob Brug

We took off from Luteville in the middle of the night,
 'Cause we had to see that dangerous fight.
 The Lutes and the Loggers were at it again,
 So into my coupe we jumped—all ten.

On through the desert we did travel,
 A chewin' up my tires in the dust of gravel.
 About eight hours along, I saw a bright light,
 But it was only a boy with a ball on his knee.

The very next day we finally got there,
 Everything was here but my tires were bare.
 We were tired and hungry and all pooped out,
 But we hustled to the gym to get ready to shout.

We were no frozen upon our parts,
 As we were the PLC boys' loyal fans.
 We wondered what would happen for our skipping,
 But we didn't care, for the town was skipping.

The game time grew near, the tension was high,
 'Ya low on the Loggers—Oh! I'd rather die,
 The coaches were ready, the players, too,
 And the Lutes in the stands were far from blue.

The game went fine, at least for awhile,
 The Loggers were cold, they missed by a mile,
 But towards the end, the game got close,
 The temperature in the gym was warm as toast.

We were behind with seconds to go,
 The crowd was in a panic, but oh, what a show!
 The Loggers were happy, they thought they'd won,
 The Lutes were dismal, they went out fun.

With fifteen seconds left, we thought we had seen it,
 But all of a sudden, I choked on my peanut,
 For while the Loggers were singing "A Ticket, A Ticket,"
 Lundgaard dumped in the winning basket.

Three cheers for March, for he did a great job,
 Three cheers for his boys, who are loved by the mob.
 We won the trophy, we're on our way,
 So come on, guys, what do you say?

I've got my stuff packed and I'm going to go,
 Come on, guys, don't be a schmo,
 I don't have much time, so I'll end this ditty,
 Hope I see you all in Kansas City.

Bronco Five Ousts PLC From NAIB

It was just one week ago that everyone was asking, where is Hastings College and what kind of a basketball team do they have? The Broncos satisfied the curiosity of Lute fans by beating the Gladiators out of the Kansas City territory in a jolting 71 to 31 score, last Tuesday.

The Hastings outfit was "unconscious" in their shooting. As an example, the Broncos canned 10 out of 14 attempts in the late part of the second half.

The Lutes were colder than a witch's broomstick and very seldom got more than one shot at the basket, since the Hastings boys grabbed most of the rebounds.

Glads Start Slow

PLC started slow, but caught Hastings at 12-12. Then the Nebraskans increased their lead until they led, 18-27 at intermission.

In the second period, Hastings built up a comfortable 56-27 margin as the Gladiators went scoreless until the four and one-half minute mark. Then Duane Berentson scored a field goal and Ed Brown followed with a long one.

The Hastings quintet kept their 20-point lead until the final gun to win, 71-51.

Gene Lundgaard and Duane Berentson closed out their collegiate basketball careers with very creditable performances "Goober" tallied 10 points for second high point honors and Berentson tallied 10, Gene Lundgaard was runner-up with 11.

Moody led both teams in scoring with 20. Following are the summaries:

Hastings (71)	Pos.	(51) PLC
Moody (20)	F	(11) Hoffman
Stuckels (18)	F	Hidy

Dr. Olsen Teaching PLC Men Tricks of Boy Scout Leadership

One of the most unusual courses being taught at PLC this semester is a newcomer to the schedule—Boy Scout leadership. A weekly, one-hour course for upperclassmen, it is conducted not like a lecture or laboratory class, but as an actual Boy Scout troop meeting, with Dr. Robert C. Olsen, professor of chemistry and active Scout leader, as "senior patrol leader."

The class, inaugurated at the request of the students themselves, is aimed especially to give prospective teachers an understanding of the basic fundamentals of the Boy Scout movement.

This training is of considerable practical value since young male teachers are often asked to take charge of Boy Scout troops in their respective communities. Thus, the knowledge of this course may help in teacher placement.

As in Boy Scout troop meetings, the students learn by doing. The class, which this semester has an enrollment of 17 men, is organized as a troop and is divided into three patrols, each with its own elected patrol leader.

The "Scouts" are seated in a semi-circle as they discuss patrol and troop projects and listen to the instructional material presented by Dr. Olsen. From time to time, members of the Mt. Rainier executive council appear in the class to bring in their administrative point of view.

The class studies all phases of scouting, including national, council, district and unit operation and programming. It covers scouting for boys in the 4-11 brackets, known as the Cub Scouts; the 12-14 brackets, known as the Boy Scouts; and those 15 and older, known as the Explorers.

Dr. Olsen has been active in scouting for six years and is the leadership training chairman for the Mt. Rainier council, which takes in all of Pierce county and parts of King county. He directed one of the acts in the Tacoma Scout circus last spring.

Members of the class plan to attend the council Boy Scout entertainment at Camp Kilworth, near Dash Point, this spring. The Scoutcraft work they will do in camp, added to the instruction they get in class, will qualify them for Scoutmaster certificates.

Instrumental in getting the class organized as part of the regular curriculum was PLC's Iota Beta chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity of college men who are or have been affiliated with the Boy Scouts. This chapter was initiated less than a year ago and is one of five on college campuses in this state.

Lute Chatter

By Don Breimo

Greetings from sunny California, the banana belt of the world. Today the temperature is 90 degrees—that's above zero, fellow Lutis, and we are headed south to visit the Mission Capistrano, home of the swallows and to spend the afternoon at La Jolla Beach basking in the red hot burning sun and having our complexions turned to a deep brown.

In northern California we were rather sick and startled to find it snowing. But the moment we arrived in the beautiful city of Santa Rosa we knew that we were really in the popular "sunny Golden State."

We arrived in Santa Rosa fifteen minutes before concert time, so with empty stomachs we presaged our first California concert to a gracious audience. After the concert we were fed a huge meal of roast turkey.

From Santa Rosa we journeyed down the coast to San Bruno. Here we were treated like kings and queens and had to sing like mad because the auditorium was situated adjacent to the main S. P. Railroad line. Every ten minutes our trains were notified

When we arrived in Fresno over the beautiful Golden Gate bridge we visited the famous Cliff House. Then our student manager informed us we were going to visit the Golden Gate Zoo. After having our incentives aroused we rented a huge parklike area and Mr. Newig announced that we were now entering the zoo. But when we came near the main building we read "San Francisco Sewage Disposal Plant."

Los Angeles
We have been blessed with good health and little sickness and have been living the life of royalty. Yesterday we had our first accident when swimming at the Pike in Long Beach. Walt Bradford, a native Californian, was so anxious to swim in the warm waters of the Pacific, that he ran headly into the water, braced and hit his head on the bottom, breaking his nose. Last night he spent the hours sleeping in the hospital, but he will join us tomorrow as we begin our journey homeward.

We miss all the excitement which has happened at Lute-land since our departure. Congratulations to our teams, both basketball and debate. PLC is certainly getting a name in all fields through our united efforts.

So long—see you all Monday. Ill from the entire "Choir of the West."

ASB Donates Funds For Nat'l Speech Tourney

Three members of PLC's forensics squad will compete at the National Pi Kappa Delta Speech tournament on the Oklahoma A. & M. campus at Stillwater, Okla., March 25-29, thanks to the decision of the ASB to finance the trip.

Attending this tournament, at which only top speakers from 200 colleges in 48 states will be present, will be Mary Larson in extemporaneous speech and oratory; Edj Rjle in discussion and debate; and Jon Erickson in oratory, extemporaneous and debate. Prof. T. O. H. Karl, speech department head, will accompany the group and spend much of his time as a member of the Convention committee.

"This tournament is comparable to the N.A.I.B. tournament at Kansas City except that colleges of all sizes compete," Prof. Karl said.

The group will leave by train on March 23 and return April 1.

Turn In Saga Copy About Clubs At Once

Club secretaries must turn in short sketches about their organizations for the Saga immediately, according to Joanne Nodtvedt, associate editor.

If the yearbook is to come out on time, clubs must cooperate and turn in their copy at once.

Red Cross Drive Underway at PLC

The PLC campus' annual drive for the American Red Cross began last week. Al Fish is in charge of the collection, Miss Jean McGee, chief solicitor for the faculty, and Kenneth Jacoby, plant manager, collecting donations from the performance staff.

Money received by the national organization also goes to defray 85 per cent of the total cost of National Blood program, and provides professional leadership and guidance for numerous other chapter projects such as safety and first aid, food and nutrition, Junior Red Cross college activities, and foreign relations.

It is estimated that about 75 per cent of the funds collected are returned by means of aid in one form or another to the community in which it comes.

So the admonition of the theme of your local drive, and the who will receive the aid, is "Give until it hurts."
