Give Blood!

'Christopher Bean' Due For December 6, 7, 8

"The Late Christopher Bean," first three act stage production of the year, will be presented by Alpha Psi Omega, Dec. 6, 7 and 8, in the Student Union. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Directing the play is Malcolm Soine, assisted by Hazel John-son and Howard Worley.

The story centers around an unknown painter in an obscure rural American village who leaves at his death only a few dirty canvases to pay the doctor for his healing efforts. It is an overwhelming surprise to the self-centered Haggett family when it is learned that Christopher's daubs are really worth a fortune and in demand by New York art critics. A mad scramble to recover many of the lost can vases ensues with Abbey, the maid, in the center of the flurry

Through it all Abbey remains poised and confident and in spite of all the trouble the problems of both Ahbey and the H ggett family are solved. However, some complications rear their heads before the final answers are discovered.

Cast in the major role of Abbey, the help of the Haggett family, is Kathy Eide. Abbey, a typical cural American m id, is aged vaguely between youth and maturity, of a wistful prettiness, simple and serious. This is Kathy's first appearance on the PLC stage.

Cityfied airs, in dress and bearing, which she feels lift her above the standards of her native village, identify Mrs. Haggett, played by Charlotte La Oua. This production marks the first appearance of Charlotte in dramatic circles here at PLC.

Like his wife, Dr. Haggett is rural American; u nlike her, however, he is just as undistinguished and plain as she is cityfied and ornate. He is a typical medical man of the rural era. Dr. Haggett is portrayed by Judd Doughty, who is also making his initial start on the PLC stage. A quiet, unamuning, pretty girl of

In the competition they defeated Redlands' national West Point champion team, and University of Southern C lifornia and St. Martin's team, who were also West Point contestants last year. The director of the ournament announced that this was the stiffest competition they had had for six years. Mr. Karl observed "that they are by far the best debate tear I h ve ever had and the best balanced team I have ever coached."

About this time every year the "seven-footers" shove the "300-pounders" out of the limelight and basketball becomes the sport-king of the season.

Coach Mary Harshman turned out a championship football team this year, but will find this next to imible to accomplish in basketball. We draw this conclusion because of the lack of height and experienced severely.
