'Confronting Death: Who Chooses? Who Controls?'

Dax Cowart was blinded, maimed and disfigured in a propane gas explosion that burned more than two-thirds of his body. He suffered excruciating pain and begged doctors to let him die, but was refused. Now a lawyer, Cowart lives in reasonable comfort, but still argues he should have been allowed to die. Robert Burt, scholar of health care ethics at Yale Law School, believes the doctors were right to reject Cowart's demands to die. For the first time in public, Cowart and Burt will talk through the ethical questions of the ordeal from 7:30 to 9:30 pm on Nov. 21 in the CK. "Dax's Case," a graphic video portraying Cowart's story, can be checked out from Media Services and viewed there. Discretion is advised.

The dialogue is the first Heather Koller Memorial Lecture, an annual talk on creative writing or ethics in honor of the 1994 PLU graduate who died of connective tissue cancer a month after her graduation.

Make way for elves

Find the perfect holiday gifts for friends and family at Yule Boutique, the fine arts and crafts show of Puget Sound artists, sponsored by PLU Women's Club for Student Scholarships. Warm up with a bite to eat from a variety of food vendors and enjoy pre-Christmas spirit. The fair runs from 9 am to 5 pm on Nov. 23 in Olson.

Won't you be my neighbor?

Volunteers are needed between 10 am and 2 pm on Nov. 22 for a clean-up project on East Campus. Be involved in this opportunity for members of the PLU community to get acquainted with their Parkland neighbors and beautify our common ground. Individuals and groups are welcome. If you would like to help for an hour or two or if you have questions, call Sigrun at 7173. Also let her know if you can't do this month's project but would be interested in helping with such work in the future. Goodies & hot chocolate are provided to keep volunteers full of energy.

"Feminism Across Generations: Continuities and Conflicts"

Is there a feminist generation gap? What are the issues and experiences of feminists from different generations? These are the topics of discussion by a panel of five faculty and six students, moderated by Lisa Marcus (English) from 7 to 9 pm on Nov. 19 in UC 206. The discussion is part of the

Bookstore bonanza

Slip into the holiday season with the Christmas bonanza sidewalk sale at the Bookstore. Hot chocolate and cider, cookies and a caroler will make your shopping merry. The sidewalk is clear for shoppers from 10 am to 5 pm on Nov. 25 and 26.

Feminist Scholarship at PLU series. Voices from all generations are encouraged to attend.

Family Weekend a success!

More than 1,200 PLU students and family members participated in the 1996 Family Weekend on Nov. 8-10, making it the best-attended in years. Family Weekend participants chose from a wide variety of events, including a President's reception, a "kick-off" breakfast, a musical review, a murder mystery dinner and more. Thanks to all who helped make this weekend memorable.

Belly dancer and band

Arabic Melodies, a Middle-Eastern band, and Aziza, an accomplished belly dancer, will perform at 3 pm on Nov. 23 in MBR. The four-person band was founded by Youssef Boutros, the father of PLU senior, Antoinette Boutros. The band members are natives of Egypt, Syria and Lebanon, and will perform classical and contemporary Middle-Eastern music on instruments such as the tabla, riq, taar, and zills. The concert, sponsored by ASPLU, is $3 for students and $7 for adults.

'Crimes of the Heart'

A Southern woman is accused of shooting her husband, and her two sisters rally around her as all three learn to love and trust each other again in 'Crimes of the Heart,' a play produced by PLU's student drama fraternity Alpha Psi Omega. The production is directed by student Danforth Comins, and shows at 8 pm on Nov. 21-23 and at 2 pm on Nov. 24 in Eastvold. Tickets are $4 for PLU students, staff and faculty. PLU students may preview the show at 8 pm on Nov. 20 for $2.

Injustice to the indigenous

The Humanities film series presents 'The Mission,' the dramatic story of how a productive Jesuit mission in the jungles of 18th-century Brazil is threatened by European landowners and church political factions, and how innocent indigenous people suffer as a consequence. The Oscar-award-winning film starts at 7 pm on Nov. 22 in Ingram 100.

Gift-wrappers needed

Get a feel for what Santa goes through this time each year by wrapping gifts at the South Hill Mall with Washington Women's Employment and Education. Donations will go toward WVEE's holiday party, which helps low-income single moms and dads. Gift wrappers can help anytime between 10 am and 9 pm on Dec. 3. Call the Volunteer Center, 8318, for more information.

Donate toys, clothes for needy families

Show your holiday spirit by supporting the Family and Children's Center's 11th annual Christmas Party for low-income Parkland families. Bring toys (new or like-new), clothing and cash gifts - unwrapped - to Harstad 105 by Dec. 2. The party will be held at East Campus from 1-6 pm on Dec. 12. Questions? Call 7173.

Give used books

Dust off your books for the Women's Center's book sale early next year. The center will pick up, from anywhere on campus, any non-textbook material that you would like to donate. Call 8759.

Hunger awareness

An all-campus fast will begin at 9:30 pm on Nov. 20 at Rejoice and last until nighttime on Nov. 21. The PLU community is invited to give up some or all of Thursday's meals and donate the money saved from not eating to local and world hunger groups. Campus Ministry will coordinate the collection and distribution of the donations. For more information, call 7464.

Gallery exhibits positive mudslinging

The University Gallery hosts a closing reception for the Club Mud exhibit, featuring the prints and clay works of several artists. The reception is from 6 to 7:45 pm on Nov. 22 and precedes the 8 pm University Jazz Ensemble concert in MBR. Next on the gallery's menu is the winter BFA and BA artists' exhibition, opening on Nov. 26. Gallery hours are 8:30 am-4:30 pm, Mon.-Fri.

Coming Attractions at MBR

Jazz Music Nov. 22

Years of Infamy

Did you know the Puyallup Fairground was used as an "assembly center" called "Camp Harmony" where Japanese-Americans were held - behind barbed wire and under surveillance - before they were shipped inland to more permanent camps during World War II? A panel of Japanese-Americans from the Seattle-Tacoma area will discuss their experience of, and responses to, their unconstitutional internment in government "relocation" camps during WWII. Come listen to the discussion from 4 to 6 pm on Nov. 21 in Xavier 201. For more information, contact Lisa Marcus, 7312 or Jim Albrecht, 7698.

Non-traditional student banquet reservations due today

Out of appreciation for those who support students returning to school to earn college degrees comes "Wind beneath my Wings," a banquet for non-traditional students and their guests at 6 pm on Nov. 22 in the SCC. The banquet features a buffet dinner, keynote speaker and entertainment, along with a Kid's Activities Corner for children under 10. Tickets are $7.50 and may be purchased in the Games Room until today, Nov. 18. Small bouquets may also be ordered for $6 to give a guest as a sign of appreciation. Questions? Call 7486.

First Night buttons $5 until Nov. 20

Ring in the New Year with jolly troubadours at an family-oriented, non-alcohol arts festival. First Night Pierce County will hold celebrations at PLU from 1 to 5 pm and in downtown Tacoma from 6 pm to midnight on Dec. 31. Festivities at PLU include classical, country, gospel and jazz music, musical theater and art-making. A button serves as your admission ticket, and is available to PLU faculty, staff and students for $5 until Nov. 20. Buttons are also available for $10 beginning Dec. 1 and $12 on the day of the event. Buttons for children under 12 are $2. For order information, call 7430.

University Jazz & Jazz Ensembles perform classical and contemporary jazz selections at 8 pm.

Arabic Melodies/Aziza Nov. 23

Middle Eastern music & belly dancing begins at 3 pm.

Senior Recital Nov. 23

Erin Leighton performs at 8 pm.

Wind Ensemble Nov. 24

"Winds of Change - Diversity for Winds" is the theme of the 3 pm concert, featuring trumpeter David Harkness and the music of Cindy McTee, William Grant Still and others.

the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts American College Theater Festival. Clapp was recognized for his technical design of "The Foreigner," the opening performance of the 1996-97 PLU Theatre season. Clapp said the set captured the feeling of a Southern hunting lodge, complete with decorative deer heads and wood siding from an old barn. "It was an open, warm environment, a place you'd like to be," he said. Clapp also credits student Meg Sanders for a painted backdrop of a lake with trees and a well-acted and directed play that ran smoothly as adding to the whole feel of the play. "It was a very big collaborative effort," Clapp said. "If it didn't run so smoothly, the design probably wouldn't have won the award."

David Gunovich (Admissions) and Mike Quatsoe (Student Services) won the Oktoberfest Dart Tournament at Faculty House on Nov. 8. The event was sponsored by the University Scholars Association.

answer questions about the new Good Fit benefits package from 12:30-6 pm on Nov. 21 and from 7:30 am-1:30 pm on Nov. 22 in the CK.

Anniversary Awards: The annual Christmas and award luncheon approaches swiftly, and Human Resources is compiling names of employees who have served five, 10, 15, and 20 years with the university. The employees will be given anniversary awards as part of the luncheon on Dec. 19. If you fall into one these categories and want to be sure your name is on the list (they have everyone from Allen to Young), call 7185.

Health Watch: Learning to live with diabetes requires more than just monitoring your glucose levels. With regular physical activity, meal planning and proper medical and psychological support, you can control diabetes and lead a happy, healthy life. If you have diabetes or are interested in learning more about diabetes, call 591-6753. For more information about other health education and wellness classes, call toll-free 1-888-TakeCare.
