

Students to Honor Coach and Players At Annual Banquet

Nelson Hong of News-Tribune,
Invited to Speak; Ford
Will Be Toastmaster

Mr. Nelson Hong, who is sports editor of the News-Tribune, has been invited to be the guest speaker at the annual football banquet for which the associated students will be hosts to Coach C. O. Olson and his 1936 champion football squad on November 24, at 6:30 p. m. in the College dining hall. Stanley Ford will act as toastmaster, and music will be presented by the boys' quartet, and Leonard Anderson, accordion player.

Two-year letter sweaters will be awarded to Arnold Tommervik, Fred Heany, Kenneth Anenson, William Capps, and Otis Grande, while Harold Nilsen, Norman Frye, Lawrence Grenier, Chester Solle, Oliver Ludow, Gene Jack, Russell Frye, and Harold O'Connor will receive three-year sweaters.

Decorations are being planned by Henrietta O'Neil, chairman; Pauline Watts, Evelyn Nicholson, Robert Lando, Roy Schandt, and Albert McKay. Margaret Melver, Kathryn Anderson, and Romola Rust will prepare the menu. Hazel Hagerup has been appointed head waitress, and she will be assisted by Alda Johnson, Thelma Ness, Connie Clumb, Mabel Heggen, Helen Lilla, Vivian Hall, Evelyn Nicholson, Eugenia Spencer, Irene Odell, Warren Hokenstad, Marvin Jensen, Charles Leask, Clk. Haugen, Bob Moe, Cliff Bruiland, Roland Wuest, Walter Johnson, and Alvin Rogan.

Grads Plan Party For Saturday Eve

The gaiety of the past century will be reenacted this week when members of the graduating class give an old-fashioned costume party in the College gym next Saturday, November 21.

An old-time atmosphere will be created in carrying out decorations typical of the gay nineties. Those in charge of this are Oliver Ludow, Helen Lilla and June Walters. Louise Hendrickson heads the entertainment group. Her assistants are Jesse Pfueger, Mabel Heggen and Arnold Tommervik. Refreshments are being planned by Judy Benson, Wadene Calvan, Alda Johnson and Thelma Ness. Those in the clean-up group are Overt Haavik, Jasper Johnson, Orlando Asper and Jack Odey.

Lutheran Student Meet Slated for Nov. 27-28

The Pacific Northwest Regional convention of the Lutheran Student Association of America is scheduled to meet in Bellingham, November 27 and 28. The theme of the convention is "Learning to Live," and will be developed by various students and pastors from the northwest region.

Roland Swanson, who is attending the University of Washington, and formerly a P. L. C. student, is president of the group.

All Lutheran students are invited to attend as guests of the Bellingham Normal members. Any Parkland student who can go is urged to attend as a representative of Pacific Lutheran College. The registration fee is $1.50. This covers meals, including banquet, lodging, and registration.

"Messiah" Presentation Will Be Held Dec. 13

The Parkland Choral Society has announced December 13, as the date set for their second annual rendition of Handel's "Messiah," which is being directed by Prof. J. O. Edwards.

Rehearsals have been held in the College Chapel every Wednesday evening for the past several weeks. The concert will be given in Trinity Lutheran Church. There is no admission price, but a free-will offering will be taken to meet the expense of music and orchestration.

Christmas Program To Feature First Choir Appearance

College Orchestra Will Present
Numbers; Virginia Davis
To Give Readings

The "Choir of the West" will be heard in its first formal concert Sunday evening, Dec. 16, at 8 o'clock p. m. at Trinity Lutheran Church, when its annual Christmas program will be presented with the P. L. C. orchestra.

The program as planned by Prof. J. O. Edwards will include the following: Euryanthe Overture, Carl von Weber
Orchestra

Choir and Orchestra.

Departs for East
Dean Philip E. Hauge left Tuesday evening for Howard, South Dakota, where he was called by the serious illness of his father, L. J. Hauge, who has suffered a stroke.
Dean Hauge was accompanied by his brother, Laurence Hauge, of Portland. They expect to return November 30.

Mourned by Friends

MRS. EDWARD SOVIK

Former Instructor Passes at Home in Northfield, Minn.

Local friends were grieved last week to hear of the passing of Mrs. Edward Sovik, the former Miss Anna Tenwick, who was a graduate, and for many years, an instructor at Pacific Lutheran Academy.

Coming here in the fall of 1898, she enrolled in the Normal department and was graduated in 1900, having been a classmate of Dr. Tingelstad's. As a student she was unusually brilliant, capable, thorough, and conscientious, and became one of the best teachers the school has ever had. She taught geometry, trigonometry, language, Latin, German, and grammar.

She began teaching the semester following her graduation, and continued until 1913 when she was called to China to teach in the mission schools. There she was married to Rev. Edward Sovik. They have continued their missionary work in China, coming to America every seven years for a year's leave of absence. At the time of Mrs. Sovik's death, she and her husband were having their third furlough, and were making their home in Northfield, Minn., where their three children are attending St. Olaf College.

Mr. Sovik will return to China at the end of the year.

Mrs. Tingelstad Better After Recent Accident

Mrs. O. A. Tingelstad is recovering from the serious operative fracture to her right arm, received Nov. 1, in an automobile accident near St. Anthony, Idaho. She returned to her home here last night, after having been at the Tacoma General Hospital under treatment of Drs. Goering and Nilson. The paralysis which threatened her arm has been avoided.

Drama Club Selects Cast and Choruses For Opera "Sonia"

Will Be Presented December 1;
Ross and Elmer to Head
Cast of Twelve

Nevelia Ross and Rudy Elmer have been selected to play the leading roles in the Drama Club opera "Sonia," which will be presented Dec. 4 in the College gym, under the direction of Keith Reid, Drama Club adviser.

This presentation will be one of the most outstanding of the year's activities. Music for the production was composed by Don Williams, and the story was prepared by Joseph B. Harrison, who, together with Geoffrey F. Morgan, assisted also with the lyrics. Mrs. Dapper will direct the choruses.

The opera is a musical comedy in three acts with an intriguing plot built around the experiences of a young Russian girl who is an American college student. The first act takes place in America, and the other two in Russia, giving possibilities for elaborate costuming and stage setting.

The complete personnel as selected by a faculty committee from a large number of tryouts, includes: Rudy Elmer, Nevelia Ross, Don Monson, Leona Lockwood, Bob Svare, Sylvia Miller, Fales Martin, Linka De Berry, Orl Ottness, Alvin Rogan, Connie Clumb, and Glen Gustavson.

Gladiators Close Successful Season By Tying Linfield

P. L. C. Goal Line Crossed Only
Once During 1936 Schedule;
Linfield Toughest Fight

Climaxing a record-breaking grid season, P. L. C.'s fighting Gladiators tied the strong Linfield Wildcats last Saturday at McMinnville, with a six to six score. The Lutheran eleven finished their schedule undefeated, finishing their goal line crossed but once.

Taking the initial kickoff of the game on their own 27 yard line, the Glads pushed the ball down to the Linfield 30 yard line by straight football, where they were held for downs. Then the big red and white team unleashed a strong offensive, being particularly effective with short passes mixed in with an occasional running play. Quickly moving the ball into Lutheran territory, the Wildcats completed five successive aerial thrusts to place the ball on P. L. C.'s third yard line, where Cook, hard hitting Wildcat fullback, scored on a drive into the right side of the Gladiator forward wall. The try for point was wide, giving Linfield a 6 point margin. At this point the Gladiators opened up with a strong offensive drive, and a few minutes later a pass from Nilsen to Tommervik was good for a touchdown. O'Connor's try for point missed the uprights by inches, leaving the score tied 6 to 6 as the first half ended.

Starting the second half, the Lutherans got possession of the ball deep in the Wildcat territory where they kept it for the remainder of the game. The third quarter was a see-saw battle of two strong defensive teams, with neither team having a decided advantage. Early in the fourth quarter alumnive Jay Smith, Gladiator half-back, returned a punt 60 yards for a touchdown, but it was called back because of a clipping penalty. On two occasions the Gladiators threatened the Linfield goal, but were stopped within.

Girls' Club Will Hear Health Talk

Personality club girls will have an opportunity to hear a talk and discussion on health problems of college girls this evening at the November meeting of the group, which will be held at seven o'clock in the reception room. The discussion will be led by one of the graduate nurses from the educational department of the Tacoma General Hospital.

Decorations are being planned by Louise Williams, Ruth Hansow, Ruth Downton, and refreshments will be served under the direction of Hazel Hagerup. Her assistants are Margaret Melver and Virginia Davis. Girls are requested to bring five cents to cover costs of refreshments and other expenses.

Louise Hendrickson is hostess for the affair, and Linka De Berry will play piano selections throughout the hour.

Otis Grande to Head Sophomore Activities

Otis Grande was unanimously elected president of the sophomore class at its first meeting, held Monday noon, November 9th.

Other officers named were Marie Wenberg, vice-president; Margret Demers, secretary; and Frank Unger, treasurer. Al Jacobs was unanimously chosen sergeant-at-arms.

The Side Ways Aren't Always the Wide Ways, But We Like Them Best for Our Ride Days

Whenever we take a pleasure trip in our car, we sing songs of praise and thanksgiving to the side roads.

The heavy-duty highways, smooth ribbons of concrete, are all very well to get you there in a hurry. We like them too, when we have to go places. You spin along with nothing to worry about except keeping on the route, whizzing around the truck or the slow driver ahead, or perhaps wondering where you are going to eat.

But honestly, what is there to see except the road ahead? Refreshment stands and inns spring up every few miles, most of them plastered with glaring signs, blaring billboards intrude into every lovely view; even the barns offer testimonials, while, fleeting glimpses of village main streets offer little except more signs urging the traveler to stop and buy.

Everyone you meet of pass seems to have one fixed idea—speed. Drive fast, and you will be annoyed by the slow driver ahead; drive slow, and you are made quite conscious of the impatient driver behind who wants to get around you. Thumb jerkers are a constant annoyance. Even the animals you pass seem bored. Urbanization seems to reign supreme.

When we get to feeling that way about it, we like to turn off onto a side road for awhile. Can this be the same country? The road is just, smooth gravel. It doesn't matter much to us, since we are no longer in a hurry. We rumble over an old-fashioned plank bridge that spans a cool, sparkling creek. Soon we are climbing a winding hill road that takes us through a dense wood. Farther on, the country flattens out again and we coast down into a more fertile valley. Farmers are busy cultivating gardens. Farmers oats wave in the light breeze, the bending heads promising a fair harvest.

The land continues to flatten out; fields look richer and browner. The farms take on a more prosperous appearance. The houses and barns are freshly painted. An old woman in a bonnet is gathering peas.

It suddenly occurs to you that you are indeed much more of the country.

You glance at the speedometer; you have travelled only twenty miles in the last hour. And you have really been seeing everything you passed. No blaring billboards have urged you to buy this or that. Not a single hot-dog stand has been seen. The barns have been painted by the owners, not by firms with something to sell. The few cars you have met have given you plenty of room, and the truck encountered had an old white horse peering over its side. There have been a few rumpals at culverts and at the one railroad crossing. But no raucous horns, no shrieking brakes to affront our cars; no road-hog drivers to push off the road; no stop lights, bad smells, nor whizzing buses to fuddle our nerves; no humbers or motorcycle police, or other commonplaces of the highway to distract our attention.

This is God's country as it should be seen—rural America at its best. Real farming country—unspoiled, peaceful, unharmed. And you breathe a little prayer of thanksgiving that there are still left so many side roads like this.

IN KEEPING THANKSGIVING

Next week the president of the United States will make formal announcement concerning the country's annual day for the giving of thanks to God for the blessings of the year. Governors of the various states will issue proclamations calling for the people to give thanks. This has been in continuance since 1863, when Abraham Lincoln appointed the last Thursday of November as Thanksgiving Day. Thus the day has become a tradition and each year becomes more firmly established as a national festival.

As the festivity of the day has increased, however, the purpose has become less specific. Its true significance is lost in its present version of a great feast—reverence is ignored, and the original purpose is buried under a shroud of twentieth century commercialization.

The Puritans were rigidly scrupulous, in their observance of the day. The first thanksgiving was not merely a feast, but the food was a symbol of God's mercy, and the harvest meant to them a renewal of hope and an anticipation of crops they should garner in the years to come. They gathered about the long tables, and there were prayers and sermons and songs of praise.

The day has become peculiarly a family day. Memories bring many back to days when separated ones returned "back home" to the old farmhouse kitchen with its pantry crowded with "good things," and the long table where heads were bowed in acknowledgement of the good God, the giver of all good and perfect gifts.

ARMISTICE

It's all over. The snapping of tendons; the rending of limb; the disintegration of body and mind; the heartless malice; the distress of home-folks—it's all over. And we hope forever.

Undoubtedly you were taught the triumph of democracy. So were we. Perhaps there was such a victory. Woodrow Wilson said that democracy triumphed; so did Hearst, the du Ponts, and other prominent men. Let us concede the case; democracy triumphed.

What, then? Today let us commemorate the future by our recognition of Armistice Day—not the past. For the future immediately concerns us—the past doesn't. What has been done is done, and unfortunately we cannot alter the facts. But what is coming is yet to arrive, and with the aid of God we might be able to do something about it.

It is vain to assume that as we people should not tamper with the war question. Such an evasion of the issue only begs the question. We are His hands and feet—His body; we are put here for a purpose—to love Him and mankind. We cannot love and do nothing about it. Love carries itself into use.

Therefore, this call to Eternal Peace do we make in commemorating Armistice Day. Let us look forward; let us consider Armistice Day as representative of an ever-widening armistice of the future, a day signifying peace forever.

SMALL TALK:

So you can't keep warm, eh? It must be colder; if you can't be wrong... but don't go near the engine room; that's the coldest place in the building. After much diligent study, extensive research and many frozen seven a.m.s we have evolved a possible method of keeping up in the eighties... Get on the outside of the building, (usually warmer there) begin a running motion on the left leg, flailing both arms wildly in the air, breath deeply through the left nostril and then swing into the torrid pulsations of the HONGADOLA to a ringing chorus of "America." You will probably get left-handed in the head, but it will work. In case of the slightest failure, leap into the reception room, it gets pretty warm in there sometimes. (If you are a Solipsist it won't work.)

LOOKING ON:

Many a stiff leg, turned ankle and sore bruised flank realized when the dorm gals made their last vain stand against the Delta Rho Gamma aggregation... During the practice before the great spectacle it was very amusing to see the huge RUSS FRYE tumble before the murderous onslaught of six of seven fair blockers, while one romped gaily all over the field... Have you seen the fighting pose of the all-school tackle, HENRIETTA O'NEIL? a second GRANDE... Also worthy of comment was the "please get out of my way" look of BEA SIDDERs, the cover-all nose guard worn by SPENCE, the exceptional hip blocking by CONNIE CLUMB, and the fine running of ROSALIE JENSEN... HELEN SCOTT would make any male opposition wilt when she stumbles through the line, don't you think?... My that's the cutest little picture of you in that locket, CHESTER: do you wonder that HAPPY spends half her time mooning over it?... Yes, you're very funny, BETTY... Reh,reh... STANLEY FORD (president) doesn't usually miff the announcements. It's only after he's been talking to WADENE CALAVAN. She just gets him all "tristated up"... PIN POINT PRUDENCE; STANLEY YOUNG—FLUTE CAZENZA... After trying out the Atlas method for about three weeks, we understand that WALTER GOPLERUD sent a letter to the great builder asking him to "please send the muskies"... They must have paid LLOYD THOMPSON to sweep up the rink at that skating party. Every time we saw him, he was hard at work, with ENID BLAKE crimsonly waiting for him to get up... Don't you know that you're old enough to go home. ELSE? Ha... STAN LEDAHL is looking for you—he must be, he's always looking for somebody... NOTICE: The editor of the M. M. does not run an information bureau... CLIX HAUGEN is slipping—He's so bad off now, he writes letters home and addresses them "Parkland, Wn."... MOST EMBARRASSING MOMENT: Ask BOB SVARE about the incident on the steps at the Melchior Concert... Here's one—MR. STUEN asked RUTH HANSEN what sense a certain verb was, and she answered "Nest"... We hear that ORV SCHLANBUSCH was walking around in downtown Portland all alone... why? That 60-yard run was pretty nice, JAY, kid pretty nice... Did you hear that OLIVER LUDLOW introduced NORM FRYE as his best friend, his very best friend, and then couldn't even remember his name. Oh, well, he never could remember names, anyway.

CRAM—The mid-terms! Wow, such a mess of "book-cracking"! Everybody was wandering around in the halls with his nose in a great big book, and a dopey look on his face... First time in the history of the College... heh heh heh... Didn't anyone but IRENE O'DELL think that the Ed Measurements Test was easy?... The Comp. Gov't. test was a test with "the teeth" in it... false teeth... (much mirth). BOUQUET—to PROP PFLUEGER for his sensible tests... Exam week is a "poor time to fall in love. ROLAND... Did you put him under your spell, COOKIE? or did someone konk him on the head during that two hour walk home?... fine thing... when nobody is around here. Extreme quiet, fellas... It can't happen here, eh?... The cards will be coming out soon, but none of us are anxious or worried at all, are we LERVICK?... The walling wall will be erected just as soon as the pledges are paid in. About half of them are in, but we must reach a certain quota before beginning construction... Never mind, your sorrow will soon be changed to a stomach-ache, or severe gout, and maybe a pair of skates, and an electric train; the gobbler is leading Dunder and Blitzen again this year, so the stomachache will come fast. We expect to see most of you about 20 pounds closer to the ground after the feast... Say, and do you realize that Decemberu the threeth comes on a Friday... (that's the day after the twoth).

And on top of that, Thanksgiving always gives the fourteen year old pet turkey a chance to wade through the gravy, and then we'll open up that other can of soup, have some real old-fashioned cran-gravy, and some brown stuffing-berries with pickle-potatoes, and the dull mashed-cream... Doesn't it sound good, or can't you figure it out also?... Here's a good tip on how to pick out a good bird—First listen for a bass voice; if the possessor of the professional quality is located, and if it is a snowy-eyed, gangly bird with long legs, it ought to be a honey. Just think how much ars you would have to pick the bones on... then, too, he will probably be kind-hearted, and therefore much more tender. We will stop here because it is spoiling our appetites and... saw... end it any way you want to... Amen and indigestion.

Thanksgiving

For all that God in mercy sends: For health and strength, for home and friends.

For comfort in the time of need: For every kindly word and deed, For happy-thoughts and pleasant talk, For guidance in our daily walk, For all these things give thanks.

For beauty in this world of ours: For verdant grass and lovely flowers, For song of birds, for hum of bees, For the refreshing summer breeze, For hill and plain, for streams and wood, For the great ocean's mighty flood, For all these things give thanks

For the sweet sleep that comes with night, For the returning morning's light, For the bright sun which shines on high, For stars that glitter in the sky—For these and everything we see—O Lord, our hearts we lift to thee, And give thee hearty thanks.

—Elen Isabella Tupper

Lutherans Defeat Bellingham Squad By 13-0 Advantage

Striving off several Viking touchdown threats in the initial half, P. L. C. came back in the third and fourth quarters to score thirteen points against the powerful Bellingham squad.

During the first half, a goodly sized crowd witnessed somewhat of a lethargic brand of ball, displayed by the Lutherans. Time and time again a hard charging Viking line opened up large holes in the Gladiators forward wall to send their backs down the field, gaining numerous consecutive first downs, only to be stopped short of digging into pay dirt by the stubborn Lutheran line.

In the second half, the tide of battle changed. An inspired and rejuvenated Parkland team took the field. Early in the third period of play a Viking pass was intercepted by "Chester" Solie. A line drive through center with Ludlow carrying the ball netted fifteen yards, and a pass—J. Smith to N. Frye—put the ball on Bellingham's fifteen yard stripe. In skirting right end Smith packed the ball to the 3-yard marker to make it first and ten. Through several line bucks, Solie took it over. Bucky O'Connor's place kick was blocked by Ullin Viking guard.

In the final quarter the Lutherans intercepted another pass which was juggled by Russ Frye and finally recovered by Tim Tommervik. Via the ozone route, Tommervik to Nilsen, the leather was advanced to the 9-yard stripe. Three line plunges were repulsed, and Tommervik on the next play, flipped one to O'Connor who was standing on the goal line. As though thrown back by several Vikings the score was declared legal since the ball had already crossed the goal. O'Connor's kick for point was good, making the final score—P. L. C. 13, Bellingham 0.

Grid Glances

by Russ Frye

With a total of 90 points to their opponents, P. L. C.'s unbeaten team hung up their meekskins for another year with the satisfaction of having completed the greatest season in Coach Olson's regime.

According to news reports P. L. C. and Santa Clara are the only unbeaten teams on the Pacific Coast this year.

There are possibilities of the Gladiators playing a post season game with the Longview Alumni, or some college team. However, chances for a game with the College of Puget Sound seems to grow a little more remote each year, even though both teams would be more than willing to play, especially the Gladiators.

An added feature of this year's football banquet will be the presentation of a football sweater to the player having been most inspirational to his team mates during the past season. Rhodes Brothers in Tacoma is the generous donor of this award.

Although tied by Linfield last Saturday the Gladiators played a high class brand of ball, being on the verge of victory several times. Especially in the second half did the Glads hold the upper hand against the powerful Wildcat squad.

The record set by this year's undefeated team is a mark for future teams to try to better. Those seniors who will graduate this year leave with a certain feeling of pride of a job well done.

Bob Martin former P. L. C. guard played a bang up game for Linfield. He seems headed for an all conference berth. Hal "Butterball" Votaw former Parkland halfback also saw action, but his sympathies seemed to be with his former teammates.

The last and biggest bouquet of the 1936 grid season goes to "King Oley" and his assistant the "Baron". Without their leadership and inspiration P. L. C. would have been just another team.

The Spectator Observes:

Each morning when I awaken I run to the window to see whether the new day is bringing snow, rain, or sunshine. Then my glance wanders across the campus underneath one stately maple tree, which is having a last fling in all its bright golden glory.

Beneath this tree stands a sinister looking object, almost covered with var-colored maple leaves. Looking closely, I am able to discern the outlines of a car. About that car is an air of mystery; the side curtains darken the interior which could conceal many intriguing secrets. However, this car is familiar to most of us. I hope you all may ride in it sometimes, especially with the side curtains removed. You need merely to close your eyes, hang onto your ears and enjoy all that parachute jumping, tall-spin sensation without leaving terra firma.

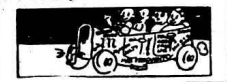

My attention is called to a car just driving up. Four attractive girls jump out, laughing and chattering as only four peppy girls can do. Each one is dressed modishly like the leaves, in popular autumn browns, reds, or yellows. The young man coming down the walk quickens his pace—doublets to get in time for his eight o'clock.

Here comes a car that looks a bit enemic. It seems to have quite a bit of pep, yet it chugs in with alarming symptoms of hay fever or asthma. But I know from former observation that getting started, it plugs along like the "old gray mare" that ain't what she used to be—And that kind always arrives.

My observations carry me past the breakfast gong, and I hasten down for a quick cup of coffee at the Bug. I tripped over something en route as I step off the curb. And what a spill I take. It lays me low. I look up in time to see a little Austin giving me the "Ha ha" as it parks under the fender of a friendly Packard.

Some cars bear a certain degree of dignity as they drive down the avenue. They seem to have all the time in the world as they complacently choose a parking spot, with a screeching of brakes, in order to bring their drivers to class on time.

Speaking of class time, I wonder who relaxes in a certain roadster with the radio blaring a rhythm that makes the minds of the rest of us dance away from our studies.

Rain or shine, that row of patient cars waits for a jovial host of young people and some older—ladet with books and more or less recently acquired knowledge—to release them from their brakes and their faithful vigils, for the daily trek homeward.

Local Eleven Takes Oregon Team in Final Home Game

In their final home game of the season, the Golden Gladiators drubbed a game but inexperienced band of grid stars from Oregon Tech 33 to 0 in the Lincoln Bowl, Saturday afternoon, Nov. 7.

The Lutherans chalked up two kills early in the initial cast, the first coming on the opening kick-off when Fred Heany, behind a horde of blockers, scampered 90 yards to cross the pay dirt with stunged would-be tacklers strewn in his tracks. Not a hand was laid on him on his goal-ward jaunt. O'Connor exploded through the Metropolitan line from the 11 yard stripe. Again his boot was good, making the count 14 to 0 at the end of the first quarter.

From then on the "Teachers" held P. L. C. to a lone touchdown per period. O'Connor went off again in the second stanza. A pass—Tommervik to Solie—accounted for another in the third, and Frye crossed for the final score in the last quarter.

Little trouble was handed the Gladiators by the invading Oregonians, although their zone thrusts netted considerable yardage and four of their six first downs. Al Petrella sparked for the Portland bunch, playing an excellent brand of ball.

Substitutions were numerous in the Parkland line-up, since Coach Clifford Olson seasoned his reserves for next year, and used every player on his roster.

Third Year Girls Win Championship

By winning from the liberal arts high school team November 4, the seniors became the champs of captain-ball. It was a fast rolling game which netted the victors a large margin over their opponents. In climaxing the captain-ball season it has been the custom to choose those players who have shown outstanding ability in their respective positions. The girls who have been given this honor are: forwards, Thelma Ness, Helen Scott, Alice Cook, Irene Odell, Beatrice Leland; guards, Judy Benson, Madena Calavan, Esther Norgaard, Melba Fenney, Vera Taylor.

Volleyball season, headed by Helen Holtcamp, opened last week with practices taking place during gym periods. Mrs. Dapper said there seems to be very good material, and the games should prove very interesting. Many split joints and bruised spots were discovered Tuesday during the process of getting up or down stairs. "Tumbling is that way, girls. It's a sport that gets you."

Delta Rhos Sponsoring Drive For Club Dues

Two committees have been appointed in charge of the collection of Delta Rho Gamma dues. The membership has been divided into two teams, which are competing in a race, the loser of which will sponsor a party for the successful opponents. Betty Evanson is in charge of one group, assisted by Maurine Wade, Rosalie Jensen, and Ida Mae Hoss. The other consists of Astrid Anderson, chairman, Llewella Davies, Betty Svare, and June Nicholas. A list of girls with their respective teams has been posted in the day room.

Thanksgiving Time Traditions Inspire Timely Treatise on Turkey, Trimmings

Another pinch of salt, a dash of pepper, a bit more heat for the oven—a last work-out on the mashed potatoes—and Thanksgiving is here again! The turkey's in the oven getting all pluffed up, over all the oh's and ah's he will receive when he, in his shining dark brown robe is brought in to the feast. Brother comes into the kitchen and peeks into the oven, just to see that Mr. Gobbler is doing all right. He smacks his lips as he hears butter sizzling in the center of a squash. Another corner of the oven holds a big pie. Three guesses whether it is mince-meat, pumpkin or stromberry. Brother gets jostled around and stepped on by the busy cooks, so he wanders towards the pantry.

On the window sill is a dish containing freshly cooked cranberries. He furtively closes the door so that no one will see him. Then he spies Little Jack Horner, and finds himself three cranberries up on Jack's one plum. Gee, what's that in the icebox? Umm—Umm. One sample follows another, and then he struts back into the kitchen with an olive in either side of his mouth. Mother shoo's him into the living room as she gives the eggbeater a final quick turn. The suspense is over; the table is set; the dinner chimes are played, and the family settles down to a jolly feast.

A tower of sparkling apple jelly dances to the tinkling music of china and silver. A big cave is dug in the snowy mountain of mashed potatoes, and as the turkey rapidly becomes extinct, brother begins to wish that it had been twins—or at least that he were!

From Collegiate Press—

Since its organization in 1932, DePauw university's health service has treated 21,776 cases. During the same period there have been hospitalization cases.

Maiden-Munchausens are in a class by themselves. And here we had thought all along that men were the greatest fabricators of fables and fancies. However—and this is the rub—the committee of judges at a liar's contest staged at the University of California, conceding that women are superior in this sinful art, refused to let the questionably fairer sex have the opportunity of competing against the men. Now they have their own place in the "lie-ing-sun."

They are taking "Moon" Mullin's football candidacy lightly at Syracuse university. He tips the scales at 125 with playing equipment on and is believed to be the lightest player in collegiate circles.

A thorough course in horsemanship is offered for beginners, intermediates, and advanced riders at Mount Holyoke college. Riders can enjoy the sport and receive gym credit for participating.

Twenty-five percent of the Carleton college faculty is listed in "Who's Who." If you want the figures, 23 out of a possible 85 have broken into this exclusive volume.

L. D. R. Meet Yesterday At Svare Residence

L. D. R. members met yesterday at the home of Mrs. T. O. Svare with Mrs. J. P. Pflueger assisting as hostess. Mrs. M. A. Christensen, for many years a worker in the Wpman's Missionary activities on the Pacific coast, was the guest speaker. Musical numbers, including a vocal trio: Maurine Wade, Vivian Keller, and Janice Peterson, and piano selections by Linka De Berry, were heard.

A report of the Women's Missionary Federation convention held in Tacoma, will be given by Noyra Preus and Mildred Larsen, local delegates.

Year books including programs for the entire year were distributed. These were prepared by Verna Tegland, Norma Lando and June Walters.

Tuberculosis Seals Go on Sale Soon

The following article is printed for the benefit of the National Tuberculosis Association, with whom the Moor- ing Mast urges its readers to cooperate in this worthy cause.

This year the National Tuberculosis Association is sponsoring the thirtieth annual Christmas Seal sale to be held in the United States. The 1936 seals go on sale Thanksgiving Day. They depict a modern Santa Claus, symbol of good health, and carry the double-barred cross, the emblem of the tuberculosis movement. These penny stickers will raise funds for further health protection among students in schools and colleges.

Young people throughout the nation play an important part in the annual sales of Christmas Seals, conducted by the 1981 tuberculosis associations throughout the country to finance their work in controlling tuberculosis. Although the death rate from tuberculosis has been steadily declining during the past thirty years, since the first seals were sold, tuberculosis still takes a greater toll than any other disease among young people between 15 and 25. For this reason tuberculosis associations have been putting more and more stress on preventive and case-finding work in high schools and colleges.
