

Students Leave Today For Weekend Retreat

Student leaders of PLC will convene this weekend at Camp Lutherwood on Lake Samish, near Bellingham, Wash., for the second annual Leadership Retreat.

Approximately 85 students—including student body officers, class officers, officers of the major campus organizations as well as the president and Inter-Club-Council representative of the smaller clubs—will attend.

Students will be divided into discussion groups primarily to learn to lead and discuss given topics; secondly, it is hoped that out of these discussions will come possible solutions to campus problems.

Mr. John Amend, executive of the Highline School District, will be present as main speaker. Mr. Amend has done extensive work in group discussion and leadership.

Topics for discussion will be selected by Mr. Amend at the Retreat. This means that the students will have no time to prepare themselves for the sessions. Most topics will center around the academic role of the student, and relationships between the student, administration and faculty.

Students planning to attend the retreat will leave the school at 4:00 p.m. today. The opening session will be an introduction in group discussion at 8 p.m. Flag raising and devotions before Saturday breakfast will precede two discussion sessions in which the groups will consider six problems current at PLC.

After lunch and following the third of these sessions there will be recreation; after the dinner hour the group will meet for an evaluation period in order to evaluate the content of the problem discussions and the technique of their discussions. A campfire and singspiration will close the evening program.

Matins and a 'gung-ho' talk will be given Sunday morning. Afterwards the group will return to school for the morning worship service.

The retreat committee consists of Shari Thorvilson, Ted Johnstone, and Paul Eriks. Also assisting are John Amend, Mavis Everette, Joan Raud, and Art Ellickson.

"It is our hope that we as leaders will gain new insight into leadership and our responsibilities on campus," Shari Thorvilson stated.

Defense Loans Offer Assistance

Available to Pacific Lutheran College students who indicate financial need is the National Defense Student Loan Fund.

A nation-wide program, it provides financial help in the form of loans up to $1,000 a year for a maximum of $5,000.

Only full-time undergraduates and graduates are eligible. In addition, they must be above average students capable of maintaining a good standing in school. Priority is given students entering education, science, mathematics and modern languages.

Borrowers who become full-time public school teachers have 10% deducted each year of teaching for a maximum of five years. Loans are repaid at three per cent interest over a ten-year period beginning one year after the last year of school.

Students may make application with the Assistant to the President, Mr. Cecil Vance, on forms supplied by his office in Old Main.

Frosh Elect Officers

Over 60 freshmen sought offices in their class elections this week.

Officers for the 1959-60 term are Randy Stime, president; Bob Banke, vice president; Marit Myhre, secretary; Dick Clark, treasurer; Jewell Flom, student council representative, and Gary Peterson, ICC representative.

Runners-up were Dave Williams for president, Richard Wilson for vice-president, Lois Cornell for secretary, John Martill for student council, and Chris Jacobs, I.C.C.

'Rip Van Winkle' To Appear on Stage Here October 15

CASTING was completed this week for the first dramatic production of the school this year. The play is "Rip Van Winkle," Eric Nordholm's tenth children's production.

The play, adapted by Charlotte Chorpenning from Washington Irving's legend, covers in three acts the period from 1771 to 1791. The first and third acts take place in Rip's village, and the setting of the second act is the grove in the Catskill mountains where Rip met the adventure which made his story immortal.

Members of the cast include Dave Crowner as Rip Van Winkle, Gary Peterson, Jr., as Young Rip, Bob Swanson as Wouter Gardiner, Kathie McCall as Katrina Van Shaik, Clarie Syverson as Rychie Vedder, Judy McLean as Judith Van Winkle, Sylvia Sodergard as Dame Van Winkle, Darlene Kelley as Dame Van Shaik, Jim Larson as Dominic Van Shaick, Ardelle Dungan as Dame Vedder, Janet Aust as Dame Van Bummel, Dennis Knutson as Hendrick Hudson, Walter Hall and Loyal Ness as the crew of the Half Moon, Dianne Mase as Abigail, and Jerry Dietz as Nicky.

The play will be presented October 15, 16, 17, 22 and 23 in the afternoons, with a morning performance as well on the 17th. Based on last year's attendance, Mr. Nordholm expects a total audience of several thousand.

APO Skating Party Scheduled Tonight

Tonight is the annual All-School Skating Party at the Tacoma Roller Bowl, located at 74th and South Tacoma Way. Admission is 50 cents. Tickets may be obtained in the CUB from the dinner hour until 9:00 p.m. Since the rink is reserved for PLC from 9:30 until 12:00, all girls attending the party will get one o'clock leaves.

Debate Topic Chosen

Approximately 30 new debaters and 12 members of last year's squad turned out for an organizational meeting last Tuesday.

This year's question is "Resolved, that Congress should be given the power to reverse supreme court decisions."

The entire group will meet at Dr. T. O. Karl's home this Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

Regular meetings are held each Tuesday and Thursday at 4:30 in CMS-122.

VOLUME XXXVII PARKLAND, WASH. FRIDAY, SEPT. 25, 1959 NUMBER 1

New Faculty Assume Positions

Among the PLC faculty and staff are sixteen new teachers, two housemothers and one nurse, who are helping to meet the needs of an expanding curriculum and a growing enrollment.

The new teachers include:

Charles D. Anderson, associate professor of chemistry. He is a graduate of St. Olaf College and has master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees in chemistry from Harvard University. For the past three years he has done cancer research at the Stanford Research Institute in California.

George E. Arbaugh, assistant professor of philosophy. He is a graduate of Augustana College and has master of arts and doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Iowa.

Victor R. Belcher, professor of history. He obtained his bachelor's degree from Cambridge University in England and has done graduate work at the University of Washington.

Louis K. Christensen, chairman of the department of music and associate professor. He has bachelor and master of arts degrees in music from the University of Washington and is completing work on the doctor of music philosophy degree.

Mrs. Jeanne Craig, instructor in economics and business administration. She received her bachelor of science degree from the Oklahoma State University.

George R. Elwell, assistant professor of art. He has a bachelor of science degree in art from Youngstown University in Ohio and a master's degree from New York University.

Shirley Ann MacIsaac, instructor in German. She is a 1957 PLC graduate.

Sherman B. Nornes, assistant professor of physics. He is a graduate of Concordia College and received a master of science degree from the University of North Dakota.

Robert B. Olafson, instructor in English. He is a 1956 graduate from PLC and has a master of arts degree from the University of Washington, where he has also done work on his doctorate.

Phyllis Templin, instructor in physical education and health. She is a 1959 graduate of PLC.

Dorothy K. Payne, instructor in music. She has a bachelor degree in music from the Eastman School of Music of the University of Rochester in New York. After graduate study with pianist Eugene Liszt at Eastman, she studied in various European schools.

Charles A. Peterson, associate professor of economics and business administration. He has a bachelor of science degree from Emporia State College in Kansas and a master of science degree from the University of Tennessee.

Robert E. Pierson, assistant professor of economics and business administration. He is a graduate of St. Olaf College and has a master and doctor of philosophy degree from Northwestern University.

Clarence J. Potratz, instructor in mathematics. He is a 1957 graduate of PLC with a master of science degree from the University of Idaho.

T. O. Svare, assistant professor of religion. He taught at PLC from 1949 to 1957 and received his doctor's degree while serving as Cultural Attache in Norway.

Dwight J. Zulauf, professor of economics and business administration and head of the department. He has his bachelor and master of arts degrees from the University of Oregon. He taught at PLC from 1949 to 1953.

The new housemothers are Mrs. Clara Nelson and Mrs. S. O. Shaffland.

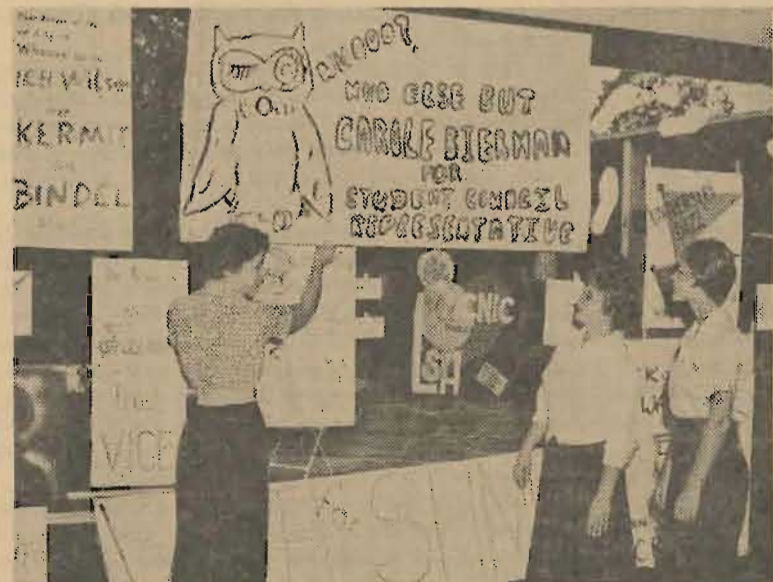

Mrs. Nelson, former resident head at South Hall, and a St. Olaf College graduate, will reside in Evergreen Court.

Mrs. Shaffland will be housemother in the new Ivy Court. She is a graduate of Moorhead State Teachers College in Minnesota.

Mrs. Howard Burgam is the new nurse. She received her bachelor of arts degree from PLC and her public health certificate from the University of Washington.

Already the administration is searching for future faculty members to fill new positions, and replacements for those who drop out.

Even though PLC loses a few professors each year, the staff is continually growing to meet the demands of a university set-up and an increasing student body.

Vital Role of Paper

The college newspaper is like a tool. It can be used effectively or ineffectively. Its place on the college campus is and should be a prominent one, for it serves as a link between student government, the administration and the student, in relationship to the world outside the campus boundaries.

No one can deny the vital role that the press has played in the past, and the influence it has today. As the free press speaks out with the voice of democracy throughout the free world, so the student publication can be the mouthpiece for the individual on campus.

A staff alone cannot make the student newspaper a success—it needs your cooperation; and in turn, the Mooring Mast will strive to work harmoniously for and with the student body. Suggestions, criticisms and letters to the editor are welcomed and encouraged.

With your help, the Mooring Mast will be able to function effectively and serve the students ably.

Building Contractors Employ New Process

The scene of activity across the street from the library consists of more than just putting up a building. A new process that is being used, employed only once in the city of Tacoma, involves manufacturing the entire concrete frame of the structure on the spot.

Although action may appear to be slow, beams, slabs and columns are coming daily out of the molds and piling up. Soon a crane will begin fitting these pieces into a beautiful edifice with 52,000 square feet of floor space.

"Simplicity cuts costs," the architect with eight PLC structures to his credit said, "and we believe that this method, in the long run, will save money." John G. Richards, partner in the firm of Lea, Pearson and Richards, points out that the comparatively small (8"x18") beams must be capable of holding 30 ft. of floor between columns, or 4,800 pounds to the square inch. This tremendous capability is possible because of pre-stressing, which stretches the cable core of the beams with 180,000 pounds of pressure before the mix is poured in the forms.

Concrete is poured into the frames in the morning and left to cure overnight with the aid of kerosene lamps and fans. Footings placed to various depths in the ground stand ready to support the columns, which in turn will support the beams and slabs that make up the floors.

"Everything is going fine," according to the general contractor, Nelson Construction Company. The new home of the administration offices should be ready within a year.

Sunday's Sermon Announced

"Love in Three Dimensions" is the topic of Pastor John Larsgaard's sermon for this Sunday's service.

The student congregation meets at 11 o'clock each Sunday morning. Last Sunday some 900 students and friends attended.

Also at that service the lay visitation team will be installed. The membership drive which will take place Monday and Tuesday evenings from 7-9 p.m., will be handled by this team of 100 members. "You need not be a Lutheran to join," states Pastor Larsgaard, "and we urge the students to make themselves available for visitation in their rooms on Monday and Tuesday evenings."

THUMBING THROUGH the 1959 SAGA in their room in Old Ivy are Lailane Marsh and Alene Woodside. While these rooms are not as modern as those in the new addition, a homey feeling still pervades.

Ivy Court Expanded; Girls Hike Up Hill

Ivy Court—the most recent addition to the campus has already become home to some 70 upper class girls. This combination of old Ivy Hall and the three wings built on this summer makes up the abode of the commonly called "cream of the crop" of PLC women. The newest dorm on campus features carpeted halls and print drapes in addition to other modern furnishings.

The majority of the work on the building was done by PLC men this summer. "I'm as proud of that building as if I'd have built the whole thing myself," stated one college man after the work was completed.

Sprouts of grass are beginning to poke through in the courtyard signaling that before long a lawn will be there. The courtyard can be completely closed off to be used for sunbathing.

One thing still lacking is telephone service in the new rooms. The ring of the one dorm phone is accompanied by groans and a chorus of "whose turn is it this time?" Of course the girls in D wing (the farthest away) get the most calls and little feet are heard softly pattering back and forth on the carpets calling a name whose owner no one seems to recall having seen lately.

The spacious lounge, still undraped, gives an old world atmosphere with its stone walls, fireplace and large oak dining room set.

Welcoming the girls this fall when they arrived was Mrs. Agnes Shafland, the housemother. The girls are busy with plans to make Ivy an outstanding hall and a credit to the PLC campus.

MRS. AGNES SHAFLAND, housemother in Ivy Court, is shown here visiting one of the new rooms in Ivy Court.

Local Campusite Reviews Busy Summer

by Bob C. Olsen

I am a local yokel, and I know many things, for I stay on campus all summer. My conclusion is that the population decreases early in June, but not the activity.

Take this last summer. For the greater part of the summer there were several hundred students busily engaged in the stimulating task of absorbing a semester's work in one month. Summer school is a real experience, both because of the quick pace and the number of students. Chapel continued, the swimming pool was a center of activity, and there was even a 3-act children's play.

But there are activities during the summer you won't find at any other time. All peace left the campus for a week with the arrival of 750 Boys' Staters. Four leadership schools and a convention brought a host of exuberant Luther Leaguers to the college. Also, there were about 10 other conventions, keeping things lively and helping our public relations. The new administration building began to rise, but, as it takes concentrated observation to decipher what is going on at that site, the emergence of Ivy Court was watched with more interest. There was doubt though not by the builders, that the three buildings moved from the upper campus early in June could be connected and made livable in three months.

But in all the activity there is a noticeable emphasis on the coming school year. The library, having no more walls to tear down, spent its time building up policies and ordering new books. The Old Main offices worked hard to straighten out the flood of returning students. For, although the summer is almost devoid of rain (California please note), there's just a trace of an empty feeling; things, on the whole, are just too quiet. At any rate, we're glad to see you all back.

Ambassador Quartet Tours Western States and Canada

All summer PLC has been well represented throughout the west by its own wandering minstrels, the Ambassador Quartet. These young men, tenors Jerry Erickson and Sid Shelver, basses Paul Carlson and Dick Giger, and accompanist David Dahl, have, over the past three months, sung about 120 concerts in Washington, Oregon, California, Idaho, Montana, and British Columbia.

Equipped with the College's new International Travel-all (a big improvement over the "beasts" used in the past) slides of PLC, and their well-trained voices, they have covered 15,000 miles in behalf of PLC. They have lived up to their title, for, besides helping create a favorable impression of the College for the general public, they interviewed over 350 prospective students, some of whom they helped persuade to come this fall.

On any tour such as this there are unforgettable experiences. Paul (6'5") discovered that the average bed is at least five inches too short. But the most memorable event of this trip, perhaps, was one the boys just missed: 3 days after they camped in West Yellowstone Park the area was severely damaged by an earthquake.

This is the second year for all but Sid and Paul, and the members' music blends well. Their program is varied and interesting, ranging from chorales to Negro spirituals. Besides the vocal numbers, Dave played several organ solos at each concert. In one, J. S. Bach's "Rejoice, O Christians," he was assisted by Dick, who operated an effect originated by the composer—three small bells on a wire.

Singing for Chapel last Monday was probably the Quartet's final appearance as such. Dick will be transferring to Oregon State this fall. He may be replaced for the school year, but there'll be more changes before another summer, for all but Sid are seniors. Regardless of the future of the Quartet, however, these particular Ambassadors will always remember this goodwill tour.

Frosh Don Beanies And Bibs for Their Initiation

Freshmen! In case you are thinking that you are entitled to a little relaxation after orientation and a week of study, take warning: the best (?) is yet to come.

Yes, next week is that wonderful time known as Frosh Initiation—a time when you will all wear beanies and bibs and be completely obedient to the will of your elders. Yes, we said bibs. That's a new feature this year—as well as your black and gold beanie, each of you will wear a bib with his name on it. Total price: -1.25. Proceeds go toward your picnic, so don't complain.

Some sadistic old-timers don't like the idea of the frosh having had a week to organize and feel equal to the rest of the student body, but due to the leadership retreat, this was unavoidable. The sophomores, however, will more than make up for it. Here are some things in store for the frosh.

Monday, everyone must have his beanie and bib. Monday and Tuesday, all that is required is to "button," which means to put a finger on the button of the beanie and bow very low. Frosh have one right, by the way: they needn't do anything unless the one demanding it is wearing a ribbon bearing the word "sophomore."

Wednesday is "half-wit" day. Boys may shave and girls may wear lipstick, but only on half the face. Boys must wear pajama tops for shirts, and girls are to wear belts for necklaces.

On Thursday, the order of the day is inside-out clothes. In addition, books are to be carried to class in suitcases.

Next Friday all girls will wear one flat shoe and one with a high heel; boys, instead of one shoe, will wear a paper sack. Throughout the week, besides performing special stunts which will be announced, frosh will run errands for the mighty sophomores.

Saturday is the climax. In the morning, uncooperative or unlucky frosh will receive their just desserts at the famous Kangaroo Court. Don't worry about any rumors you may have heard concerning this event—they're all true, but it's fun all the same. In the afternoon there will be a "no-hard-feelings" picnic at Spanaway. And at halftime of the football game that evening the two classes will cooperate in a "hats-off" ceremony which will officially give the freshmen the status of members of the student body.

So that's what's in store for you, frosh, but don't worry. It'll be over before too long and, no matter how you're treated, everyone's glad you're part of the PLC family.

Grid Squad Idle; Shows Improvement

Pacific Lutheran's Gladiators draw a bye this weekend while preparing for an invasion by the Savages from Eastern Washington a week from Saturday in Lincoln Bowl.

Coach Jim Gabrielsen spent most of the past week viewing movies of the Puget Sound game which the Loggers took 7-6 on a muddy field. Gabrielsen went over the individual mistakes with each of the Lute gridders.

The Savages will be in town tomorrow when they clash with the Loggers at 1:30 on the CPS grid-iron.

This will give PLC scouts and players a good opportunity to see Eastern's offense in action.

The bye this weekend will give some Lute linemen a chance to get rid of injuries that have kept them out of action. Bruce Nunes sprained an ankle and Don Keppler had several stitches taken in his lip from a cut received in last Saturday's action against CPS.

Ends Lou Blaesi and Gary Vestal are still patching up injuries received during the first two weeks of practice. It is not known yet whether they will be ready next week.

"There have been a number of ball players show good improvement this week and the team as a whole is looking better," stated Coach Gabrielsen.

Gary Nevers, junior varsity quarterback, drew special praise from Gabrielsen for his fine passing and ball handling in practice.

Last week's contest saw the Lutes drop a real close one. The Gladiators edged the Loggers in net yards rushing 62-53 and in passing 117 yards to 109.

CPS drew six penalties for 65 yards while PLC received no penalties. The Lute defense looked unbeatable in the second half.

Tom Mays, Keppler, and Bill Williams received special comment from the coaches for their defensive work.

Intramural Football Underway; Married Men Form New Team

Intramural football got underway this past week on the Pacific Lutheran campus.

This year the married students are fielding a team for the first time.

On the first night out Third Floor Old Main and Evergreen Court battled to a 12-12 deadlock.

Next week's action will see Tacoma vs. Western and Second Floor battle Third Floor on Monday.

Tuesday, Evergreen faces Fourth Floor and Clover Creek offers the Married Students their first battle.

Tacoma plays Clover Creek and Eastern meets Western on Wednesday.

On Thursday, Second challenges

Fourth and Evergreen faces the Married Students.

Larry Dale To Join Staff as Sport's Editor

Next issue of the Mooring Mast will welcome Larry Dale, a freshman from Tacoma, who will be taking over as sports editor for this year.

Larry attended Lincoln High of Tacoma, where he was sports editor of the award winning Lincoln newspaper.

He received the Lloyd Rodstrom Scholarship and plans to go into journalism as a career. Larry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Dale of Tacoma.

John Hanson, the retiring sports editor, plans to turn out for track in addition to being team statistician.

JV's Scrimmage With Soldiers This Afternoon

The Eighth Infantry from Fort Lewis takes on the Lute junior varsity in a scrimmage this afternoon at 2:30 on the Glad's football field.

The scrimmage will give a lot of PLC gridders who did not see varsity action last Saturday a chance to show their stuff.

The unofficial starting lineup for the Gladiators is as follows:

- E—Warren Lee
- Ed Katz
- T—Ken Knutsen
- John Mades
- G—Bill Egan
- Dave Berg
- C—Lee Waldie
- QB—Gary Nevers
- HB—Ron Coltom
- Jerry Fosen
- FB—Tom Sonneman or Gary Neering

Grid Coach Gabrielsen In Rebuilding Process

James D. Gabrielsen entered his second year as head football coach at Pacific Lutheran College last Saturday, and despite the Lutes' 7-6 defeat at the hands of their cross-town rivals he has confidence this year's squad will surprise pre-season forecasters who picked the Gladiators to finish next to the bottom of the Evergreen Conference.

Gabrielsen came to PLC from St. Olaf College where he was freshman pigskin coach and head hockey and track coach from 1956 to 1958.

His hockey team rated along with the best in Midwest small colleges and had a two season record of 20 wins and 6 losses.

The track squad he coached finished third and second in the conference during his two year tenure at St. Olaf.

Before moving to St. Olaf, Gabrielsen was football, basketball and baseball mentor at Rosholt High School in South Dakota from 1952 till 1954, and football coach at Elbow Lake High in Minnesota. At Elbow Lake "Gabe" won the league grid title.

Gabrielsen attended Augustana Academy in Canton, S. D., where he was an outstanding three sport man.

At Concordia College in Moorhead, Minn., he lettered in football, baseball, basketball and hockey. His senior year he earned all-conference recognition at guard in football.

Now at PLC, Gabrielsen's team this year showed the fans last Saturday that they are stronger than expected and could be near the top of the conference come the middle of November.

Student Nurses Capped After Year's Training

"With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care."

In a solemn chapel setting, 20 sophomore student nurses received their caps last Sunday afternoon.

During the ceremony, as each girl was introduced she received a Florence Nightingale Lamp, and all united in repeating the pledge.

The Rev. John Larsgaard, student congregation pastor, gave the address.

With a year of training behind them, these 20 girls face two and a half more at Emanuel Hospital in Portland before they return to PLC for their last semester and graduation.

Receiving their caps were Fernita Albrecht, Alice Anderson, Arlene Arneson, Sharon Barton, Sharon Bigelow, Marilyn Collett, Jacqueline Haverborg, Karen Hendrickson, Kathleen Johnson, Beverly Kimball and Gay Kinared.

Others receiving caps were Karen Kliever, Marjorie Morris, Faith Pettis, Ardath Shaggeby, Martha Stoa, Joy Suckow, Marjorie Vandecar, Judy Weiss and Irma Wentz.

PLC Receives Science Grant For Marine Biology Project

Dr. Jens W. Knudson has received a $6,900 grant from the National Science Foundation for a project in marine biology.

The two-year environmental study of Puget Sound crabs will begin this fall, with work centering in the Point Defiance area and the campus laboratory.

The project, directed by Dr. Knudson, assistant biology professor, was originated to increase student interest in research and graduate study as well as to add to the scientific knowledge on crabs.

They will study the relationship of oceanographic and ecology factors to the reproductive cycles of the Puget Sound crabs. Many species will

"Leaders" Wanted

Anyone interested in trying out for Lute cheerleader or songleader positions is asked to leave their name with any student council member or place it in the student body office slot.

Cheerleader tryouts will take place during student body chapel next Tuesday morning, while the songleaders will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 in CB-200.

When you sign up, indicate which position you will be turning out for.

PLC Re-adopts Original Title

With the meeting of the Pacific Lutheran College Association last June, the final decision was made to re-adopt the name Pacific Lutheran University.

Steps leading to this decision began when a faculty committee was set up to study the university concept and report their findings.

The faculty resolution was then taken before the Board of Trustees in April, but still awaited the June meeting of the PLC Association.

Reasons given for the change include recognition of an expanded graduate program, a need for administrative reform to accommodate the school's rapid growth, and the term university is a better description of the level and character of the educational program.

The 1450 SAGAS which were ordered are now being distributed.

This year's Saga will be similar in size, but will have a more international feeling rather than a religious outlook.

Since the last Saga carnival was not as successful as it has been in the past, the business staff of the 1960 annual will have to work to make up a $500 deficit from the preceding year.

Melva Fuhr and Grace Helgren are the new co-editors and Allan Peschek is business manager. "The book will follow the same high standards of the past," Allan commented.

All students who have not picked up their annuals are requested to do so as soon as possible.

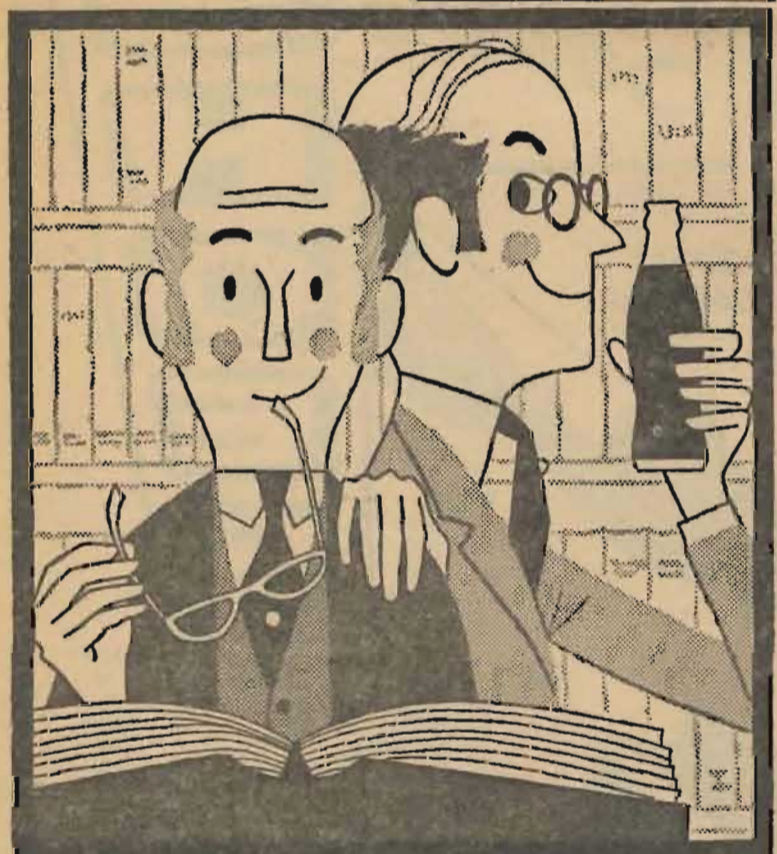

An organizational meeting of the Saga will be held next Monday at 7:00 p.m. in the CUB lounge. Anyone who is interested is invited to attend.

LSA Presents Christ on Canvas

"Christ on the Canvas," an interpretation of the art displayed in the art exhibit room by George Roskos, associate professor of art, will be the basis for the LSA program this Sunday evening at 6:30 in the Chris Knutzen Hall.

The display is from the creative arts exhibit at the LSAA Ashram held in Estes Park from August 29 to September 6. Done by students throughout the U. S., it will be sent to many of the Lutheran college campuses during the year.

'Lutes in Orbit' Tomorrow Night

Join the "Lutes in Orbit" tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Chris Knutzen Fellowship Hall.

Sponsored by Blue Key, men's service honorary, the evening activities will give new and old Lutes a chance to get acquainted.

From the Chris Knutzen Hall, groups will proceed to the various girls' dormitories.

North Hall will have a "Beatnik" theme, South Hall will feature a "Russian Bandstand," while West Hall will present a "Showboat." All will provide refreshments.

Final activity will be back at the starting point, the Chris Knutzen Hall, for a songfest.

Meg Evanson Fills National Office

Meg Evanson, a senior music major, was elected president of the Lutheran Student Association of America last August. The LSAA legislative council, made up of sixty representatives throughout the U. S. and Canada, met in Estes Park, Colo.

Since the organization of LSAA in 1922, Meg is the first woman elected president. Her job includes representing the LSAA on various church boards, bringing an awareness of the national movement to the local campus, interpreting the life of the movement, and tending to administrative duties.
