

GETTING READY for their annual tour of California is the Pacific Lutheran University "Choir of the West" (pictured above). They will leave Friday, February 2, and be gone two weeks.

Choir of the West to Start Two Week Tour Through Three States February 2nd

by Coralie Balch

A performance in Kent on the evening of February 2 marks the beginning of the annual concert tour for the sixty-voice Choir of the West, under the direction of Gunnar J. Malmin. The choir will return to the campus after its debut at Kent and will then leave for Grants Pass, Oregon, the following morning at 5:00 on the first leg of its two-week trek through California.

As part of its repertoire, the choir will feature the magnificent motet by Bach, "Be Not Afraid," which is written for double choir, so that the first part of each performance will begin with two thirty-voice choirs instead of one large group. Other numbers on the program include Mendelssohn's "Savior of Sinners," which will feature Ed Harnic as soloist; the slow and beautiful sacred movement of M. Molin Christiana's "Psalm 107"; "Have Ye Not Known" and "Ye Shall Have a Song," from Randall Thompson's "Psalms of King David"; Francis Poulenc's "Exultate Deo"; and Hermann Schein's "Who with Grieving Soweth," which will be sung in German and will probably be part of the program on the choir's European tour in the summer of 1963. Also listed on the program will be Kallinikoff's "We Worship Thee"; "Bethlehem Down," by Peter Warlock; Eccard's beautiful "Over the Hills Maria Went"; Gibbons "Hosanna to the Son of David"; and two Negro spirituals, "Let Us Cheer the Weary Traveler" and "Oh, What a Beautiful City."

Many of the selections just listed are candidates for the choir's tour of Europe, which will include concerts in Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and Germany, and a fast trip into Southern Europe, including Rome, Naples, the French Riviera, and finally Paris, during which time the choir will have no scheduled concerts.

In California, the choir will visit Disneyland, Laguna Beach, and California Lutheran College.

MOTHER'S WEEKEND SET

Mothers' Weekend will be held March 16-18, and girls are urged to let their mothers know about it during semester break, so that they will be able to start making plans to attend.

They will be guests at a banquet Saturday to highlight and climax the weekend. Student Congregation Sunday morning and an organ recital by Dr. R. Byard Fritts Sunday evening will conclude the weekend.

Governor to Speak in Convocation

Governor Albert Rosellini will be the speaker this Tuesday, Jan. 30, at Student Body Convocation. Although his appearance will occur during finals week, students are urged to take this opportunity of seeing and hearing the governor of this state speak.

AWS To Sponsor Breakfast For Big-Little Sisters

Sunday, February 11, is the date of the Big-Little Sister Breakfast, sponsored by the Associated Women Students. They are presenting the breakfast as an opportunity for the Little Sisters to show their appreciation to the Big Sisters by inviting them to the meal.

Judy Anderson has arranged for the girls to go through the cafeteria line at 8:15 a.m., and eat together in the Chas. Knutson Hall. After the informal breakfast, a short meeting will be held to discuss three things. The first, the Rooming Sale to be held February 16, will be officially announced. The second item will be the presentation of nominees for officers for the coming school year of 1962-63. The reason for nominating officers so early this year is that the newly-elected officers may attend the annual State Convention which will be held later in February at Western Washington State College.

Discussion of Mothers' Weekend on March 16-17 will be the third point of consideration.

Peace Corps To Give Placement Tests For Qualified Volunteers

Sergeant Shriver, Director of the Peace Corps, today announced plans for projects in eight new countries, and invited qualified volunteers to apply for their choice of projects. Requests for volunteers have been received from the Ivory Coast, Ethiopia, Somalia, Togo, Tunisia, Honduras, Jamaica and North Borneo.

The next Peace Corps Placement test will be held Saturday, February 17, in room 407, Federal Building in Tacoma. The test will begin at 8:30 a.m. and require 4½ hours to complete. These examinations are not competitive. They are used to develop a profile of each person's particular abilities. There are two batteries of tests: the general examination is for all persons who wish to be considered for Peace Corps projects except secondary school and college teaching positions. This would include persons who wish to teach English as a second language, elementary school teachers, agricultural workers, health workers, and skilled craftsmen.

The secondary school teachers examination is for all applicants who want to teach in secondary schools or at the university level. A bachelor's degree is required. There is no charge for these examinations and no obligations to accept training that might be offered.

Shriver listed the needs of the eight new projects as follows: Ethiopia: three hundred secondary school teachers, with these teaching specialties—English, mathematics, science, social studies, commercial subjects, and industrial arts.

Ivory Coast: Ten physical education teachers (including 5 coaches), home economic, vocational teachers, physical science, and mathematics teachers. Intermediate and secondary school teachers are in great need in Senegal. Thirty mechanics are needed in Tunisia to serve earth-moving and road building equipment. Togo is in need of medical personnel, including nurses, laboratory technicians and doctors to staff hospital and rural clinics.

Twenty-one experienced 4-H Club workers are being sent to North Borneo and Sarawak, while forty vocational teachers, specializing in the industrial arts, trades, and commercial arts; librarians and nurse-health educators are being sent to Jamaica.

Anyone interested in finding out more about the Peace Corps, or the tests to be given, should contact Vice President Peterson, in room 112 of the Administration Building.

SOMETHING NEW
DUTCH TREAT DAY, FEB. 8

There will be something new on campus in the near future. On February 8, when the Friars from the University of Michigan come to PLU, Dutch Treat Day will be inaugurated. Guys and gals will split the check this evening with the admission price being $1.00.

U. of M. Friars Being Presented On PLU Campus

The Student Council and Evergreen Court will present the Friars on Thursday, February 8. The Friars from the University of Michigan are a singing group of eight men whose repertoire includes school songs, ballads, popular melodies, and barber-shop tunes.

The Friars are touring only three colleges in the Pacific Northwest: Western Washington State College, University of British Columbia, and Pacific Lutheran University.

Student Council and Evergreen strongly encourage that everyone, especially couples, support this extra-musical attraction so that more such groups might be brought to our campus. Since the Friars are not on the regular Artist Series, there will be a charge of admission. Details concerning the time and place of the event will be announced at a later date.

Headed by Mr. Fyodor Lucio, instructor of Russian at PLU, a Russian Club has recently been formed for all students interested in Russian language and culture. There has been no special meeting date set yet, but anyone who is interested should see either Mr. Lucio or Larry Hitterdale, the club's president.

Lady Later will meet at 7:30 in the South Hall Lower Lounge, Feb. 13.

Registration for Spring Semester will be held from February 5-7; Spring Semester begins February 8, 7:50 a.m.

James A. Michener's "The Bridge at Toko-Ri" will be shown Friday night on Campus Movie. It stars William Holden, Fredric March, Grace Kelly, and Mickey Rooney. Show time is 6:30, 8:20, 10:10. Saturday "From the Terrace" will be presented at 7:00 and 9:30.

The "Great Imposter" will be presented in the Jacob Sammelon Chapel after the game February 9.

The Augsburg College Choir, from Minneapolis, Minnesota, will be presented Monday, February 5, at the Trinity Lutheran Church. The Choir, directed by Leonard R. Sorenson, will begin its concert at 8:00. Featuring a varied a cappella repertoire, the choir each year includes premieres of new compositions by important living composers. The year's work has also included accompanied music in performances with the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra.

Farewell . . .

There are always a number of factors that determine a person's decision, and such is the case as I retire as Mooring Mast editor. I have been editor now for two semesters, and I feel that it's time to give someone else this challenging opportunity. I have found it difficult and sometimes impossible to effectively combine the jobs of being both a serious student and a good editor, due to the time required for each task. Also, there are other activities that I would like to devote my time to in the remaining semester of my senior year.

In this, my last article as editor of the Mooring Mast, I would like to thank my staff for the work they have done, Mr. Milt Nerrig, our advisor, and the many other people who have contributed in some way to the work of the paper.

Good luck to Mark Lono, your new editor. I am looking forward to reading the Mooring Mast this coming semester, as I know he has many good and new ideas for its publication.

Ann Haggart, editor

Washingtonians Urged to Vote

PLU's Washington students are again urged to register here in Parkland for their voting privileges. To be eligible for the next scheduled school election here in Parkland, students should register at the Parkland Light and Water Office on Garfield by February 10.

Mrs. Gloria Krueger, PLU book-store secretary and president of the Franklin Pierce Education Council, points out that by registering here students will be eligible to vote for local school elections, and for major national elections, right in the PLU gym.

In reference to the school elections, Mrs. Krueger explains that PLU depends upon the area's schools for the training its education students receive, and goes on to say, "the community and its schools support the college, so the college should support them."

These Washingtonians already registered in their home towns may very easily transfer their registration to Parkland, and then later back to their home town. Deadline for transfers, also transacted at the Parkland Light and Water office, is February 27.

Winning The Peace Is A Lonely Battle

It is now far too late to worry about this semester so I would suggest to every student that you begin now to make next semester a better one. Now is the time to decide that you will study and review every day rather than wait until the end of the term like so many have undoubtedly done. While the memories of this final week are in your mind, is a good time to decide not to procrastinate over during the remainder of the year. If we wish to be students, we must be students all the time and not just during final week.

I feel very strongly on this subject as I think that we definitely cheat ourselves out of an education by our preoccupation with grades alone. When one studies to gain the knowledge which any particular course has to offer, good grades will come as a natural result. It is possible to write an "A" text by cramming, but it is impossible to learn, to master, a subject by this method. When so much of what we shall do in our future academic work depends upon what we have learned in the past, how can we afford to try to get by with cramming? Grades are necessary for admittance to graduate school, but a knowledge of the subject material, gained through serious effort, are needed to keep a student there.

As we begin to think in terms of the coming semester, it is natural and necessary that the student body begin to think about possible candidates for student body offices. It is also necessary that we have more underclassmen attend our constitutional revision meetings because we are proposing an entirely different system for our student government. If it is to function, it will need people to operate it who are informed. We will post a schedule of the committee meeting times and urge you to attend as many meetings as possible.

We urge every student to formulate in his own mind the image of the kind of student leadership you want for next year. I believe, wholeheartedly, that student leaders on this campus must reflect the ideals for which this university stands. Our school is measured by the leaders it sends to student conferences. To a great extent, the tone of the campus can be influenced by its elected leaders. Please consider these few points as well as many others. Also, from my own experience, I not only urge, but demand, that the faculty refrain from entering into student politics. It is not a healthy situation to have members of the faculty tugging at the student body. If we have something to say to them, or they have something to say to us, the Faculty-Student Relations Committee of the student body president is the one to come to. I would hope that everyone knows where I stand on most issues, but I hope and pray that I do not have a closed mind, and will listen to anything you have to say that will benefit Pacific Lutheran. I hope that I am not so rigid that I cannot change for the better when I am shown that I am wrong, which I often am. It is up to you, the individual student, to see that student government runs properly. Through your constructive criticism we can strengthen and improve our student government, but through your griping, it will only become a useless form.

My best wishes to those who will leave us at the semester's close, as well as to all who will return. May God bless us all to His service.

Charles Mays,
ASPLU President.

Don't Throw It Away!

Stop! Don't throw it away! Save it for the Associated Women Students' rummage sale to be held February 15, 16, and 17 at 405 Garfield. Whether it be clothing, toys, books, or white elephants, contribute it to a worthy cause. Besides aiding others, this sale has a goal! All proceeds will go towards the AWS scholarship fund, which helps women students on campus. Raising money for the fund is one of the AWS' biggest projects.

Norine Radovich, chairman of the drive, stresses that all discarded articles in good shape can be used. Sub-chairmen in each of the dorms are helping her to collect rummage. These sub-chairmen are Louise Eden, West; Kathy Young, North; Karen Broecker, South; Marilyn Knudsen, Ivy; and Claudia Lewis, off-campus. If you would like to help on a committee, or if you know of anyone who has articles to contribute, please contact one of these girls.

Besides being a very worthwhile project, this rummage sale can be a lot of fun. Girls, urge all your friends to help build the AWS fund. Tell the new women transfer students about it too; it would be a good way to get acquainted.

February 15, 16, and 17 are the big days. Start planning for them now by bringing back rummage after the semester break.

by Karen Johnson, AWS

Dr. Eastvold's New Home Features Plants

PLU President Dr. S. G. Eastvold, scheduled to return home from his California vacation before next semester begins, has recently purchased his new retirement home. A unique feature of this new home is that Dr. Eastvold plans to landscape it with every one of the 40-plus plants mentioned in the Bible.

Dr. Eastvold's new home, part of the North Shore Beach Estates on the Salton Sea in Southern California, will therefore include in its garden such plants and flowers as the Joshua tree, the olive, the sycamore, the palm, the cedar, the Lily of the Valley, the Rose of Sharon, and the thorn bush.

Junior Varsity Earns Praise, Adds Strength First Squad

Although little publicity is given to the junior varsity teams in any sport, this year's Jayvees are worthy of mention, for they have compiled a record that is marred by only one defeat. That came at the hands of the McNeil Island Penitentiary team which they had previously defeated, and only by a three-point margin.

At this point they are tied with the McNeil team for the lead in the Tacoma City League, via the split between the two teams. Freshman Rolf Olsen has led the scoring during the team's play thus far, having taken the lead from sophomore forward Dennis McPoland with 25 points against the team from 2-J's Tavern on Monday night. And the play of sophomore center Jon Malmin, though of limited time in the games, has been a major factor in their success. Others who have contributed greatly to the sterling performances this season have been sophomores Mike Healy, Jerry Odsoether, and Pete Van Kooyenburgh.

With good reserve strength provided by outstanding freshmen and transfer students, the jayvees play an exciting brand of basketball, and early attendance at home games is consistently rewarded. Give them and yourself a bit of pleasure—come down to the games early and support the jayvees. You won't be sorry.

Malmin Is Valuable Sixth Man

by Ed Davis

One of the most important assets to any team is the presence of depth in reserve strength. Without the manpower to bring off the bench when needed, a team with a good first string cannot win consistently. One factor in the Lutes' success this season has been their holding of just such an asset in sophomore center Jon Malmin, who has been consistently the first reserve to come off the bench in tight competition. He can ably fill in at either the high or low post positions, and has developed a fine hook shot with either hand.

JON MALMIN

At nearby Franklin Pierce High School, Jon lettered three years in basketball. His senior year gained him the school's inspirational award and for his team a seventh place finish in the state tournament. That year he was also elected to the office of student body president at Franklin Pierce.

His scholastic standing is excellent, as is shown by the fact that he has been on the dean's list since enrolling at Pacific Lutheran. He is the son of Mr. Gunnar Malmin, professor of Latin and Norwegian and director of the Choir of the West. This year Jon is serving as president of the sophomore class, while pointing toward a major in chemistry. He is undecided how he will apply his major field as yet, in teaching or industry; however, he has settled on one immediate goal: a date with Darlene Dean.

Although he has been unable to break his career single-game scoring total of twenty-four points since coming to PLU, Jon has several times equalled it, especially with the junior varsity team, where last year he was awarded the first Jack Grauer Memorial Inspirational Award for the Tacoma City League. And from the looks of the start of this season, there will be more awards to come.

—The— Intramural Scene

This is the last time several of our intramural players will be reading this column as members of various IM teams. To those who are leaving after the finals of this semester I want to say "Good Luck" and I hope you take with you some fine memories of PLU.

The league leading Trainers of Basement defeated Delta this past week 52-61. Duane Weeks, who will be greatly missed, dumped in 16 points and maintained his average of 14.0. Bud Iversen was high scorer for the Trainers with 23 and was closely followed by Bill White with 22. Jerry Curtis, who has a 16.33 average, led the Delts with 17. Evergreen with a 6-2 record defeated Western 41-39. Western put up a good fight and outscored Evergreen from the field 13-14. But, Evergreen was allowed 13 points from the free throw line. Jerry Poppen led the Evergreen scoring with 11. Phil Praska with 23 points led Eastern to a 77-66 win over the Tippers. Jack Cocchi contributed 18 to the Eastern cause while Bob Roberts and Jim Sturdall dumped in 16 and 15, respectively, for the Tippers.

Eastern also was responsible for the big upset of the week, defeating the Trainers 44-42. Ron Hovey led the Eastern scoring with 12 as Basement's defense held Praska to 11.

The Bostlyk of 4th Floor have retained the B League lead by defeating 3rd place Bones 48-46. After being outscored 32-17 in the first half, the Bones broke through the Bostlyk defense and almost won as they outscored the Bostlyk 29-16 in the second half. Nate Stines led the Bostlyk scoring with 14 but was helped by Bud Krueger with 10. Dave Ness led the game scoring with 16 points, with 12 more added to the Bones' scoring by Ken Ekram. Four of the Hustlers hit the double figures in a victory over the Bombers of Evergreen. Dan Marken with 14 was high for the Hustlers while Dave Yokers, Orv Jacobsen and Roe Hatlard added 12, 10 and 10, respectively. John Hanson led the Bombers scoring with 15. The Rebs shot down the T-Birds 50-41. Jerry Weigand who is averaging 18.1 per game, led the scoring with 21. Bob Anderson had 17 for the Rebs and was helped by Emery Billings with 12.

The Vets must believe that they are still in a war as they continue to beat all comers. This past week found the Squires fall to the tune of 48-53. Jim Getchman led the Vets scoring with 13. George Mendeking gained the game honors with 15 which has given him a 13.0 average. To date, Monday night, the Vets are the only undefeated team in the IM program. The Radicals, whose only loss has been at the hands of the Vets, trounced the Trees of Evergreen 53-41. Jerry Larson topped the Radicals with 13, while three of his teammates hit 10 or more. Larry Farrar, the Harstad Hall transplant to Evergreen, had the game honors with 16 points. Steve Setterland, with more than half of his team's points, led the Finks to a 39-29 victory over Eastern C. Steve scored 8 the first half and dropped in 12 more the second half. Al James led the Eastern scoring with 12.

Ron Miller with 15 points led the first place Vikings to a 50-38 victory over the Blazers. Chuck Niemi and Dave Stein added 13 and 12 points to the Vikings' win. Terry Preenik led the Blazer scoring with 14. The Squiffers of Basement sneaked past the Scribes 26-25. Larry Peterson led the Squiffers scoring with 6 while Dave Holm of the Scribes gained the game honors with 10. On their next outing the Scribes soundly defeated the Drainers 27-18. This time it was Bill Erickson taking the honors with 8. The Dion romped past the Flunkies 50-24. Bruce Bidel scored 21 for the Dions and was helped by Louie Malang with 14. Dave Olson led the Flunkies with 12.

Steve Bibelbimer upset Duane Meake in semi-finals of the Intramural Table Tennis tournament. Duane said that Steve played the best game he has seen around this campus.

Knights Win Two; Now Lead League

Last night the Knights played Montana State and lost by a score of 65 to 61. Mary Fredrickson led the Knights with 18 points. The Knights had traveled by train for 32 hours and arrived only 8 hours before game time. . . . Edie Monson claims to be the most unathletic girl on the Pacific Lutheran campus; she is the only girl to kick at the Kickin Post and miss. . . . The entire starting five for our basketball team is shooting over 44 per cent. . . . It seems strange to me that anyone would try out for a position on our yell squad without the intent of being present at all or at least our home games. Our school is known for its spirit and surely a great deal of the responsibility lies with our pep squad. . . . Filmore Eger is now the proud owner of eight stitches which he got as a result of an ice skating trip to a small lake near school. . . . Jim Carlsberry showed little love for his former school as he played an outstanding floor game as well as scoring 14 points against Central Washington. . . . The basketball team will soon be strengthened by the addition of big John Stevens, a 6-foot, 8-inch transfer from Oregon. John can play high post, low post, forward, and will give the Knights some needed reserve power. . . . Newest rumor on the football coaching job has a Mr. Carlson, an assistant coach at Washington State, as our next coach here at PLU. . . . Bob Sprague, UPS center, played the part of Floyd Patterson, knocking out the Swede in our last game with the Logger team. Sprague caught Albertson with his elbow and Haza was down for a ten count and out for the rest of the game. . . . This last weekend the spirit of the fans at our two home games was just like old times, and our team repaid us for our support by two impressive wins and a spot at the top of the Evergreen Conference.

Pacific Lutheran's basketballers found themselves back on top of the Evergreen Conference this week for the first time in over a year. The last time the Lute egrets saw daylight above them was at the end of the 1958-60 campaign when they wound up in a first place tie with Western's Vikings.

An over-rested University of Puget Sound squad found the going a little too rough in Parkland last Friday as they were soundly bounced out of the league lead with an 88-65 beating at the hands of the Lutherans.

Saturday night the Lutes rock over sole possession of the league lead when they dumped Central Washington College 80-72 while UPS was being thoroughly outplayed by Western Washington 81-48 in Bellingham.

Sportsman Tackles Psychology

"The thing I'm most unfavorably impressed with is the rain, but all the other characteristics of the area make up for it," commented Dr. Victor Bolon, when asked how he liked the Puget Sound area. Dr. Bolon, a native of Clarkston, Washington, and his wife greatly enjoy life in the Pacific Northwest because it has so much to offer in the way of recreation. Also, the Bolons have many relatives "this side of the mountains."

Professor Bolon graduated from Connell High School as a three-year letterman in football, basketball, and baseball, and he carried his football enthusiasm with him to EWCE in Clincy. Dr. Bolon, who teaches General Psychology and Counseling, graduated from Central Washington College with a degree in biological science, and then went on to earn his Master's in Education from the same institution. While in Ellensburg working towards his Master's, Professor Bolon was a dormitory director.

Dr. Bolon received his Doctorate in Psychology in Education and Guidance from Colorado State College. He also attended San Jose State College and Oregon State.

Although this is his first semester of full-time college teaching, Professor Bolon is not a newcomer to the education field, for he taught fifth grade in Washougal, Washington, and elementary grades in San Leandro, California. An avid sportsman, Bolon coached three sports everywhere he taught.

Education is not Dr. Bolon's only field; he worked for the University of Washington as a fisheries biologist in Alaska in relation to his B.A. in Science. (Incidentally, Dr. Bolon feels that perhaps his most frustrating moment occurred in Kodiak, Alaska, when he was on board a ship that went aground hundreds of miles from civilization. For several harrowing hours he had the opportunity to observe "psychology in action," while rescue was an uncertainty.)

From 1950-54, PLU's new psychology professor served in the Marines and the Navy as a pilot in the Training Command out of Pensacola, Florida. He was stationed mainly along the Eastern Coast of the United States and in the West Indies.

Perhaps this is where Dr. Bolon first developed an interest in travel. He is also interested in reading, and his love of sports often takes him golfing, fishing and hunting. Professor Bolon may also be seen in the stands when the Knights defend PLU, for he is interested in a variety of spectator sports.

Dr. Bolon and his wife, a Seattle girl who is also in education, live in Lakeview. Their first child is on the way, and as long as it is hale and hearty, the Bolons have not placed any orders for either girl or boy.

Next semester Professor Bolon hopes to add to his schedule a seminar in Psychology and perhaps a class in General Psychology at McNell Island.

Dr. Bolon, welcome to PLU!
C.T.

DR. VICTOR BOLON

On The Spur

This coming Tuesday the governor of the state, Albert Rosellini, will appear on our campus at student body convocation. Regardless of your particular political sympathies and affiliations we should all take advantage of this opportunity to hear a man of his position speak.

It is unfortunate that the program comes during finals week, but as it would last no more than thirty minutes this would serve well as a study break.

I would like to urge every one of you to attend this program, as I'm sure it's a rare opportunity and one that you might never have again.

Also, it would look very poor for us as a school and a student body if just a few showed up to hear the governor speak.

Ann Haggart, editor

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"HELLO, LOUISE? WOULD YOU MIND PULLIN' YER SHADES?— I GOT AN 8-O'CLOCK CLASS TOMORROW!"

Mast Changes Mooring

Along with the many other changes next semester will bring is a major one on The Mooring Mast. Ann Haggart, editor for the past two semesters, is relinquishing her post to Mark Lono, present assistant editor.

Ann, a senior who will graduate this spring with a B.A. in English, has had quite a bit of experience in journalism both in high school and college, and she plans a career in journalistic education. At the present time Ann is working with the Keithley Junior High School paper staff.

From Southern California, this is Ann's fourth year at PLU. As much as she loves working on the Mooring Mast, Ann feels that with her forthcoming marriage and graduation, she would not be able to contribute enough time to the paper.

Her successor, sophomore Mark Lono, is also a major in English in the Education field. Reverend Lono, Mark's father, was vice-president of PLU when Mack was born, but for fifteen years the Lono's lived in Michigan.

Mark and his family moved back to Tacoma last year in time for him to begin his college career at PLU. He too has had extensive experience in publications, as well as in broadcasting.

Besides being editor of The Mooring Mast next semester, Mark will be busy working in the book store and playing trumpet in the band. Also, as editor of the paper, he will be a member of the Student Council.

Enthusiasm Is Contagious

"Yes, I loved it."

Dr. Stein was speaking of the sixteen years he had taught high school mathematics and science. These were years that he spent with an image before him—an image of an impressionable teen-ager named Lynn.

As a boy, Dr. Stein attended school at Killdeer, North Dakota. In his senior year, a Mr. Leon Johnson, newly graduated from Concordia College, came to teach chemistry. In his class Dr. Stein found a man whose enthusiasm for his subject seemed to be boundless. There was a sincerity about him that made his students realize he was interested in them not only as pupils, but also as individuals. This young teacher had a profound effect upon Dr. Stein who graduated from high school to do more work in chemistry at the college level.

Many eventful years passed—eventful for both teacher and student. The teacher became Dean of the Graduate School at Montana State College; the student received his M.A. from Montana State University. Yet, these two men did not forget one another. In 1961, Professor Stein received his Doctorate. Who bestowed it upon him? Dr. Johnson, the man who had been such an inspiration to an impressionable teen-ager named Lynn.

Today Dr. Stein is an instructor in Methods for the Secondary Teacher and a supervisor of Student Teaching here at Pacific Lutheran. His spare moments are filled with endless enjoyments; his interests range from hunting to reading historical novels. Also, there is always time for sports . . . and time to stop by to see if he can be of any assistance during turn-out as he did so often throughout football season.

Looking toward the future, he sees a time of traveling with his wife. However, Hawaii or Alaska will have to wait until their family is grown and through school. Sandy is a freshman here at the University, and Mary is a freshman in high school.

What does Dr. Stein like to see in a prospective teacher? "First and foremost, you must like to work with people and young folks in particular. Then, you must be enthusiastic in your own field, because enthusiasm is contagious. Above all, be fair in all your associations with your students."

And to what does Dr. Stein attribute the joy and security of his own life? "I think that a good wife and a fine home-life based on Christian principles are essential to success and happiness."

Dr. Stein, we are proud to have you with us.—N.S.
