A program of sacred, traditional and contemporary works will be featured during the ennual Choir of the West Homecoming Concert Thursday, April 22.

The 69 -voice choir, returning from an ll-day spring concert tour of six western states, will perform in Olson Auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

The program features the magnificent "Sinfonia Sacra" by contemporary composer Daniel Pinkham, a work that showcases both chorus and double brass choir. The concert repertoire encompasses 350 years of sacred classical music from Henrich Schutz's early l7th century "Song of Praise" to a. unique arrangement by Heinz Zimmerman of the familiar spiritual, "In That Great Gettin' Up Mornin'."

Zimmerman, a contemporary German composer, dedicated his arrangement to the memory of Dr. Martin Luther King. According to Skones, it is by no means a mere arrangement of a spiritual. "Anyone looking for the traditional melody will fail to find it. Zimmerman, inspired by touring American college choirs, has attempted to enliven the traditional words by every musical means at his disposal," Skones says.

Selections by Bach, Karl Heinrich Graun, Ralph Vaughn Williams, Samuel Barber and Norman Lockwood are also included in the program.

Tickets will be available at the door; those with PLU identification cards will be admitted free.

The popular Neil Simon comedy, "Star Spangled Girl," will be presented at PLU April 22-24 by the Alpha Psi Omega chapter at PLU.

The production directed by Scott Green, a senior from Enumclaw, will be held in Eastvold Auditorium beginning at 8:15 p.m. each evening.

Simon's play features two young publishers of a leftist newspaper who get involved in a triangle with a very patriotic, traditionally-oriented girl-next-door who also happens to be an Olympic swimming star.

The girl, Sophie, is played by freshman Mary Giesler. The two liberal journalists are portrayed by Tom Wagner and Don Poier. Wagner appeared this year in "A Christmas Carol" and was assistant director for "Bus Stop" recently. Poier, a freshman, is in his first major role at PLU.

Tickets are available at the University Center and at the door.

A one-day exhibition and sale of original prints by both old masters and contemporary artists will be held at PLU today (Friday) in the University Center Regent's Room.

The exhibition and sale is being offered by John Wilson of Lakeside Studio in Lakeside, Mich. Hundreds of prints are included, works by old masters Durer, Rembrandt, Pencz, Beham and Uns Graf, as well as contemporaries Appel, Braque, Miro and Picasso.

A percentage of the profits will go to the PLU art collection fund.

Wilson, who has made an old hotel at Lakeside into a printmaking studio and quarters for young artists, works with the artists and then sells their work through galleries, colleges and universities across the country. Many of the prints on exhibition are works by these young artists.

Tacoma Mayor Gordon Johnston writes:

"This summer more than 6,000 high school and college students, of whom at least l,200 have been classified as disadvantaged, will be looking for work. On the other hand, a recent survey of 1,168 Tacoma area businesses indicated that a total of 73 job openings will be available to them. These few jobs, plus those available through such programs as the Neighborhood Youth Corps, will fall far short of the need.
"In an attempt to alleviate this situation, a Youth Employment Task Force comprising the City, County, Tacoma Public Schools, the National Alliance of Businessmen and the Employment Security Department has been formulated to work developing methods of obtaining more jobs for students.

"What I would like to do is to help draw more attention to the problem and make it clearly visible to the students, public agencies, the business sector and the community alike. Only by focusing enough attention on this situation will we have a chance of solving it.
"I reviewed the summer job problem earlier this week at the annual Student Government Day event and asked for help from high school students in making the problem visible. I would like to ask your help also in requesting all college students to write me a letter telling me why they need a job. They have my promise that should enough letters be generated by this approach by all colleges and universities in the Tacoma area, I will do everything in my power to make sure that all potential employers are aware of them and use whatever influence I can to create additional employment.
"You could greatly help with the success of this campaign if you would use whatever methods you may have at your disposal to urge your students to write letters. The greater the number of letters we receive, the greater the impact we can make on the problem.
"Thank you for any efforts you may be able to undertake."
Very truly yours,
Gordon N. Johnston

NEWNHAM, GOOCH FEATURED IN LECTURERECITAL APRIL 27

A lecture-recital featuring Dr. Bryan Gooch of the University of Victoria and PLU baritone Fredrick Newnham will be held April 27 at 8 p.m. in Jacob Samuelson Auditorium.

The program is co-sponsored by the English and music departments.

The lecturer, Dr. Gooch, has been a member of the Department of English at Victoria for seven years. He is also well-known as a pianist, harpsicordist and conductor.

He has given many chamber music concerts in Canada and England and has been heard frequently on Canadian Broadcasting Corporation broadcasts.

The title of his April 27 lecture is "Harmonious Sisters: Elizabethan Secular Vocal Music." The talk will deal with both literary and music aspects of the madrigal and the ayre, and a number of examples of the latter will be sung by Prof. Newnham with Dr. Cooch at the piano.

The program is complimentary.

PLU, through the Department of History, recently became a sponsoring member of the Western History Association.

As a sponsoring member, the university has its name listed in the association's two scholarly publications, The American West and the Western Historical Quarterly. In addition, sponsorship will also be noted through the annual program, annual convention and all promotional literature.

Sponsorship enables PLU to join the ranks of major universities and research centers in the nation.
