Ann Tremaine Featured Soloist -

Final PLU Orchestra Concert May 5

Ann Tremaine, violinist, will be featured in a performance of the Mozart "Violin Concerto No. 3 in G Major," K. 216, Tuesday, May 5, 8:15 p.m., in PLU's Eastvold Auditorium as the Pacific Lutheran University Symphony Orchestra, Jerry Kracht, conductor, presents its fourth and final concert of the 1969-70 season.

Mrs. Tremaine, soloist, recitalist, and teacher at PLU is not new to Northwest music audiences. She has been soloist with many orchestras including the Portland Chamber Orchestra, the UPS-Tacoma Symphony, and the Bremerton Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Tremaine teaches string methods, chamber ensemble and violin and viola at PLU. She is presently working on her Master of Music degree in violin performance at the University of Washington studying with Emanuel Zetlin.

The Mozart she will perform is one of five violin concertos the young composer wrote in 1775, and one of the three that have come to be most well-known and loved. It is alternately high-spirited and poignant, always gracefully charming, Mrs. Tremaine comments.

Other works on Tuesday's program will be the Beethoven "Coriolan Overture," Op. 62, and the unique "Symphony No. 2" by the New Englander Charles Ives (1874-1954), a distinctively American composer whose highly original works have come only recently into great recognition and popularity. Mr. Kracht comments that the Second Symphony, composed between 1889 and 1901, is testimony to Ives' musical pioneering, and its performance on this program is calculated to end the season with a freshness and spirit befitting an American orchestra at an American university.

The concert is complimentary; no tickets are required.

DR. WIEGMAN ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF TACOMA AREA URBAN COALITION

President Eugene Wiegman of PLU was elected chairman of the Tacoma Area Urban Coalition at the organization's annual meeting and banquet held Monday noon at the Winthrop Hotel in Tacoma. He also gave the main address on the theme, "The Challenge Before Us."

Elected co-chairman to work with Dr. Wiegman was Jerome Crawford of the State Board Against Discrimination.

In his address Dr. Wiegman pointed out that the Coalition can be an agent to bring people together, and he called upon the citizens of the area to band together to insure that every citizen enjoys the rights which are his under the laws of the land.

He pointed to areas where the Coalition can direct its attention during the coming year. These include housing, attitude toward race, health, recreation, education and government.

"Equal education at all schools and levels of education is our goal," he said. "Specialized education for physically, socially and culturally handicapped must be provided now."

"The Coalition has a duty to support a government founded on the human principles of the dignity of man and worth of the individual. When the mayor, city councilmen and county commissioners move vigorously to meet the challenges of government, we shall support them," he stated.

Three PLU regents were elected to the Coalition's steering committee. They are Dr. Paul Bondo, Goodwin Chase and Conrad Petersen. Others from PLU elected were Robert Menzel, (CHOICE), Erling Mork (Community Relations & CHOICE), and Eric Strand (ASPLU). Dr. Wiegman, Chase, Menzel and Petersen were elected also to the executive committee.

Persons eligible for this charter are employees or officers of the University, students, alumni, and members of the immediate families of any of these categories.

For information about the flight contact Office of University Relations by the Information Desk in the Administration Building. Telephone: LEnox 1-6900, Ext. 229.

36th Annual PLU Mayfest Slated This Weekend

Gaily costumed folk dancers, 42 of them, will perform 22 dances representing nine different countries during the 36th annual Mayfest at PLU May 1-2.

The festivities will begin with the coronation of the May Queen in Olson Auditorium at 8 p.m. each evening. The queen is selected from among eight finalists and 16 candidates from women's residence halls on campus. The final selections are made by the student body.

Mayfest dancers have been practicing weekly since September. Included in this year's program will be Ukrainian, Portuguese, German, Israeli, Hawaiian and Scandinavian folk dances.

Specialty numbers will feature Norwegian instructor Audun Toven and students Kay Halvas, Ron Gintz, Linda Lee, Craig Evans, Sharon Weiss and Sandy Dimler.

The Mayfest dancers have performed at several area school assemblies, have been featured guests at the Mountaineer's Club in Seattle, the Pioneer Serviceman's Center in Tacoma, and several Scandinavian days programs in both cities.

Davis Strandemo will be the master of ceremonies. Co-chairmen for the event are Linda Nelson and Kay Halvas.

Tickets for the program are on sale at the PLU Information Desk.

ZURICH CHAMBER ORCHESTRA TO PERFORM AT PLU

The Zurich Chamber Orchestra will perform in Eastvold Auditorium at PLU Sunday, May 10, at 3 p.m.

The event is sponsored by the Tacoma Philharmonic Inc., to benefit the Tacoma Youth Symphony Swiss Tour Fund.

FOUR PLU ALUMNI AMONG NATION'S "OUTSTANDING YOUNG MEN"

Four Pacific Lutheran University alumni were selected for inclusion in the 1970 edition of "Outstanding Young Men of America," M. W. Davis, editor of the publication, announced this week.

They are John R. Fromm ('58), James L. Kittilsby ('60), Rev. Charles Mays ('62) and Rev. Erving S. Severtson ('55).

"Outstanding Young Men of America" is an annual biographical compilation featuring the accomplishments of approximately 5,000 young men of outstanding rank throughout the country. Nominations are made by Jaycee chapters, college alumni associations and military commanders.

Fromm, a star fullback and javelin thrower at PLU whose records in both football and track still stand, is currently football coach at Sealth High School in Seattle.

Kittilsby, former PLU baseball player, is currently administrative assistant to the general manager and director of scouting for the Milwaukee Brewers.

Rev. Mays, currently pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Fairfax, Va., was an athlete and student leader at PLU who served as student body president his senior year.

Severtson, associate professor of psychology at PLU, was also student body president and editor of the Saga yearbook during his undergraduate years.

This is the first appearance in the Northwest for the outstanding international orchestra.

Tickets are $3 for adults, $1.50 for students, and may be purchased by check or money order. Send to: Zurich Chamber Orchestra, c/o Tacoma Philharmonic, Inc., P. O. Box 905, Tacoma.

IKE & TINA TURNER

Ike & Tina Turner Revue Performs In Olson May 7

The Ike and Tina Turner Revue, one of the most lively and exciting shows on the entertainment circuit today, will appear in Olson Auditorium Thursday, May 7, at 8:15 p.m.

Song, dance, movement and sound are the main features of this entertainment program. Tina Turner is the lead singer and dancer, along with the Ikettes. Ike is in charge of the band and the show production.

The combo, which began performing together in 1957, has had a number of hit records, including "I'm Blue," "Peaches 'N Cream," and "I'm So Thankful."

The program, sponsored by the ASPLU Entertainment Series, is the final student-sponsored program of the school year.

Tickets are on sale at the PLU Information Desk.

PLU Column To Appear In Parkland Times-Journal

Beginning next week the PLU News Bureau will be preparing a weekly column for the Parkland Times-Journal entitled "Campus Communique."

The intent of the column is to help build bridges between the campus community and the Parkland-Spanaway community.

Hopefully the format will include a featurette about a PLU person or group active in community affairs, a couple of short news items and a calendar of events taking place that week. It is not intended to replace, but rather to amplify, normal news coverage.

To make the column worthwhile, it is important that we receive tips concerning the activities of faculty, staff and students in the local area. Examples might include scouting activities, Little League sports, day care work, service clubs or projects, church work, special hobbies or pastimes and the like. Projects involving the local schools, Franklin Pierce, Washington, Roger, etc., are also fine items.

Any member of the family may be included. No item is too small for consideration. Just try to let us know! Call Jim Peterson, ext. 300, or drop a note at the Office of University Relations.

Noted Organist - Composer To Appear In Concert May 8

Dr. Paul Manz, noted organist, composer, and church musician will be presented in an organ recital at 8 p.m. Friday, May 8, at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Two Bach works and one of Manz's own compositions will be among the program features.

Currently chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Concordia College in Saint Paul, Minn. Dr. Manz's training has included study in Belgium with Flor Peeters and in Germany with Helmut Walcha under a Fulbright Grant. He has played many recitals on the European continent, and has concertized extensively in North America, including a three month tour with Roger Wagner Chorale in 1964 as guest organist. He has made frequent television appearances and has recorded for several companies. His church compositions for choir and organ are internationally known.

The recital is made possible by Pacific Lutheran University, with the help of Trinity Lutheran Church and the Tacoma Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. A free-will offering will be received to help meet expenses. A reception for Dr. Manz will follow the recital.

LUTE BASEBALLERS
GRAB FIRST VICTORY

It couldn't go on forever. Lute baseballers had been close many times, but the losses continued to pile up. 17 this year; 19 straight the past two years.

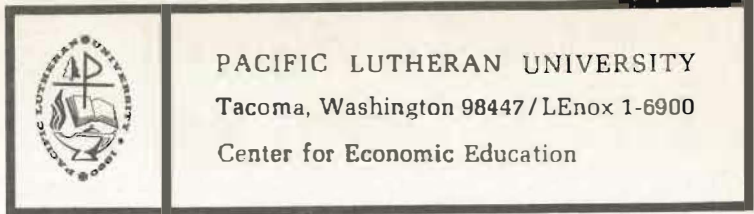

But Saturday fortunes changed. After losing the first game of a double-header to Whitman 6-0, the Lutes came back in the second game to whip the Missionaries 6-5 with freshman Dave Bennett picking up the win in relief.

Bennett held the hosts scoreless the final five innings while the Lutes rebounded from a 5-2 deficit. They scored three runs in the third inning to tie and scored the deciding run in the fifth when Ron Toff scored from third on an error.

FACULTY
SUPPLEMENT

Submitted by:
Dr. Richard Moe
Dean

MEMORANDUM

TO: Dean Anderson and Members of the Economics Department
FROM: Marshal B. Enderby
DATE: April 13, 1970

The Regional Economic Conference was noteworthy for its discussion of the environment and economic development. Dr. James Crutchfield and others stressed financial incentives (effluent charges) as an efficient means of at least greatly reducing pollution. The key problem was seen as defining what objectives we seek for air and water quality - specifically of assessing marginal damage functions (as has been done in St. Louis), of delineating the costs of alternative means of reducing or eliminating pollutants, and of specifying the opportunity costs of reducing or eliminating pollution. Marginal cost pricing (effluent charges) was viewed as the most efficient means of reducing pollution, with the setting of flat standards taking a second-hand role (though in many cases an important one). It was strongly argued that unless we can specify damage functions, we cannot make rational control decisions.

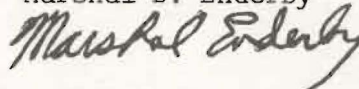

Considering equity, Dr. Streup concluded that the funds collected from charges or fines could be transferred directly to those who are hurt, but that a more efficient means would be to reduce the property taxes of the damaged parties.

Dr. Crutchfield concluded that the heart of the economist's contribution lies in hammering at the existence of externalities and how to deal effectively with them.

Another informative session dealt with the planned Seattle Income Maintenance Experiment. Dr. Spiegelman of Stanford Research Institute, described the plan as a negative income tax as proposed by James Tobin (i.e., Friedman's proposal with some supporting services mainly for manpower training). The program would offer a base support of $1600 for a family of four, with a tax of 50% for additional earned income. The research is being designed to answer this question: Given the introduction of a negative income tax, how much of a manpower program will have to be introduced to stop the recipients from reducing their work effort? The program is scheduled to last from 3 to 4 years, that being viewed as a sufficiently "long term" time horizon from the recipients point of view, so their income will be "permanent" rather than "transitory".

I felt the conference was worthwhile in terms of the knowledge presented, and recommend that someone represent the Economics Department again next year.

Marshal B. Enderby

NWC Track Meet Hosted By PLU This Weekend

PLU trackmen, winners of four out of five dual meets this season (if you count weekend's suspended meet with UPS it's five out of six), are among the favorites to win the Northwest Conference Track and Field Meet this weekend at Spanaway Park.

The Lutes are rated a good chance of ending Lewis and Clark's domination. The Pioneers have won the last three meets and nine of the last 11.

Also joining the Pioneers and Lutes on the all-weather track will be Willamette, Linfield, Pacific, Whitman and College of Idaho.

Friday will be devoted entirely to preliminary heats in the sprints and hurdle events, with qualifying beginning at 2 p.m.

Field events get underway Saturday at 1 p.m. with running event finals beginning at 2 p.m.

Coach Paul Hoseth's Lutes lead the conference or share leadership in six events. So do the Pioneers, in the 24th year under Eldon Fix.

This past week's only schedule meet, against UPS, was halted halfway through due to cold, rain (snow?) and muddy track conditions. At the time PLU was leading 45-22. The meet will be completed at a later date.
