Tuition, Salary Raises Approved By Regents; Budget Up 10 Percent

Goodwin Chase, Tacoma business leader, was elected to a three-year term on the PLU Board of Regents when the governing board of 27 persons met on the campus Tuesday.

President of the National Bank of Washington, Chase is also active in state educational and cultural circles. He is chairman of the State Commission on Higher Education.

The regents adopted an operating budget of $6,374,600 for the 1970-71 school year, a 10 per cent increase over the present year. Most of the increase will go into salary raises for faculty, administrators and employees of the University. The average increase per staff employee will be eight per cent. Largest raise will be in the area of full professors who will get an average boost of 12 per cent. Associate professors will average 8 per cent, assistant professors 7 per cent, instructors 8 per cent, and administrators 8.3 per cent. For all faculty ranks the average increase comes to 8.6 per cent.

Artist Series Presents Vienna Choir Boys Concert

Vienna Choir Boys, probably the world's most beloved choir, will appear in concert at Pacific Lutheran University Thursday, Feb. 19.

The performance, third of four attractions offered this season by the PLU Artist Series, will be held in Olson Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. The unique program includes costumed operettas, sacred songs, secular and folk music, maintaining a tradition that began 450 years ago.

The history of the Vienna Choir Boys dates back to July 7, 1498, when the Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian I, the great patron of the arts, ordered his Chamberlain to acquire and maintain "singers" for the Court Chapel in Vienna.

The Choir began touring initially in the 17th Century. The first trip to the United States came in 1932, and the current 22-voice choir features the 24th group of youngsters to tour the U. S. since. The school is divided into three choirs for touring purposes and each unit receives an opportunity to visit the numerous countries on the choir's itineraries.

Boys performing with the current tour range from eight to 14 and are products of the finest supervision in Vienna. Before enrollment is possible in the organization, which is equivalent to a school, the prospective choir boys must pass rigid examinations of their scholastic ability and musical talents.

The Vienna Choir Boys were featured in Walt Disney's hit "Almost Angels," in "Cinerama," and have recorded extensively on several labels. The Boys have appeared with Perry Como, and other special television shows. They once made a surprise appearance at the Metropolitan Opera's New Year's Eve gala performance of "Die Fledermaus." Their current tour is taking them to 50 North American cities.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at the PLU Information Desk.

ROUNDTABLE

RONALD JORGENSEN (ed.) and CHARLES PETERSON (bus. ad.) were recently elected to the board of trustees of the Lutheran Welfare Society. . . Peterson will serve as treasurer; Jorgenson has been named to the social services board. . . HARRY ADAMS (phys.), also a trustee, was elected to the Good Samaritan Hospital board. . . DONALD R. FARMER (pol. sc.) was recently elected president of the 25th District Republican Club. . . he is a former county chairman and has long been active in GOP politics. . .

Mayall Concert Monday To Benefit Choir Tour

Singer John Mayall, often described as the "father figure of British blues," will appear in concert at Pacific Lutheran University Monday, Feb. 16.

The performance, which will be held in Olson Auditorium at 8 p.m., is sponsored by the PLU Choir of the West to raise funds for the organization's concert tour of Europe this summer.

Mayall, currently organizing a tour of all the major countries in the world, is one of the "originals" on the British music scene. Though until recently he has been largely unknown outside of Britain and the music industry, he has been a friend and mentor to many of the musicians who have given the present power and prestige to British music.

Now on the threshold of major recognition with his current group, Mayall has achieved his status by long dedication to America's major contribution to music forms, the blues, and by maintaining a policy of seeking musicians for their ability and enthusiasm.

Tickets for the concert are available at Bon Marche and the PLU information desk.

Faculty members will receive nine-month contracts and administrators work on a 12-month basis.

To meet the increased cost of operation which also includes rising food costs and maintenance operation, President Eugene Wiegman of PLU stated that tuition for next year will increase from $1,200 to $1,400. Board and room costs will be $950 for the year and fees $150 for a total of $2,500 per student. This cost includes education for two full semesters plus the interim term of one month in January.

In order to assist needy students Dr. Wiegman stated that the financial aid budget has been increased proportionately with the raise in cost. Student employees will receive a 10 per cent increase in their hourly wage.

The Rev. Theodore Brueckner of Beaverton, Ore., chairman of the regents, presented a gift of $3,000 for scholarships from his congregation, St. Matthew's Lutheran Church. To be given over a period of three years ($1,000 per annum), the scholarship money is designated for the use of minority students.

It was reported that the construction on the $3.3 million University Center is on schedule and it is expected that the building will be ready for use in the fall. The present College Union will be converted into facilities for the School of Nursing and the Department of Art and an art gallery. This total project will cost approximately $500,000, and it is anticipated that the conversion will begin in September.

In the area of student life the regents approved in principle a pilot project for coeducational housing in residence halls where space, construction and costs of conversion are feasible. The plan means the assignment of both men and women to the same living unit into rooms separated from the opposite sex by either wings or floors. "Such a hall would allow both sexes to utilize certain common facilities, particularly lounges, kitchens, laundry and vending equipment," stated Dr. Daniel Leasure, vice president for student affairs. "This program has been under study for several years," Dr. Leasure stated, "and we expect it to involve between one and two hundred students the first year."

He further stated that a weekend visitation policy was adopted which will permit a residence hall occupant to invite a member of the opposite sex to visit his or her room. Each house or hall on the campus is allowed to establish visiting hours it desires within the general policy by a three-fourths majority secret ballot of the residents. This was recommended by the regents as a pilot project for one semester beginning at once.

A. Dean Buchanan, vice president for business and finance, reported that over 2,100 full-time students had completed their registration in the business office for the spring semester which began Monday. He further reported that 1,964 students attended the interim during January despite the fact that attendance was not required.

Religious life on campus received much attention from the regents. A complete study of the roles of the University Chaplains and the Student Congregation was authorized and a report is to be made at the May 11 meeting of the regents.

The regents directed that an attempt be made to create an overall new Christian worship, fellowship and service format on the campus which involves present and new forms.

An All-University Commission was established to advise the President on policies that affect the entire university. A unicameral body, it includes 18 persons.

Thompson-Dahl Two-Organ Recital In Tower Chapel Sun.

A unique recital of music for two organs will be presented at PLU on Sunday, Feb. 15, in the Tower Chapel of Eastvold Auditorium.

The recital will be played by the two organ instructors at the university, Mrs. Mary Helen Thompson and Mr. David P. Dahl.

The program will consist entirely of organ music from the late Baroque period, including works by Friedemann, Bach, Antonio Soler, Francois Couperin and Gaspard LeRoux.

Two small pipe organs will be used for the recital. One is the seven stop two manual Bosch organ, built in Germany, permanently located in the Tower Chapel; the other instrument is a new portable "Portativ" organ of two stops, built by Olympic Organ Builders in Seattle. Both organs are classic voiced instruments with mechanical key and stop action.

The recital will be offered twice on Sunday afternoon due to the limited seating in the Tower Chapel; performances will be given at 4:00 p.m., and 5:30 p.m. The recital is complimentary and open to the public.

Those attending the recital will also be invited to an open house in the studio of Mr. David P. Dahl, located directly below the Tower Chapel. Visitors will have the opportunity to see Mr. Dahl's newly installed eight stop studio pipe organ, recently completed and installed by Olympic Organ Builders.

ANNUAL HIGH SCHOOL ONE-ACT
PLAY FESTIVAL AT PLU THIS MONTH

Approximately 150 high school students from 16 schools in Pierce and King counties will be on the PLU campus this weekend and the weekend of Feb. 20-21 for the annual one-act play festival sponsored by Alpha Psi Omega.

Each school prepares a play to be performed in competition based on an assigned category. This year's category is "tragic comedy."

Performers are graded entirely on how they perform the literature.

Profs. Theodore Karl and Richard Arnold will serve as adjudicators, along with Dennis Goin, former PLU student now teaching at Curtis High School.

Awards for the top three plays and top three performers will be given each week.

SENESEH TO DISCUSS ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL EDUCATION HERE

Prof. Larry Senesh, professor of economic education at the University of Colorado will discuss "Economic and Social Studies Education as it relates to the Washington State Curriculum Guide" in an address at Barlo's Restaurant Monday, Feb. 16. The dinner is at 6:30 p.m., with the main address at 7:15 p.m.

The address is being offered by the PLU Center for Economic Education in cooperation with the American Economy program.

Professor Senesh is a renowned economics and social studies educator, and is also the author of SRA's "Our Working World Curriculum," a series of inter-related classroom components which orchestrate economics.

Lutes To Close Out Home Season Saturday

Putting on their best offensive display of the season, Coach Gene Lundgaard's Knights blasted Whitman and College of Idaho last weekend.

The 105-70 win over the Missionaries and a carbon copy 99-70 victory over the Coyotes gave the Lutes their 12th and 13th victories of the season, almost assuring themselves of a 23rd consecutive winning season. Six regular season games remain on the schedule, including Wednesday's clash with University of Puget Sound.

As has been the case all season, both wins were team efforts. Leroy Sinnes hit 19 in both contests to give him 1,185 for his career, eight points shy of eighth place on the all-time PLU scoring lists.

Al Kollar had 17 in two games to move him into sixth place with 1,221 points.

Kevin Miller missed only one of 15 shots Friday to record 19 points against the Missionaries; Ralph Whitman missed only one of 17 the following night for a game high 23 counters.

This Friday the Lutes will get a chance to avenge a one-point loss to Lewis and Clark and close out the conference season against Willamette Saturday.

LUTE GRIDDERS TO BE HONORED FOR SELECTION ON ALL-LUTHERAN TEAM

Four PLU football players will be honored during halftime at the PLU-Willamette basketball game Saturday as a result of their selection to the 1969 All-Lutheran College Football Team.

They are safety Tim Chandler, a senior, who was named to the first team; junior halfback Dave Halstead and senior tackle Rick Johnson, both named to the second team; and Duane Oyler, senior center, who received honorable mention.

The selections are announced annually in the Lutheran Brotherhood Bond magazine.
