

VOL. 9 NO. 22 Pacific Lutheran University, March 19, 1971

Distinguished Poet Reads Here Tonight

Robert Bly, poet, critic and political activist.

See page 3. . .

ROUNDTABLE

Art Martinson (hist.) is the author of an extensive article in The American West magazine entitled The Story of a Mountain. . . a pictorial history of Mt. Rainier National Park, the article is in the March issue, available in the library. . . Martinson and Jim Halseth have been named adjunct professors for a summer session at Moorhead State Teacher's College. . . Dorothy Cone and Lois Jacobson (nurs.) were at Wayne State University in Detroit Mar. 1-4 for a workshop on systems theory. . . the trip was made in connection with the School of Nursing's curriculum study project. . . Bill Hutcheon (bus.) attended a World Trade Club of Seattle meeting March 9. . . Welcome to Carolyn Loen, new secretary in the Registrar's office. . . and Kathy Jaeger, new employee in Data Processing. . . Ted Karl (comm. arts) will be in Houston next week as chairman of the Pi Kappa Delta National Forensics Convention. . . Richard Capp (comm. arts) will also be there with a debate team for the national tournament. . . John Petersen (rel.) is the new chairman of the interim committee, succeeding Burton Nessel (chem.). . . Maurice Skones (mus.) directed a combined high school chorus during Seattle Public School's Fine Arts Festival Music and Dance Concert this week at the Seattle Opera House. . . Phil Beal (stud. aff.) is a member of the coordinating council for drug education of Pierce County. . . he spoke to the drug education steering committee of Buckley recently. . . Stewart Govig's (rel.) review of Paul Tillich's My Travel Diary is in the February issue of the Lutheran Quarterly. . . Don Farmer (pol. sci.) is president of the Pierce County Farm Forestry Association which hosted the state farm forestry association's annual meeting at the Sherwood Inn last weekend. . . the PLU Ambassador Quartet sang at the Association's Friday banquet. . . Vern Stintzi (bus.) is researching management problems in public schools with the cooperation of the Federal Way school district . . . he was also quoted extensively in a major article on welfare which appeared in last Sunday's TNT. . . Dwight Zulauf (bus.) recently conducted a professional seminar for members of the National Accounting Association local chapter at the Doubletree Inn, Tukwila. . . Gundar King (bus.) was appointed visiting professor of management, Naval Post-graduate School, Monterey, Cal., for 1971-72. . . his work at the Navy's "private M.I.T." will combine the development and teaching of a course in government procurement with his studies of cost and pricing techniques for the Commission on Government Procurement. . . Ken Johnston, as member of the core planning committee, Marjorie Mathers, Alice Napjus and Florence Orvik (all educ.) are working with the Franklin Pierce School District on a major model instruction system proposal entitled Project Promise. . . Dr. Burton Ostenson (earth sciences, bio.) attended the North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference in Portland, March 9 and 10. He participated in a panel discussion on the training of wildlife biologists.

* * * * *

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

For decades to come, centuries will pass. --Pat Paulsen

* * * * *

BIRTHDAYS

Della Arkell and Samuel Carleton	March	22
Irene Creso and Dawn Hill		24
Katherine Bailey and Agnes Brynstad		26
Joan Longrie and Faye O'Keilly		27

* * * * *

FOR SALE

'65 Yamaha 80cc $150. good condition. Also 17' aluminum "Smoker" canoe in excellent condition plus paddles, seat cushions and car Carrier $150. LE 1-6900, Ext. 404; evenings LE 1-0627.

* * * * *

POET ROBERT BLY TO READ AT PLU

The works of Robert Bly, poet, critic and political activist, will be read by the poet himself at Pacific Lutheran University Friday, March 19.

The complimentary program will be held in Olson Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. It is the highlight of a three-day Bly visit that includes discussions and readings in a number of PLU and Tacoma public school classes.

Bly, winner of the National Book Award for 1968, is known for his early activity in the anti-war movement. He was instrumental in the founding of American Poets against the Vietnam War and has engaged in a number of protests including the refusal of a $5,000 government grant because he believed the government was engaged in genocide.

Beyond his political activity, Bly has gained reputé as editor of a magazine called "The Seventies" (formerly "The Sixties" and before that, "The Fifties"). The magazine has published many European and South American poets for the first time in this country, due primarily to Bly's translation efforts.

Bly has struggled to return American poetry to the mainstream of international literature. His fight against the intellectualization of poetry has pervaded his own work as well as his life style; he is one of the few poets who is not engaged in teaching, but rather derives his living entirely from readings across the country.

He has published two books of verse, "Silence in Snowy Fields" and "The Light Around the Body," as well as numerous translations of the works of foreign poets.

PLU UNIVERSITY
THEATRE PRESENTS
"BUS STOP"

The final two performances of "Bus Stop," a former popular movie and Broadway hit, will be recreated tonight and Saturday by the University Theatre. Curtain rises at 8:15 in Eastvold Auditorium. William Parker, a member of the communications arts faculty, directs the production.

Written by William Inge, "Bus Stop" is a story about a busload of travelers marooned in a small roadside diner in the middle of a snowstorm. It is at times a heartwarming drama as well as a hilarious comedy.

Kathy Beller, a freshman from Kalispell, Mont., portrays the "kidnapped" nightclub singer Cherie, a role made famous by the late Marilyn Monroe. A sparkling blonde majoring in mathematics, Kathy appears on stage for the first time since she was in the third grade.

A Bremerton junior, Randy Grams, plays Bo, the conceited cowboy who spirits Cherie away, intent on matrimony. Don Murray played the movie role. Randy appeared in "Between Two Thieves" at PLU earlier in the year.

Penny Fishbeck of Tacoma, a PLU drama veteran, plays Grace. A former member of the Century Singers night club act, Phil Randoy, has returned to PLU after six years as a professional entertainer and plays the role of Carl. Phil starred in "Song of Norway" at PLU several years ago.

Others in the cast are Gayle Duggar, Chuck Nordquist, Brett Rodgers and Frank Calsbeek.

Tickets for the three performances are on sale at the University Center ticket office or may be purchased at the door.

* * * * *

FAMOUS PRESERVATION
HALL JAZZ BAND
SCHEDULED FOR CONCERT

The musicians who created jazz, blending ragtime and spirituals into a sound uniquely American, will perform at PLU Friday, April 16.

They are members of the Preservation Hall Jazz Band of New Orleans. All of them are over 60 now and have been playing "their" music for 40 years, but the spirit, the joy and the simple happiness that is so much a part of New Orleans jazz is still there.

The program, which will be held in Olson Auditorium, is co-sponsored by Tacoma Allied Arts and PLU. Members of the Allied Arts kicked off their ticket sale earlier this week.

Preservation Hall in New Orleans was originally a place where these original musicians could get together and play for their own pleasure primarily. Now it is a place where people from all over the world pack the benches each night to hear the music as it was played when it was created, and bands are traveling all over the world to bring this music to audiences everywhere. It truly preserves New Orleans jazz, and makes possible the tours that include a stop in Tacoma.

* * * * *

SYMPOSIUM ON LATIN AMERICA SLATED FOR
MARCH 25-26

Dr. Thomas McGann, author of several books on Latin American studies and editor of the "Latin American Research Review," will keynote the annual spring symposium at PLU March 25-26. The symposium, dealing with the problems of Latin America, has been developed to bridge gaps in knowledge and understanding between PLU students and our hemispheric neighbors, according to chairman Peter Sandvig.

It is one of a continuing series of symposiums sponsored by the student body and supported in part with funds made available by the PLU Alumni Association. Other recent programs in the series include the symposium on world hunger last spring and the fall 1970 symposium on drugs and drug abuse.

The two-day program will survey Latin American history and culture, along with economic and social problems. Preceding the lecture series there will be a movie marathon March 20, providing a visual grasp of some of the conditions in Latin America.

Dr. McGann will speak on "Latin America--Unity in Variety--Tradition in Modernization." Also on the program are Duane Howe, missionary to Latin America; Father Garcia, a Catholic priest who has helped organize the Golconda Indians in Columbia; Dr. Mario Faye, a Chilean; and George St. John Robinson, a Spanish professor at PLU who has lived in several Latin American countries.

Panel and group discussion topics include Chile, Economic Development, the Role of the Peace Corps, Literature, and the Arts, U.S.--Latin American Relations and The Future of Latin America.

* * * * *

FACULTY WIVES'
PROGRESSIVE DINNER
SCHEDULED

Italian cuisine will be featured at the Faculty Wives' progressive dinner for couples Friday, March 26, at 6:30 p.m. Couples will begin the evening with appetizers at several faculty homes and then progress to the north dining room at the University Center for the entrée. Dessert and conversation will follow at several more faculty homes.

All faculty couples are invited to attend this interesting event. The cost per person is $1.50 for the entrée. Call reservations into Nancy Severtson, LE 7-0534 or Jean Nasset, LE 7-7678 before March 22nd.

* * * * *

CHOIR OF THE WEST
PLANS MINI-TOUR

The PLU Choir of the West, directed by Maurice Skones, leaves on a four-day mini-tour of three states Tuesday, March 23.

Concerts will be presented in Kennewick and Yakima, Wash., Baker, Ore., and Boise, Id.

* * * * *

SCHNACKENBERG PLANS
SERIES OF CONFERENCES IN SOUTHEAST ASIA

Dr. Walter C. Schnackenberg, chairman of the history department, will leave for Vientiane, Laos, in mid-April for a series of curriculum development conferences.

His journey will also include similar stops in Osaka, Tokyo and Kyoto, Japan; Bangkok, Thailand; and Hong Kong.

Dr. Schnackenberg will represent the Franklin-Pierce School District, which he serves as president of the school board. Accompanying him will be Ruth Gaume, elementary curriculum director for the FPSD.

The trip is the result of a relationship developed with Laos by FPSD over the past year at the request of the U.S. State Department, sponsor of the trip.

Discussions will be concerned with the role of the board of directors and educational and curriculum policy. The Laotian administration is seeking advice on improving educational administrative systems.

Schnackenberg plans to be away until the first part of May.

* * * * *

DORIS MCCARTY
ACCEPTS NEW POST

Doris McCarty, PLU bookstore manager for the past seven years, will be leaving at the end of this month to become manager of the bookstore at Evergreen State College in Olympia.

We were sorry to hear that her husband, Tom, has been seriously ill this past week. While his illness was not foreseen at the time her decision was made, the new job will enable Doris to be closer to home. The McCarty's live near Lacey.

With fond memories we wish you all the best, Doris.

ACHEPOHL PRINT SERIES
GETS WIDE RECOGNITION

Color intaglio prints by Keith Achepohl (art), selected from a new series called House and Garden, are currently being seen in a number of print exhibitions across the country.

The Honolulu Academy of Fine Arts selected House and Garden I for its first juried competitive national exhibition of prints from throughout the U.S.

House and Garden I and III were selected by Boston Printmakers for its annual juried exhibition at the Cordova Museum. H & G I is also seen at the Henry Gallery in Seattle as part of the "7 From Washington" exhibition, and at the Seattle Art Museum, where the print was purchased for the permanent collection.

H & G III is also part of a traveling exhibition sponsored by the Smithsonian Institution, and is on display at invitational exhibit of west coast printmakers presented by the Achenbach Foundation for Graphic Art, in San Francisco.

H & G IV has been accepted for a juried exhibition at the Philadelphia Print Club.

* * * * *

WHO'S WHO ON CAMPUS
(Registrar's Office)

Loleta Espeseth

Nancy Burroughs

Chuck Nelson

Ann Westendorf

Carolyn Loen and Carmie Challengren

Florence
Price

Karolyn
Kain

* * * * *

PLU INVITATIONAL RELAYS SLATED FOR
MARCH 20

After an abbreviated season opener last week, with three contestants participating in the Pullman Indoor Relays, the Lutes make their track and field season home debut Saturday when they host the first annual PLU Invitational Relays at Spanaway's Sprinker complex. The first gun will sound at 1:30 p.m.

Seattle Pacific, Simon Fraser, Western, and Puget Sound will compete in the unique total relay meet. All events, including the field events, will be scored on a relay basis. Lute Coach Paul Hoseth said, "The purpose of this relay structure is to encourage full team participation."

A special award will be presented during the meet to Sterling Harshman, dean of the South Puget Sound track coaches, and former Lute standout. Harshman, whose 9.7-100 dash and 21.7-220 marks have held up as PLU records since 1942, will be presented with an Honorary Referee Award for his outstanding contributions to the sport. Harshman, whose son, Steve, is a Lute co-captain, coaches at Puyallup High School.

Last week, Carl Peterson heaved the shot 49 feet 6 3/4 inches, a personal best effort, good enough for second place in the WSU meet. Phil Tundel, defending Northwest Conference javelin champion and Glen Higgins, standout sprinter, did not place in their specialities.

Hoseth voices restrained optimism that the Lutes, with eighteen lettermen back, will be strong in NWC competition. The Lutes will be heavy in some of the field events but will be lacking in depth in distance and sprints.

* * * * *

LUTES HOST UW FRIDAY
IN DIAMOND OPENER

University of Washington and Pacific Lutheran, losers to the elements in pre-season play, vacate the climatized field houses this week to face the harsh realities of the wet and cold outside world in preparation for the diamond opener at PLU Friday at 2 p.m.

After six weeks of practice, the young Lutes, with only seven veterans back on a 28 man squad, have yet to set foot on the quagmire which vaguely resembles an infield, but interest runs high and bats have been booming in the eighty foot indoor batting cage.

Hoping to bounce back from a lowly 2-23 record, the Lutes will pin their pitching hopes on the sleeves of righthanders Ron Jones, Dave Bennett, and Warren Pietras, who return from the 1970 cast, plus transfer Dan Ruud and freshman Doug Sackville.

LUTES TEE OFF MARCH
18-19 AT SPANAWAY

The Lutes open conference play at home on Friday, March 26 hosting Whitman.

* * * * *

Coach Gene Lundgaard's golf team, one of the top-ranked links squads in the conference, entertain Lewis & Clark, Linfield, Pacific and Willamette in the Northwest conference Tee Off Tourney at Spanaway. Action gets underway at 1 p.m.

The following day, Oregon College of Education joins the aforementioned schools in the first round of the Northwest Small College Golf Classic with tee off at 1 p.m.

Junior Rick Alflen, from Puyallup, returns as the Lutes' top swinger, while Jeff Spere, Lynn Pottit, and Steve Koukles provide stiff competition.

* * * * *

LUNDGAARD, LUTE CAGERS
RECEIVE HONORS

PLU Coach Gene Lundgaard, who pulled his squad from the doldrums of a 1-7 record in late December to a 15-14 finish, and in so doing earned for PLU the Northwest Conference Championship, was named last week as Northwest Small-College Coach of the Year by members of the news media in a five state area.

Accolades were also bestowed upon Ake Palm, a unanimous choice for All-Conference first team honors in the NWC. Palm, the Lutes' 6-8 junior center, was a second team selection as a freshman and honorable mention pick a year ago.

Backcourt whiz Tom Patnode was a second team selection, while Greg Freitag, Roger Wiley, Mike Willis, and Dennis Phillips were honorable mention.

Palm, whose 16.0 point average sparked the Lutes, was also named Honorable Mention on the Little All-Northwest team and was similarly recognized on the NAIA District I All-Star team.

* * * * *

Gene Lundgaard