

Dr. George Forell To Present Final Lecture Tonight

MOORING MAST

VOLUME XLII FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1966 — PACIFIC LUTHERAN UNIVERSITY NUMBER 7

Brothers Four To Sing Tomorrow

Tomorrow night marks the first appearance of a nationally known folk-singing group on the PLU campus. Arrangements only recently completed have brought the Brothers Four for a special concert at 10 p.m. in the Memorial Gymnasium, immediately after the PLU-Eastern Washington State College football game at Lincoln Bowl.

Well known to nearly every college student in America, the four have performed on practically all major campuses in the United States, and on many in Canada. Recently they were booked for a series of 45 straight one-night stands, and the charge they have added up paying is astronomical.

MM Receives First Class Honor Rating

The Mooring Mast for second semester of the 1962-63 school year has been awarded a first class honor rating by the Associated Collegiate Press at the University of Minnesota. According to ACP Director Fred Kildow, "First class honor rating is comparable to 'excellent,' and first class publications may be justly proud of their achievement."

The highest ACP award is the All-American honor rating. Mooring Mast records do not indicate that the newspaper ever received this award. Below the first class honor rating are second, third and fourth class ratings.

In individual scoring the Mooring Mast ranked highest in news content, layout, news stories, headlines and editorial page features. The ACP was particularly impressed with the typography and printing.

Areas which needed improvement were the layout of letters and editorials. Claiming that the "editorial page should be stronger," the ACP judges urged the Mooring Mast to "look your best" in the coming year.

Yes, even with all the success, they are a relatively young group. They met in October of 1958, and began singing for fun at University of Washington parties and Phi Delta Gamma functions. All are almost home-town boys, Dick Foley and Bob Flick having grown up in Seattle. Mike Kirkland from Astoria and John Payne from Okanogan, Wash.

All but one of the four had a very different goal in mind upon entering the University than becoming

Knapp To Give Faculty Recital

Calvin H. Knapp of the music department will give a faculty piano recital in Conrad Chapel on Sunday, Nov. 10, at 8 p.m.

Knapp earned his bachelor and master degrees at one of the finest music schools in the United States, Juillard School of Music in New York City. Columbia University awarded him a doctorate in music as he did graduate study at that eastern university.

PLU acquired Knapp four years ago. He is now starting his second year as a full time faculty member as his first two years were part time only.

The last summer the First Presbyterian Church in Tacoma hired a new organist and choir director—Calvin Knapp. Knapp has given many recitals in the Northwest and is also well known in eastern musical circles for his recitals.

ing entertainers. The two leaders, Kirkland and Foley, were headed for medicine and engineering respectively, but Payne sought a law degree and career in the diplomatic service. Baritone-bass Flick was the oddball; for he had entertained for part of his life, and covered his needs around radio and TV engagements.

Since a practical joke saw a then a sign in a Seattle night club, the Brothers Four have recorded a number of albums for Columbia Records, played concerts in every state in the Union, appeared on several top TV shows, and become favorites of the college circuit.

Sponsored by the Associated Students, tickets are selling at reduced prices of $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50. Tickets are available at Sherman Clay, Lakewood Record and Book and the PLU Bookstore. They have also been on sale at discount stores in both cities. Co-chairmen for the event are Janet Erickson and Andy Orval.

Delegates Chosen For ALC Meeting

Mar McIntyre, Mark Linn and Jay Masarik, all members of the American Lutheran Church Student Conference at Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, on Nov. 29-30. A special joint committee of the ASPLU Lecturers and the Cabinet made the selection Tuesday night.

McIntyre, who is president of the ASPLU, will represent the student body in his official capacity. Linn is editor of Culture Clippings, a quarterly-issued compilation of articles which originally appeared in the student newspapers at the colleges of the ALC. At the conference, he will participate in discussions on the future of Culture Clippings. Masarik, president of the Junior class, will serve as a representative of the students in general.

Iowa Philosopher To Speak About Search For Meaning

Dr. George Forell, a prominent philosopher and theologian from the State University of Iowa, will conclude his visit to campus with the formal lecture, "The Search for Meaning in Contemporary Theology," tonight at 8 in Eastwood Chapel. Dr. Forell was brought to PLU under the sponsorship of the ASPLU Lecture and Entertainment Series.

This afternoon all are invited to hear the complimentary lecture sponsored by the 330 Prichard Series, "My Moral Obligation Not to Vote for Goldwater in 1964." Dr. Forell will be presenting this topic in 11:30-1:00.

PLU students have already had the opportunity to hear this modern theologian twice in chapel and at various other meetings around the campus. Many students have read Dr. Forell's book, Ethics of Decision, and now have had the opportunity to question him personally.

Dr. Forell has an educational background that includes the University of Vienna, Princeton and Queen Theological Seminary. As a teacher he has wide experience at Gustavus Adolphus, Chicago Lutheran Seminary, the University of Hamburg, the All-African Theological Seminary and recently at the State University of Iowa.

Contrary to what was previously announced, the reception for Dr. Forell after the formal lecture this evening will be in Cheri Knutzen Fellowship Hall, not CU-200.

Eberhard Mueller Featured Speaker During Conference

The Rev. Dr. Eberhard Mueller, executive director of The Evangelical Academy, Bad Boll, Germany, will be the featured lecturer at the Labor and Management Conference on campus today and tomorrow. The theme of this meeting is "The Moral Responsibility of Labor and Management."

Dr. Mueller is the world-famous founder of the Academy Movement in Germany and is a former University pastor and chairman of The Council of Directors of Evangelical Academies. His experience as a prisoner in Russian concentration camps during World War II adds authority and vitality to his lectures.

The Academy Movement in Germany had its inception in the mind of Dr. Mueller and its formation is credited to the tenets of the Christian faith and its application to the world of modern labor and industry. Mueller was a labor man and became a vital force in the Movement and has flourished in the field since the founding of his colleagues had envisioned.

Dr. Walter Schmackenburg, head of the Department of History at PLU, who spent the last year in Germany, is acquainted with the Movement and will give a lecture from the American point of view.

Other lecturers include John E. Peters, employment and working manager, National Division, Boeing Company, and Robert Rietzen, professor of business administration at Pacific Lutheran. Several prominent leaders in the field of labor, management and education will join their men in discussion groups.

AMS Attempts To Unify Men

by Denton Kees
AMS President

Like any other campus organization, Associated Men Students exist to have activities and to be an active part of school life. But like any other organization it is a club in reality for its existence. The purpose of AMS is to unify the men students.

This unity is accomplished not only through social activities, but also through careful study of and acceptance of the responsibilities entailed in government of the self.

This is the area in which AMS can do work and will work. Even though it is a group and is concerned with the actions of this group, it exists because the dignity of the individual is the principle around which AMS has developed. This must always be kept in mind when involved in any activity. This year's council is interested in maintaining and perpetuating self-respect and respect of others and considers this concept paramount in the objectives of the AMS.

This statement of purpose can serve as a background for a consideration of this year's AMS activities.

After the Christmas break, Dec. 14, AMS is sponsoring a dance, Feb. 11-13 is scheduled as Dada Weekend. Later in the spring it hopes to be able to introduce the AMS Spring Carnival.

At the same time AMS is also working on producing a student directory listing home addresses of all students. It is hoped to have this done before the Christmas vacation.

Also under consideration is establishment of scholarships through AMS. To be able to provide two or three scholarships to deserving men students would be probably the best way to increase membership and would certainly be a good return for interest in activities of AMS.

There is quite a bit to do so the girls are out if anyone is interested in bringing about the success of the organization, become involved. AMS also provides a good social through (Continued on page 10)

Is 'Christian University' A Self-Contradictory Idea?

It is frequently asserted that this university is both a Christian institution and an institution of higher learning. For example, there is the well-known statement of objectives in the catalog: "Pacific Lutheran University is a Christian institution whose primary purpose is the preparation of a trained Christian citizenry through an unhindered search for truth in all areas and aspects of life."

The apparent contradiction is not due to the joining of two distinct ideas. The first of these is the idea of Christianity. This is expressed in the phrases "Christian institution" and "a trained Christian citizenry." Secondly, there is the idea of free inquiry. This is expressed in the phrase "an unhindered search for truth."

The junction of these two concepts creates a question. Are these two ideas compatible? Translated into the situation of this university, the question becomes, "Is it possible to have an institution which is both Christian and a university?" This question should be studied by examining its abstract meaning and also by looking at the actual situation existing on this campus.

When this question is viewed abstractly, the difficulty is obvious. Christianity demands that those institutions which call themselves "Christian" have unshakable and unchangeable commitment to a definite system of doctrine or belief.

On the other hand, free inquiry means just what it says. Inquiry is free inquiry when there is no authoritarian control over the results which the inquiry may achieve. An "unhindered search for truth" obviously does not exist if the search is kept forever from exploring vast intellectual expanses which are marked with the words "Do not enter by order of Religion."

When one turns from the abstract examination to a consideration of the actual situation existing on this campus, the difficulty is perhaps even more obvious. In actual practice, this is not an institution which has successfully joined a Christian commitment with a commitment to free inquiry.

As most students are aware, free inquiry and Christianity come into frequent conflict. When the conflict occurs at PLU, the decision sometimes falls one way, and sometimes, the other. But the general trend has been to decide in favor of Christianity at the expense of free inquiry.

A case in point is the matter of the firing of faculty members. All members are required to be adherents of the Christian faith. This means that the religious and philosophical beliefs of the majority of the world's population are denied the possibility of personally and vigorously presenting their cases to the student body. In other words, faculty members can and do respond to a variety of levels—as long as their opinions are within the Christian tradition.

It may well be that Christianity and the "unhindered search for truth" are quite compatible. But until somebody can demonstrate that this is so, the Mooring Mast must, on the basis of the foregoing analysis, advocate the following propositions:

- 1) The very concepts of "Christian institution" and of "institution devoted to free inquiry" are incompatible. 2) PLU has not in actual fact created an institution which has a commitment to both ideals. 3) The actual practice has tended to favor the former at the expense of the latter. 4) This institution must decide whether it wishes to be a "Christian institution" or an institution dedicated to the "unhindered search for truth." It cannot be both.

The Mooring Mast invites all its readers to discuss the question mentioned in this article. If someone can show that the two concepts of "Christian institution" and "institution dedicated to free inquiry" are compatible, the Mooring Mast will gladly retract its claim that they are not.

However, if no one is able to do this, the newspaper itself then is obliged to formulate a definite opinion as to which of these two contradictory alternatives ought to be the goal of the university.

Frankly Speaking: Switchboard Operators Accused Of Rudeness

by Tim Browning

Are you annoyed with the campus switchboard operator? If you are, then perhaps you will agree that there are some things which should be changed.

It seems to me that it is commonly rude for an operator to have a caller to hold the line for a prolonged period of time, especially without explaining the delay. The operators seem to feel that they have completed their job the minute they answer a call. The caller never knows whether the operator is ringing his number, or has forgotten his call completely.

I have found it necessary at many times to hang up before completing a call; the operator apparently had forgotten the call to all the other switchboards that I have used, the operators try to serve the caller as quickly and as courteously as possible.

A lack of courtesy is also displayed at the ten o'clock closing hour. A call, such as "This switchboard is closed," is the only notice I have ever been given and never preceded by "Thank you," "Goodbye" or "See you, but . . ." Even though it is necessary to close our switchboard in the evening, a polite reminder should be used.

If all the calls through our switchboard were merely dormitory students, then I suppose that these situations couldn't be too important. But unfortunately, this is not the case. I have of students who have failed to receive important calls merely because the caller has refused, justifiably, to wait indefinitely upon the operator.

Courtesy—why shouldn't it be used by our campus switchboard operators?

MOORING MISSED!

by Bob Anderson

The men of Evergreen have done it again, walking off with the Decorations Sweepstakes, and they deserved it. The Great main idea was one that couldn't exist. South did have a good interior, but they were the judges who liked the effort of Pflieger, which may be the best of all? There is a real atmosphere created by Jerry Hansen and crew, creating content from all but the judges.

You may have wondered why the Portland Symphony, which over a fine performance has been reported with an encore to the great applause which is reported to be the best of the musicians, I learned that the encores prepared were discovered played on TV, and it is not customary to repeat. Nevertheless, it would have been a good ending to the performance to include one such number anyway. It should be added that this was their opening program, which was played in Portland the previous Monday.

Did you see the great "mix" of George Vigeland in the TV that week? Ted, his fun then man have been surprised at how much George looked like George McGovern. And I bet Coach Carlson is wondering what happened to Ooedge, too.

Dear Editor - -

I would like to thank the students and faculty of Pacific Lutheran University for the opportunity to appear on your television program, Knight Time, on Oct. 23. The encouraging and enjoyable part of my being there is the fact that it indicates the interest and awareness we all have in what is certainly a great, if not the greatest, problem facing all the people of this country at this time.

—Jack Warnick, chairman of the Tacoma City Council Sub-committee on Housing.

The Levelled Lance

by Louis W. Truchel

The language of the far right in America was displayed recently in an ugly incident. The occasion was a United Nations Day speech by Ambassador Adlai Stevenson in Dallas, Texas. The vast majority of the audience seemed to be in attendance through supported Stevenson with hostile approval and two standing ovations.

Protesting demonstrators, however, gathered outside the meeting, many identifying themselves as members of the far right Young Americans for Freedom. After his speech our ambassador visited the United Nations was struck by the sign of his state woman pleader and spat upon by a John Birchler.

Why had these far rightists conducted themselves in such extremely poor taste? The answer may lie in the low moral level of the far right movement in general. To this movement all forms appear either black or white, all are a communist or anti-communist. In their use of an anti-communist is that he fits into the movement, and of narrow-minded conservatism and provincialism.

That is one position may be somewhat divorced from the reality of a changing world or that facing the world with its standard has not disturbed the dream world of the far right. All deviations from its straight and narrow norm are considered to be willingly or unwillingly working for the advancement of the communist conspiracy.

The far rightists now attack Adlai Stevenson. But one year ago they roared under their arch in fear of a nuclear war developed out of the Cuban crisis while Stevenson was engaged in direct and face-to-face contact with the Soviets in the U.S.S.R.

Ignorance seems to be the basis of the far right's irresponsibility. The convenient grouping of all its opponents into a pro-communist camp is the essential crutch of this ignorance. Irresponsible actions like the Dallas incident are manifestations. In dealing with this problem, one must remember that a democracy, as well as Ambassador Stevenson, believes in the redemption of ignorance.

The solution will not be achieved by adopting the methods of the far right. We should join with Adlai Stevenson in asserting, "I don't come to mind them to jail. I want to see them in school."

Knights Seek To End Losses With Eastern Defeat

Shahan Out For Season: Stauffer to Get Starting Nod

Tomorrow night the Knights take the field in Lincoln Bowls for the final home game of the season, against the Eastern Washington Savages.

Though the Savages have won only one game this year, the going will be far from smooth for the Lutes. For Eastern narrowly fell to undefeated Central 14-13, and to strong Linfield 7-6, both fairly early in the season.

And the victory came recently over College of Idaho, a team whose only other win was also administered by Linfield.

The Savages still lead the series between the two schools 13 games to 24, with 2 games even, although the Knights picked up a 20-7 win in the conference opener at Cheney to narrow the gap. It was that game that saw the transfer move to the Knight offense with Mike Touret's injury only a week after Bob Batten-man was temporarily lost for action.

Losses has shown signs of a particularly good mental attack, especially against Central. Winslow quarterback Lee Erickson has two long-range targets in ends Fred Amundson and Larry Liberty. Aid with the return of speedy Mel Stansoo from a leg injury to join freshman full-back Dick Zecari and Keith Sterling, the Savage ground game may be strong.

KEITH SHAHAN is brought down for a loss as Kevin Thomas tries to get into position to block, and Ed Brancher blocks a University of Puget Sound end. The UPS loggers won the game, 9-7.

UPS Girls Score Upset Hockey Tilt

Eleven members of the University of Puget Sound field field hockey team upset the previously unbeaten Pacific Lutheran team by a 3-2 win in Sunday's annual Puget Sound game.

A goal by sophomore Mary Lee Walsh while the first three minutes of the first half expired tipped off in the right direction for UPS. Such action was not repeated, however, until late in the game when Linda Overman broke through to score.

The first half lasted three "leg quarters," Connie Johnson, Bonnie Johnson and Blaine Aron, chalking up a goal apiece. Beverly Miles and Mel Aron also scored in the second half.

The upset came as a surprise after the heavily favored PLU team had held the "Lush Loggers" from scoring the other two times they met this year.

According to Linda Overman, who checked the PLU stats, it was a well-played game by both teams. "However, with more experience and practice we can beat them next year," she said.

For their victory the UPS girls were presented a box of chocolates by Handmade Hazel, Jan Malinda, who promptly added a 4 in to the signaling check of this captain, Connie Johnson.

SPLINTERS FROM THE BENCH

A field goal by the University of Puget Sound is the first half period defeat for the Vikings and spoiled one of their finest efforts of the season. The Homecoming crowd saw a hard fought battle by a team that never seems to give up. Jack Klutner, winner of the Intramural Soccer, falls from Fort Angeles is one of the best water skiers in the area. The women of Hasted Hall have put a ruling that limits them to no exercises in the halls after 7 p.m. No wonder America's women's stock and field sports are deep pace with the Europeans. Keith Shahan is by leading Knight water with three touchdowns and is followed by Leo Rucker and Stauffer who also both scored two. Mike M. Jeyan, musical body president and originator of Splinters from the Bench, played January twenty last week in Vancouver and in the same game. Joe Grande played football for the Wilson Rams for splinters and justice years but was forced to sit out his senior year due to student body activities. Let us be known Ted Vignard has finally missed the 7-10 split. Leo Rucker has run nine yards back for a total of 102 yards and an average of 29.1 yards, which is very respectable in any league. Sub Halverson recently hit a 225 game in the Portland bowling league and ended up with a 385 score. Andy Omdal, president of the Young Republicans, was a wrestler for Burlington High School his senior year. This year's faculty intramural basketball team should be one of the toughest to meet from with such names as "Dead Eye" Gene Lundmark, Mark "The Fox" Salzman, Paul "Beats" Norquist, and Jim "The Great" VanDerby. Steve Noeb, intramural shuffleboard director, has announced that the tournament is now in progress and all players are happy.

Intramural Scene

Intramural football continues despite bitter cold, rain, referees and no touch Monday of last week. The Madras passed by five touchdowns to lead Third Floor over Second Floor, 30-0. Jack Shahan also added five through the air as Ivy romped over First Floor 30-0. Tomboy, Delta was shut out by Omega as Dick Nelson scored one, ran one and caught one.

Wednesday was Thursday became quiet days as Evergreen was tied by First Floor, Delta was tied by Omega, and Omega scored to Third Floor. Ivy was the only team to survive on their schedule over Second Floor 24-0. West was able to score 6 games as a 1-0 Edwards to Jack Lane. But Doc Halverson's passing proved too much as he drove to Kim Smith, Doyle O'Dell, and one set for a 21-6 Third Floor win. The lady Eastern team somehow contained the passing of Ed Davis and spread of Gary Sand and held Delta to two touchdowns, making their first game of the season, 11-12.

First Floor is a disadvantage in intramurals because they have fewer people than any other living group except Delta. Their main are probably usually from, and so are not too experienced in the fine art of intramural football. By way of contrast, Evergreen is the perennial winner. Last Wednesday, however, Chel Religion and seven other First Floor freshmen proved in their game with Evergreen that such an analysis does not always hold. A vigorous battle passed across a touchdown, but First Floor reloaded late in the first half, and thwarted another Evergreen score as the whistle sounded. The second half was pure defense, neither team scored and the game ended in a 6-0 shutout.

TEAM STANDINGS

Team	Won	Lost	Tied
Ivy	8	1	1
Evergreen	8	1	2
Westers	7	4	0
First Floor	3	4	3
Delta	3	8	2
Eastern	1	8	1
Second Floor	1	9	1

WUS Gives Aid

What does World University Service mean to an average PLU student? It could mean an opportunity to participate with other students and faculties throughout the United States to help students in underdeveloped countries to improve and provide for better educational facilities. World University Service is an international relief organization in operation since 1919.

Today, World University Service, with contributions from PLU and other Northwest schools, is embarked on a program to establish educational facilities, libraries, bookshelves and television-projects projects are being opened in Africa, India, Tanzania, and other countries where needs are now unobtainable. Student health centers in India, Pakistan, Korea and Thailand are now being built.

Right now $100,000 is being spent to complete two dormitories in Nicaragua. A student restaurant in Chile is being equipped. Hungarian students are the recipients of $350,000 in scholarship aid. Ann Marie Striver and Cherie Adams receive aid.

President Kennedy has said "World University Service is making a greater contribution to the growth of freedom."

Total Of Salaries Is Over Million Mark

PLU is employing 94 full-time teachers and 21 part-time instructors this semester. The salary range for the fall term is $5,500-$20,000 for a nine-month contract. The national average for church-related colleges or universities is $6,065-$10,222.

The total teaching salary, including part-time instructors, is $665,453 for the academic year 1963-64. The total wages and salaries of the entire faculty, staff and student help is estimated to be $1,400,000.

New Majors Add Depth To PLU's Graduate School

by Bill Erickson

This fall the PLU Graduate School will offer a number of new degrees for the first time in the following areas: social science, humanities, economics and business administration and natural science. This new advancement, which adds increased depth to the Graduate School, was approved recently by the Board of Regents in their fall meeting reports Dr. Thorstein Boring, director of graduate studies.

There are major in the Graduate School and one of the steps that PLU is taking to be ready for the twenty-first century which is expected to take place in the next fifteen to twenty years.

This enrollment increase will mean that there will be more people enrolled in upper division and graduate classes than in lower division classes. This new trend results partially because more students are going to junior colleges and then transferring to a four-year college.

The PLU graduate school has over 200 students enrolled. However, only about 80 are working for their master's degrees; the rest are working to gain another bachelor's degree. The most common major in the graduate school is school administration; next in line is guidance and then elementary education.

However, with these new studies in the graduate department, the graduate school will be open to persons wishing to take graduate work in fields other than is acting. "The graduate school will now attract people such as ministers, those interested in library work, and persons wishing to join the foreign service or Peace Corps," Dr. Boring commented.

Larson's Team In First Place

Little Lutes bowling team saw Howie Larson's team come into the first place spot. Matched against Terry Hansen's team, which was in a tie for first place, Larson just said that he knew this would have to be the work and promptly proceeded to win all four games of their 1-7-7 four game.

It was an excellent example of how to win points as a team. Larson's team averaged 135.5, just over 26 pins each game, while his team, Terry Hansen and "Ricky" Sand, maintained their average of over 200.

Jeff Moulton's team, the other one previously in a tie for first place, also had some trouble when bowling Don Hansen's team. Moulton started off with a 221, leading his team by taking three games out of the four and dropping Moulton (14-6) to second place, two points behind the Hansen team (16-1). Hansen (13-8 1/2) moved into third spot as Larson (13-7) dropped all the way to fourth.

Don Sandvik had the high average total with 336, followed by Hansen with 321 and Howie Larson's 314. High single games after Hansen's 221 were Sandvik's 199 and Larry Carlson, Burke Larson, and Michael Leppalahti all threw 184's.

Larson play will continue on Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Paradise Bowl.

Committee To Handle Bills For Legislature

All bills and resolutions submitted to the ASPLU Legislature for consideration must be handed to a committee member of the Bills and Resolutions Committee.

Rep. Hjeltness has been appointed chairman of the committee and is assisted by Chas. E. Brown, Linda Sells, Steve Seltzer, Mike Marchionni and Oddy Sloudy. Committee members include Barbara Larson, Legislature secretary, Lynn Berg, ASPLU treasurer, and Gary Lund, ASPLU vice-president.
