Foreword

The early pioneer toiled alone, with his family, or a few friends . . . His dreams, aims and modest projects were shared by few . . . Where he worked alone, we must work with many . . . The pioneer lighted his home with a simple tallow candle, dipped by his own hand . . . Come then another day, another generation, rejoicing in a new method of lighting, the oil lamp, which brought more closely together the family and the larger group . . . Now our own age, through united effort, enjoys fuller and richer illumination . . . Progressing as groups through cooperation and organization, rather than as individuals—this is the theme of our year-book.

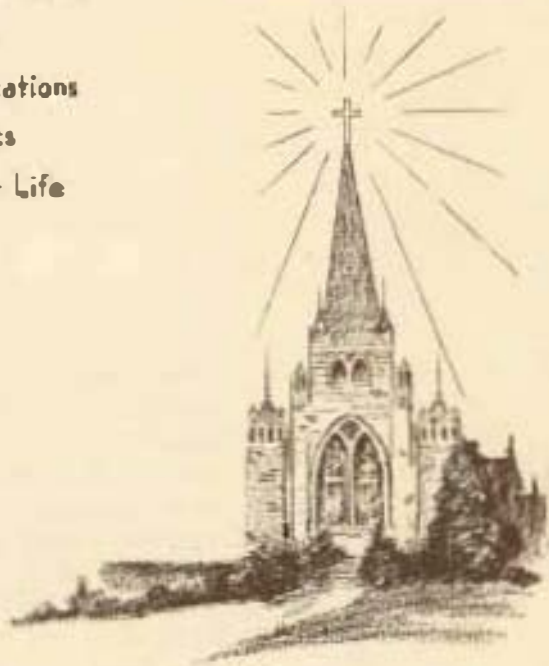

Dedication

Dedicated to the spirit of Christian cooperation and fellowship . . . typified by our early pioneers who looked ahead, who, with God-given foresight, founded and preserved our school . . . and typified in our own generation by those who are struggling, giving their lives that our school and its ideals may live . . . Typified also by the fellowship of our associates, who serve as lights on our way, and whose rays warm the very depths of our souls . . . Dedicated to this spirit, the 1932 Saga is presented to you.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Where the pioneer wrought alone, we, his children, must work together. This is the theme of the SAGA of 1932.

The pioneer survived because of his initiative, self-reliance, adaptability, and stamina. His courage supported him, and his vision of the future buoyed him up. His problems were complex enough, but their solution depended most of all upon his own intelligence and persistence.

In a democracy such as ours, we need to conserve these qualities of the pioneer. For this reason, Pacific Lutheran College, too, encourages initiative and self-reliance in its students, and of this fact the SAGA gives evidence.

We of this generation on the Pacific Coast are the children of the pioneers. In important respects we are, ourselves, still pioneering. Nevertheless, the increasing complexity of modern life has changed our problems, so that we whose fathers wrought alone must work together in harmony to survive.

This important lesson of cooperative endeavor receives emphasis at Pacific Lutheran College in unusual degree. We realize that the very existence of the College depends upon mastering this lesson. For this reason, the friends of the cause of Christian education will accord the SAGA of 1932 the hearty reception which it so truly deserves.

OUR SCHOOL

Down the pathway of time there have stood out above the masses, stalwart, God-fearing men of vision. Not allowing matters to take their own course, these men have plunged wholeheartedly into the thick of battle, into uncertain and difficult byways, unknown lands. With faith in their Divine Father's guidance they have paved the way for the advancement of God's Kingdom on earth. Such persons as these established Pacific Lutheran College on the western shores of our country. Across valleys, mountains, and rivers they came "to pioneer as the last frontier," not for themselves alone, but for their fellow men and their God. How hard they labored, how much they suffered, how earnestly they prayed, we shall perhaps never fully comprehend. But we have enjoyed the blessings they have made possible, and accept them as a God-given challenge to carry on the pioneering spirit—to continue the work they have so well begun.

In keeping with the truth that the fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom, our school regards mental training without Christian faith and love as having but a doubtful value. Hence, Pacific Lutheran College aims not only to impart knowledge, but through its religious instruction, integrated with the secular, to develop Christian character, the Christian outlook on life, and the Christian leaders our nation needs.

The Christian atmosphere of our College is healthful and invigorating and leaves its mark on every student to a greater or lesser degree. It is therefore only natural that the alumni of the school should represent the best in our citizenship, interested in upbuilding both church and state.

From an academy, Pacific Lutheran College has developed until it now includes, besides the High School a fully accredited Normal Department and a two-year Liberal Arts course.

The progress thus far has been possible by the combined efforts and prayers of those who realize the superior value of education which is in harmony with Christian principles and ideals. Success in the coming years is assured if Christian leaders and workers press onward with the same earnestness in prayer and endeavor as did the early pioneers of the institution.

Because Pacific Lutheran College is the only Lutheran institution of this kind in our last home mission field, covering more than two-fifths of the United States, we realize how important is its scope. Those connected with it are still "pioneers of Lutheran education in the West" with a great future ahead. With the ideals of those who have gone before, the faith, hope, and love of our present church leaders, the promise of the future generations, and the assurance that God is with us, how can we fail to succeed?

DEVELOPMENT ASSOCIATION

The Pacific Lutheran College Development Association was organized September 23, 1928, to help maintain the College as an institution for spreading America Christian, especially through the agency of the Lutheran Church.

The College can survive, grow, and serve only to the extent it enjoys the confidence and intelligent support of the people whom it undertakes to serve. It plans, therefore, to keep as closely in touch with the people as possible, to mobilize and to organize them for intelligent, effective, and harmonious action, and for this purpose, to keep as many as possible enrolled as members of the Association. Membership in this organization is secured and maintained by paying to the College "at least a dollar or less a year."

The association has developed very rapidly during the three and a half years of its existence. At present it has an enrollment of approximately 7,400 members.

ENDOWMENT FUND

The Pacific Lutheran College Endowment Fund was created in 1927 by friends and supporters of the college who pledged themselves to the contribution, over a five-year period, of $250,000 for this purpose. On May 6, 1932, $137,940.23 had been paid in. The investment of this fund is in the hands of the Endowment Investment Committee elected by, and responsible to, the Board of Trustees. The present members of this committee are: Mr. H. E. Anderson, Mr. August Buchmann, Mr. F. P. Haskell, Jr., Mr. A. L. Lohr, and President O. A. Tingstad.

The main purpose of the Endowment Fund is to insure stability. A fixed income from a permanent fund assures the accreditation authorities of a stability sufficient to guarantee the maintenance of high standards of work from year to year. In educational circles in the State of Washington, $250,000 is regarded as the minimum fund for satisfying this need, in the case of a junior college; in the case of a senior college, this minimum is $500,000.

CLASSES

COLLEGE SOPHOMORES

In two short years the graduating class of 1932 has been influenced by its environment and as a result has developed a stronger Christian character, a broader Christian view of life, and a foundation of cultural and practical knowledge that will enable its individual members to contribute to the progress of civilization. Thus imbued with the fine spirit of St. Patrick's Lutheran College, the sophomore class has endeavored always to uphold the doctrine and ideals of their alma mater.

This class, like so freshmen entered the College in the fall of 1930, was welcomed into the school at a faculty reception soon after school opened. With the continuation of talent, scholarship, pep, and leadership among its members the class immediately embarked upon a program of activity and service.

Eric Hauke was elected president and Mr. Beck advisor of the class. Two successful attempts which helped to better acquaint the members of the class were the St. Patrick's Day party and the picnic at Peterson Lake in honor of the class of 1931.

The class was well represented in all school activities. Four of the five Student Body officers were held by sophomores. The members of four teams that made up the Varsity Debate Squad were second-year men. The Choir, the Dramatic Club, the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation and many other organizations drew their officers and members from the sophomore class.

The last and most outstanding project of the class was the annual class play—"The Odd Job-Man"—a three act comedy given in the College Gymnasium on May 6.

The officers for the second year were: Harold Berentson, president; Milford Quale, vice president; Daggy Hjornstad, secretary; Arthur Sverison, treasurer; Harry Southworth, sergeant at arms.

THIRD-YEAR STUDENTS

The year 1931-1932 has been a year of great importance to Pacific Lutheran College. Along the way are many milestones, marking important events in the history of the institution. One of these marks the arrival of a new group of pioneers—the third-year Normal class, which comes as a result of the new ruling in the state of Washington, that after September, 1931, three years of training will be required for teaching in the public schools.

The class this year was composed mainly of former graduates of the College who have taught, but who wish to better prepare themselves for their work, and of students who are taking their entire three-year course before beginning their teaching.

Those who are completing the third-year course will be eligible to teach in the intermediate schools in Washington. After this, however, the work of the third year will become part of the regular teacher's training course, and all future Normal graduates must complete it in order to receive a Standard Elementary Certificate.

Members of this class took an active part in the student activities in former years, as well as in the affairs of the school the present year.

The officers of the class were: Fred Walter, president; Nelda Férival, vice-president; and Dorothy Lehmann, secretary-treasurer. Professor Hauge has been adviser of the class.

COLLEGE UNDER GRADUATES

That actions speak louder than words is very clearly shown in the case of the freshman class, for although many of its members are unusually quiet and reserved, they have acted in such a way as will keep all future freshmen up on their toes to reach the mark they have set.

The members of this class have been recruited from all parts of the Northwest, some having come from Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho, California, or even North Dakota. This heterogeneous group of young men and women who have chosen Pacific Lutheran College as the place for beginning their college career, comprises the largest class in the school. The success which from the very beginning of the year has accompanied this class is largely due to the cooperation and good sportsmanship exhibited by its members.

The first thing the class did was to meet and elect their officers for the year. Carl Martin was elected president; Nordis Arnison, vice president; Elton Soley, secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Ramsted, adviser.

The social activities started early in the year with a class party given in the College recreation room, and before the year was very old, members of this class were taking part in almost all other organizations in the school. About one-half the members of the "Choir of the West" were chosen from this class, and others of the group possess musical talent of various kinds.

When the call for action on the football field was made early in the fall, the freshmen were on hand with an excellent showing, and it was from their ranks that some of the outstanding players came. This was shown by the fact that twelve of the twenty-one who received football in 1924 this year were freshmen, in basketball as well as in tennis and golf this class was also well represented.

COLLEGE UNDER GRADUATES

The freshmen contributed brain as well as brawn. While taking part in many extracurricular affairs, they nevertheless kept their place near the top of the ladder of scholarship, as the honor roll testifies. One member of this group was on the College debate squad, while another was vice president of the Student Body. The president and secretary-treasurer of the Drama Club for the second semester were freshmen. Officers of the class showed marked ability in dramatics and took an active part in the work of the club during the year. Some of these students held offices in the Pep Club and the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation. In practically every organization in the school there were freshmen holding office during the year.

Members of this class are on the Sags and Morning Mail staffs. It is probable that next year both of these publications will be under the editorship of some one from the 1932 freshman class.

In this class were enrolled a few students who had taken some college work before entering in September, and who carried some sophomore subjects. As they did not have enough credits to be classed as sophomores, however, they were included in the freshman group and took part in its activities throughout the year. On the other hand, there were some who needed only a credit or two to graduate from the High School Division. These carried the regular freshman college load and also took part in the freshman class affairs.

COLLEGE UNDER GRADUATES

It has been the tradition of the freshman class to entertain the graduating classes at some social function each year. These entertainments have been in the form of banquets, picnics, or theatre parties. At this writing the class had not yet decided upon the type of entertainment to provide for the upperclassmen. Then, too, tradition demands that the class each year take charge of the decorating for the commencement ceremonies which include the class night, baccalaureate, and graduation exercises.

Of the seventy-seven freshmen who entered in September, 1931, thirty-six were enrolled in the Normal Department and forty-one in the Junior College Division. The students in the Normal class will continue the three year course now required by the state of Washington for elementary school teachers. The students in the Junior College Division will continue here only one year more unless a third year is added to this division also.

By glancing through the list of activities in which the class participated, one will see that they have realized they would be college freshmen only once in their lives. They were therefore, determined to get out of it all the enjoyment they possibly could. With the good beginning they have made this year, they have proved themselves masters of any situation that might arise in any group of students. Next year they will be ready to add another chapter to the history of Pacific Lutheran College. May it be a happy one!

HIGH-SCHOOL SENIORS

As this year's class of high-school seniors comes to the end of their course, they rightfully say: "We have accomplished our aim of scholarship and fellowship, and by our character have left the lives of our fellow students fuller, happier, and richer.

"We must pioneer to the end. We have laid the rough foundation of life, but we have many more tasks to accomplish in some higher institution. We are about to leave a level that we have so long a time waited to see. We are about to go into our freshman year to seek higher knowledge, our goal being the Christian Institute where Christian knowledge is stored."

Asking for neither credit nor glory, these unassuming individuals have tackled and accomplished their projects in the spirit of true pioneers. Although this year's high-school graduating class is smaller than former classes, its members have participated in all the school activities. Several were members of the Choir. The success of the Drama Club was due in part to the historic ability of several individuals of the class.

Several members of this class are members of the girls' basketball team, that has shown such a remarkable record in the last few years. Several are members of the football team that ended the season with a record that the students are all proud of. Another classmate is a member of the boys' quartet that is so well known in this vicinity.

In the spring the seniors organized as a class and elected the following officers: Mary Louise Preus, president; Robert Manson, vice president; Gilbert Sydow, secretary-treasurer.

HIGH-SCHOOL UNDER GRADUATES

The high-school undergraduates have passed manily on during the year. Although they are few in number, they have caught the pioneering spirit of the school and have endeavored to progress and develop with it. Despite the lack of definite organization, the individuals of this group have shown their stamens on the athletic field, their dramatic ability on the stage, and their scholarship in the classroom.

Perhaps much of the deserved honor does not go to them, but is taken by the glaucous and eighty seniors. But with the cooperation and assistance of the seniors, various organizations and clubs have been formed in the High School. Many of the undergraduates have lent their time and talent to the making of our splendid Choir.

In the realm of golf various members of this class have shone brilliantly. Though barred from the football field and the basketball floor by lack of weight and experience, these young Gladiators have won a distinctive name for themselves on the golf course, for seven of the eight high-point men in the High School and College tournament were members of this class.

It is altogether fitting and proper that the potential leaders rising from amongst the undergraduate ranks be given the responsibility and power left unclaimed by the graduating seniors. Their ability to weather any storm, to overcome any obstacle, and to build for the future, has won the right for them to be called pioneers.

SHORT COURSE

A challenging answer to the age-old question "How can I?" was presented to prospective Americans in 1921 through the organization of the Beginners' Short Course. It was designed primarily to help men and women of foreign birth to prepare for American citizenship and American social life, but it serves as well to give those of American birth whose educational opportunities have been limited a chance to acquire elementary education.

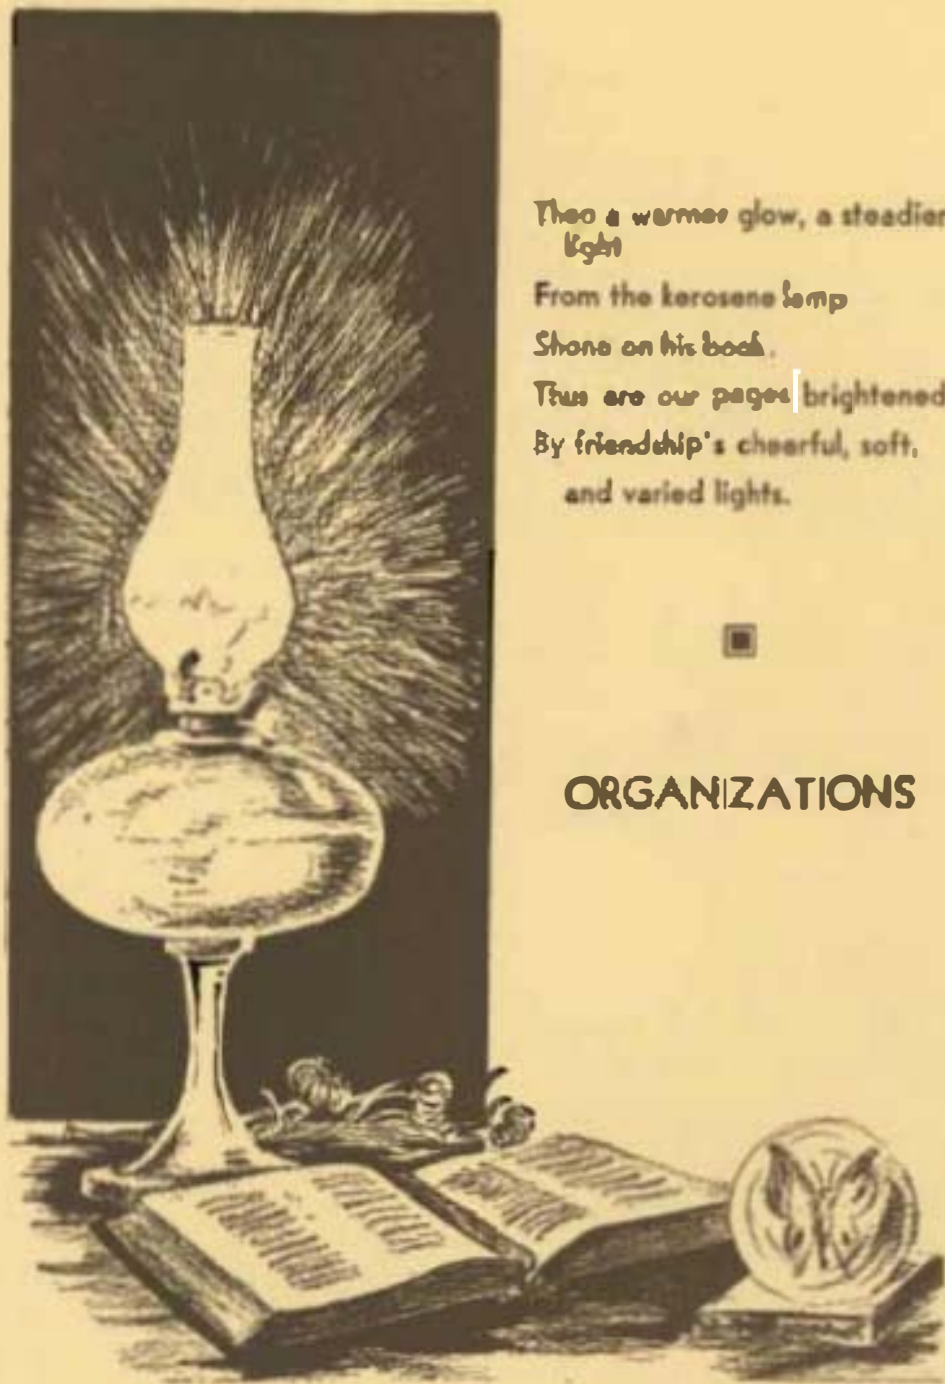

The subjects offered are practically the same as those offered in the elementary school but are arranged in such a way as to make them suitable for adults. The course begins in the late fall and ends in the early spring, and hence does not interfere a great deal with the occupation of these students.

The teachers who take these classes are especially adapted to the work because of their sympathetic understanding of the needs and problems of this class of students.

During the eleven years of its operation the department has carried a large number of men and women who look back upon it as a stepping stone to usefulness and happiness. Several of those who finished the course later entered the College Division.

While this last year there were but few young men enrolled in these classes, the cooperation and fellowship of the group was so commendable that the college feels that its every effort to help these people is well worth while.

Then a warmer glow, a steadier light

From the kerosene lamp
Shone on his book.

Thus are our pages brightened
By friendship's cheerful, soft, and varied lights.

ORGANIZATIONS

OUR STUDENT BODY

Out in this glorious West, students of Pacific Lutheran College ploughed for over a score and ten years in Christian education. Starting as a mere handful they have needed great courage and faith in the face of many adverse conditions to carry out the ideas upon which this institution was founded so early in the year to the place it has reached today.

Student government has been a great deal more than a mere phrase at Pacific Lutheran College; it has been an organization in which each member has had a voice in the discussion of the various activities and problems of the school.

The goal of Pacific Lutheran College students has been to strive toward the maintenance of the Christian ideals upon which it has been founded and to further educational ideals whenever possible.

In view of this fact and in order to make possible the carrying on of student affairs in the most convenient and profitable way, a Board of Control was elected during the last year. Under the new Constitution, formulated during the past year, the Board will now be ready to take care of student problems. The entire Student Body will meet bi-weekly or whenever a special meeting is called by the president of the Associated Students. The Board will be composed of the president of the Student Body, who automatically becomes chairman of the board; the vice president, secretary, and treasurer of the Student Body; two commissioners, commissioner of Athletics and commissioner of Advertising; one representative from each organized College class, and one from the entire High School division.

During the past years Student Body meetings have been held in the Chapel each Thursday and devotion was led by the Student Body president.

The Student Body sent its president, Eric Hauke, to the Lutheran Student's Union Conference at Moorhead, Minnesota.

OUR CHAPEL

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God." In accordance with this Bible verse, Pacific Lutheran College holds its daily devotional exercises in the College chapel. In the middle of the forenoon, the faculty and students meet for a few moments to worship their Heavenly Father. They are called away from their worries and cares to receive the bread of life, to be reminded of the constant love and tender mercy of their Maker, and to receive new spiritual strength for their daily tasks.

Organ preludes are played as the faculty and students gather in the chapel. During the hour they end in singing hymns of praise and thanksgiving, in meditation on God's word, and in communing with Him in prayer. Portions of the Holy Scriptures suitable for the day are read and discussed by faculty members or other speakers. During the past year the College has been unusually fortunate in securing outside speakers of note.

Several prominent men of the various Lutheran synods have presented inspiring as well as instructive addresses to those present at chapel. The Rev. C. A. Wendell, the Augustana Lutheran leader of the students of the University of Minnesota, gave a very interesting talk concerning his work there. Two of the instructors of the Bible Institute in Minneapolis, the Reverend H. G. Randolph and A. W. Knack, have given addresses ~~referring~~ about the same which they represent. Early in the spring, the Rev. N. M. Yrskley, executive secretary of the Young People's Lutheran League, spoke to the faculty and students on the importance of Christian leadership among the youth of America. The Rev. Ralph H. Long, executive director of the National Lutheran Church, gave an account of the history of the Lutheran Church. An interesting address was given by the Rev. J. C. K. Froust, executive secretary of the Board of Education of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, who was making an inspection tour of the schools of that Church. Dr. J. N. Anderson, who is in charge of elementary Christian education of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, the Rev. Jens Halvorsen from the Lutheran free church of Minneapolis, and also the Rev. A. M. Skindley, president of the Rocky Mountain District of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America, have spoken at chapel. Conditions in China and the problems prevalent there were related by Merthe Kulberg, a missionary of that country. On Lincoln's birthday, Mr. Wilson, a member of the Negro Historical Association, gave an interesting talk about the people of his race and what Lincoln did for them by emancipating the slaves.

THE COLLEGE CHOIR

From the first choir's initial trip to Stanwood, Washington, in the spring of 1927, to the tours made by the Choir this year, many people have enjoyed the music given by the group of singers.

One of the first public appearances of the 1932 Choir was at the Christmas concert given in the Trinity Lutheran Church at Portland. This concert is an annual event that is looked forward to by the members of the school and community.

Although the Choir didn't make as long a journey this year as was taken by last year's choir—on its successful trip to Chicago—it made a week's tour of Lutheran communities in Oregon and eastern Washington which was highly appreciated. Concerts were given at Silverton, Oregon, on May 8; Eugene, Oregon, Sunday afternoon; Portland, Oregon, Sunday evening; Kennewick, Washington, May 9; Pendleton, Oregon, May 10; Edicott, Washington, May 11; and Kitville, Washington, May 12.

The choir has given concerts in several Tacoma churches, where large audiences have greeted the singers who rendered programs of exceptional beauty under the baton of Professor Joseph O. Edwards. Concerts were given at the Central Lutheran Church, Memorial Lutheran Church, First Norwegian Lutheran Church, First Lutheran Church, Peace Evangelical Lutheran Church, Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Mason Methodist Church Sixth Avenue Baptist Church, Bethany Methodist Church, and the First Christian Church.

WESTBY

OUR SAGA

In our great Pacific Northwest we see the relics of the early pioneer, we hear the tales of his hardships, his loves and hates, his struggles, his valiant and too often futile efforts to do. And we admire his bit of cooperation in the group, his integrity, and his faith in God and self that gave him that needed ounce of courage to succeed.

But we know, too, that in our modern life, so much more complex, so much more extensive and intensive than his, we must depend upon ourselves, but upon ourselves only as responsive, responsible members of society. In our problems, our desires and big aims we must seek the aid and enter the support, the cooperation, not only of our neighbor and his neighbor, but of the larger groups of society.

This motif we have endeavored to carry out through-out the book, especially in the art work on the division pages, in the descriptive phrases, and by the cover design. Since this year has been and will be so important in the life and continuity of our College, we feel that our motif must essentially be as chosen.

Though this school-year has been one peculiarly difficult financially, and though there have been many obstacles to overcome, we have placed our toes to the mark and have tried to do the best we could. Had our Board of Trustees and our College Faculty advised, in the early part of this year, against publishing a 1932 Saga, we feel that however mediocre this edition may prove to be, not publishing a year-book would have been a backward step—and a step that any college cannot afford. We have attempted to make this Saga an edition that will reach, at least to some extent, the fine standards and high levels attained by our preceding Sagas. To make this book a legacy of our school-year has been one of our aims. We have tried to tell of history and facts and of the inner workings of our College.

But we have tried to make this year-book more; we have tried to make it a true picture of the life at our College during this last year; we have tried to make it representative of the funny, laughable, lovable experiences we have all had during the school year 1931-32. And then we have tried to make for you not a work of art, not a literary masterpiece, but a memory, an experience.

THE MOORING MAST

The Mooring Mast is truly a pioneer paper. At first issued a very few years after the College had started across its pioneering on the last frontier of the United States, this paper took on the distinct character of a pioneer. Indeed, as long as Pacific Lutheran College remains a pioneering organization, so will the Mooring Mast, for it reflects the true spirit of the institution.

Before this paper had become an actuality there had been a feeling among both teachers and students that there was a great need for something like it. It is true, there had been student publications of some kind intermittently since 1901, but none since the reorganization of the College in 1921. It was in the fall of 1924 that the student body became fully aware of the need of some kind of a student paper, and began making plans for its publication.

When the plans were well under way, it became necessary to select a suitable name. Suggestions were numerous, and from the many presented the very suggestive name "Mooring Mast," proposed by Dorothy Lehmann, was adopted almost unanimously. Reasons for the appropriateness of this name are numerous. At the same time that the foundations for our "Mooring Mast" were being laid, the government was erecting a mooring mast two or three miles from the school. At that time the building of a mooring mast was a real pioneering act in aviation on the Pacific Coast, as was also the founding of such a school publication at Pacific Lutheran College. No doubt the mooring mast on the prairie prompted Miss Lehmann to suggest this name. "Airships," she reasoned, "find a safe mooring place and a connection with the mother earth in a mooring mast, and in like manner the student find a connection with their Alma Mater in a school paper."

When the paper was first issued, it was regarded as something very much out of the ordinary. Now, however, it has become an integral part of the College and of the student life.

During the past year the Mooring Mast has gone forth with ever new vigor and into wider fields. Of greatest importance in the betterment of the paper was its becoming a member of the National Scholastic Press Association. This Association, which has a membership of 2500, aims to further the interests of all forms of collegiate and scholastic journalism by offering good, constructive criticisms of the paper.

MISSION SOCIETY

As a denominational school Pacific Lutheran College naturally stresses the religious as well as the secular training of her students.

A background of strong Christianity is one of the most valuable possessions of the College, and the organization which has done much in fostering and preserving this quality is the Mission Society.

It is the purpose of the Society to study the missionary activities of the Christian churches and especially those of the Lutheran Church.

The student leaders prepared papers on the topics for discussion and, after presenting these, led the group in informal round table discussions. Some very interesting and educational extemporaneous debates arose at these meetings. Practical as well as theoretical problems were met with and discussed extensively.

The bi-weekly informal meetings which are open to all, have, as a rule, been in charge of the students themselves.

One of the outstanding projects of the Mission Society this year has been the financing of a student at a mission school in Marlagator. Early in the year magic lantern slides were shown of the New Guinea Missions.

The first half of the year was taken up with the study of the mission work of the early churches, as related in the Book of Acts. The second half of the year was given to the study of the work of our present missionaries.

Officers for the first semester were: John Hopp, president; Esther Westby, vice president; Hulda Simonson, secretary; Jesse Pflueger, treasurer.

Second semester: Hulda Simonson, president; Norman Holmsted, vice president; Agnes Berge, secretary; Webster Young, treasurer.

The work was carried on under the leadership of Professor Pflueger.

LUTHERAN DAUGHTERS OF THE REFORMATION

The Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation, a religious organization open to all women students, has won for itself a revered place in the life of Pacific Lutheran College women. This organization is a branch of the Women's Missionary Federation. The purpose of the organization is to promote the cause of Christianity among the students, to interest and acquaint them with the problems of the church, and to encourage active work in various religious fields. The society has also an immediate social value in bringing together the dormitory and day women of the College for a friendly social time.

At the last meeting of the year the faculty wives, who have served as hostesses to the club during the year, were the guests of the women of the club at a reception held in the College reception room.

During the past year the administration of the organization has been in the hands of a cabinet consisting of Pauline Schierman, president; Kathryn Johnson, vice president; Helen Collins, secretary; Margaret Kaeland, treasurer and Lorraine Thoren, historian. Mrs. Ramstad has served as adviser.

The programs and discussions for the meetings are introduced and led by the members of the group, giving the individual valuable training in conducting group meetings of this type.

This year the organization contributed money to the Shinarump Mission in Alaska a national project of the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation.

DEBATE SOCIETY

The need to learn to express one's self is especially important in this day and age so naturally in order to have a liberal education one must have some training in self-expression. The Debate Society has done much in giving the students at Pacific Lutheran College an opportunity for this liberal education.

This organization is open to everyone who is interested in public speaking and learning to present his ideas. Teams chosen from the group presented debates during the meetings. Although these meetings had to be held at noon when the time was short and not convenient to everyone, the debates supplied much helpful knowledge as well as entertainment to the students as the questions with a personal interest were used. Resolved that clubs should share "dorm" expenses at Pacific Lutheran College; Resolved that P. L. C. should adopt a system of honor roll; and Resolved that the library should be used for a study hall."

The debates displayed clever arguments as well as a goodly supply of humor.

The teams were coached by the members of the varsity debate squad as this society was organized by the members of the local Phi Kappa chapter.

The officers of the Debate Society were: Fred Walter, president; Helen Thron, vice president; Alberta Schmitz, secretary.

DEBATE SQUAD

The success of the Pacific Lutheran College debate squad can not be measured in terms of victories this year as most of the debates were non-decisional. However, clear thinking, remarkable delivery, and fiery remarks were "hallmarks" of this year's debaters.

After much deliberation on such a far reaching question the teams were prepared to meet the following schools: Washington State College, College of Puget Sound, Aberdeen Junior College, Yelvo Junior College, Contra Costa Junior College. Of these the first debate of the season was with Washington State which resulted in a victory for Pacific Lutheran College; this gave vigor and vim to the entire group. There was one more decision debate which ended in a defeat for P. L. C.

"Resolved, that Congress should enact legislation providing for the centralized control of industry," was the question for debate.

With but two members left from the last year's squad, namely, Evelyn Arneson and Eric Hauba, there was much opportunity for others interested in making the debate squad.

After a large tryout the following members were chosen to make up the college debate squad: Clara Fjorrsdal, Dorothy Lehmann, Helen Thross, Marie Johnson, Evelyn Arneson, Eric Hauba, Harold Berntson, Robert Reid, Fred Walters and Norman Holtenstad.

The success of this year is largely due to the able coaching of Professor Pflueger.

DRAMA CLUB

Life itself is partly acting. That perhaps is one of the reasons the Drama Club at our college has been so active this year. It has a very large membership, yet every individual has taken an active interest in the society.

This organization offers a fine opportunity for every student at Pacific Lutheran College to acquire for himself a training that is exceedingly valuable. The ability to appear before a group of people and give a talk or take part in some sort of play without suffering stage-fright is a valuable asset both for the purpose of business and pleasure. It is just such a training that the Drama Club offers.

In order to make the work more interesting and to furnish every member an opportunity for taking part during the year, the club is divided into three groups, each with a leader. On the third Friday of each month, all three groups put on a one-act play in the College gymnasium. A faculty committee of three judges the presentation of these plays, giving first place to the group whose play is voted the best, second to the next and third place to the last. At the end of the year, the losing groups give a party in honor of the winning one.

The one-act plays that were presented were: "The Green Shadow," "The Professor of Love," "Mabel Mill and Marcia," "No Room at the Inn," "The Christmas Burger," "The Christmas Sueton," "The Silver Glass," "Sauce for the Gooking," "It Isn't Being Done."

Top Row—Gilbert Sedow, Treves Nuttall, Fred Walter, William Milton, Carl Martin, Clarence Egan, Walter Young, Arthur Swanson, Clifford Muford.
 Second Row—Clarence Mason, Ell Wheeler, Bob Moran, Millard Quate, Jess Flagen, Harold Mansell, Norman Westing, Harry Southworth.

"What's What," "The Three Brothers," "So You're Going to Paris," "The Right Answer," "Mistake and Moonlight," and "The Kitchen Mechanics."

The plays that took first place were: "The Professor of Love," "The Christmas Bungle," "The Silver Gloom," "What's What," and "The Right Answer."

The group leaders for the first semester were: Tri O's, Dagor Hjermstad; Mist and Daggers, Walter Young; and the Popper Players, Margaret Jacobsen. For the second semester: Mist and Daggers, Frances Jane Levin; Tri O's, Keith J. Patten; and Popper Players, Clarence Mason.

Officers for the first semester were: president, Clarence Mason; vice president, Holden Hauke; secretary-treasurer, Esther Westby; and advertising manager, Evelyn Arneson.

The officers for the second semester were: president, Holden Hauke; vice president, Helen Irvine; secretary-treasurer, Carl Martin; and advertising manager, William Milton.

Throughout this year stage committees were appointed for each play by the group leader, thus a great many more members received valuable stage training, while but a few would have received it had a permanent stage committee been appointed.

It is remarkable that although there were three plays a month presented, no admission for students was charged.

The club wishes to thank Mr. Louise Taylor and Mr. Paul Higby, who are the club advisors, for being so successfully coached the Drama Club through this, the most progressive year in the history of the club.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY

"ODD JOB MAN"

Picture a family in which the oldest daughter is in love with a scheming poet, the son fond of girls and unwilling to study, the youngest daughter, a girl of eleven, fond of fishing worms and fighting, the governess hopelessly in love with the father, who is just recovering from a nervous breakdown, and the cook threatening to leave. The "Odd Job Man's" tasks are therefore numerous and varied. He frightens the son away from the girls, befriends the little misunderstood child, maneuvers a truce between the father and the governess, soothes the cook by flattery and singing to her, and in the end, takes the oldest daughter off the father's hands.

Forty-six

The cast of characters was as follows: John J. Gordon, the father, Harold Berentson, the eldest daughter, Evelyn Arneson, Robert Gordon, the son, Eric Hauke, Dolly Gordon, the youngest daughter, Esther Westby, Helen Spencer, the former governess, Helen Turano, Nora, the cook, Mikko Johanson, Kitty Miller, the Miss Amelia Holmquist, Gerald Page, the poet, Harry Southworth, Michael Thorne, the odd job man, Alvaro Schlamon.

As each year goes by, each succeeding class play seems a little better than the one preceding. The tireless efforts of the cast and the director, Mrs. Louise Taylor, resulted in a splendid production, of which the school was justly proud.

The cast wishes to thank Mrs. Taylor for the time and efforts she has sacrificed in order that the play be a success.

GERMAN CLUB

Dad Deutsche Weisin, the youngest member of our College family, was organized as a monument to the magic of Goethe's name. Its purpose, "to promote tolerant understanding of the people who speak a different tongue," is worthy of hearty cooperation.

Then, too, how much more interesting to us, in portraying our thought, the language whose structure and grammar we study. How inspiring to share the travel experiences of those who have crossed the deep to the land where the memories of great men, scientists, artists, poets, linger; to read together of the scenes where the Father of our Lutheran church toiled that we might enjoy religious and intellectual freedom.

Officers for this semester were: Lorraine Thoresen, president; Norman West-Eng, vice president; Clarence Reen, secretary; Evans Carlson, treasurer.

FRENCH CLUB

To stimulate interest in the customs, art, and language of France "Le Cercle Français" was organized at P. L. C. in April of this year. However, for several months prior to the formal organization, a group of high school and college students interested in French had been meeting for lunch together on Thursdaynoons to enjoy programs, plays and games in the language studied.

Club meetings, conducted in French, not only offer the students an opportunity to increase their knowledge of the language, but also make it possible for them to derive more enjoyment from their study.

Officers of the club are: Edgar Larson, president; Shirley Hecht, vice president; Rachel Felt, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. E. H. Buddy, advisor. All students who are taking, or have taken, French are eligible for membership.

GERMAN CLUB: Top Row—Norman West-Eng, William Wright, Aune Scherman, Kathryn Johnson, John Hoss, Paul Hess, Clarence Reen, Evans Carlson, Avelin Wulfs, Lou Hoss, Easline Scherman.

Second Row—William Mueger, Gudrun Stenad, Ruth Fisher, Esther Jahr, Lorraine Thoresen, Alberta Schmitz, Anne Miskowicz, Mildred Janssen, Kathleen Frenck, Bernice Schenker, Eino Dammal.

LETTERMEN'S CLUB

The Lettermen's Club is composed of all men who have made at least one letter in some sport. The purpose of this organization is to foster athletics and to establish certain rules pertaining to these sports. For all the major sports the club sets the regulations for the size of the letter to be awarded and for the amount of time that must be played by each individual before he is considered eligible for a letter. A major letter of six inches has been decided upon for football and basketball, while the golf and tennis letter is four inches in height.

The club has welcomed many new members this year. There were twenty new lettermen when the football season drew to its close. In both golf and tennis there were awards given to first year lettermen, who were also honored by becoming members of this organization.

According to the suggestion of the club, baseball was not a major sport this year. But under the club's auspices all those who desired to participate in this sport were divided into three teams—the Dormitory students, the "Shock" students and the Day students. A regular schedule of games was arranged among these three teams, and a great deal of interest was shown.

Alvino Schierman was president of the Lettermen's club during the past year.

GIRLS' HIKING CLUB

The Girls' Hiking Club, founded to establish and enlarge wholesome companionship among the women students of the college, was organized late in the year by a group especially interested in outdoor life. There had been an undercurrent of feeling for just this sort of club for some time, and leading by the roadship kit and the large group who turn out for the hikes, the club will play an important role in the lives of the women students of the college in the future.

Under its peculiar organization the club has but two officers: that of chairman and that of scribe. The duty of the chairman is to act as leader, and the scribe to keep a record of all the activities of the club. Records of all the hikes are kept by the scribe and compiled in a book "Walking Papers." The officers for this year were: Margaret Elliott, chairman; Kathryn Lamb, scribe.

For each hike a committee of three members is appointed by the chairman to make plans pertaining to the "what and where" of the trip. Under the leadership of these committees the lunches to be taken along are prepared; the beds to be cooked at the campfire are selected; the type of entertainment at the bonfire is planned and executed.

This summer plans included hikes to nearby lakes and beaches. Much enthusiasm has been shown by the girls in backing up and supporting the club and its activities.

Top Row—Margaret Olson, Esther Joh, Grace Park, Dagry Hjermetad, Catherine Phelan, Marie Jensen, Margaret Hines, Dickie Leland, Marie Gardlin.

PEP CLUB

School friendships, which are among the strongest bonds in existence, are strengthened in the Pep Club. Here the girls of the dormitory come into contact with one another, and form unselfish attachments which teach them to appreciate more fully the quotation: "What do we live for, if it is not to make life less difficult for one another?"

Besides promoting friendships, the Pep Club has encouraged self-government by arousing more enthusiasm and cooperation. A new constitution advocating among other things, the appointment of proctors in the dormitory has been adopted.

At the regular bi-monthly meetings, the members give entertainments, discuss the problems of the organization, and enjoy the refreshments so essential to an association of this kind. In this way the girls have learned to know one another more intimately and have become better friends. The varied larger social functions in which the organization took part throughout the year have also done much to develop this friendly feeling, notably the reception given for the new members at the beginning of the year and, later, the initiation party. At 1932 was last year, the Pep Club invited the Men's Dormitory Union to a party on February 29. The Sunday preceding being vacation, the Pep Club served an Easter supper to the girls of the dormitory.

Officers of the Pep Club are elected each semester. The executives for the first semester were: president, Louise Schneider; vice president, Nordis Arneson; secretary, Dagry Hjermetad; treasurer, Margaret Elliott. For the second semester the officers were: president, Margaret Kasland; vice president, Catherine Phelan; secretary-treasurer, Dickie Leland.

The Pep Club has a standard emblem and its pin inscribed with the name of the organization.

DELTA RHO GAMMA

The College and High School day-room girls, who are all striving for the same thing, education, have developed a stronger feeling of friendship for their classmates through the organization of the Delta Rho Gamma Club.

Besides having regular meetings in the College day-room on Tuesdays the girls have found time to cultivate one another's friendship and to work together in having many happy times. Parties were held during the year, including a Thanksgiving luncheon, a Christmas party, a St. Patrick's Day luncheon for the day student boys, and a May Day luncheon.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas time the girls took many baskets of food to poor families.

The girls decided to have sweaters of black with the Delta Rho Gamma insignia of gold felt in front.

The officers who led the activities for the year were: president, Clara Fjormadal; vice president, Helen Throner; secretary, Frances Newton; treasurer, Alberta Schmitz; and yell leader, Frances Jone Lavin.

The girls hope this friendship will not cease with graduation but will always continue through life wherever the Delta Rho Gammas may be after leaving their own Pacific Lutheran College.

MEN'S DORMITORY UNION

Through the organization of the Men's Dormitory Union, the men cooperate with their dean in maintaining discipline and in solving other problems of the dormitory. The officials of the club are authorized to consult the dean on various methods of preserving a high standard of morals and ideals. The organization has assisted in developing a spirit of cooperation among its members so that it has been possible for the dean to be an adviser instead of a policeman. The members are encouraged to suggest and provide ways and means for improving conditions in the dormitory. The Union is a self-governing body whose members seek to arouse more school spirit in the various activities. The results have been very satisfactory and have helped to make dormitory life enjoyable.

On the evening of the first Tuesday of each month, the meetings of the Union are held. At this time, the business of the organization is brought up and discussed. Through these meetings the members incidentally get much training in leadership a training which will be later of great practical value to them.

One of the features sponsored by the Men's Dormitory Union during the past year was a Halloween party to which the members of the Pop Club were invited.

The last meeting of each semester is devoted to the election of officers for the following term. For the first semester, the officers were: Walter Young, president; John Zachertson, vice president; Einar Carlson, secretary; Alvino Schierman, treasurer. For the second semester, the officers were: Alvino Schierman, president; Norman Holmstad, vice president; Harold Berntson, secretary; Stanley Scora, treasurer.

DAY ROOM BOYS' CLUB

The Day Room Boys traced the trail for future progress by organizing a club composed of students living outside of the dormitory. The purpose of the organization is to keep the day students in contact with the school and to provide certain special advantages for its members.

The club which was organized during the latter part of the school year, elected officers to serve for the rest of the present school year, and for the school year of 1932-1933. The constitution and the name of the club have not as yet been adopted, but the president was given power to select committees to act in all matters that he may deem necessary. The time and place of the regular meetings have also been left to the discretion of the president.

Among the club's activities for the year should be mentioned the party for the Delta Rho Gamma, which was a very successful event, and the organization of two outdoor baseball teams, which competed against the dormitory for intramural championships. The club elected Ben Pyle as captain to lead the teams to victory.

The officers in charge of the organization for the year are: Clarence Rosen, president; Jesse Flanagan, vice president; Graham Rosen, secretary; treasurer.

The Officers of the Day Room Boys' Club are: President, Ben Pyle; Vice President, Jesse Flanagan; Secretary, Graham Rosen; Treasurer, Clarence Rosen.

ALUMNI

Serving as a medium for organizing and uniting old students and graduates of the College and Academy, the Alumni Association plays an important part in the life of the College. In its ranks are graduates and former students of Pacific Lutheran Academy and Columbia Lutheran College, as well as of Pacific Lutheran College.

Each spring a Reunion Banquet is held, with the Alumni Board in charge of all the affairs. This year the "Frontier Idea" permeated the dinner speeches, the atmosphere, and the decorative work throughout. Speeches at the banquet were given by Prof. H. J. Harg and Dean Philip E. Hauge, speaking for Pacific Lutheran Academy and Pacific Lutheran College, respectively, and telling of reminiscences, queer incidents, and funny quips of their respective early college days. Besides these, a letter was read for Rev. R. Bogstad telling of experiences at Spokane Lutheran College and Columbia College. Short talks were given by Dr. O. A. Tingelstad, of the class of 1902, Mrs. Edwin Tingelstad (formerly Ida Fjeldel) of the class of 1912, Albert Thompson of the class of 1922, and by Harold Berntsen, representing the class of 1932. Speeches were given by Rev. S. A. Harsted, founder of the institution.

Besides urging the alumni to support all the College activities and the school publications, the Alumni Association has organized various "territory clubs" for alumni in various sections of the country. The Alumni Association has also undertaken the very difficult yet progressive task of establishing a Student Loan Fund. The success of the project is very commendable.

Officers and board members for the year 1931-1932 as elected at the last "Reunion" are: Irene Dahl, president; Laurence Hauge, vice president; Ruth Fadness, secretary; Alfred Anderson, treasurer; Prof. J. P. Pflueger, faculty representative; Ingsborg Bolstad, Walter Christianesen, Edwin Tingelstad, Martha Hjermstad, and George Line, members-at-large.

ATHLETICS

COLLEGE ATHLETICS

A new era in the realm of sports has dawned at Pacific Lutheran College. A larger athletic program than ever was carried and with such favorable results that Pacific Lutheran College is now on an equal footing with other junior colleges in this state, and even approaches the standards set by the schools in the Northwest Conference. Against all formidable opponents Coach Olson's teams made enviable records. For the first time in the history of the Institution, only schools of junior college rating, or better, have been included on the schedules of men's athletics.

A large number of aspiring athletes answered Coach Olson's call for football and basketball. Close to fifty men turned out for the pigskin sport in the first practice sessions, while thirty-five candidates came out for basketball. In both these major sports first and second teams were maintained until the end of the season. Coach Percival, who had charge of the second team in football, enjoyed several victories. His squad did not lose a game last season, and was not even scored upon by their opponents.

In the minor sports of tennis, golf, and baseball, the school was also very ably represented. A new program was instituted this year on the baseball diamond. All those who desired to engage in this sport were divided into three groups—the dormitory men, Parkland men, and day students. These various teams had a regular schedule. This method stimulated a great deal of interest and gave all a chance to participate.

The Pacific Lutheran College girls were represented in inter-scholastic sports by the girls' basketball team. From a turnout of about twenty-five, Coach Rensied cut the squad down to ten players, and produced a winning combination. Although confronted with a difficult schedule, the girls succeeded in gaining victories in the majority of their contests.

In looking over the entire athletic program of the year, it seems certain that Pacific Lutheran College will remain in the high place she has made for herself in sportsdom.

ALL-COLLEGE FOOTBALL

One of the fastest and heaviest teams ever turned out at P. L. C. carried out Olson's new program of playing only teams of college calibre this last football season. With plenty of good material, Coach Olson molded a combination that won six of nine games played. By establishing such an enviable record, P. L. C. gained a host of new followers, promising a great future for the school on the gridiron.

P. L. C. 0—C. P. S. Verity 20
 Sept. 19, 1931

Although they came out on the short end of the score, P. L. C. gave the Loggon a real battle for sixty minutes. The rival Tacoma team scored only once in the first half, but because of superior reserve power and experience, pushed over two touchdowns in the final quarter to end the game, 20-0. A determined drive by the Gladiators in the second quarter came close to breaking the score, but was halted when the gun beried for the half. Altho the Gladiators were probably outplayed the greater part of the contest, their fighting spirit made the game a fine one to watch throughout the contest.

P. L. C. 20—Battleship Lexington 0
 Sept. 26, 1931

Considerably led by the result of their first game, the Lutheran men got their revenge by defeating the heavier visitor boys to the tune of 20-0. Minor defects noticed in the Loggon contest having been ironed out the Gladiators had no difficulty in turning back the former foot champs. The entire team functioned well, the line being especially effective in defensive play.

THE SAGA

P. L. C. vs. Kitsap Athletic Club 0

Oct. 3, 1931

By outsmarting the Kitsap team in the opening minutes of the game, the Parkland eleven came out victorious, 6-0. The Gladiators caught the clubmen sleeping and scored the only touchdown of the contest by means of a fake reverse. Although this seemed to be a slim lead, it proved enough, as the Bremerton team did not once come into scoring territory.

P. L. C. 0—Ellensburg 13

Oct. 10, 1931

In the second night game of the season, P. L. C. again came out on the short end of the score, due to Ellensburg's aerial attack. Holding the powerful Ellensburg Normal outfit as even terms until the last quarter, they surprised the sports critics and delighted the Lutheran followers. It was not until the final minutes of the battle that the teachers pushed over two scores, winning 13-0. The P. L. C. line again had proved well-nigh impregnable.

P. L. C. 27—Bellingham 7

Oct. 16, 1931

Galloping "Red" Carlson and a brilliant aerial attack were two of the important factors in defeating Bellingham, 27-7. "Red" twice intercepted passes to run for touchdowns, while given splendid backing by the rest of the team. P. L. C. for the first time revealed her real strength in trouncing the Bellingham team so decisively. The Lutheran's passing attack was all that could be desired, as the ball was placed in scoring territory time and time again by this means. Bellingham scored her only touchdown on the second team, which started the game.

P. L. C. 27—Bremerton Navy Team 0

Oct. 24, 1931

Plowing through a six-inch mud, the Gladiators easily overcame their lighter opponents by the score of 27-0. Coach Olson used three different teams in this contest, no difficulty being encountered by any of them. The Glad's pass defense proved especially effective again, two of the touchdowns being scored by means of intercepted passes.

P. L. C. vs. LEXINGTON

Fifty yards

THE SAGA

P. L. C. 6—Oregon State Normal 25

Oct. 31, 1931

The superior reserve power of the Monmouth eleven accounted for this defeat. A night game again proved a win to the Lutherans, the Oregonians pushing over three touchdowns in the last half to win, 28-6. The Glads took the lead in the first quarter by means of a touchdown scored by the "dead-man" play. However, this slim margin was short-lived as the Monmouth squad came right back and scored a touchdown and extra point to obtain a lead which was never relinquished.

P. L. C. 14—Astoria 8

Nov. 7, 1931

A pass from Leque to Jacobson spelled doom for the Grays Harbor eleven in the last few seconds of this contest. The wet field proved a drawback to the Lutherans in the first half, several passes from center going wild which enabled the Jayces to score a safety. This score together with a later touchdown gave the Jayces a 8-0 lead. The Glads scored a touchdown and extra point, but with only 30 seconds to go the count was still 8-7 for the Jays. "Little Jake" pulled a pass out of the air just before the gun, however, which turned a seeming defeat into victory.

P. L. C. 26—Whitworth 0

Nov. 14, 1931

Ending the football season in a big way, the heavier P. L. C. squad easily overcame their lighter Spokane opponents, scoring a touchdown in each quarter to turn in a 26-0 win. The Whitworth gridmen made only one serious scoring attempt, which was abruptly halted by the Glads on the ten-yard line. From then on it was evident that the Lutherans were the superior eleven—passing, kicking, and running their way deep into the Easterners' territory time after time. This contest proved to be a fitting ending for a successful season.

FOOTBALL LETTERMEN

Alvino Schierman, '32

Is completing his football career at P. L. C., Schierman lived up to his reputation as one of the fastest guards ever to be turned out at P. L. C. Alvino was the team's choice for honorary captain of the 1931 eleven.

Ted Cronquist, '32

"Big Ted" played his first year for the Gladiators last season, and was one of the big centers to the team. At a tackle position, Ted was ready for every play that came his way, constantly harassing the opposing backs. He is the captain for the 1932 squad.

Harold Berenston, '32

Having completed a season of freshman football at St. Olaf, "Benny" was experienced, and showed this last season. Berenston played center.

Smith Campbell, '32

"Smitty" is a fast and clever guard, always ready to go into the game and battle. Smitty is an able player, either on defense or offense.

Evans Carlson, '32

"Red" the speed demon, finished a colorful football career at P. L. C. last season. The fastest man on the squad, and also the shiftest, Red was a constant worry to the opposing team's defense. In addition to being an effective ball-center, Carlson showed marked ability in passing and punting.

Jack Colburn, '33

And how that boy can punt! Jack can put them up in the air for fifty yards or more. He played in both the full-back and halfback positions last season.

John Fadness, '33

"Fad" took care of the pivot position on the '31 eleven. Playing his second year at varsity center, John proved a true passer and an excellent man on defense.

FOOTBALL LETTERMEN

Holden Houks, '33

Coming up from the second squad, "Fat" showed his ability immediately on the first string. Combining his weight with his speed, Houks proved to be an effective back.

Carol Jacobson, '33

Small but speedy, "Little Jole" played a bang-up game at right end last season. When yardage was needed, a pass to Jole was usually good for the distance. Remember that Aberdeen game?

Myron Leque, '33

Another Stanwood product, Leque fulfilled the duties of quarterback. A heady player, Myron quickly sensed the weaknesses of the other eleven. He is also adept at carrying the ball, whether thru the line or around end.

Bob Levinson, '33

"Lover" shone when it came to snagging passes and making yardage via the air. Bob played end, and held up his position in a capable manner.

Jack Lishness, '32

Jack, the plunging fullback, was always there when it came to making a few yards for a first down. Also at backing up the line, "Lish" showed the boys how to tackle. They know something had hit them when Jack tackled.

Carl Merita, '33

Another big boy, Merita proved his ability at a tackle post. With Martin on one side of the line and Crispin on the other, the tackle positions were well taken care of.

Carl Paffenroth, '33

"Puff" was the team's place-kicker last season, in addition to being a clever ball-carrier and adept passer. Carl played halfback.

FOOTBALL LETTERMEN

William Milton, '33

When "Brick" says no, they don't come around his end. Brick plays end, and is plenty clever with his hands when it comes to snagging them out of the air.

Sheldon Moe, '33

"Dutch" came thru in a big way in his first year of college competition. Dutch plays quarterback and knows how to call 'em. Also, Moe is a flashy broken-field runner, and is being depended upon to fill Red's shoes next year.

Millard Quate, '32

A hard hitting fullback. Quate was at ways to be depended upon in a pinch. He is a fast offensive man, and backs up the line efficiently.

Tygro Ruess, '33

"Tryg" also played his first year of college football this past season, at a tackle position. Altho rather light, he proved capable of going into the game and fighting when called.

Bill Shore, '33

The heaviest man on the team, flying the scales at 215 pounds. Bill used his weight to good advantage at his guard position. Shore effectively stopped the best fullbacks from making any yardage thru the center of the line.

Bill Whalen, '33

Bill alternated between the guard and tackle posts and showed himself to be well qualified for either position. Seemingly fearless. Bill hits low and hard, before the opponents' interference has a chance to form.

Walter Young, '33

Whoa Walt gets his ire aroused it's too bad for the other fellows. Walt is a terror, and can he smack them!

SECOND TEAM FOOTBALL

The nucleus of the second team in football was composed of those players whose experience was not sufficient to make the first squad. The "seconds" developed rapidly under Coach Percival's guidance in both departments of the game, defense and offense. Their defense was especially effective, as their goal line was not crossed at any time during the season. The Gladiators scored 89 points and kept their opponents scoreless.

The Gladiators opened their season with a brilliant victory over York High School, 25-0. From the first, the Gladiators showed their superiority, coming thru with a touchdown in the first few minutes of the contest. Lyal Sanderson and Halden Quake proved to be the spark-plugs in the P. L. C. attack—Hauke in plowing thru the line for two touchdowns, and Sanderson making the extra number on end-around plays.

In the second contest of the season the Gladiators found greater opposition in the Roy High School eleven. However, the heavier P. L. C. team managed to put across two touchdowns on their lighter opponents, winning 13-0. Coach Percival's entire squad functioned well, and showed considerable improvement over their former appearance.

PERCIVAL

The next victims to fall before the Gladiators' attack were the Lincoln High Reserves, who were vanquished to the tune of 26-0. Hauke was a tower of strength in the P. L. C. backfield, while Hergert, end, was the stellar lineman. Hergert accounted for two touchdowns by receiving long passes over the Lincoln goal line.

Although without the services of Hauke, who had been promoted to the first string, the seconds again crushed their opponents' victory hopes when they defeated the Stadium High Reserves, 25-0. In this final contest of the season, the Gladiators ran wild to score at will. Quake and Morrison were the big guns in the backfield, while the entire line was impregnable.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

For the second year in succession Pacific Lutheran College, under Olson's guiding hand, came through to win the junior college mythical state championship. The Gladiators won five out of seven conference games and retained last year's title. Although winning only eight out of sixteen encounters during the entire season, not including pre-season games, the Lutherans consider the season a success, as the losses were mostly to four-year colleges. Such impediments as the automobile accident ebbe down in Oregon, and the loss of Paffenroth and Taft at mid-year, seriously handicapped the team. Considering the type of opposition, mostly from large institutions—members of the Northwest Conference—the season can well be called a success.

P. L. C. 20—Bellingham Normal 37
at Bellingham, Jan. 9, 1932

The Gladiators lost the opening game of the season when they met the rangy Normal quint at Bellingham. Although gaining an early lead, the Lutherans failed to keep it, and dropped the game to the tune of 37-20. It was a fast and well-played contest, and not until the closing minutes did the Normal team get a commanding lead.

P. L. C. 29—C. P. S. Varsity 48
at C. P. S., Jan. 12

In this first contest with the old Tacoma rival, it can be frankly said that the P. L. C. forces just didn't click, whereas the Loggers seemed unable to miss the hoop. Long shots accounted for many of the Loggers' scores, who had no difficulty in coasting to a 48-29 victory.

P. L. C. 35—C. P. S. Varsity 45
at C. P. S., Jan. 15

A much-changed Lutheran quint met the North-end school a few evenings etc. The Glads held a lead at the half, and for three quarters the Loggers found it impossible to break through the strong P. L. C. defense. However, using their superior height to advantage, the C. P. S. quiet finally forged ahead to lead at the final gun barked, 43-35.

P. L. C. 27—Mt. Vernon 23
at P. L. C., Jan. 16

Facing their third opposing team of the week, the tired Lutheron hoopers nipped out Mt. Vernon, 27-23. It was clear that P. L. C. was the superior team, but they seemingly had great difficulty in finding the basket. It was only a last minute rally that brought them a four point victory.

P. L. C. 18—Columbia University 12
at P. L. C., Jan. 21

In a surprising upset victory, the Gladiators took the color of the strategy

Portland combination, 18-12. The score clearly indicates that both teams played a strong defensive game, and every point was well earned.

P. L. C. 16—Columbia University 22
At Portland, Jan. 27

The University turned the tables on the Lutheron hoopers, and won in the second meeting of the two schools, 22-16. In such the tempo type of games as played at P. L. C., the Catholic quint took advantage of the shots allowed them to nose out the invading Lutheron five.

P. L. C. 40—Albany College 26
at Albany, Jan. 29

Although minus the services of Milton and Max, because of an automobile accident en route to Albany, the aggressive P. L. C. combination gained a striking win over the Albany five, 40-26. With only six men in all, the Glads played inspired basketball and were never headed by the home team at any time.

P. L. C. 24—Aberdeen Jr. College 25
at P. L. C., Feb. 3

In a heart-breaking last-minute rally, the Hardorites came from behind to wrench a one-point victory from the Glads, 25-24. In the first quarter between the two ancient rivals, last year's contest was reenacted. Neither team had a commanding lead at any time, and only Berg's one-handed shot accounted for Aberdeen's victory.

P. L. C. 19—Cheney Normal 31
at P. L. C., Feb. 4

Facing perhaps the strongest opponent of their season, the Parkland team played a superior brand of ball to hand Coach Reese's outfit for all but the last seven minutes of the contest. The Glad later five, although coming out on the low end of a 31-19 score, threw a big scare into Cheney with the head-up brand of basketball they displayed. They were handicapped in this game by the loss of four regulars—Poffenroth, Teft, Moe, and Mitton.

P. L. C. 30—Yatima Jr. College 19
at P. L. C., Feb. 11

A betting band of Yatima betsters encountered Coach Olson's outfit to be defeated 30-19 in a well played contest on the home floor. Until the third quarter, the score saw-sawed back and forth with neither team having any decisive lead. P. L. C., however, showed championship form in the last period to carry away the long end of the score.

P. L. C. 20—Mt. Vernon Jr. College 26
at Mt. Vernon, Feb. 12

A somewhat overconfident Parkland team met defeat at the hands of Mt. Vernon 26-20, although the Jayses had previously been vanquished by the Gladiators. The Lutherans started a rally in the last few minutes, but found the Mt. Vernon lead too large to overcome.

THE SAGA

P. L. C. 37—Aberdeen Jr. College 24
at Aberdeen, Feb. 15

For the first time in two years, Aberdeen was severely trounced by Olson's quint, 37-24. None of the Glads experienced difficulty in connecting with the hoop for counters, and it was clearly evident who would be holding the sack at the end of the contest.

P. L. C. 35—Bellingham Normal 19
at P. L. C., Feb. 19

The strong Bellingham five repeated their early season win 39-35 but found they had a much harder time in doing so. Time and time again the Lutherans tied the score, only to fall a few points behind again. The Normal team managed to work up a four point lead when the final gun barked.

P. L. C. 28—Centralia Jr. College 22
at P. L. C., Feb. 24

In a slow, close checking game, the Parklandites took the measure of the Centralia Jaysons, 28-22. Coach Olson used all his men in this game, and P. L. C. was never headed, although the score was quite close at all times.

P. L. C. 45—Albany Jr. College 22
at P. L. C., Feb. 26

Showing their real strength in the last game of the season, the Gladiators overwhelmed the Oregonians, 45-22. When the regulars left the game in the first half, the count was 20-1, displaying the superiority over the Lutherans. From the beginning the Gladiators easily countered the defensive tactics of their opponents.

A game scheduled with Centralia was forfeited to the Lutherans.

SECOND TEAM BASKETBALL

The P. L. C. Reserves enjoyed a very successful season on the basketball floor, being victorious in the majority of their games. Coach Olson supervised the second team, which was composed of those players who were eliminated from the first squad.

In one of the first contests of the season the Parkland Men's Club was met and defeated, 18-15. Close-checking characterized their contest, neither team being allowed any close-in shots.

Two losses were next inflicted on the Parkland team by the Logger Reserves. In the first conflict the Lumberjacks had an easy time in outclassing the Lutheran five to win 28-9. The great size of the C. P. S. floor somewhat handicapped the P. L. C. seconds, especially in their offensive play. The second meeting was a more interesting one, as only a few points separated the two teams throughout the contest, the final score being 22-15. Hudson was high-point man for the Glads, with 9 points; while Wick of the Loggers, accounted for 14 of his team's total points.

Another defeat was inflicted on the Lutheran Reserves when they clashed with the Mt. Vernon Reserves. The Glads came out on the short end of a 15-10 score. As the score indicated it was a slow, low-scoring contest.

The seconds now seemed to snap out of their losing streak, and quickly annexed three victories. The first to fall was the Roy High School team by a score of 18-12, followed by a win over the Aberdeen seconds 40-31, and finally by a victory over the ancient rivals, Spanaway, 20-15. The most pleasing of these victories was the one over Aberdeen. The Jaywee's team, always a formidable opponent, was composed of some of the best players and the win over them was particularly satisfying. In all three contests Hudson was high-point man, totalling 20 points.

GOLF

The turn-out for the spring golf tournament was one of the best in the history of Pacific Lutheran College, numbering thirty players. From the winners of this tournament was chosen the golf team which represented the school in interscholastic games. John Brotham, a high school student, won first place (his being number one man on the team. The next seven players and their college are: Ray Hinderle, second; John Stuey, third; Palmer Odgaard, fourth; Paul Pross, fifth; Norman Westling, sixth; Alvin Lehman, seventh; and Orwall Gahl, eighth.

Up to the time this book goes to press, the Ladder tournament has not been started, but is to be begun soon. When this tournament shall have been completed, the golf team will participate in matches with other junior colleges of the state.

Sixty-eight

TENNIS

Tennis is another of the favorite spring sports at Pacific Lutheran College. A tennis tournament, similar to the golf tournament, was run off to determine the members of the school team. Twenty-eight players participated in the tournament, from which the five highest were chosen to compose the team. The tennis team at the time of this writing is composed of: Clifford King, Bill Whelan, Bob Levinson, Eric Hauke, and John Farness.

At this time only one match has been played, a match with St. Martin. Although only having had a week of practice, the team showed up well in winning the match. The Gladiators won three out of the five games played. Other matches have been scheduled, and Pacific Lutheran College promises to be well represented on the tennis courts.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Completing one of the most successful basketball seasons in the history of the school, the 1931-1932 Pacific Lutheran College Co-ed Basketball team established a record that will be hard to equal.

Under the capable coaching of Andrew W. Ranstad, popularly known as "Ranny", the Lutheran co-ed team romped through the season with nine wins, losing only two games and tying one. Comparative scores also showed that the co-ed college artists were on top, scoring 265 points to their opponents' 195.

The initial game of the season was played with the Methodist team of Tacoma. Despite the fact that Coach Ranstad's charges were out of practice, they completely overwhelmed their opposition, defeating them 40 to 27.

Playing a much improved brand of basketball, the Lutherans met the Lincoln Park girls on the College floor, January 9, and after an exciting game, won 29 to 21.

On January 15 the Gladiators journeyed to Sumner and tangled with their old rivals. The game was a war-torn affair throughout. Although the Lutherans were threatened constantly, they managed to keep on top and won the game, 25 to 23.

On January 18 they defeated the Poultry team of Tacoma, 24 to 21. On January 22 they defeated the Parkland Independents in a return game, 10 to 7, and on January 23 vanquished the strong Telephone girls' team from Tacoma, 28 to 7.

The return game with Senior High School was held on the local floor February 6. This was one of the roughest games of the season. After the final whistle had been blown the Lutherans found themselves on the short end of the score, 14 to 17. This was their first defeat.

On February 20 the Alumnae met defeat at the hands of the Gladiators, 24 to 8 and on February 20, the Rouletts Heights squad willared a hot back, 16 to 14.

The last two games of the season proved to be the most exciting. On March 2, after a hard game, the Lutherans and the College of Puget Sound team battled to a draw, 20 to 20. In the final game of the season the Lutherans fell before the onslaught of the powerful Orring team, 25 to 18.

The team is composed as follows:
Ruth Howard, guard Ruth Captain of the team, was never off her guard, and her inspiration was responsible for many victories.

Helen Collins, guard: Helen's hard playing won for her the confidence of her teammates.

Alice Alvins, forward: Cool, steady, consistent playing is a good description of Alice as a forward.

Margaret Hilmo, forward: Hilmo's fast and speedy playing made her high-point man for the season.

Margaret Kaaland, center: Margaret won the admiration of everyone; she put 90% of her effort into every play.

Evelyn Monson, center: Evelyn was always "right there" to get the ball and did creditable work in every game.

Nickie Lotand, forward: Nickie played a good game whenever called into action and will be remembered for her good nature and sportsmanship.

Kathleen Forath, guard: Kathleen was a hard player and a good sport.

Nickie Perceval, center: Nickie played a very good game at jumping center.

Marie G. O. O., center: Marie played her usual steady game of all times.

Other members of the squad were: Dorothy Winsor, Dorothy Lehmann, and Jennie Iverson; Mary Louise Freus, Manager.

Then a burst of flame
From Edison's lamp
Lighted the world.
Just so do faith and love
And Christian lore light up our world;
And we work and live together.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

TO THESE:

WHO have contributed so much of their time, labor, and energy that this Saga might be possible, we offer our grateful thanks:

To our faculty who have given us a helping hand, especially to our editors, Prof. N. J. Hong, Mrs. Laura B. Kreidler, Mr. Ludwig Larson, and Mr. Edwin Tingelstad; to our Sellers, Mr. Prou and Mr. Bystrom, without whose efforts and support we would be lost and to our President, Dr. O. A. Tingelstad, whose inspirations and understanding have certainly added to our success.

To Mr. Brown whose unending cooperation, inspirations, and advice, have done much in lending to the tone and art of our Saga; and to other employees of Tacoma Engraving Company whose loyal support and labor we received.

To Mr. Goff and to Mr. Joe Helm of Pioneer Incorporated, whose untiring efforts, suggestions, good humor, and valiant support have been of inestimable value in publishing the 32 Sags.

To Mr. and Mrs. Krug of Harbort Studio whose efforts have been many in making our annual a real picture of our College life.

To the Board of Trustees who in giving approval of our editing on annual this year, gave us that added bit of confidence necessary in any project.

To all our advertisers, who so kindly made possible the publishing of this year book.

To all those, viz. the 1932 S. & S. extend our heartfelt thanks.
