VOLUME 32, NUMBER 2

PUBLISHED BY THE STUDENTS OF PACIFIC LUTHERAN COLLEGE

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1954

Backdrop Will Be Highlight

A unique backdrop will be a highlight in the coming Sixtieth Anniversary Celebration pageant at Pacific Lutheran College the weekend of October 14-17. The biggest drop ever to be used at PLC will consist of two canvas flats, each 24 by 45 feet.

On one flat will be the entrance to Old Main. In front of this flat will be the scene of the dedication of the building in 1894. The front steps included in this scene of Old Main will be done by the industrial arts department.

Second Flat

The second flat will be of the CMS building in front of which will be a large group of students conversing about campus activities. Included in the conversations will be mention of the other buildings on campus.

A crew of students headed by Jerry Slattum and advised by George Roskos, will be working on the backdrop each evening, back stage in the CMS, from now up until the time of the pageant. Included in the group are Lee Horning, Jack Shultz, Mike Griffin, Abdul-el-Subbagh, Louis Geisert, Stan Read, Barbara Gronke, Dorven Zueske, and Ida Jo Gronke. "Anyone else who enjoys 'slapping paint is certainly welcome to help," says Jerry.

Dr. J. P. Pflueger Is Delegate to Conclave

Dr. J. P. Pflueger, professor of Christianity and philosophy, will leave Wednesday to attend the biennial international delegate convention of the American Lutheran Church.

Dr. J. P. Pflueger

The conclave will be held in Beatrice, Nebraska, in the week starting Thursday.

Dr. Pflueger, who will be one of four delegates from the ALC's Northwestern District, will be a member of the floor committee at the convention. The committee handles all of the major legislation of the convention, including the vital merger question.

This convention will vote on the continuance of merger negotiations with the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the United Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Free Church.

Dr. Pflueger will return Oct. 8.

Thompson Is Injured In Automobile Collision

Robert J. Thompson, assistant professor of economics and business administration, was painfully but not critically injured in an automobile accident early Wednesday morning.

Returning from a meeting in Seattle, Thompson crashed into a parked car at 84th and Pacific in Tacoma. He suffered a badly cut tongue, lacerations in his chin and lost some teeth. He also was injured in the chest, but no bones were broken.

After spending the night in a hospital, he came home where he will be bed-ridden for a few days. It is not known when he will be able to return to the classroom.

Debate Squad Begins Year

"Resolved: That the United States should extend diplomatic recognition to Communist China." This is the question that debaters will be pondering this season.

An addition has been made to the coaching staff of the forensics squad; a former PLC student and debater, Jon Ericson, who will take the role of assistant coach to Theodore Karl.

Those signing up for the forensic activity were: Anita Schnell, Beverly Svenlinsen, Carol Brall, Janet Turman, Esther Ellickson, Connie Husted, Marilyn Olsen, Sandra Jacobs, Bette Toepke, Linda Hurd, Virginia Thompson, Judy Bureker, Joan Meyer, Norman Forness, Gene Peisker, Lowell Sholdahl, Lowell Hinrichs, Tom Reeves, Tom Swindland, Stu Gilbreath, John Holm, Paul Jordan, Kenneth Robinson.

Trips Planned

Trips which are being planned this season will take the forensics squad to Tucson, Arizona; Portland, Oregon; Seattle Pacific College, College of Puget Sound; McMinneville, Oregon; St. Martin's, and Redlands, California.

"I would say, generally speaking, that this year's forensics squad prospects are promising. We have a very well balanced senior squad, and some very nice prospects coming up," stated Mr. Karl.

Mr. Ericson added, "Meetings are to be held at 4:30 on Tuesdays and at 7:00 on Thursdays... it isn't too late to turn out yet. Everyone interested is welcome."

Student Council Meet

At the last ASB Council meeting, the constitution of the newly organized Christian Student Association was approved. This group is a confederation of LSA, Mission Crusaders, and the prayer and noon worship services.

Mrs. Roe Teaches Freshman Comp.

Taking the place of Miss Karen Bue as teacher of freshman composition is Mrs. Kelmer Roe, wife of Rev. Kelmer Roe, a teacher of religion and Greek here at PLC. Miss Bue has had to resign because of poor health.

Rev. and Mrs. Roe have lived here in Parkland seven years.

Prior to coming here, Mrs. Roe's educational background was on English, sociology major and French, psychology minor at Augustana College, Sioux Falls, South Dakota.

Anne Knudson, English teacher, was attended there at the same time.

After her graduation from Augustana, she taught English in a high school in South Dakota.

Summer School

In 1949 she went to summer school here and for three years she taught in the elementary grades.

The Roe children are also in the teaching profession. Both were graduates of PLC. Their daughter, Mrs. Don Sotthstein, teaches second grade in an elementary school in Baltimore, Maryland. Her husband is taking his internship at the U. S. Public Hospital, Baltimore, Maryland. David Roe is teaching chemistry at Washington State and will also be studying for his master's degree there.

We wish you much luck and happiness in your new assignment, Mrs. Roe.

New Drill Team Girls Announced

Girls' Drill Team, donned in white and black, will be a new attraction for the 1954 Homecoming parade and game.

The Freshman and Sophomore girls, under the leadership of Jane Wolk, will be accompanied by the PLC Band in a colorful half-time program of drills, formations, and band music.

More Girls Named

Janet Emilson, Margie Wilkins, Rose Ann Jacobson, Jo Ann Dahle, Evelyn Biery, Shirley Savage, Alzora Albright, Marilyn Viebrock, Delores Evanson, Anna Marie Gromberg, Carolyn Winkler, Beatrice Scheele, Carol Bottemiller, Sylvia Herrian, Marilyn Herty, Sylvia Kirtebo, Winnie Mitton, Jo Ann Knutson, June Sather, Gail Grupp, Luv Ann Boying, Helen Jordanger, Call Christensen, and Gerda Negard.

Choir, Chorus Begin Year of Activities

Two of the finest choral groups in the Pacific Northwest have begun their year's activities on the PLC campus. The Choir of the West and the PLC Chorus have both filled their rosters with talented students, who are now engaged in preparing for the year's well-filled program.

The Choir of the West, under the direction of Mr. Malmrin, is composed of fifty-nine students, of which thirty-one were members last year. In a recent meeting to elect officers, Don Tigges was elected president; Ray Reirson, vice-president, and Mina Raen, secretary. Plans for the near future include participation in the Sixtieth Anniversary Pageant and Sunday morning service and also in the Reformation Day mass chorus.

The PLC Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Fritts, has a membership of ninety-four students. Many invitations have been extended to the group, including a monthly radio broadcast, engagements at Tacoma's three largest churches, T.V. appearances and a concert with the

Tenors

Garry Schulenburg, Evelyn Biery, Anne Stewart, Dick Bersie, Grover Akre, Stan Jacobsen, Roger Westberg, Marlene Angus, Dennis Reuter, Mornan McCullough, Virgil Anderson, Marilyn Boe.

Choir members include: First Sopranos, Jeanne Freisbe, Carol Jacobson, Myrna Shelver, Pat Soderman, Barbara Johansen, Manie McCarlson, Joyce Seeborg, Arlene Weisen, Roberta Berhedal, Lenell Howell. Second Sopranos, Lastitia Boeshore, Kathy Gulhagen, Winnie Mitton, Ruth Myrswang, Myrna Plar, Anna Lee, Maria Gabrielsen, Donna Giger. First Altos, Shirley Savage, Angela Stay, Onella Lee, Milaine Marsh, Beverly Smith, Carol Vohs, Solveig Lee. Second Altos, Mary Lou Biery, Carol Edlund, Nancy Hellan, Mina Raen, Pat Bundurant, Doris DuMouchel.

First Tenors

Stan Hulsman, Ed Larson, John Reay, Jim Simonsen, Steve Brandt. Second Tenors, Reid Trent, Ray Reirson, Hans Hollerup, Joe Danielson, Virgil Anderson.

Another's Views

Being editor of a college newspaper poses many problems, but we also have our moments of gratification. The following letter was, besides being an inspiration, very interesting to me. My only regret is that it was unsigned:

"When first coming to Pacific Lutheran College I noticed that it was the regular ritual before every meal to gripe about the food. It seemed to be contagious; one would start and then everyone at the table had to say his little piece before finally settling down to eat.

"One day a friend told of an incident last year which I think should be passed on. Everyone at the table had given their gripe except one. When it came to her turn, she smiled and said, 'You do give thanks before you eat, don't you?'

"If students would look around them in the lunch line or in the dining hall and picture how much food is actually prepared for each meal, I don't believe they would have this attitude. There wouldn't be much accomplished in the kitchen if special attention were given to each person's taste. Many of us might change our way of thinking if we just peeked into the kitchen from time to time."

Well, student body of PLC, where is your Christian attitude at meal time?

Dorm Doin's . . .

Da' Call from North Hall:
"The meeting will now come to order!" That's what Dick Brandt will be saying if we ever hold a meeting. Dick is the newly-elected president of North Hall. Ray Reiersen is "Veep" and Bob Keller is the man to watch . . . secretary-treasurer.

Have you heard the news? Some lucky individual (individual what?) is going to become the center of attraction on campus. We're having a contest to see if anyone can guess how long it will take a monkey with a wooden leg to kick the seeds out of a dill-pickle. The winner will become the first on PLC's campus to wear a pair of white bucks with a built-in bar-rail . . . the kind of shoe that leaves a distinctive footprint. The contest will be held the third Tuesday next week of the full moon.

Three cheers for telephones. We have learned a new game called "frustrate the operator." The idea is to run down the hall, taking everyone's telephone off the hook, and then trying to replace them before she catches on to what's happening.

Men! If you want to see your name (or anyone else's) in print, bring the news, gossip and the chitchat to Room 517—the one with the big window.

Next week: THE BIG SECRET!
From third floor we see that someone was passing out a box of chocolates. Anyone care to say who it was?

I hear there have been some neat stag parties up on third floor lately in room 302. One particular one mentioned was the one attended by Barb Rix, Ordetta Bechtel, Sylvia Johnson, Linda Hurd, Janet Emil-son, and Evelyn Quasa: It is rumored that they even had flowered napkins. Those packages from home really are wonderful, don't you think?

One girl on third floor is destined to become another "Swannie." This gal, namely Martha Douglas (Skip), plays about every prank possible on her friends. Especially the counselors. One night they found cookie crumbs and September bugs in their beds. She always seems to be lurking about, looking for new tricks to play. But last weekend, when she was away, the tables were turned. She returned and found a host of pranks played on her. Rubber bands in her bed, clothes tied in knots, and everything else you can imagine.

No names mentioned, but a boy was seen in the elevator the other day on his way to third floor. Better not let he house mother catch you!

Greta Haagensen was given a surprise birthday party in the early part of the week. Did you happen to notice the dainty gold cross around her neck? Who is it from, Greta? Alzora Albrecht was also honored by a surprise party. Congratulations, girls.

Tragedy has over-shadowed the fourth floor! Climaway, the pet goldfish of the Bamboo Bungalow, passed on. We are all awaiting the coming of a new pet.

Knitting has become the favorite pastime of the sophomore girls. We have seen some very good-looking argyle patterns. Helen Jordanger is completing a neat looking pair of red and ivory ones. There are also some very fashionable stoles in the making.

Well, 'nough for this time.

'That We May Accomplish'

By Tom Reeves

What are the main things a freshman notices when he starts his education at Pacific Lutheran College? As one of the lower beings of the campus I feel that in this case qualification is a virtue.

The freshman has three months previous, experienced one of the most amazing moments of his life. Yes, I said amazing, as it poses the thought provoking question "now what?" I imagine that all public school graduates have asked themselves, "well, here I am; what do I know." You may have a wretchedly laughed at yourself as the answer perhaps evolved into an immense nothing. So you decided to go to college. In this case a Christian institution, to further or maybe we should say begin your true education.

What is that word, anyway? Webster define education as the systematic training of the moral and intellectual faculties. Yes, but actually it is even more than that. A college education to a freshman also means the sound of a friendly hello and that certain smile that he or she possesses; it means the tangy smell of a hot dog at a football game; it means the thrill of listening to a hymn written 400 years before you were even thought of; it means the padded sound of shoes running across dewy grass being almost late for class; it means the ping-pong, fads, curfew hours, midnight studying, movies and all the other fundamental trivialities which prove so individually vital in obtaining that word—education.

The freshman knows that he is at the bottom but he also is aware of the formula to the top. For with his consummate ambition, imagination and unlimited creative ability the road still looks long but the light has turned green.

So, upperclassmen, why not, in all seriousness, say a silent prayer sometime for the graduating class of 1958. May you pray that through the grace of God we might have the courage and Christian foresight to preserve and further the proud reputation of Pacific Lutheran College.

Midget Musings

Egad! Haven't I been a busy one though. What with commitments, classes and the regenerating of a few bad habits, I've hardly had time to take a deep breath. This will come as heartening news to my intimates, who figured I had bought a tooth brush.

Now for our exclusive, sensational scoop of the week. This column always on the alert for firsts, has done it for the first time and has a first. Our double first is an interview with Eberhardt Gressertrap, that all conference fullback known to the press as "The Plumber's Friend," but to his teammates, he's simply, "The Plunger."

After checking with his agent for an appointment, I made my way to his quarters, which were located in a modest suite in a downtown hotel. Shyly, I rang his bell; breathlessly, I waited. Still holding my breath, I stepped into the room onto a rug up to my boot tops. Disregarding the overtures of a blond siren or two, I made my way further into the sanctum sanctorum. Oriental incense filled the room (there was hardly a place left to sit), scantily

Northward through Seattle's teeming millions and its false pride—Ballard; through the scenic beauty spot which is Lake Stevens, northward until our two native guides, Cook and Tour, with their intellectually myopic vision are able to discern in the distance, seemingly etched on the horizon the Swash term: "Kimosabe," which loosely translated, means "Burlington, home of Jerry Benson."

Jerry of the soft-brown eyes was born, which is not odd in itself, in an obscure mountainous village in lower Tibet—Okefenokee by name. At the age of ten our hero became a political emigre from this land that transcends all others because of political affiliations with a subversive social fraternity, Beta Beta Nu. Tightly lacing his sneakers and donning his space cadet helmet, our chubby little revolutionary began a new life.

But soon, because of his great proficiency in ledgerdom, learned in the incense-filled, mystical colleges of the occult Orient, the dashing Mr. B. was proselytized by the coaching staff of Burlington high and soon became the most sought-after chattel since Marvonus Harsman tore up the cow pastures back in '06. This prowess in the sport of kings and his affiliation with the small radical sect, E.L.C., caused the fabulous Jerry B. to matriculate at the ivy-covered walls and learned halls of A. Herbert Nedlow's "P.L.C." But what of his life at Luteville? Our only answer can be to refer you to the files in the Dean of Men's office where you will find (under Benson, Jerry) an afternoon of ludicrous reading.

This has been the heart rending tale of a child dope addict, Jerry "Like-unto-a-Gazelle" Benson, who truly exemplifies the American way of life, "the full treatment" as it were.

NOTE: For a mere pittance the magnanimous authors of the above article are willing to sublet their office, the centre booth in the coffee shop, during the mornings of Monday, Wednesday and Friday. All interested parties notify "Leadfoot" Carol.

It's been a good week: Well, apyhov, I'll try again. I picked the Lutes to beat the Northerners in their first game, and I'm certainly not disappointed in last Saturday's showing. Both teams looked better than fair for a season's opener, and I still think the "Harshmen" will end up on top of the Evergreen fracas.

Here's a rundown on Evergreen Conference teams and how they fared last weekend:

- Whitman College 14, Central Washington 0.
- Pacific University 28, Western Washington 18.
- Seattle Ramblers 20, University of British Columbia 0.
- Whitworth College 27, Eastern Washington 0.

Evergreen Conference teams didn't do too well in out-of-league action. The Whitworth-Eastern game was a King's X affair, but evidently Whitworth packs quite a punch. From the score it might look as though UBC took quite a shellacking. However, the Seattle Ramblers are a powerful independent outfit with lots of talent and brawn. UBC may provide quite a surprise in Evergreen competition this year.

While we're on the subject of football, let's take a look at the national scene. Pre-season favorites to knock Notre Dame out of No. 1 spot are: Texas, Maryland, Oklahoma, Illinois, Georgia Tech, and Michigan State. Already four of these have been beaten.

Texas went down to defeat, 21-0, at the hands of Notre Dame. The Irish were led by Ralph Gouglielm, a good bet for All American at quarterback position. He passed for one touchdown and ran the other two. Illinois was upset by Penn State, 14-12.

Michigan State, Rose Bowl champs of last season, were out-fought, 14-10, by Iowa.

Florida squeezed by Georgia Tech, 13-12.

Oklahoma had to stage a real rally to down Texas Christian, 21-16, in the last quarter.

Maryland was not in action last weekend.

BASEBALL

By the time this column appears the world series will be underway and I'll probably have my head halfway through the noose, but I can see the Giants in seven games.

Cleveland may have won 111 games, but they weren't against the Giants. Everybody seems to remember the Indians and the Yankees, but the real pressure was shown in the National league when New York fought off both Brooklyn and Milwaukee in the final days of the pennant stretch. Cleveland has terrific pitching but don't sell the Giant mound staff too short. I think the competition in the National league has been so what better and that might prove quite a difference.

I would be nice to see Bob Feller win his first World Series game, though.

In closing, I would like to leave you this, though I know it is early to think about basketball, but expectations are fierce. Rumor has it that Vern Hanson has been sitting in front of a mirror practicing new ways to make ugly faces at referees... What price glory?

Lutes Bow To CPS Loggers

Dale Meshke returned PLC's second half kickoff for 79 yards and Warren Logan converted for the extra point to give the College of Puget Sound a close 7-6 King's X victory over Pacific Lutheran Saturday night at Lincoln Bowl.

The Lutes scored first in the second quarter when Ray Christianson's booming punt was fumbled by a CPS player on the Logger 3-yard line. Two plays later Tommy Gilmer, freshman quarterback from Federal Way, hit the same Christianson with a three yard pass and the Gladiators only score. PLC failed to convert when the pass from center was high and Tommy Campbell was unable to make the goal line. That extra point proved to be the difference.

The Lutes did have a chance to pull the game out of the fire in the fourth quarter when they recovered one of CPS's four fumbles on the Logger 24-yard line. The stout CPS line held the Lutherans on the 14-yard, however, and an attempted field goal by Pacific Lutheran went amiss.

Ray Christianson, a freshman from Lincoln in Seattle, won the game's outstanding player award. Besides scoring PLC's only touchdown the surefooted Christianson kicked nine punts for a 36.2 average. The whole PLC line turned in an exceptional game with Dick Griswold leading the attack. Dick got into the ball game when starter Walt Fitzpatrick received PLC's only injury of the game. "Fitz" will most likely be ready to go in tomorrow's game in British Columbia against UBC.

Coach Marv Harsh has been stressing offense this week as the Lutes were able to pick up only 54 yards on the ground against CPS. Frank Lancaster picked up the majority of those 54 yards with some hard running in the first quarter.

Harshman was well satisfied with the showing of the freshmen he used against the Loggers and many of them will undoubtedly be pushing for starting positions before long.

Christianson Voted Outstanding Player

"The Most Outstanding player of the game."

This was the honor given to Ray Christianson after the King's X game last Saturday night. His punting average was 36 yards and he scored the only touchdown for PLC.

"CPS has a pretty good team," Ray acknowledged, "but we can beat them."

Ray is an eighteen year old freshman from Lincoln High School in Seattle, where at Lincoln he played two years of football. He played end during his sophomore year and was a quarterback while he was a junior. During his senior year, he broke his leg and so was unable to play. He also played baseball and was on the all-city team for this sport.

This six-foot athlete prefers college football in comparison to the high school sport.

"College football is easier," he explained. "The plays are a lot clearer."

Ray came to PLC because, "this is the place where the Lord guided me to come." He has not yet decided his major, but he is interested in forestry.

Fourteen Lutes, Grads Stationed at Fort Ord

Pretty soon Pacific Lutheran College will be able to claim Fort Ord, California, as an extension unit. There are 14 former Lutes and graduates stationed there.

Garnet Lund, William Nieman and Al Kaegler are all in Co. L of the 20th Infantry Battalion. To top it all off they are in the same platoon and the same squad.

John P. Carlstrom, James Ball, John Osburn and Richard Claire are attending Clerks-Typist school.

Lloyd Eastman is studying Chinese at the Presidio, and Kenneth Anderson is in the supply section of the 51st Field Artillery Battalion.

Robert Ross is in Co. B of the 6th Engineers, and Richard Krusow is with the Co. G of the 63rd Engineers.

David Nesvig, to whom we are indebted for this information, is a corpsman at the Base Hospital.

PLC-UBC To Meet Saturday

Saturday afternoon the victory-hungry, but fast-improving Thunderbirds from the University of British Columbia will lock horns with the improving Lutes in Vancouver.

However, Coach Marr is not taking the winless Thunderbirds lightly. Scouting reports reveal that the UBC'ers are big, fast and rugged, and boasting an outstanding passer in Duncan and a great big 210-pound fullback in Bolding. Bolding is reputed to run the 100-yard dash in 11.0.

The coach has been working on this defense by having the meat squad running the UBC plays. Harshman hasn't decided as yet as to who will suit up for the game, but he did say that the team will have to show a lot more hustle than they did against the Loggers, or else they'll come back winless again.

The team will leave for Vancouver, Friday morning immediately following the Chapel exercises.

-- Stiff List --

Though the future is not as dark as it may appear because of the injuries on the gridiron; there are a few serious cases.

Curt Hovland, who dislocated his shoulder, is getting a special harness that will enable him to play without injuring his shoulder further.

Our chubby middle-line backer, "Candy" Fitzpatrick has been heard complaining of a sore shoulder as well as a badly injured leg.

The most serious of all injuries was received by Freshman Wally Murray. He just returned from the hospital where he underwent surgery to remove a cartilage in his knee. He may be out the rest of the season.

Knee injuries were received by both Fred Muenschler and Dick Griswold. However, they have both returned to the practice field.

Another freshman who has returned to action is Kevin Frenzel. An elbow injury has kept him out of scrimmage for the past two weeks.

clad cheerleaders ran to and fro carrying trays marked "hot" and "cold." Grabbing one of the hot ones I asked, "Does Eberhardt Grease-trap live here?" Giving me the straight arm, she said, "W o else? You want want egg in your malt or something? Follow me."

Dodging gazelle-like around tacking dummies and prostrate well wishers, we made our way to the study. Not wanting to talk in the huddle, I waited until the play was over, then I said, "Mr. Plunger, I'm from the press."

Rising up from the floor, he stripped off a soiled dinner jacket and said, "Have it back by Friday." "No, no, I'm from the newspaper." Frowning slightly, he asked, "You don't take cleaning, huh?" However, the word newspaper must have struck a responsive chord, as his bright little eyes shone perceptibly brighter. "You want an interview, huh?" Reaching down into his baggy jeans he extracted two sheets of paper identically mimeographed. Taking one of the abused copies, I noted that it was a script. I was about to read the first question, which was, "W o in your modest opinion is the best fullback in college today?" When a brusque young man in tallored toga rushed in, laden with papers and documents of varying descriptions. "Shoot," he said, "What do you think of college football," I queried. Beaming benevolently, the great man answered, "It's a living, son, it's a living."

So ended my day with an immortal, a day that I will never forget. Amen.

After a successful summer season, James Lokken, James Simonson, Reid French and Ronald Smith, are now touring with the Northwest Grand Opera Association.

Ambassador Quartet Touring With Northwest Opera Company

The Ambassador Quartet have been singing with the Northwest Grand Opera Association in the presentation of Carmen.

They were seen on September 23 at the Temple theater and this past week they have been in Vancouver, B. C.

They are members of the chorus of this opera in which three Metropolitan singers appear.

The boys, Jim Lokken, Ron Smith, Reid French, and Jim Simonson, will end their singing with this company at the end of the month.

Summer Tour

This past summer a good-will trip was made in the schol station wagon and the boys stayed at the homes of members of the churches where the quartet presented their concerts. They also visited four Bible Camps during their summer tour.

"I enjoyed the weather very much," laughed James Simonson, tenor. "I tried to bring some of it back with me, but I couldn't get it here."

The members of the quartet are James Simonson, tenor; Ronald Smith, Baritone; Reid French, lead, and James Lokken, bass.

Delta Phi Kappa Dead
The death of Delta Phi Kappa came Sunday night, September 19, when it was voted to dissolve the organization. This will make way for the coming of two new dorm organizations.

Since only the president and ICC representative are elected in the Spring, an election of all other officers was held in the Old Main dorms in order to give President Marilyn Hefty and the ICC representative a full cabinet.

The nominees were submitted to the dorm women by the nominating committee: Vice-president, Ruthie Hauges, Ester Erickson and Doris Du Macttel; secretary, Lorraine Schmick, Shirley Savage, and Donna Miller; treasurer, Carolyn Hoogner, Peg Harper, and La Vonne Stenbjern.

South Hall Sojourn

After a week of classes in their new living quarters, the South Hall society is even more impressed with the excellent facilities provided for them. Even the hike before and after meals isn't as painful as was first anticipated. Individual telephones and the view of North Hall from the north and the football field from the south side give untold advantages to each room. No one's complaining.

Elections of officers for the South Hall organization have resulted in the following selections: President, Jeanne Frieske; secretary, Delores Beck; treasurer, Lois Sand.

Under these capable officers, a constitution is being drawn and a tea for faculty members planned.

Back to the usual birthday parties, the Junior girls planned a surprise breakfast for Betty Jean Condre, but B. J., who discovered the plans beforehand, hid all the food and it was an astonished bunch of Junior girls who were given a party by B. J. 30 minutes before they had planned their own.

Kathy Gulhaugen, deciding to try something new with birthdays, really surprised her second floor buddies last Sunday night. In celebration of her birthday on Monday, she treated them to a party and little cactus plants for their rooms. It was a real surprise as the girls all thought Kathy was at home in Astoria.

Have you seen . . . Mickey Mo-Allister riding the dumb-waiter? Swannie roaming the halls after midnight? No Christanson looking for Albert? Publicly owned Sharon Kinzer, Barbara Breur and Lu Huber posing for Richards' Studio? Milly Van Buren carrying her bucket to cry into at Magnificent Obsession? The tree growing in the room of the Sem widows? (Carol Brace and Bea Hanson) or Dee Dee Corman not typing?

"Superdicious Sneer" might well be called "Disdainful Disparage," as it is nothing but a mud-throwing piece of perversion by a duo of emulated plebeians. Our suggestions is "Sauve que peut."
