Production Class To Present Cuttings

By John Shannon

The dramatic production class of PLC, instructed by Mrs. Orville Dahl (the former Miss Jean McGregor), will present cuttings from seven plays on January 13. Three cuttings will be given during the afternoon, with the remaining four to be given later in the evening. The members of the class are both producing and directing these cuttings for a class project.

Those in the class are the following students: LaWanna Huber, Richard Johnson, Robert Fleming, John Rydgren, Harriet Shull, Paul Steen and Carol Brace.

The cuttings to be presented are from the following plays: "Winterset," by Maxwell Anderson; "Antony and Cleopatra," by William Shakespeare; "Arsenic and Old Lace," by Joseph Kesselring; "Othello," by William Shakespeare; "Harvey," by Mary Chase; "Caesar and Cleopatra," by George Bernard Shaw; and "Tobacco Alley."

Those participating in the plays are the following:

"Harvey"—Elwood Dowd, Robert Olafson; Dr. Sanderson, Ted Carlstrom; Ruth Kelly, Judith Bureker; Wilson, Dick Farness; Dr. Chumbley, Robert Fleming. Director, Robert Fleming.

"Winterset"—Mio, Walter K. Nealon; Miriamne, Ann Nielsen; Esdras, John Osburn; Carr, William Utzinger; Garth, Tom Swindland. Director, Paul Steen.

"Arsenic and Old Lace"—Abby Brewster, Jean Christensen; Martha Brewster, Myrna Berg; Mortimer Brewster, Stewart Morton. Director, LaWanna Huber.

"Antony and Cleopatra"—Cleopatra, Barbara Hedlund; Antony, David Roe; Charmian, Diane Bassett; Alexas, Alan Freed. Director, Harriet Shull.

'Spotlight Follies' Will Be Chapel Entertainment

Gags, music and magic will greet the Student Body Day audiences as Robert Fleming and John Rydgren present "Spotlight Follies" next Tuesday morning during Chapel hour.

The tentative program includes a piano duet, comedy routines, a magician's act and other entertainment. Barbara Hedlund will supply background music.

"We're going to do our best to provide a good program," John promised, "and I hope we'll see a large crowd there."

SKATING PARTY TONIGHT AT ROLLER BOWL

Tickets will be on sale in Old Main today for the Kappa Rho Kappa skating party to be held from 9:30 to 12 this evening at the Roller Bowl in South Tacoma. Students who are unable to purchase their tickets at school may get them at the Bowl tonight.

Lady Lutes To Meet, Pose for Saga Picture

The monthly meeting of the Lady Lutes, students' wives association, will be held Tuesday, January 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the upper Student Union building. Hostesses will be Mrs. George Wheeler and Mrs. Arthur Kimball.

A group picture will be taken for the Saga. All wives of students are invited to come and belong to the club.

Debate Squad Vies With Seattle Pacific

Debate, extemporaneous speaking, oratory, after dinner speaking, interpretive reading and discussion will be the forensics covered by the PLC debate squad, when they accept the invitation from Seattle Pacific College for a tournament on January eighth and ninth.

There will be approximately 18 schools from Washington participating.

As this tournament is mainly for the benefit of those on the Junior squad, those on the Senior squad division will judge the events. Those judging are Janet Carson, Joyce Genz, Edith Engel, David Hestenes and Eugene Perry.

The topics to be discussed are as follows:

Debate—Resolved: "That the United States should adopt a policy of free trade."

Extemporaneous Speaking—"United States Domestic and Foreign Affairs Under Eisenhower."

After Dinner Speaking—"Automobile Manners."

Discussion—"How Can We Improve the Present Practices and Procedures of Congressional Investigation?"

"This annual tournament at Seattle Pacific gives us an opportunity to watch our Junior squad in action, and see what the freshmen and sophomores on the team can do," said Professor Theodore O. H. Karl, coach of the team.

The following students will participate:

Paul Jordan: Interpretive reading, discussion and extemporaneous speaking.

Neil Munson: Extemporaneous speaking, oratory and interpretive reading.

Alvin Sylling: After dinner speaking and discussion.

Shirley Scott: Extemporaneous speaking, interpretive reading and discussion.

Constance Hustad: Oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

Robert Lundgren: Extemporaneous speaking and discussion.

Allan Carlson: Extemporaneous speaking and discussion.

Nancy Halvorson: Extemporaneous speaking and discussion.

Stuart Gilbreath: Oratory, interpretive reading and extemporaneous speaking.

Beverly Sveningson: After dinner speaking and extemporaneous speaking.

Tom Swindland: Extemporaneous speaking and after dinner speaking.

Margaret Canis: After dinner speaking and extemporaneous speaking.

Tore Neilson: Oratory and after dinner speaking.

Judith Bureker: Oratory, interpretive reading and extemporaneous speaking.

William Anderson: Extemporaneous speaking and discussion.

Many PLC Students Travel During Christmas Vacation

By Barbara Leaf

During the holidays PLC students traveled all over the United States. Some went home and some on the other hand went to visit friends and relatives over the holiday as in the case of Nancy Halvorson, freshman from Tacoma, who traveled to California to spend Christmas with her sister in San Diego.

Nancy says, "I was bored with the weather. You never can wake up in the morning and wonder 'well, will it rain today?' You just know better."

Nancy found the beaches something just wonderful. Nothing in Washington could compare with La Jolla's Mission Beach. She felt that the Rose Parade was just fabulous and had a marvelous time taking pictures of all the floats. The outstanding event of all the trip, however, was when they were driving up to San Francisco out on an old deserted road only to discover they were running out of gas. With no gas station in sight and the car sputtering, it was a very dim outlook they had until just around a bend they spotted one lone gas pump and a little old man. They pulled up, or rather stopped, out of gas completely, just five feet away.

Visit Homes in Alaska

Gerda Nergaard and Delphine Danielson flew to their homes in Ketchikan, Alaska. It was a marvelous experience for the girls and they really enjoyed every minute of the four hours it took them to make the trip to Alaska. The girls were very happy to see all the familiar scenes of their modern home town.

and even noticed some new buildings going up. They found the weather just like Tacoma except for the first and last days of their vacation.

Gerda, who lives right on the beach, enjoyed watching some sea lions on the shore as they dove in and out together. It may surprise (Continued on Page Four)

Lutes to Vote On Liquor Ads

PLC will officially either condemn or condone liquor advertisements on radio and television programs, for daytime consumption, next Tuesday in chapel. They will vote on a resolution, introduced by Whitworth College and approved by the PLC student council, which protests the broadcasting or televising of liquor commercials between the hours of 8 a.m. and 10 p.m.

If the students decide in favor of the proposal, Mary Ensberg, student body secretary, will write letters to the Central Liquor Board in Olympia and to the governor of the state, informing them of our stand.

The exact wording of Pacific Lutheran's resolution is:

"To whom it may concern: Be it resolved that the student body of Pacific Lutheran College go on record as requesting your consideration of liquor advertising on television and radio during the hours of 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. to the effect that the central liquor board attempt to eliminate such advertising."

National Student Group To Send Delegation To Turkey

In conformance with the decision of its Annual Congress, the United States National Student Association (NSA) is planning to send a delegation to participate in the Fourth International Student Conference to be held January 8-15, 1954, in Istanbul, Turkey. Among those attending will be James Edwards from the University of Illinois and Leonard Bobchick of Cornell University, the NSA's president and vice-president for International Affairs, respectively.

Participating in this year's Conference will be the representatives of the National Unions of Students of forty nations throughout the world. Thus the Istanbul meeting will be the largest and most representative gathering of its kind ever to be assembled. The first such meeting took place in Stockholm, Sweden, in December 1950 after a number of National Unions of Students had concluded that fruitful cooperation with the Communist-dominated International Union of Students (IUS) was impossible because of the latter's partisan political orientation.

Thus the International Student Conferences were called to enable National Unions of the free world to meet on a basis of freedom and equality for the purpose of undertaking practical projects unmarked by partisan political objectives. Operating upon a system of delegated responsibilities by which each participating National Union assumes (Continued on Page Four)

Norwegian Couple Attending PLC

Having traveled all the way from Norway, Solveig and Cato Gudbrandson are attending PLC this year. Cato is a Business major and Solveig is studying education.

If the students of PLC ever feel they are over-worked, they should contact Solveig and Cato Gudbrandson. "The school we came from in Norway had a concentrated program of study, six hours a day, six days a week. We study a subject for several years before we get an examination, and that test grade is the one we get for the entire course of study. This doesn't leave much time for extra-curricular activities, but we did manage to have an active student government program." (Cato was the student body president). "There were a few religious organizations but that's about all."

They attended Skien Latin School together for six years and Cato had one year of business college. A Norwegian Latin school is similar to (Continued on Page Four)

Support the Speech and Music Departments

Every student should realize that the speech and music departments at PLC play very important roles on our campus. Both departments offer countless activities and facilities to those interested in them. They offer relaxation and enjoyment to those who view the many fine plays, forensics and concerts given; they support and draw crowds to our campus; they are widely recognized. Without them, PLC would not be PLC except by name only. The directors of these departments work hard and long on their productions to make them perfect. Let's support them by attending their productions, for in doing so, we support our college.

'To Learn, Or Not...'

By John Shannon

"Come on, guy. Drag yourself and those books over here. Let's get busy," said I to him. "You may be a 'star,' but you have to shine in something besides sports.

"Now I don't like vocabulary any better than you do, but we all have to know a few adult-type words.

"Take this last test, for instance; you said a 'monsoon' was a French gentleman; now everybody knows that a 'monsoon' is a big, windy storm; just like a 'tycoon.'

"And here... you said a spinster was a bachelor's wife. How dumb can anybody be, I ask ya! Now listen. I'm only gonna tell ya once. A 'spinster' is a machine that people used to make yarn on. Ya got it? Okey. Now ya see how easy this is; all ya have to do is use your cranium.

"Oh, no! This is really the most! Ya say an 'heir' is what bald people ain't got. You really are a dummer! I don't think you'll never learn nothing. Listen, stupid, 'heir' is the abbreviation for the word 'their.' Just look and you can see that. Huh? Oh. You know ya missed that one. I guess ya did! By a mile!

"Now what's this? Oh no! How 'inflament' can ya get? This is really terrible! I give up. Your just too stupid! You'll never learn. You're sorry! You're sorry!! I'm sorry, also. Sorry you're so dumb, that is!

"If I was you, I'd forget about ever playin' sports no more. If I was you, I'd take this book and study like nothin' I would. Ya really need it!

"Now I'm askin' ya; how could anyone with the intellifone he don't have, ever get this far in school?

Californian Aust Misses Sunshine

By Mary Lu McDonald

"I'm a stranger in Paradise!" was Cheerleader Spence Aust's favorite song during his Christmas vacation at home in Berkeley—"land of the perennial sun?"—California. Not that he doesn't like PLC, he explains, but he just likes sunshine.

This cheer-leading sophomore came to Pacific Lutheran College as a freshman after having heard much favorable advertising about our campus through various friends. He likes the closely-knit atmosphere and the Christian attitudes of the PLC-ites. Although our college enrollment is approximately half the size of his high school in Berkeley, Spence likes it that way.

As a cheer leader, he is very pleased with the students' basketball spirit, but thinks attendance at home games could be improved. "School spirit cannot help but spur on any team, and with the basketball squad we already have, lots of pep from their supporters should put them on top," Spence thinks.

In addition to cheer leading, Spence likes acting and played the role of Bob Cratchitt, Scrooge's nephew, in Dickens' "Christmas Carol" for the second consecutive time at the annual production of the play last December 16. He is also enthusiastic about swimming, tennis, and basketball.

His real objective, however, is to enter the field of radio and television, with emphasis on either announcing or becoming a technician. In preparation for this, he is gaining experience through his work as a radio engineer in the Speech Department.

He is majoring in Speech and hopes to produce the college program, "Campus Showcase." This is a monthly radio broadcast from the C-M-S Radio Studio, and would probably consist mostly of student talent. The show is in its preliminary stages now, but Spence hopes to have a program completed before too long.

Although he was born in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, he prefers his home state to be California—but is, inevitably, of Norwegian descent.

The Ron and Fun Club

By Ron Johnson

I've got a new calendar hanging above my desk as I'm writing this. Oh, no; you've got the wrong idea; it's not the new Esquire-calendar! This is just the standard 1954 calendar with the cutest little picture of a little kitten, but the strangest thing about this calendar is the way that I got it.

One night I dreamed that the days of the week had been renamed in honor of seven famous men. Then, strange as it seems, the days of the week had a conversation. When the alarm clock buzzed its way through the chit-chat of the men, I jumped out of bed and ran to my desk. There I saw hanging above the desk a new calendar with a picture of a kitten on it. I was almost afraid to look at the days of the week. There stamped in black ink were the names of the seven famous men who had appeared in my dreams. As I stood staring at the calendar, I remembered some of the conversation and the men's names.

Instead of Monday, Tuesday, and so on, the days of the week were Freud, Kinsey, Beria, Magsaysay, Balzac, H. D. White, and Friday. The last one is not Joe Friday or the fifth day of the week. This man preferred to remain incognito, but his first name was Joe!

The seven men were gathered around a table in a pub sipping root beer. Kinsey was talking: "You'll have to excuse my appearance, gentlemen, I've just completed a very exhausting research."

"That's all right, Alfred," said Beria. "Since my so-called trial, I've read your books and I think you're doing a fine job."

"So true," muttered Joe. "All they wanted was the facts, and you gave it to them."

"That's what I did, too, but they evidently didn't like my style of writing, because they gave a bad time about my books," offered Balzac.

"You didn't have anyone ban your books from the bookstore. That has to be done to sell books," said Freud.

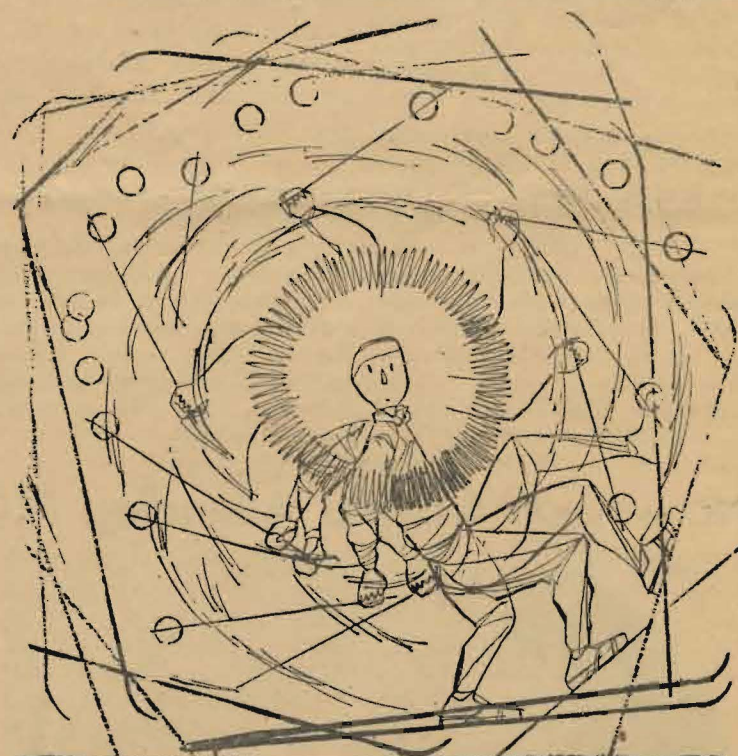

"Beria, I think you should have used the fifth amendment in your trial," said White, changing the subject.

"Listen, White," said Joe, "when you were working for me you never gave me any trouble. Don't start anything now. Beria got a fair trial, and justice was carried out."

"You mean I was carried out," said Beria. "Is that what you are trying to tell me, Joe?"

"He's just afraid to admit that you got a bum deal," said Magsaysay, "and, besides that, he's mad because somebody poisoned him."

At that last remark Joe threw his root beer in White's face and stomped out. Then I remembered, this was Joe's day!! I had a first period class; I'd better eat breakfast. Where's the shaving cream?

Tonight the Lutherans begin conference play in Spokane against the tough Whitworth Pirates, conquerors of WSC and Gonzaga. The Lutes will be out to avenge a 56-58 defeat at the hands of the Pirates in the Kennewick tourney. Coach Harshman will probably start three seniors and two sophomores in the first game of the Evergreen Conference title chase. At center will be Garnet Lund, playing his fourth season on the Lute varsity. Garnet has been especially adept at getting the ball off the backboards and has been scoring well this year. Against Pacific U., "Bones" tallied 27 points on hook shots, tip-ins and free throws. Because of his defensive ability, Garnet invariably is assigned to the opponents best tall man. Clarence Lund, Garnet's father, was a member of the PLC basketball squad in the early thirties.

At one forward will be 6-2 Bob Ross, ex-Sedro Woolley star. Last year Bob led the team in scoring; one handed howitzers from the side are his specialty. Ross is a two sport man; in addition to basketball, he's a good glove man on first base when baseball comes around.

The third senior is speedy little Don Koessler. Don took over at a guard slot in mid-season last year and has started every game since then. "Koess" is a clever ball handler and has a deadly one-hand set shot, which has a habit of going "swish" whenever he lets the ball go. Like Lund, Koessler is a Lincoln high product.

Phil Nordquist made the varsity as a freshman and this year he has started regularly. Rugged 6-4 Phil was a tackle on the football team, and he makes use of his size to good advantage in snaring rebounds. Phil is from Lake Stevens, Mary Harshman's home town.

Rounding out the five is sophomore Allan Roy Gubrud, who came into the picture in the latter part of the '52-'53 season. His best effort was in the 1953 N.A.I.A. championship game against Gonzaga U. Despite Al's 18 points, the Lutes bowed out 67-71 in an overtime to the Gonzaga team. A quick two-hander from 20 to 30 feet out makes Al a valuable asset to the team.

Good luck, Coach and team!

Our congratulations to Roger Larson, who was given the football inspirational award by his teammates. Everyone who watched PLC football knows how much Roger Larson deserved that honor. He commented, "It was certainly a wonderful thrill being chosen inspirational player. It's something which means more to me than being an All-American would; just that the other players felt I was an important part of the team."

De Jardine's Lead League

Clover Creek Hall	5	3	.625
Northwest Barracks	3	3	.500
Central Parkland	3	4	.429
West. Parkland (A)	3	4	.429
West. Parkland (B)	2	3	.400
Tacoma	2	4	.333
Tornadoes	1	3	.250
Faculty	1	4	.200
Eastern Parkland	1	6	.167

De Jardine's edged South Barracks 26-24 to take undisputed possession of first place in the intramural basketball chase in a close game played Monday afternoon.

Both teams were unbeaten at the start of the contest, but Rich Stuhlmiller and Ivar Eliason were too much for the South Barracks five. Stuhlmiller had nine points and Eliason seven to lead De Jardine's scoring. Ron Knutzen, the league's leading scorer, picked up only eight counters to lead South Barracks.

All other games were forfeited. Eastern Parkland to Clover Creek, Tacoma to Northwest Barracks, and Western Parkland (A) to Western Parkland (B).

On Tuesday, Northwest Barracks, led by Jim Jacobson with 23 and Bill Orme with 20, defeated Western Parkland 54-46. Ron Johnson had 19 and Dave Hestenes put in 18 to spark the Western Parkland attack. Western led at the end of a close first half but the Barracks squad pulled ahead to stay in the third quarter. In the other 7 o'clock game the Western Bees forfeited to Clover Creek Hall.

De Jardine's maintained their league lead by drubbing the Tornadoes 42-28. De Jardine's had three big men in their attack. Ivar Eliason led with 13, Pete Luvaas had 12, and Ray Reiersen 11. Hovland led the weak Tornadoes' attack with 10.

Ron Knutzen kept his scoring lead by garnering 24 tallies to guide South Barracks to a close 48-43 victory over Central Parkland to hang on to second place in the league standings. Fred Muenschler starred for the losers by pumping 16 points through the hoop.

Salzman High Pointer

"Shifty" Mark Salzman potted 16 points in the last half to lead the Faculty to a 39 to 37 squeaker over Eastern Parkland. Salzman's total of 19 was high for the ball game. Dick Brown had 12 for the Eastern quintet. The game was a real thriller all the way with Eastern keeping the lead through most of the first half, although the score was tied briefly. The Faculty pulled away in the third and early part of the fourth quarters, but Eastern came up strongly near the end of the game. Salzman and Klopsch, who had 11 points, fouled out in the last minute but the Faculty successfully stalled out the rest of the game. This win drew the Faculty from the league cellar and dropped Eastern Parkland in.

Here are the top scorers of the league, based on cumulative points: Ron Knutzen, So. Barracks, 102. Jim Jacobson, N.W. Barracks, 73. Fred Muencher, Central Parkland, 72. Pete Luvaas, De Jardine's, 70. Ivar Eliason, De Jardine's, 65. Nick Kelderman, Eastern Parkland, 63. Don Gaarder, South Barracks, 59.

Lutes Travel East After Beating SPC

By Dwaine Brandt

SEATTLE PACIFIC

PLC broke their two game losing streak last Monday as they bounced an impotent Seattle Pacific quint, 53-46, on the Falcons' home court.

Two weeks off the maple seemed to dull the accuracy of both teams and neither club was able to hit the hemp in consistent manner all night. The game was marked by bad passes and missed lay-ins. This was not helped any by a Seattle Pacific full court press as early as the third quarter. In the second quarter Seattle Pacific managed to sink only one field goal. The half time score ended with PLC out in front by four, 22-18. Garnet Lund of PLC and Nigel Shockey of Seattle Pacific shared scoring honors with 14 points each.

Substitute forward Larry Eggan was next with 12 points. Larry also played well on the backboards.

The Lutes travel to Spokane for a doubleheader with Eastern and Whitworth this weekend.

EASTERN GAME

This coming weekend could very well decide PLC's chances in the 1954 Evergreen basketball race. The Lutes travel East for an important two game series with Whitworth and Eastern Washington, co-favorites for the championship.

PLC has played Whitworth earlier at the Kennewick tournament and was defeated 58-56 in the final 10 seconds. Since that time Whitworth has defeated Washington State and Gonzaga twice to prove themselves a formidable opponent. Credit for Whitworth's success has been their cloud scraping height. Heading this array of height is 6-11 Phil Jordan. Bob Eickerman, 6-9 forward, and Ron Miller, 6-7 substitute center, round out the Pirates' scoring attack.

Turning to Red Reiss' Eastern Washington ball club, we find a well-balanced team that has been a perennial powerhouse in Evergreen Conference hoop action. The Savages have beaten Montana State, twice victors over the Gladiators, and promise to be a stumbling block to the Lutes' chances at the title.

Glen Edwards, a forward, is leading the Savages in scoring to date.

Seattle Pacific will be PLC's traveling partner this year and will accompany the Lutes this coming weekend. The Falcons do not belong to the Evergreen Conference as their school does not participate in football. Conference rules do not permit a team unless it has all major sports.

Students Travel for Holidays

(Continued from Page One) many of you to know something that the girls whispered to me. They said, "Honest, we've never even seen an igloo or Eskimo."

Carol Brace traveled back to Racine, Wisconsin, to see her fella, Paul Kaatrud. Together they toured Chicago, Illinois, and saw the planetarium, which they found very interesting. They attended the Chicago Symphony and Cinerama. On the way to Chicago they spent some time in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where they visited The Mader's restaurant which is the eighth most famous in the United States. Although the restaurant is German, Carol just had to have her favorite, "chicken." They also went to St. Paul, Minnesota, and visited the Lutheran Seminary and talked with many of the old PLC graduates.

Christmas in California

Jerry Kayaian, sophomore from Bagdad, went to California for the Christmas holidays. While there he stayed at the home of Alden McKechney. He said, "California met my every expectation."

He went to Long Beach, Beverly Hills and Pasadena. Jerry was lucky enough to see the Rose Parade and said that it was most impressive.

During the holidays Jerry was invited to dinner at the homes of PLC students Dave Churness, Ernie Larson, Jim Lokken, and Kenny Robinson, as well as Rev. Hoffman of the Bellflower Lutheran Church.

Jerry strongly thought that Lutheranism had really done something for these families. He especially noticed the fine spirit upheld at all times. He attended many Christmas parties and had a wonderful time at them all.

Highlight of his Christmas was when the group sang Christmas carols at the Old Folk's Home and some little old woman came and told them, "Why I've never heard such beautiful, soft music; it's so angelic." Jerry also enjoyed a New Year's party very much and found it very interesting. He was first introduced to the "progressive dinner" on this trip, and was very surprised at the idea.

On the way back they stopped in Oregon where snow was everywhere on the ground and had an old fashioned snowball throw which all enjoyed very much. Jerry says "We arrived in Tacoma to find it still soaking wet, but I know that the warm hearts of PLC students somehow seem to make everything beautiful here at school. Thanks to the Lord for watching over us with all his care and we pray for his blessing us in his work."

Visits in Minnesota

Salim Mitri, from Bethlehem, Palestine, went back to St. Paul, Minnesota, and delivered a speech on the "Significance of the Holy Places and the Mission Work of the Lutheran World Federation," at the Augustana Lutheran Church on New Year's Day. He found people very nice and not one bit cynical. While on his trip Salim was introduced to roller skating and hockey games and bought his first electric shaver. He visited Luther Seminary and talked to President Gullixson.

Up to this trip he had never gone such a long way in a car all at one time. He stayed at Bob Lundgren's home, where he was very warmly received. On one occasion Salim had dinner at the home of Augustana's Luther League director and was asked if he would write a series of articles on Palestine for the Lutheran Herald. Salim said that he would and we can be looking forward to seeing and reading these stories.

He liked the climate in Minnesota, although it was not so green as in Washington.

Norwegian Couple Attending PLC

Overcoming the language barrier swiftly, they have been able to uphold average marks, which is unusual for those in a new country such a short time. "We like the United States a lot, even though some things are quite different from ours. But everyone is so friendly and eager to help it makes up for those differences."

Their trip to the U. S. was more or less a honeymoon. Solveig's father, a Lutheran pastor and travelling secretary for the Inner Mission Society, married the couple just before they left for the states.

Both of them are working their way through college. Cato works at Park-N-Shop on Pacific Avenue and Solveig is a clerk and fountain waitress at Johnson's Drug. With the college giving both of them tuition scholarships, they are faring nicely for being so recently in this country, and more important, their employers are both very pleased with their work.

American sales methods were quite a surprise to the Gudbrandsons. "Federal laws permit but two sales per year in our stores," Cato says, "and we have not super markets." An American drug store was something out of this world for Solveig. "In Norway they sell nothing but drugs; in this country they sell almost anything," she said, "and we do not have soda fountains!"

But they found a few things here even more different than they anticipated. Their first automobile ride in this country was the most the task of investigating and reporting upon certain problems which directly affect students as such, the International Student Conferences have undergone rapid growth. Because of its desire to promote international understanding and cooperation NSA has undertaken a most active role in these meetings.

The Stockholm Conference demonstrated its sense of responsibility towards its fellow students in under-developed countries by taking note of their needs and substituting the Students Mutual Assistance Program (SMAP). It is the purpose of this program to strengthen the educational facilities and student organizations in these areas.

Meeting the following January (1952), the Second International Student Conference recognized the need for facilitating the exchange of information and thus aiding the investigation and solution of student problems, created the Coordinating Secretariat of the National Unions of Students (Cosec). This non-policy-making body, located in Leiden, Netherlands, serves to coordinate the activities of participating National Unions and thus acts as an administrative bridge between the Conferences.
