Friendliness of PLC Campus Impresses Speech Teacher

"Friendliness is a word used traditionally to characterize the people of the West. Here at Pacific Lutheran, there is a personal touch in the friendly welcome extended to me on the part of faculty, students and community," said Miss Alice Moe, who is filling the vacancy in the Speech Department created when Mrs. Jean McGregor Dahl moved to Minneapolis.

Before coming to PLC, Miss Moe was Director of the Speech Department and professor of English at William Penn College, Oskaloosa, Iowa, for five years. She was also Associate Director of Education at Milwaukee's Young Women's Chris-

Vienna Strings Visit Campus on U. S. Tour

The Music Department presents the Vienna String Symphony Sunday evening at 8:30 in the Chapel auditorium. The group conducted by Kurt Rapf consists of 15 instrumentalists and is now on its first U. S. tour, which has included some 50 American cities. The program Sunday will include several compositions by Mozart, namely: the loved "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," with the four movements allegro, romanza, minuetto and rondo, "Three Little Songs," and the concert aria, "Schon Lacht der Holde Fruhling." Other selections will be: "Allegro Molto," from the string quartet in C major by Beethoven; "Adagio," from the string quintet by A. Bruckner, and "Five Delightful German Dances," by Franz Schubert. For its last number, the group will perform "Vienna Blood," by Austria's well known composer, Johann Strauss.

Rosl Schwaiger, coloratura soprano, appears as guest soloist with the symphony. She has been a member of the Vienna Opera since 1947 and has won acclaim in such well known roles as Gilda in "Rigoletto" and Rosina in the "Barber of Seville." Blonde, blue-eyed Miss Schwaiger has appeared with the Salzberg Festival and made recordings for the Hayden Society. Sunday evening she will sing four Mozart selections and the lovely "Voices of Spring," also by Strauss, accompanied by the orchestra.

Rosl Schwaiger

Elfriede Bachner, violinist, accompanied by the symphony, will play the "Adagio Molto," from the string quartet in C Major by Beethoven.

PLC is proud to present this noted ensemble. The group was founded in 1946 by its present conductor

Spurs Are Messengers For Campus Valentines

"Roses are red, violets are blue, You direct the message, And we'll send it for you."

Such is the motto of the Spurs today as they celebrate the Valentine holiday by turning themselves into messenger girls for "Telegrams" which PLC students may wish to send to each other.

Rates will be 25 cents a word for singing telegrams, 5 cents a word for limericks, and a penny a word for personal messages.

and has earned an important place in Vienna's musical life. Its programs embrace music from classic, romantic and contemporary schools. Mr. Rapf has been very active in his own right, having worked with the Zurich State Opera, the radio concerts of the Vienna Symphony and the Vienna Academy of Music.

Loddigs Ends Week's Visit

"We were arguing as to whether or not the planes overhead were American or Japanese . . . I thought they were Japanese . . . Soon, the bombs started hitting . . . I guess that's the quickest argument I ever won." These were the words of Rev. H. G. Loddigs, our leader during Spiritual Emphasis Week on campus.

This bombing was the beginning of a 3½ year imprisonment under the Japanese, an experience which brought Pastor Loddigs physical torture, but at the same time spiritual strengthening.

During the last week he has described to us just what life in a prison camp was like and how horrible it could have been without a reassuring faith in Christ. He and his wife were taken to a camp with 550 other prisoners. Men and women lived in separate barracks and he was allowed to see his wife only a few hours during the day, and even then they were required to remain at least ten feet from each other.

Through these years he witnessed many cruel and harrowing scenes. His friends were questioned and beaten with hoses and rifles; he himself was questioned and beaten and confides to us how vital prayer became. So vital that, as he says, "I felt as though I could reach out and touch this prayer."

Finally, on Feb. 4, 1945, liberation came with the landing of the 37th Infantry and the torrent of events which had begun when he and his young wife had left Luther Seminary to go to the mission fields was finished.

Certainly his story is inspirational to us and we are fortunate to have had such a dynamic Christian personality with us.

Rev. Loddigs was born and raised in Brooklyn, New York. He attended Wagner Memorial Lutheran High School at Staten Island and received college training at Wagner College. He then entered Hartwick Seminary at Oneonta, N. Y., and finished at Luther in St. Paul, Minn.

He was married while interning under Rev. Oscar Hanson in Watertown, South Dakota. From here he went to the Mission Fields of China.

After the war he returned to the U. S. and enrolled at Princeton Theological Seminary in New Jersey. He later went once again to China, but was forced to flee from Communist invasion. He accepted a call to serve as pastor in Brandt, Help Wanted . . . !

"Viva La Mooring Mast!" So far eleven Lutes have heeded this cry and have joined the paper staff. More than anything else, your paper needs support from and of the students. Tell us what you want to see in print by contacting any staff member, or better yet, join the staff and put your own ideas to work.

Go Ye Therefore . . .

Pastor Loddigs has, this past week, added a true spiritual emphasis to the lives of PLC students and faculty. Our thanks to him for the many messages he has given us.

Festivals . . .

Have you ever walked on thin ice? That's what the Festival co-directors, Mr. Karl and Mr. Weiss, are doing in trying to bring you top talent at reasonable rates. You can insure a Festival success by pledging more tickets—give a special invitation to your parents, friends, or enemies to come for that weekend.

Coming up soon, too, is the students' own drama-music festival, the Omnibus of the Arts, another project claiming your support.

Whiskers To Be Judged Tuesday

Sprouting chins will be judged on the chapel stage during the Student Body meeting Tuesday. Nine prizes will be awarded to the owners of the best beards by Alpha Phi Omega, sponsors of the contest which began one month ago.

The hairy contestants will be classified in three groups. The bushiest and shaggiest facial herbage will comprise the first group; the most colorful and original beards will make up the second group; and the third group will consist of the neatest and best trimmed whiskers.

Judges for the bristle competition will be three non-bearded faculty members, Mr. Harshman, Miss Knudson, and Mr. Salzman.

APO members, after some deliberation, decided that the three first prize winners in addition to more substantial prizes will be given free shaves at a Parkland barber shop. Free shaves will not be given to the second and third place winners in each group, but they will be awarded other prizes.

This type of team from PLC has won four trophies out of five and the same number of sweepstake places. Osburn received 38 out of the 40 votes cast last year, by an audience composed of town's clubs, veterans' and service organizations, church groups, and various other social functions; the same groups will act as an audience this year with 10 people in the audience acting as judges.

Proletarian Profiles

To set the pace for our new little interview column, this week we will recount a bold, brash, sordid, true to life visit with Eloise Stripplehip, charming young parathyroid about campus.

I came across Eloise while I was doing an Anatomy 131 makeup field trip at the city zoo last week. Eloise sat sunning herself in a puddle of rain water vigorously picking the toes of her left foot. As she turned from her work, her knotted neck muscles glistening from her exertion, she fixed her blank expression in a hungry stare at my front belt loop.

Unabashed, I disarmed her immediately with a compliment on the way she wore the filagreed Hungarian silk booshka which she cunningly displayed on the back of her head covering a growing bald spot. Not taking her eyes from my belt loop, she hunched convulsively, showing that she had heard, and I began the interview.

To the question on who was her favorite motion picture star, she answered with an opening flick of her push button shiv, with which she began intense probings of her inner ear.

To the question on what she received from Santa last Christmas, she replied by a slashing bite at my belt, her enlarged molars glinting dully in the waning sunlight.

Hastily jotting valuable information into my notebook, I finished by asking her what she would wish for if she were granted one wish. With this her fervor reached a fever

Hefty Supervises All-school Ring Sale

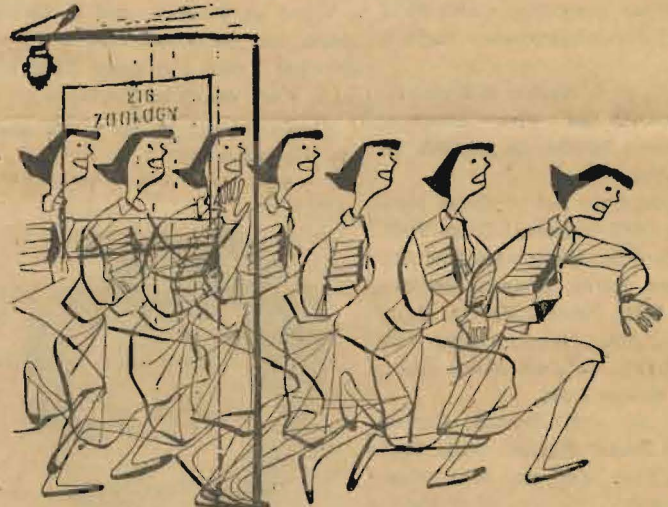

The all-school ring for the students of Pacific Lutheran are now being sold on campus by Don Hefty, representative of the L. G. Balfour Company. Those interested can get in touch with Don at any time.

The standard class ring was decided against two years ago in favor of the newer all-school ring. These rings vary in price from $15 to $25 and come in a variety of stones. Those in special demand are the black onyx, the blue sapphire, and the ruby. The mountings can be either ten carat gold or sterling silver and a deposit of $5 is required. Delivery is promised within ten weeks.

The ring has the Chapel-Music-Speech building, the "Build for Character" sign, Mount Rainier, and the Old Main for mounting design and will be engraved with the purchaser's initials and year of graduation on the inside band.

pitch, and as she lurched forward toward my belt loop she slipped and fell, laying her thigh open to the bone. Remembering my Boy Scout training, I lost no time in picking up the fallen shiv and with one motion slashing her throat to stem the flow of blood from her thigh. Retreating, her last murmur was barely audible to me: it was, "Zut! All I wanted was something for my scrapbook."

Next week: a real interview with a real, live PLC coed.

WAA Begins Volley Ball

The Women's Athletic Association is beginning its third major sport of the year, according to Kathy Biery, president. Volley ball will be played every Monday evening at 7 p.m.

"This semester we are urging more girls to join the organization," said Kathy. "Start earning points for your letter sweater. More girls should be wearing their own letter sweaters. Also, the WAA handbook is ready and all your questions concerning the association will be gladly answered."

"Even if you aren't able to join WAA but enjoy playing," Kathy continued, "we urge you to come to the gym to participate."

During the past semester, WAA has been playing basketball and softball. The intramural softball championship was won by the second floor north team, led by Carol Hintze. There were no regular teams formed for basketball, although many games were played.

Students May Sign For Table Tennis Games

Intramural Director Mark Salzman announced Tuesday that you may now sign up for the All-school Table Tennis Tournament in the upper SUB or the gym.

There will be both a singles and a doubles tourney and each will be a single elimination affair. A student may participate in both of the tournaments if he wishes.

Tacoma leads the Table Tennis League with Central second, Western third and the Faculty last.

"From the Bench"

By Ted and Walt

The Lutheran five goes into a crucial series this weekend with second place Eastern Washington and first place Whitworth as the second half of League play begins.

Defensively, the problem for the Lutes against Eastern will be to stop Dick Edwards, a 5-11 guard who has scored 320 points in 18 games; the defensive stress in the Whitworth contest will be on Phil Jordan, who is one foot taller than Edwards and who has 301 points to his credit. The biggest Pirate tallied 41 against the Loggers last week.

Western Washington and UBC can be mathematically eliminated from first place; and reasonably from the NAIA Tournament. However, all five of the other teams have lost only three games (Eastern has two losses) and potentially could win first place. Rather than summarize all the possibilities and probabilities of the teams, we'll make a prediction of where the teams will finish on the basis of accumulative data:

Whitworth, 11 wins, 1 loss; Eastern, 8 wins, 4 losses; PLC, 8 wins, 4 losses; CPS, 7 wins, 5 losses; UBC, 4 wins, 8 losses; Central, 3 wins, 9 losses; and WWCE, 1 win, 11 losses.

Phil Nordquist's current point splurge has moved him into the top four (Lund, Ross, Koessler, Nordquist) among Lute scorers. The fifth starting spot has been divided among Gubrud, Hanson, Billings and Sinderson so that these players are behind the other four.

The team's defensive average looks good again—56.3. By holding WWC to 9 field goals the Lutes established a Conference low in field goals scored against a team.

Ron Billings' four consecutive foul shots in the last two minutes of the game at UBC (PLC 55, UBC 53) reminds one of the extra point he kicked in the closing seconds of the memorable "fog bowl" game with Whitworth. Speaking of clutch playing, Jack Hoover iced a game for the JV's 34-33 last Monday by sinking two foul shots as time ran out.

Ex-Lute Glen Huffman is up in the scoring column in the city league; "Huff" plays for the Brewers as do Ed Brown (PLC '52) and Don Imveen (CPS '53).

Vern "open your eyes, ref" Hanson has settled down lately. He has gone three games now without a technical four being called on him.

It is believed that PLC set a new conference defensive record in holding Western to 9 field goals last Sat. in Bellingham. Just how valuable a man Sinderson is was brought out when he sparked the Lutes to a thrill-packed 77-80 victory over CPS. Up until he missed the Vancouver-Bellingham trip, Jack was fifth in team scoring.

Flash . . . Flash. PLC should be ranked second in the nation. We're not prejudiced, look at the facts. PLC beat Eastern, Eastern beat Hawaii, Hawaii beat Whitworth, Whitworth beat WSC, WSC beat U. of Washington, U. of Washington edged U. of Idaho, U. of Idaho beat Oregon State, Oregon State beat Indiana, which currently ranks third in the nation in the latest AP poll.

Lutes Defeat St. Martin's

Pacific Lutheran's hoop five ran up the biggest score this season last Tuesday, 81-63, over the hapless St. Martin's College. Nordquist's 16 points were high for the Lutes, the Rangers' sharpshooting Jack May led all scorers with 17.

The Lutes took over the boards from the start, and worked for better shots throughout the contest. Big Nick Kelderman made his initial appearance in the varsity lineup for the Black and Gold. Nick made four field goals and four foul shots, playing less than half the contest. Harshman made use of the whole bench, and tried several combinations.

The score by quarters was 18-10, 43-33, 60-47, 81-63, PLC leading all the way.

Remember to bring your dimes to the game Saturday night for the "March of Dimes" fund.

Western 40, Clover Creek 38

Western Parkland staged a second half rally to edge Clover Creek 40-38. Duaine Brandt was high man for the night with 15 points, but it was Dale Schmike's nine second half points that proved to be the difference. Gordy Huesby and Tiny Ted Siek topped the Hall attack with 10 apiece. In the other game Tacoma forfeited to So. Barracks.

PLC Five Down Vikings, Bow to Seattle U. Team

PLC made a sweep of their northern trip by pulling all the plugs to crush Western Washington, 68-38, in their most decisive win of the season. The win, coupled with a CPS loss to Whitworth, boosted the Lutes into undisputed third place in Evergreen action. The Gladiators now own a 5-3 record with all remaining conference games to be played at home.

Again it was the Lute defense which set the pace, working with an offense that rarely misfired. Four field goals was the extent of the Vikings' scoring from the field in the first three quarters. They managed five more in the last quarter against the PLC Jayvee.

PLC was never really threatened. They held leads of 16-7 at the first quarter and 32-15 at half. Pouring on the steam the Gladiators scored 23 points in the third quarter and led at the end of same, 55-23.

The Lutes' showing led PLC mentor Marv Harshman to exclaim, "It was the best this bunch of boys has ever played for me."

A much improved Phil Nordquist again was the Lutes' main scoring weapon. He totaled 17 points on 7 field goals and 3 free throws. And again it was Nordquist who made the backboards his own.

SEATTLE U. VICTORIOUS

Seattle University glided to their 21st victory of the season by defeating a determined but outmanned Pacific Lutheran College basketball team, 82-64. As a result the Chiefs remained firmly entrenched in the number six spot in the Associated Press poll. At this stage of the game the Firechiefs look like a sure shot for a bid to the NCAA regionals held at Gill Coliseum in Corvallis, Oregon.

Although soundly beaten, the Lutes showed well on several occasions. This was due in no little way to the efforts of Phil Nordquist, who was high scorer for both teams with 20 points. Phil sank eight baskets out of fifteen shots for a 53% shooting average. Defensively as well as offensively he was all the Lutes had under the backboards. More than once Nordquist took the ball out of the hands of two or three Seattle players as they attempted to rebound. Had the other Lute regulars been able to hit in a more consistent fashion the game probably would have been closer.

The PLC Jayvees defeated a highly regarded Seattle Papoose team in the preliminary, 68-60.

UBC Loses To Gladiators

PLC guard Ron Billings, playing another brilliant reserve role, sank two free throws in the last minute of play to give the Lutes a 56-53 decision over a stubborn UBC team.

Neither team was able to muster a commanding lead during the ball game. UBC led at the first quarter, 15-14. This score was turned around for a 29-29 tie at half. Jack Hoover accounted for 9 of PLC's 15 points during the second quarter, as he spelled Bob Ross.

Both teams scored 13 points in the third quarter for a continued tie at 42-42. The Lutes finally went ahead by six in the beginning of the final round only to have the Thunderbirds rally back at 52-52. Billings then put the ball game away for PLC from the foul line.

Phil Nordquist and Billings held high point honors for PLC with 11 each. Lund and Hoover followed with 10 and 9, respectively.

Terry Brown, the only ditch digger with an all-girl audience, gave the following reasons for his labors on the green: (1) for embellishment, (2) for cleanliness, (3) for reasons that coincide with those of the TVA.

Look Magazine Features Story on Lutheranism

"Lutherans think of the Christian life as a grateful response to a loving father rather than as obedience to a stern Monarch."

Thus is Lutheranism described in the recent Look magazine article.

How did Lutheranism originate? What are the basic tenets of the Lutheran creed. Do Lutherans worship Martin Luther? Do Lutherans worship any saints? Do Lutherans believe in birth control? These are among the questions in the story by the Rev. G. Elson Ruff, editor of the United Lutheran Church Publication House and "The Lutheran."

Campus To Play Host To PLC Alumni Reunion Group

The PLC Alumni Reunion will be held on the college campus Saturday and Sunday, February 20 and 21. Scheduled for Saturday are a banquet, basketball game, and coffee hour with a choir reunion. Worship Service will be held Sunday morning in the C-M-S building.

The banquet for the Alumni in the PLC dining hall will be followed by the annual business meeting. On the business program is the election of five board members and one representative to the College Board of Trustees. Paper Drive To Finance PLC Float

Attention! Gather up all your old test papers and take them to the building right across the street from the Doughnut Bar. All proceeds go to finance the PLC float for the annual Daffodil Parade that meanders through downtown Tacoma, and then through the Puyallup Valley.

In recent years PLC has had beautiful floats, and to keep this reputation, this year the whole student body is being asked to participate in a big paper drive to make some money for flowers on the float.

All the girls in the dorm get together and organize. We need all the paper and help possible. Save all the paper you can, and bring it up to the paper headquarters.

All students living off-campus, gather up what paper you have and then scour the neighborhood for more paper. Bring it to headquarters, and you will see your work well rewarded in the Daffodil Parade.
