The women's affirmative team, consisting of Viola Taw and Marie Vandinburg, won by a 3 to 0 decision over the Seattle women here, while the men's negative team consiting of Hugh Tallent and Rey nolo Jacobson lost by the same vote at Seattle.

The women's debate was spirited and interesting, although the P. L. C.
girls held the upper hand throughout. Both teams, however, presented good, logical arguments. Fred Walter was chairman of the debate.

The contest at Seattle also proved to be exciting. The Parkland men presented an excellent debate, but the Seattle team was a little too strong for them and won the unanlmous decision of the three judges.

resident Tingelstad Preaches Homecomong Sermon on Verses in Book of Revelations

One of the largest crowds to conone of the largest crowds to con-gregate in the chapel this year at-tended to hear President Tingelstad preach the Alumni Homecoming sermon. Sunday morning. The sermon was based on Revelations 2: 1-7.

Unto the angel of the Church of Ephesus write; these things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in ans right hand, who we keth in the midst right hand, who we are in the midst of the seven goiden candlesticks. I know thy works, and thy labor, and thy patterner, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and found them liars:

3. And hast borne, and hast pa-tience, and for my name's sake hast labored, and hast not fainted. 4. Nevertheless I have somewhat against thee, because thus hast left thy first love.

5. Remember therefore from Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will re-move thy can destire out of his piace, except thou repert.

6. But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitanes, which I'also hate.
7. He that hath an ear, let him

"Is the Bread of Life from heaven; we are fed by Him in His word; and toward eternal communion toward eternal communion with Him we aspire."

As He gave his measage to the Church of Ephesus, so he speaks also to us whom He holds in His right hand, and to whom he also ministers hand, and to whom he also ministers by His means of grace; and so we do well to take to heart the message:

"Let the love of Christ be ever first in our lives."

The speaker then proceeded to show that, in accordance with the text, in the first place there is no acceptable substitute for the love of Christ-of Him for us, and of us for Him, and that neither works, nor labor, nor patience avail; neither do rightibusness, nor perseverence nor purity of life nor regard for the will of Goo furnish an acceptable

NO SUCH THING

NO SUCH THING

Once-again the warning goes forth; "Beware of spring fever." We have offtimes heard similar expressions before, but another reminder will help to keep us on guard.

This is a peculiar time of the year. Every one is happy. The birds return from their southern homes; the flowers, which have lain dormant all winter long, suddenly lift their heads allowe the ground; the buds on the trees are bursting into bloom; everything is living, joyously living.

And just at this time, when everything and everybody appears so wide awake, comes what we call spring fever. The instructor first notices it when George, whoni everybody knows as a dependable student, fails to turn in a paper that is due. Then Alice fails miserably on a test, she who always received good grades. And when Charles does not come to class, conditions are becoming serious. We have all seen this happen.

class, conditions are becoming serious. We have all seen this happen.

Now, if there really were such a thing as spring fever, we might have an excuse for failing to do our work. But there isn't. The main reason for all the trouble is that we are so busy doing things that do not necessarily have to be done that we forget the things that should be done. We have too much golf, swimming, tennis, and baseball on the brain to find any time for our lessons. Then when someone receives a low grade, spring fever receives the blame.

Let's stick by our guns this spring. It may be hard to do, but it's worth the effort. And-if ever we feel tempted to shoot a round of golf instead-of studying that contemporary civilization, let's just remember.

"There is no such a thing as spring fever."

... Alumni and former students who did not attend the re-union certainly missed a good time.

WHAT WE LIKE TO SEE

A few weeks back there appeared an article in this column urging the students to attend the debates this season and thus encourage and support the debaters in the work. This plea was made in the hope that the students would respond. This they certainly did.

Practically every debate held in the recreation room saw that room packed to capacity. Not only were all seats taken, but many people stood at the back of the room throughout the entire debate. And the enthusiasm shown by the audience was unusual in that it differed so sharply with the air of bored indifference which we often notice on the part of audiences histening to debates. Nolody but the debaters and their coach will know how much this splendid spirit helped to make the season a success. The debaters felt the difference when they fraveled to other schools to take part in debates where they spoke to empty rooms, and they longed to he back where someone would show a little excitement over the contest under way.

Not only was the interest shown by the audience a help to the debaters, but it also gave outsiders a favorable impression of P. L. C. There were many remarks as to the nucle greater interest taken in debate at this school in contrast to that of other colleges. A person who is interested in debate is usually fond of reasoning and thinking. The students of P. L. C. are to be complimented. Keep up the good work. Show the same amount of interest in other school activities, and everybody will have good reason to feel proud that he is a student at this school.

piterent articles around school have been straying, apportfully intentionally, of late. Even the boys' dayroom lockers are no longer an obstacle to this strange mania.

Cattle Determine Wealth

The wealth of a man is determined by the number of cattle he possesses.

When the second with the work with this second with the work with the second with the work wit has a large number of wives is considered rich Likewise if he has see sidered rich. Likewise, if he has several daughters, he is also considered wealthy, as he can sell them later on to any man who desires a wife. In Zululand a man procures a wife by paying the father of the girl he loves many head of cattle so many head of cattle.

The most popular girls are the fairly plump ones. One often finds families in which one daughter, usually the oldest, is very plump, while her younger sisters are thin. The dameters and her younger sisters are thin. The market. Missionaries are working hard to put an end to this practice.

People Are Superstitions
The people of Zululand are very superstitions. They believe that when a person dies, his spirit enters when a person dies, his spine enters into the ody of some snake. The spirit of a fierce and warlike chief, they believe, enters the body of a poisonous and dangerous snake. On the other hand, the spirit of an innocent child enters into the body of a non-poisonous and harmless snake a non-poisonous and narmiess snake.

The spirit of an old gossip, they believe, enters into a lizard, which
