

Kansas, Here We Come!

Glads Make It 3 in Row To NAIA Champs Tourney

by Dennis Marttala

Pacific Lutheran College's "mighty" Lutes will be in the air on their way to Kansas City to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tourney tomorrow morning. The annual NAIA gathering of 32 of the "cream of the teams" throughout the nation is the biggest tournament of the hoop sport.

On their third consecutive trip to the "big one" the Lutes will be seeking the top slot of all the 32 teams which start competition Monday morning, March 10.

The Gladiators won their trip to KC by downing the Central Washington College Wildcats in two "wild" contests last Monday and Tuesday, 54-51 and 72-50, respectively. The meeting between PLC and CWC was the NAIA District No. 1 playoff.

The Harshmen will be leaving Sea-Tac Airport tomorrow morning at 7:00 a.m. on a United Air Lines Flight. They will arrive in Kansas City at 4:55 p.m. (CST) and will be taken from the air terminal there to a hotel reserved for teams in the tourney. Sunday evening the hoopsters will be honored with a banquet.

All students are to meet in front of the CUB tomorrow morning at 5:30 to form a caravan to Sea-Tac Airport in order to give the team a royal send-off! Especially those who have cars should be at the CUB to provide rides for those who need them. Heading the gaiety will be the song and cheerleaders. It is hoped that hundreds will turn out and top last year's crowd!

Last year the Lutes took third place in the NAIA single elimination event. The first place team, Tennessee State, edged PLC 71-70 after the Glads had won their first three outings with impressive 91-72, 105-83 and 76-61 scores. In the tilt for third place the Lutes knocked over Western Illinois 87-85.

This is the third straight year for the Lutes to enter the tournament. Curtis, Iverson, Van Beek and Jerstad will be making their third annual visit to KC as members of the District No. 1 championship team. The ten men who will make up the squad will be the same ten who finished the district campaign Tuesday night. Forwards on the tourney roster are Chuck Curtis, Bob Roiko, Ardeen Iverson and Norm Dahl. The centers are Tom Sahli and Rich Hamlin. At guard slots will be Roger Iverson, Jim Van Beek, Lute Jerstad and Bruce Alexander.

Coach Marv Harshman believes his squad of last season was a team more likely to take the top slot, but will not discount the ability of this year's team. Harshman said, "The tourney will be tough with all the champions competing. This team should do as well as we did last year."

"Our outcome will depend a lot upon the draw. If we can draw a Tuesday game, the rest, as well as a light workout on Monday, will make it easier."

About their showing in the playoffs Harshman stated, "for as tired as they were from the tough schedule recently the men played good ball even though it was not their best."

"The tough schedule actually should be of value in preparation for tournament play. It creates good conditioning for the tough ones to be played."

He went on to say, "I only regret having to leave the team when most of them have a year left in which they can come out on top again."

Last year the Lutes brought home one of the four custom made trophies which are presented annually to teams finishing in the top four places. Members of the championship team are given miniature diamond studded gold basketballs, while the second place team receives gold ones. The third and fourth place teams are given silver replicas.

The Kansas City Junior Chamber of Commerce assists the NAIA officials in making the stay at its city a pleasant one. The KC JCC assigns an honorary coach for each team in the tournament. This "coach" accompanies the team wherever it goes. He acts as a guide, and in general a companion to his team.

APO Quartet Contest Scheduled for April 26

On April 26 APO will sponsor the second annual Barbershop Quartet Contest which will be judged by members of the faculty. The committee in charge of the event urges all members of the PLC Student Body to start now and form a quartet to compete at the event on April 26.

Harsh, Tommervik Get Hall of Fame Awards

Fromm Named Athlete of Year

Monday night's special awards banquet of the Tacoma Athletic Commission netted PLC three outstanding athletic awards. The only Tacoma area honor of its kind each year, the Tacoma Athlete of the Year, went to John Fromm.

And awarded places in the Tacoma Sports Hall of Fame were Marv Tommervik and Marv Harshman, the "Marvelous Marvs."

for their service to PLC during 1939-40 football seasons. Awards to the Hall of Fame can only be given 10 years after the year of the service or outstanding athletic accomplishment.

Sets Two Records

John Fromm received an engraved plaque as this year's Athlete of the Year on the basis of two national records he set in javelin throwing last June.

One of these records he made in San Diego, California, for a throw of 243 feet, 11 inches to set a new national record for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. Fromm tossed his second long one in Austin, Texas, at the National Collegiate Athletic Association's meet with a toss of 248 feet, 1 inch.

Marvs Gain Fame

The famous Pacific Lutheran duo of the "Marvelous Marvs," who put PLC on the football map, were themselves put on the "map" at Monday night's banquet. Their names were linked together in PLC gridiron tactics between 1939-1940 as each made record upon record in passing and scoring, becoming nationally famous as a passing and scoring team.

Both Are All-American

Tommervik was the A.P. Little All-American for 1940 and 1941, while Harshman was the New York Sun's All American in 1941.

Between 1939-40, when the "Marvelous Marvs" were operating, PLC won 20 straight games, losing only two in the three seasons of play.

Harshman and Tommervik were co-coaches at PLC between 1948-1950.

North Hall to Host Men Tomorrow Night

"Tropical Holiday" will be the theme of a party given for all PLC men by the women of North Hall tomorrow, March 8, starting at 7:30 p.m. in the main lounge of North Hall.

The girls say, "Such a casual occasion calls for casual dress, so now's the time to sport those Bermudas, jeans, and flashy shirts!"

Mothers' Weekend Set For March 14, 15, 16

Festivities of the second annual Mothers' Weekend on the PLC campus have been scheduled for March 14, 15 and 16, with all the mothers with daughters attending PLC cordially invited.

Sponsored by the Associated Women Students, this weekend has been set aside for the purpose of bringing mothers to the campus and giving them a look into the "college life" of their girls.

Barbara Johnson, general chairman for the event, has announced the schedule of activities for the three days. Registration will be held Friday afternoon and Saturday, with a mixer in South Hall Lower Lounge on Friday evening, followed by refreshments.

Saturday morning and afternoon have been set aside so that the visitors may attend either of those two performances of the Children's Theater production of "Jack and the Beanstalk" in the CMS. Also during the day tours of the campus will be scheduled. Saturday night a program will be held in the CB-200 in honor of the mothers, followed by a coffee hour in each of the three dorms.

Here there will be a mother chosen as queen of Mothers' Weekend. The busy three days will close Sunday.

Theater Begins One Week Run

On Tuesday night at 8:30 p.m. the first curtain will rise for the Children's Theater production, "Jack and the Beanstalk." Opening night will be open to Pacific Lutheran's students this year.

Performances of this show will be given each day at 1:00 p.m. through Friday and two showings on Saturday, one in the morning and another feature at 2:30. The public is invited to all performances.

The show, directed by originator of the PLC Children's Theater, Eric Nordholm, includes many experienced cast members. The leafy beanstalk, about which the story revolves, will grow on stage.

Musicians Leave

Pacific Lutheran's concert band leaves tomorrow morning for a 9-day tour in the Northwest including stops in Oregon, Idaho and Washington.

Final presentation for the PLC organization will be in the Edward Markham School Auditorium in Portland, Oregon, at 8:30 p.m. on Sunday, March 16, following which the band will return to the college.

Douglas, Reeves To Represent PLC in Kansas City Invitational

PLC's highly accredited debate squad was honored again this year to receive an invitation to the Kansas University Heart of America Debate Conference to be held from March 13 to 15 at the University of Kansas at Lawrence, Kansas.

Only the outstanding teams from representative areas of the country are chosen. This year fourteen colleges and universities will be represented, only five of which are from west of the Mississippi. This is the second year the conference has been held.

Senior debaters Don Douglas and Tom Reeves will represent PLC at the noted invitational this year. There will be eight preliminary rounds and four rounds of elimination. Last year PLC contestants went into the quarter finals.

The following schools have been chosen to compete this year: Pacific Lutheran, Harvard University, University of Southern California, Wisconsin State, University of Notre Dame, University of Oklahoma, University of Houston, Southwest Missouri State, Dartmouth College, University of Illinois, University of Florida, Augustana of Rock Island, U. S. Military Academy and the University of South Carolina.

Another Decision

Swimming Pool Assessment?

Again this Tuesday you students will be called upon to make an important decision in student body chapel. Being brought up in the coming business meeting is the proposal that we students of Pacific Lutheran College assess ourselves six dollars per semester in order to raise $100,000 for a college swimming pool.

According to present estimations by those proposing the assessment it will take approximately six to eight years to achieve the monetary goal. It is not known when construction would begin on the pool. No student would be required to pay the assessment for more than eight semesters, according to the proposal.

Tuesday's motion may be to refer the assessment proposal to a general election in the CUB on next Tuesday afternoon. But whatever is done, it will be up to you, the students, to either pass the proposal, refer it to a general election at some time, or defeat the entire idea.

The Mooring Mast as a paper and staff is at this time taking no stand on the issue. The Mooring Mast is urging only that you fulfill your duty and attend Tuesday's chapel to voice your opinion with your vote.—Dave Crowner, editor.

Excitement Caused by Russia Causes Concern with Professor

"Russia has put America into a sad state of excitement," states Dr. J. P. Pflueger, professor of religion, ethics and philosophy and a member of the PLC family for the past 28 years.

Several ideas were expressed by Dr. Pflueger in an interview last week concerning America's reaction to Russia's scientific achievements. "Russians want us to waste money," Dr. Pflueger said, "but should we waste it?"

He strongly feels it is not achievement to get a satellite into the air if we can't direct it to bring it down. Until such control is achieved the United States is wasting money.

When he was in college some 45 years ago, Dr. Pflueger adds, the scientists could have performed the same type of experiments but they didn't have the money to do so

People Panic

Pflueger commented, people are easily panicked, which is a major reason for the quick action of American scientists. He believes this excitement plus politics has been disadvantageous. One political party blames the other if such scientific advancements aren't made.

Some feel that Europeans began to lose confidence in Americans when Russia launched its first satellite. However, when Dr. Pflueger visited Europe a few years ago he felt that the Europeans were much less excited and worried about Russia than the American public is worried.

He pointed out why Americans should not be ashamed or worried about scientific progress: "We are getting control over guided missiles and should wait until control is gained before spending money. Take progress in stride and do not lead on in foolish spectacle adventures."

Russians Use Slave Labor

"We cannot try to outspend Russians because they use slave labor." To the Russians, he explains, the human means nothing and is used only to advantage. Because of our way of living and respect for the human being, we can never compete in like manner.

"Because of the deception of the Russians we don't know how many launchings they attempted before success," he warns. "We don't know when to believe them."

"We must go our own way, keep our powder dry and strive for useful forms of defense."

What does Dr. Pflueger think concerning the present demand for more scientists here in America?

"Whole Man" Needed

As a firm believer in the "whole man" and the well rounded citizen, Dr. Pflueger is against developing as many "strictly" scientists as possible. He feels scientists are beginning to realize that students need a broad education and are sending them back to the liberal arts colleges instead of specializing in science.

"Science doesn't know about morality and the well rounded citizens," and concludes that for real success, "man can't dictate the curriculum."

Letters . . . to the Editor

Dear Editor:

For the time I will act not as a member of the staff of this paper but as a student who was at the council meeting where the matter of the proposed assessment was discussed. In this capacity I would like to ask a few questions and request some concrete answers. I would ask the committee to answer these simple questions:

1) If the students saw fit to vote no on the measure to support the development fund, why should they go farther out on a limb and vote for the swimming pool fund?

2) Is it not true that if the measure is passed, there will be no way a student could get out of the added assessment, as it will become a debt which will be added to the bill when he enters PLC?

3) Is it not true that those of us who rely on our parents for support will be forcing them under the added burden of the assessment and raised tuition?

4) Is there any guarantee that the pool will be finished within, say, ten years?

5) Your figures are based on 1500 full time students. Is there any but an outside chance that the quota will be full?

6) There was mention made of outside help. How real is this chance?

7) Are there no other things we need more than a swimming pool?

If there is more space next week, there are a few more points and the arguments to support these questions which could be asked.

ELECTION RESULTS

Results of the student body elections held last Tuesday are as follows:

The amendment to change election date of the class officers was passed. Yes, 274; No, 17.

The amendment to change the deadline date for nominations from the Literary Board was passed: Yes, 277; No, 12.

The resolution that the student body participate in the development fund through self solicitation was defeated. Yes, 177; No, 325.

Seven Lutes Go To ELC Meeting

Today seven PLC members will arrive at Augustana College in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, to attend the annual ELC Student Conference.

Miss A. Baker, PLC assistant librarian, drove and is the faculty chaperone. Attending from Parkland are Miriam Stoa, Diana Paul, Jim Florence, Glen Campbell, and Bev Swanson.

"Living God's Will" is the theme of the conference, which will begin this evening.

Heigh ho, everybody, and congratulations to the team on its trip to Kansas City. I've also been asked to get out of town. . . I'd like to keep you up to date on my contest for the girl on campus with the prettiest ears. I'd like to emphasize the fact that this is not a gag and the winner's ears will receive an all expense paid trip to Hawaii by parcel post.

I've had a few people come up and ask me when our radio show is going to be played back, which amazes me. I'd like to thank those who cooperated with us and made the show possible. . . Sitting here at my loyal typewriter, I'm reminded of that old saying, "A bird in the hand gathers no moss," and keeping that in mind I'd like to remind you that there are only approximately 13 weeks before final exams and now's the time to buy my Do-It-Yourself Cheating Kit, which includes the following items: one set of erasable cuffs, one pair of binocular contact lenses, a two-way transistor radio elks tooth, and, at no extra charge, my pamphlet "101 Things to Say When Caught." (Ed. Note: This product has not received the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval) . . . However, rumor has it that Don Cornell has used one successfully all year.

Sign seen on passing Volkswagon, "Don't step on me, I eat harmful insects." . . I live in one of those quiet neighborhoods and they'll do anything to keep it that way. The Fire Dept. has an unlisted phone number.

In closing, did you ever get the feeling this is just one of those centuries when everything goes wrong? (Coming next week: Complete text of Webster's Dictionary in Norwegian dialect. Watch for it!)

PLC Competing At Linfield Tourney

Today marks the second day of debate for junior and senior division debaters from PLC in the Linfield College Tournament at McMinneville, Oregon. They competed in the twelve events yesterday from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 p.m. and like schedules are set for today and tomorrow.

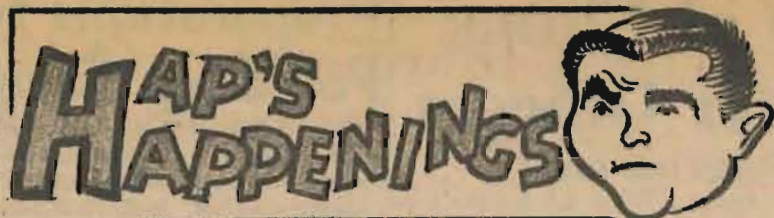

Thirty-five schools and about 700 contestants are involved this year in the important tourney. PLC has attended the meet a total of twelve years and annually since 1949. Since 1951, with the exception of last year, PLC has won one of the sweepstakes awards.

The University of Oregon will provide the biggest competition for PLC again this year. In other tournaments this year the two schools have broken fairly even. At Linfield they will scrap for the junior and senior sweepstakes and especially for the grand rotating sweepstakes which PLC won two years ago when it was first given and which Oregon U. won last year.

Professor Theodore O. H. Karl, the debate coach and head of the speech department, reports that PLC has "a well balanced squad" and "they have all proved they can hit." He pointed out the junior division sweepstakes win over Oregon U. at the College of Puget Sound Tournament recently and also the senior division sweepstakes win at Los Angeles against stiff competition last fall.

Professor Karl and Dr. Utzinger, also of the speech department, traveled with the teams to the meet.

The following people are PLC's contestants: Senior Division—Tom Reeves, Don Douglas, Janet Turman, Bettelou Macdonald, and Herb Dempsey. Junior Division—Jim Traynor, Orin Dahl, Cal Capener, Dave Stuart, Jackie Slater, Jeris Randall, Judith Johnson, and Louise Kraabel.

What other honors could you win in this league if you were Coach Marv Harshman? Our 1958 Lutes handed Harsh his fourth consecutive league flag last week, the TAC named Harsh to the Pierce County Hall of Fame, and now in Harshman's final game on the home court, the Gladiators presented him with his third consecutive trip to the NAIA Tournament in Kansas City.

The events of the past thirteen seasons have brought about many thrills to Harsh, but we doubt if many will compete with the hectic action of Monday and Tuesday's games.

The Lutes leave via air tomorrow for Kansas City in hopes of bringing home the championship trophy that eluded their grasp last year by a single game. A turnout of more than a thousand students and fans should be on hand to see the Lutes off from Sea-Tac Airport in the morning. Let us offer on behalf of the student body of PLC our congratulations on another Evergreen Conference championship and the best of luck at Kansas City, fellas!

Fieldmen Prepare For Track Meets

PLC fieldmen are readying for the meets to be held this spring. Eleven men have been working out for the track and field events.

All-American javelin star John Fromm will be specializing again in the spear toss while Keith Creley, a freshman, will be his understudy. Creley also has been hurling the discus.

Carl Searcy has been hefting the shot-put along with Orson Christianson and Tim Wyndham. Runners include Bob Lee, who will be trying the one-half and one mile distances; Dan Witmer, 220 man; Lowell Sheldahl, sprinter, and Bill Weinerth, sprinter.

Dave Jenkins and Gary Gebhart have been turning out also for the track practicing.

Organized practice for baseball begins when Coach Marv Harshman returns from Kansas City. However, individual practice has been going on for several days.

Hesters Keep Top Hoop Slot

The Hesters of Third Floor Old Main managed to retain their position as league leaders in the "A" division. They held on to the lead with a slim margin over both the DeJardines and the Road Runners.

When the intramural hoopsters took to the maples last Monday the Road Runners knocked over the Hesters 43 to 33. Jon Wefald hit 14 points for the Hesters while Bob Ross connected for 13 for the winners.

"Game of the Week" honors went to the Faculty-Gunners encounter which the Faculty barely won 29-28 as Salzman hit 15 for the edging winners. The underestimated Gunners squad was out for victory, but fell short as the final whistle blew.

In the game between the Faculty and the Brains, Mr. Salzman led the Faculty to a 49-34 win over the Brains as he pumped in 22 points. This scoring spurge by the intramural director netted "Scorer of the Week" honors for him.

Coming up on the intramural calendar is the free throw contest. Each contestant tosses one hundred free-throws. Individual and dorm honors are given.

Lutes Top Western, Central To Earn Kansas City Honors

The hustling Harshmen of PLC realized the "Kansas City or Bust" goal for the third consecutive year Tuesday night on the home maples as they soundly trounced the handicapped Central Washington Wildcats 72-50 before a packed house. It was the second and deciding game of the three-game District No. 1 NAIA playoff series, after the edging out of a 54-51 verdict in the playoff opener Monday night.

The Lutes, who overran all competition in Evergreen Conference play, earned the playoff berth by drubbing Western, second ranking team west of the Cascades, 85-62, Saturday. Central, a surprise entry in the playoff finals, edged out a 67-64 win over heavily favored Gonzaga.

Lutes Take Second, 72-50

Despite the loss of their forward, Bill Coordes, the Wildcats stayed within reach of the Lutes in the first half Tuesday, trailing only 27-21. Coordes suffered an ankle injury in the first 30 seconds of the playoff opener in attempting an off-balance jump shot.

Curtis sparked the Lutes with 20 points as well as 20 rebounds. Roiko, Sahli, and Iverson had 13, 13 and 10, respectively. Kominski had 13 for Central and Bieloh canned ten.

The Lutes found the shooting range in the last half and wound up with a .455 percentage, topping that of the visitors' .288. PLC out-rebounded Central 53-36.

Down Central 54-51 Monday

The initial contest in the final playoff proved to be nearly a re-creation of the final conference game: in Ellensburg, which the Lutes won 44-42. The scoring duel between all-conference Bill Coordes of Central and the equally honored Lute, Chuck Curtis, resulted in a Coordes victory, with 22 points, but Bob Roiko, playing one of his greatest games, took up the slack and popped in 17 points, followed by Van Beek with 14. The closely checked Curtis contributed 12.

The Lutes' well-worn path to the foul line was the determining factor Monday night. Each team gained 21 buckets from the field, but the Lutes converted 12 free throws out of 22 and the Wildcats 9 of 12.

Central held a slight 30-28 halftime edge, but Curtis and Company matched the visitors basket-for-basket in the second half and finally pulled ahead with 2:12 remaining. The spark plugs of the Wildcats, Coordes and Kominski, who scored 22 and eight points, respectively, left the game via the foul route in the closing minutes when they were needed the most.

Lutes Top Western

In the semi-playoffs, the tired Gladiators, playing their fourth game in a week, easily took the measure of the Western Washington Vikings, 85-62, to qualify for the playoff finals.

The Lutes got off to a slow start but were never seriously threatened, and turned the game into a run-away in the second half. Curtis drove for 28 tallies and Roiko bucketed 18. Rollo Gould scored ten for Western.

Big College Takes Small College

The nationally ranked Seattle Chieftains overran the Lutes 94-60 in Seattle on February 28 in a non-conference game.

PLC held an early lead, but could not find a defense to stop All-American Elgin Baylor, who dunked 51 points. Chuck Curtis, suffering from a severe chest cold, scored 19 for the Lutes.

Bernie's BUY-LINE
By Bernie Brotman
The PLC baseball season opens against U.W. in the first week of April.
There has been talk around that MARV TOMMERVIK might possibly coach the baseball team.
COACH MARV HARSHMAN was over at the CPS Fieldhouse yesterday scouting for basketball talent at the Class A high school tournament. I wonder for whom he was scouting—PLC or WSC?
HARSHMAN and his squad of donkeys and "Desk Jockeys" suffered an 11-8 defeat in the benefit donkey basketball game held over in the CPS Fieldhouse last Sunday night. Some have attributed the loss to weak defensive set-ups by the donkeys.

Mission Crusaders Learn of China; Nurses Elect New Semester Officers

CRUSADERS CRUSADE

At the last meeting of Mission Crusaders, David Shen presented colored slides on student work in Hong Kong. According to David the Lutheran Church is advancing slowly; its people have their meetings in small buildings because they have no large churches.

College students hold meetings just like their brothers in America, along with campus witnessing, weekend retreats and social sports.

Elementary schools have little connection with God's Word, but the missionaries are gradually penetrating their walls, stated David.

Brought up at the meeting was the International Voluntary Services, which presents a challenge for any young college graduate to be a witness in a foreign country under its government. This year's assignment is to the civil servant-type position under the Indonesian Government covering a two-year period.

Applicants must meet certain qualifications as only the highest type of Christian candidates are selected. Necessary characteristics are: leadership, dependability, emotional stability, positive Christian living, cooperation, industriousness, ability to adjust, patience, ability to share and a competency in at least one professional and/or vocational field.

Pastor Lutnes is to be contacted by interested students.

SKATING DATE SET

Tonight skates will hit the ice at the Lakewood Ice Arena as FTA's party gets underway. The rink has been reserved for PLC from 10:30 until 12:30 p.m.

MISSIONS ARE AIM OF LDR

Each month the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation send money to certain missionaries. At the meetings every second and fourth Wednesday at 4:15 p.m. various programs are given. Linda Hurd has shown slides of her European trip with the summer camp project.

The spring tea for faculty wives is now being planned by members of LDR.

NURSES LEAD NURSES

Second semester has brought several new nurses to the campus and therefore many new members to Delta Iota Club. New leaders of this group were recently elected: Janet Towe, president; Marilyn Nickelsen, vice president; Donna Giger, secretary; Betty Johnson, treasurer; and Julie Simmons, ICC.

VOICES SOUND FOR HELP

Jerry Bayne, Student Congregation director, extends an invitation and plea for voices to help beautify the services. Practices are at 6:30 p.m. every Thursday night in the CMS.

NORTH HALL SELL WARES

"Anyone for a Tootsie Pop?" was the North Hall slogan for last week as they practiced their salesmanship in the CUB. Gwen Thomas and Gumbjorb Ladstein, chairmen of the project, report approximately $11 profit.

North Hall's treasury will receive this profit and it in part will be used for a mixed party the dorm has planned.

WAR-MONGERS!

Clover Creek Hall and Village has again withstood the vicious and atrocious assault perpetrated by the war-mongers of Old Main.

Council Members Head for Confab

Student Council members Patti Finn, Lois Hellberg, Paul Engel and Jim Bullock leave this Wednesday evening for the Evergreen Conference Student Body Association annual spring conference, to be held March 13-15 at the University of British Columbia.

Main feature of the three-day convention is the discussion groups. Another item on the program will be the Evergreen Conference business meeting.

One purpose of the convention is to break new student body officers in on student government affairs. Although Pacific Lutheran has not yet had student body elections, those who are not seniors are being sent.

King-Queen Names Due In on April 11

SAGA Queen candidates' names must be turned in to the Saga office on or before April 11th, accompanied with the $5.00 registration fee.

Organizations and individuals can best do this, according to Jim Bullock, Saga business manager, by means of a roving petition or the fee can be taken out of the organization's treasury. The Queen candidate must be a freshman women.

King candidates' names do not need to be accompanied with a registration fee, but candidates' names are due at the same time as the Queen candidates. The King candidates must be senior men.

Preparations Now Underway For Saga Carnival in April

This year's Saga Carnival promises to bring some fine entertainment before the PLC student body during the Carnival week-end, April 18-19, according to general chairman Jim Bullock.

On Friday, April 18, at 8:00 p.m. in the CMS Auditorium the coronation of the Saga Queen and King will take place with the crowning of the Queen. Crowning will be done by Mr. Gerrit Vander Ende, president of Pacific First Federal Savings & Loan Association and also general chairman of the PLC Development Fund.

Elections April 15

Election of the senior king and the freshman queen will be on the same day as student body elections on Tuesday, April 15.

Meg Evanson and Verna Robinson are in charge of the show Friday evening. Cal Capener will be master of ceremonies.

Rhythmaires To Entertain

For entertainment, Saga has acquired The Rhythmaires, "male quartet of distinction." They are the host quartet of the All Northwest Barber-shop Quartet Contest held each year at Pacific University, Forest Grove, Oregon.

The Rhythmaires will present a program of popular favorites as well as several of their famous comedy routines. The quartet is composed of the following members: A. C. Hingston, tenor; Ralph Shumm, lead; E. L. Cooper, baritone; and George Horner, bass.

Saturday night, again at 8:00 p.m., in the CMS Auditorium, the Lettermen, whose president is Curt Kalstad, will present an old PLC tradition, the Lettermen's Minstrel Show. Joe Danielson and Jack Holl are in charge of the Saturday night show. The Lettermen's chorus will be under the direction of Jerry Bayne.

After the shows in the auditorium each night all are invited down to the gym to join in the gala carnival games and entertainment. Door prizes will be offered.

Main purpose of the Carnival is to raise money to help finance the cost of printing the Saga. Jim Bullock says, "remember to save your pennies for the fun-filled weekend of the Saga Carnival, April 18 and 19."
