

NEW P.E. BUILDING PLANS RELEASED

Detailed plans for a physical education building, featuring a 3,500-seat auditorium, were released today by Pacific Lutheran University officials.

Construction of the $1,465,000 multi-purpose building is scheduled to start this September, with completion set for the fall of 1968.

The building will be financed by a Higher Education Facilities Act grant of $424,460 and public support. Clayton Peterson, vice president for development, said a general solicitation will be held to raise the additional $1,040,540.

Peterson said the structure will help meet the needs of an increasing enrollment and expanding curriculum in the area of physical education and health.

In addition to the benefits to the University, Peterson said the building will give Tacoma and Pierce County an auditorium with 3,500 seats and stage facilities.

"We think it will fill a great need in this area for a large hall for conventions and community activities," Peterson added.

The building will be used for varsity basketball games, intramural sports, and health and physical education classes. Fold-away bleachers and movable chairs will provide maximum utilization of floor space.

FRATERNITY Alpha Kappa Psi, national professional business fraternity, will initiate new members Friday at its semi-annual banquet at the Sherwood Inn.

The society will also give an honorary membership to Dr. James G. Patrick, retired chairman of the department of economics and business administration at PLU. While a teacher at PLU Dr. Patrick founded Alpha Sigma Lambda, a local society that later affiliated with the national fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi.

An added feature of the auditorium, said Peterson, will be its acoustical engineering. It has been designed with no open beams, and it will provide high fidelity reproduction of both music and speech.

The floor, like the entire structure, will accommodate many functions. Dean Buchanan, vice president for business and finance, said the floor will have a newly-developed synthetic covering that can be used for athletics, dances, and other activities.

The building will also contain seven classrooms, a wrestling room, three handball courts, one squash court, a training room, lockers and showers, a sauna bath, and reception and concession booths.

It will be located on the lower campus, just west of the present swimming pool.

MAJOR

The two major spring sports at Pacific Lutheran University have yet to make any claim to greatness. The track squad has lost every meet they entered and the baseball team is going into the weekend with a 4-9 record.

SPORTS

The stickmen are plagued with errors and poor batting. Last Saturday Pacific University beat PLU 3-2 at the end of 16 innings. The Badgers ended the second game after the seventh inning with a score of 2-0.

On the PLU diamond Tuesday the Lutes held their own until the fifth inning when the Badgers scored four unanswered runs. They went on to win 10-1.

The Knights are now 1-7 in the Northwest Conference, and 4-9 for the season. They meet the College of Idaho this Saturday and face Whitman College Monday.

The trackmen had their closest taste of victory this season Tuesday when they entertained the thinclads from St. Martin's College. The Lutes lost 73-67 to the Olympia gang. Earlier in the week they suffered a 129-16 beating by Lewis and Clark College.

Several Knights distinguished themselves in Tuesday's competition. Rich Slatta, a sophomore letterman from Hillsboro, Ore., reached 42 1/2 feet in the triple jump, while sophomore Steve Hoff was clocked in the high hurdles at a time of 16.4 seconds.

The team travels to Forest Grove, Ore., Saturday for a match against Pacific University. On Tuesday they meet St. Martin's and the University of Puget Sound on the Logger's track.

 * TENNIS trouble for the * * Pacific Luther- *

 * on dual matches. *
 * *
 * Last Friday in a three-school meet *
 * the linkmen from PLU stung Willamette * * University but in turn were swatted by *
 * the University of Puget Sound. On Tues- *
 * day they again beat Willamette but *
 * suffered a blow from Linfield College. *
 * *
 * The Lutes' loses this season have *
 * come in multiple competition. They have *
 * won all five of their dual matches. But *
 * regardless of the type of meet, Linfield *
 * is the only Northwest Conference team to * * beat them. *
 * *
 * Jay Robinson, a sophomore from *
 * Portland, Ore., has been the Lutes' big *
 * man with the club. He has been medalist *
 * five times this season. He is expected *
 * to lead the squad this Friday when PLU *
 * hosts Western Washington State College. *
 * *
 * The Lutes' tennis squad is thriving *
 * on victories this season, having suf- *
 * fered only one loss in six matches. In *
 * their last match the team beat Lewis and *
 * Clark College 5-2. The Lutes now stand *
 * 3-0 in Northwest Conference competition. *
 * *
 * Much of the team's success is cre- *
 * dited to Keith Johnson, a junior trans- *
 * fer student from Central Washington. He *
 * has only one loss this season. *
 * *
 * The Knights meet Seattle Pacific *
 * College Thursday in a grudge meet. It *
 * is the school that beat the Lutes, and *
 * one of its players gave Johnson his *
 * single defeat. *
 * *
 * On Friday they host Western Wash- *

EDUCATION A faculty development institute INSTITUTE in educational media is being sponsored this summer by San Jose State College and the U. S. Office of Education.
 The institute runs from August 7th through the 25th.

The program is designed for college and university undergraduate faculty members. Ten teams of three persons, a media person and two faculty members, will be selected as participants.

Teams will explore recent trends in educational media use, develop ability to analyze course content, and pull out instructional support objectives.

Institutions represented will send a team of three participants: a media person and two faculty members. They will be paid their weekly stipends of $75 plus $15 for each dependent.

Interested faculty members should contact Dr. Kenneth Johnston in the school of education.

CIVIL RIGHTS

"The Civil Rights movement today is suffering the most devastating blows and undergoing the most severe setbacks since its inception," an audience at Pacific Lutheran University was told Tuesday night.

The speaker was Richmond M. Flowers, former attorney general of Alabama and the state's losing candidate in the race for the governor's chair now held by Mrs. George (Lurleen) Wallace.

The setback, he said, is caused by certain Civil Rights leaders who try to draw a parallel with or integrate the cause of their movement with the war in Vietnam.

He said he failed to see the significance of such a parallel when the latest figures show there is less than one tenth of one percent variation in the population ratio of the Negro in the nation and the Negro in Vietnam.

"However," he said, "I do see a very close parallel with an able-bodied citizen--and I presume that Stokley (Carmichael) is able-bodied and a citizen--who defies a draft notice, and the Governor of a state who stands in a schoolhouse door in defiance of a court order and attempts to exclude a student for the sole reason that she is a Negro."

Defiance is defiance whether you are defying a draft notice or a Federal Court order, he said.

"I would strongly suggest that Stokley Carmichael enter himself in the Vice-Presidential race and run on a ticket with George Wallace because through his present behavior he is doing more to aid and advance the Wallace cause than any other individual in the country."

Flowers also told the 230 people in the audience that he questioned the wisdom of Dr. Martin Luther King's statements about the war and Civil Rights.

"I deeply resent him exerting his influence to convince many Negroes that to oppose the war in Vietnam is a part of the Civil Rights Movement," said Flowers.

He added, "I fear that certain leaders have taken this attitude in order to keep themselves in the news rather than spend their energies to improve the Negroes' position in this nation."

*****
*
* STUDENTS A group of PLU *
* students recent- *
* PRAISED ly participated *
* in the fourth *
* annual International Festival at the * * University of Oregon. A review in the * * Register-Guard said "Two of the most * * popular stage show numbers were the *
* Scandinavian dancers from Pacific Lu- *
* theran University...and a one-act play *
* performed by the students from Nation- *
* alist China."
*****

Flowers said that he thought King's and Carmichael's views not only hurt the war effort, but served devastating blows upon the Civil Rights Movement.

Speaking about the political situation in his native state of Alabama, Flowers told a group before the speech that Mrs. Wallace represents the views of the majority of the state's population.

He added, however, that he plans to run for governor again in 1970. "The Wallaces are losing ground because people are getting tired of their defiance of the laws."

Flowers spoke at the University of Puget Sound Wednesday night following an engagement at Seattle University. He is scheduled to speak at the University of Washington.

...Dr. Harold Leraas and Dr. Burton Ostenson (biology) recently attended a meeting of biology faculty representatives from 25 Washington colleges and universities sponsored by the Commission on Undergraduate Education in the Biological Sciences. The purpose of the meeting was to evaluate current trends in biology curriculum revision. It was predicted at the meeting that future developments would be strongly oriented toward ecology.

STUDENT The annual spring exhibit by art students at PLU is being featured in the Gallery at the Robert Mortvedt Library through May 18th.

EXHIBITS Art works in the exhibition include paintings, drawings, sculptures and ceramics. The Gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

M. J. Kitzman, chairman of the art department, said the works reflect the departmental philosophy of "being devoted principally to the fine arts, as opposed to commercial art training."

The exhibit does not reflect any particular style or school of thought. Students were encouraged to develop their own sensitivities and values in their works.

Kitzman said this style is reflected in the show by such diversely opposite works as Margene Fischer's painting of a flower in an almost magic realism and romantic style, and the overtly non-objective painting "Tempest Revisited" by Noel Shuler.

The drawings range from academic studies to highly individualized personal expressions in a broad range of mediums.

Included in the sculpture works is a piece by Dennis Cox who recently won a purchase award in national competition.

Kitzman said, "In viewing the work it should be remembered that many individuals have contributed to the instruction and direction of the students' growth, including the forces of non-studio classes such as history and visual arts courses."
