

Legislature Approves Student Appointments

Presidential appointments were the major topic of discussion for the evening's Legislature. ASPLU President Kent Hutchinson presented his recommendations for several positions. ASPLU committees and other student body positions. All motions were unanimously approved by the Legislature.

Appointed to the Judicial Board were: Jesse Arnold, chief justice; Mary Zimmerman and Ralph Stahle, justice justices; Janis Rosenblatt, justice justice; Debby Olson and

Randy Olson, supreme justice. Entertainment chairman for next year will be Roger Claridge and Sandy Tilton. Hutchinson decided to keep Jan Havel as co-ordinator for next year's American Lutheran Church College Conference that will be held on the PLU campus during Thanksgiving vacation. Student vice-president Mike Clubb announced the appointment of Christine Snyder and Paul Reklouf on the Social Activities Board. Next Monday the appointments will continue as new members of the Publications Board, Friday at 3. Commencement and World Community Service are announced.

Cullom also presented a letter to the group which requested a fund raising drive on campus for a Kennedy Memorial Library, which is to be built in Boston. The Legislature decided to turn the matter over to the PLU Young Democrats.

PLU Students to Present Recital

The Music Department of PLU will present a student recital in East Chapel Sunday, May 17, at 8 p.m.

Opening the program will be Kathryn Cybilis of the Conservatory playing "Lullaby and the French Waltz" by Franz Liszt. She will also give a performance of J. P. Sweelinck's "Balletto del Girasole." This number was last seen years back by B. Foster Kopp, one of the nation's leading organists, and only published within the last two years.

Kennedy will feature the "White Sea" trumpet part of pieces on the Concerto with Henry Purcell's "Trumpet Voluntary."

Tom Topp and Russell Crowl will present a duo-recital of "Capriccio Solo," by Peter Warlock. This number has few movements. They will conclude their part of the recital with Mozart's "Sonata in D-Major."

S. Bach; and "Organ Sonata" by Bach.

West Hall and Ivy Court Victors In Campus World University Drive

This spring's ASPLU fund raising campaign for World University Service collected $1200.73, according to campaign director Mark Leno.

The fund raising this year was structured through the living groups, with competition based on a per capita system. West Hall, under the chairmanship of Joan Strum, raised $110 and was the leader among the women's dorms.

The West Hall contribution represented an even $1 per resident donation. The 85 men of Ivy Court, the leading men's dorm, raised well over this by dipping into their treasury to contribute a total of $102.45. Ivy WUS representative was its president, Peter Quam.

These two winning dorms will be hosted as a party each Sunday evening by the WUS committee.

Other dorm groups included a $700 appropriation from the Legislators and $799.50 in individual contributions from members of the faculty and administration. Harvest Hall, the largest dorm, donated $128.91.

Other sources included a bingo booth at the Spring Carnival, sponsored by the WUS committee itself ($87.50), the Lettermen ($28.32), Alpha Kappa Psi ($20.00), Taukappa ($25.00), Alpha Phi Omega ($7.50), Phi Kappa Phi ($52.75), North Hall ($45.20), South Hall ($52.15), Evergreen Court ($16.80), and Delta ($29.95).

Leno to Enroll at Journalism School

Mark Leno, a writer at Pacific Lutheran University, is one of our college students in the nation to receive a scholarship from "Moderator" magazine to attend the Annenberg School of Communications at the University of Pennsylvania.

The scholarship award is part of a two-year program where Leno will attend Annenberg School and work on the staff of the "Moderator," a monthly publication representing student life on the college campus. Upon successful completion of the program, Leno will receive a master of arts degree in communication.

Next year will be the first year for such a program. For the past two years "Moderator," the only college magazine, has been published in New Haven, Conn. It has circulation on over 150 college campuses.

For the past year Leno has been a correspondent to the magazine. He was editor of the Mooring Mast during his sophomore and junior year.

Religion and Music Dept. Chairmen Chosen

PLU President, Dr. Robert Mortvedt, has announced the appointment to the faculty of Rev. Ernest E. Ekland of Arlington, Mass., as chairman of the department of religion and Maurice H. Skones of Alamosa, Colorado, as chairman of the department of music.

A member of the ministry of the Lutheran Church in America, Pastor Ekland has been pastor of

Angie Nicholson, a freshman at Pacific Lutheran University, was chosen the new Miss Tacoma at the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce pageant, which was held last Saturday night in the Crystal Ballroom of the Winthrop Hotel. She is the daughter of Lt. Col. (retired) and Mrs. Kenneth B. Nicholson of Tacoma.

Miss Nicholson presented an art display and explanation of her talent presentation. Another part of the program included the asking of questions to test the poise of each of the candidates. These questions are not known to the contestants before the pageant. Miss Nicholson's question dealt with beauty and what she would do if she forgot to change clothes for a banquet and discovered the error too late. In addition to her interest in art, PLU's new Miss Tacoma also enjoys sports of all types. She plans on returning to PLU next fall.

Claudia Baker (winner from PLU) was chosen an award winner in the contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Baker of Tacoma.

Miss Baker is majoring in elementary education. For her talent she performed a ventriloquist act. For her improvement opportunity was asked what the word education meant to her, and what would she do if she were dying by her boy friend's desire and noticed a word in her salad.

During her year reign Miss Nicholson will be Tacoma's official sponsor for a great variety of civic events.

Alaskan Beauty and Dancers Present Program Here

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Seveck, accompanied by Miss Alaska, will present a program depicting Alaskan life in A-101 next Monday at 4:30 p.m. This program is made available to PLU students by special permission of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Alaska, Nina Whaley, is being called back from the New York World's Fair by Governor William A. Egan of Alaska to accompany the Sevecks on their Tacoma trip. The purpose of the program is to acquaint the public with the cultural and economic possibilities of the fifth state.

The program will consist of special dances by the Sevecks and a presentation by Miss Alaska. Governor Egan decided to present this type of program to the general public after the great attention Alaska received due to the recent earthquake.

The Sevecks are quite active in the Kotzebue Eskimo Dance Club during the summer season, mid-May until mid-Sept. They are employed by West Alaska Airlines as tour guides at Kotzebue, the second largest Eskimo village in Alaska.

As might be expected, many of the 1200 Eskimos who live there are children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren of this very interesting couple.

CHESTER SEVECK, a full-blooded Eskimo, and Miss Alaska will be on campus Monday afternoon to present a program depicting Alaskan living.

St. Paul Lutheran Church, Arlington, since 1938. He also served a period in Jamaica, New York, from 1943-47.

Pastor Ekland was professor of Christianity and philosophy at Bethany College (Kansas) from 1947-56. He is a graduate of Bethany and has a bachelor of divinity degree from Augustana Seminary (Ill.). He has a Master of Arts degree from the University of Chicago, and will receive a Doctor of Philosophy degree from Boston University on June 7. His graduate studies have centered around American church history.

Pastor Ekland is a member of Pi Kappa Delta, the American Society of Church History and the American Academy of Political and Social Science. He was graduated with honors from both college and seminary.

Skones has been associate professor of music and director of choir at Adams State College, Alamosa, since 1957. Prior to that he was a graduate student at Montana State University for one year, and supervisor of music at Cas Rank (Mont.) High School from 1940-56.

A native of Montrose, Skones has a bachelor of arts in music degree from Concordia College (Ill.), and a master of music degree from MSU. He spent the 1942-47 school year working toward his doctorate at the University of Arizona, where he will continue his studies this summer.

At Concordia he studied under Paul Christensen and sang in his choir. He was also a letterman in football and basketball. He was director of the Choral Union at MSU, and at Alamosa he was director of the Choral Society and the University Singers.

When he was at Cas Rank his choir was invited to sing at the Northwest Music Educators Conference, the Music Educators National Conference at Philadelphia, and the first International Conference on Music Education at Brussels, Belgium.

His experience includes 15 years of service in the Lutheran Church as director of choir. He was director of the Rocky Mountain District Choral Union (American Lutheran Church), and a member of the International Board of the Choral Union.

Skones served as temporary chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Adams State where the permanent department was set up. He served a major portion of the Adams State staff study which resulted in accreditation by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. He prepared a major portion of a new music course which designed to meet requirements for membership in the National Association of Schools of Music. He was elected recently by the Colorado public school music teachers to serve as advisor to the vocal division of the Colorado Music Educators Association.

Mooring Mast Seeks Increase

Many students have reacted favorably to the increased size of the MOORING MAST this semester. When the traditional four-page edition is published the question now is raised, "Why is the paper so small this week?"

Contrary to rumor, the staff is not especially lax the work of a small edition. It is also not true that some weeks there simply isn't enough news for a larger paper.

Rather, the problem is that the MM is simply not able financially to put out a six or eight page newspaper each week.

Students will have the opportunity to remedy this situation next Thursday during the special ASPLU election. At this time, the MM is requesting approval of a 50 cents a semester subscription increase.

The Mooring Mast's expenses are met by an allocation from the general fee. The small increase would also be taken from this same source.

While 50 cents might seem like a small sum, this increase would mean a larger campus newspaper. PLU had a four page paper when the student body was ten times smaller. There is ample news on campus to merit a larger newspaper. The Mooring Mast staff is willing to do the work to present "all the news." But we need your support in the election Thursday.

Speakers Chosen For Graduation

Rev. Norman O'Leary, senior clergyman, will give the opening for Baccalaureate service Sunday morning, May 31. He is vice president of the North Pacific District of the American Lutheran Church and pastor of Peace Lutheran Church. His son, David, is a student here.

Rev. Dr. Martin H. Lundeen of New York, secretary of the Lutheran Church in America, will give the commencement address May 31 at 3:30 p.m., in Memorial Gymnasium. Dr. Lundeen is one of the two elected officers of the LCA. The other is Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president. Prior to the formation of the LCA last year, Dr. Lundeen was president of Augustana Lutheran Church.

The annual Senior Day convocation will be held Friday, May 22, at 9:45 a.m. Dr. and Mrs. Robert Mortvedt will host the annual President's Reception for the graduating seniors on Friday evening, May 29, in the College Union.

The annual Honors Day convocation has been scheduled for Thursday, May 21, at 9:45 a.m.

Professor Corrects Science Article

In all nations to the extent of high school students throughout America who are showing that a naive flatworm (planaria) can "learn" a conditioned response simply by eating another flatworm which has already been classically conditioned to make the response, I should like to give them the proper data, and point out the vague and exciting aspects of the research. Reader and Shannon. (See MM, May 8th) . . .

While it is true that this research has aroused great interest in the major planarian research center at the U. S. U. of Michigan, only one periodical, The Worm Runner's Digest, has requested receipt of the results for publication. However, at the urging of Dr. James McConnell, director of the Michigan research group, this result is published separately as journal in other national periodicals such as Science. Other publications are planned.

ASPLU Voters Face Decisions

by Jamie Amend

Chief Justice, Judicial Board May 21 has been designated by the Judicial Board as the date for the last general student body election of the year. The election will be concerned with constitutional amendments, which are at present in the last stages of discussion in the Legislature.

These amendments are directed primarily toward the problem of Legislative representation, and are designed to facilitate a stronger Legislature. Copies of these amendments will be posted for students to study before voting.

Issues which are to be voted upon in this election will be presented in Student Body Convocation on Tues., May 19. It is important that every student attend in order to understand the amendments and their effects.

There are several other issues which will also come to a general student body vote. Among these are the problem of the Development Fund and the swimming pool, and the appropriation of further funds for its financing, and a request for additional student body money for expansion and development of the Mooring Mast. Each of these items will be presented next Tuesday in Convocation. Be there!

The Levelled Lance

by Loch Trenchard

The biggest battle to President Lyndon B. Johnson's declared war on poverty is to be fought in the mountain region of Appalachia. During the next two years the federal government would, according to the President's timetable, spend about four billion dollars in this 10-state area, working toward realization of a basic change in Appalachia's economic structure.

The federal government plans to effect changes there, not for the development of private enterprise but for its ultimate benefit. The proposed changes would transform the environment of Appalachia from an outmoded economic structure into a modern one.

Appalachia's headache of poverty stems from its dependence on the relatively obsolete economic forms of mining and small farming which predominate in the region. Appalachia lacks the basic communication and educational facilities necessary for the existence of an efficient economic structure.

The federal government in cooperation with state and local governments will seek to ameliorate this situation by a systematic program, including construction of new highway systems, establishment of worker training programs and development of water, grassland and timber resources in the region.

By this program, the federal government seeks to create in Appalachia a climate more favorable for private business. The real long run objective is to turn the region into an asset to the national economy rather than a drain.

The self-styled "opponents of big government" ought to consider the effects of the war on poverty in Appalachia before passing their eye-judging principles of human rights down. This action be undertaken at state level to prevent the poverty in Appalachia from turning into famine.

This war to show as the federal or state level. The more local level such as states and counties, however, are best able to do the job with a large number of impoverished communities and economically depressed areas to show their aversion from.

Action of the federal government has been made necessary in order to maintain life a near subsistence level.

President Johnson and others do not promise of getting at the roots of the disease of poverty, rather than merely treating its effects. He will alter the basic economic structure of the region by governmental action. The ultimate result would be the growth of business and the removal of a drain on the economy, leading to a decrease in federal spending to keep Appalachia at a subsistence level.

MOORING MISSED!

In this age of inflation, one wonders if anything is free any more. Even the flowers require a cent. And I suppose the bees get a commission for petaling it during the spring.

Did you know that the Rath-Blaskhawk Co. is going into the fruit business? Just the other day I heard them advertising on the radio about the Grapes of Rath.

Say, if you girls want to get married, remember that in order to do it you have to be well groomed.

Another favorite song has come out, this one put out by some of my Roman Catholic friends, to be sung on Fridays. It's called "Till We Meet Again," which can be sung on any scale. It all sounds rather fishy.

If you think you've got trouble with your grades, consider the poor corpse who fell out of the hearse five times and had to have five rehearsals for his funeral. That was really a grave matter.

It means like a note from an outline can be a lot of fun. But don't you'd have to get all the dope on it.

Now, as we draw to the end of another bi-semesterial nightmare, let me say it's been great to have you with us all of the way, and I'm looking towards next September with great fear and trembling when we shall again commence to make havoc on the editorial page.

I leave you with this gem of advice given to Venus de Milo—Be careful: Biting your finger nails can be dangerous.

'600' Club Takes Bowling Tourney

The members of the '600' Club put on a sparkling finish to win the West Lakes second round. With one week remaining, they are 4 1/2 games ahead of the second place Nelsa Sunday. In closing the position rounds, the '600' Club (Jim Myhre, Larry Carlson, and Norm Noring) will bowl Terry Brumby, Buster Myhre and Paul Olson, the first round champion for the league title.

Last Sunday, Larry Carlson rolled his second 900 series in as many weeks (223, 204, 173). Jim Myhre added a 323 series as the '600' Club had the third high team game and 933 and 1347, respectively. Lutes Drop Two To Central Nine

The Lutes found themselves on the short end of a doubleheader last weekend. They lost to Central Washington 4-1 and 2-0. The games were non-conference games played at Western State.

It was Joe Buckley's game catching performance that brought Central a victory in the nightcap. Buckley pitched only a blunderbuss to Ken Blaker in the 6th and a walk while striking out 10 and losing only two hits in the seven inning game. He walked one and then promptly picked him off.

Blaker was the Lute's catcher and was the threat of the day. He caught some of the Lute's best runs in the opening game and scored the third run in a double play. Blaker is the Lute's catcher and leading hitter. He has been over 100 all season.

You Won't Meet Your Neighbor Here

It's a good bet that you won't meet your neighbor at "LITTLE JOHN'S INN." He probably hasn't even heard about us . . . that is unless he likes good folk music, is a coffee connoisseur and enjoys a really relaxed, person-to-person atmosphere. He probably will be just as happy if he can find another place that serves food as good as ours and prices almost as low. And we'd be the last people to argue with him.

So you probably won't meet your neighbor here . . . just your friends.

Knight Track Men Take Second in Triangular Tilt

The PLU tracksters were downed by a strong Western track team Saturday. By winning all of the running events, the Vikings came out on top of the score, 96-41-35, with PLU and University of Puget Sound trailing in that order.

The Lutes managed to win only two events all day, those being the pole vault and the javelin. Rolf Olsen cleared 11 feet, 9 inches, to finish a 11 1/2 foot season of vaulting. With the help of a new pole he should improve during the next year. In the javelin, Varner Lagesson threw the spear 211 feet, 7 1/2 inches to remain undefeated in open competition this season.

Joe Peyton of UPS, a 27-year-old freshman, turned in an outstanding individual performance. He won the broad jump, high jump, 400 yard, and placed second in the 100 and 220.

Yesterday the Lutes traveled again to Western Washington for the Evergreen Conference meet. This two-day competition will determine the conference champion in track and field. On the basis of this season's results, the winners should be Central Washington, with Western, Whitworth and Eastern battling for second place.

The Lettermen's Club annual picnic, held at Frank Maloy's, PLU Librarian, was a roaring success. Big softball games were the highlight of it and the Excelsior picnic held Saturday. The South Hall Tolo was far from the biggest event of the year; probably toles are on their way out. It was, however, fun for those who had courage to participate.

Patsy Larson and Helen Norris became engaged on the 12th of April. Their marriage date is set for Aug. 1. Pat has signed a three-year contract and Mike will be in the Dupont system teaching at the high school next year. Spinnaway Lutheran is where the wedding will take place.

Another April 12 engagement is that of Rudy Arnold and Dave Kistler. Their date is set for June 1965. When Kathy will graduate from PLU. She is an elementary education major and has a psychology major. David and Kathy will be back at PLU next year.

Lois Dilling and Rod Rosenblatt chose May 12 to become engaged. They also chose Columbia Center, a salt and pepper shaker and bread setting for their personal ceremony. Rod designed the ring himself, the diamond being supported by two tiny crosses. Rod will be at Wartburg Theological Seminary next year, and plans his wedding to be in June of 1965.

May 8 was the date of the engagement of Carol LaBrecque and Bill Shields. Carol is presently working in Tacoma and will attend UPS next year in business. Carol will be at a business school in Seattle.

Judy Peterson and Don Selman, both seniors, also recently became engaged. Don will be at Wartburg Theological Seminary next year. Best wishes and congratulations to all these couples.

Aller's Background Spiced with Variety

PSYCHOLOGIST WAYNE ALLER

by David Borghum
MMA Feature Writer

Wayne Aller, assistant professor of psychology, would probably describe his childhood as an example of a double and under-approach conflict. But while he talks in such psychological language, and music and sports are provided interesting experiences, he regards his life as a response to Christ.

The conflict was that his parents forced him to take piano lessons and wanted him to go into music, while his first love was sports. He resolved the problem by doing both.

Musically, he toured the country in a college quartet quite similar to one Ambassador Quartet, except that it was mixed. He has also been a vocal soloist and is now choir director at his church.

Athletically, Aller was the state broad jump champion in high school and still holds some college track records. In all he excelled in 11 different college track events.

He achieved his B.S. in physics and mathematics at Northwest Nazarene College in Napa, Idaho, where his parents were teaching. In graduate work at the University of Washington he decided to add to his entire program and major in psychology in about ten years. He got his M.A. there, and this summer expects to receive his doctorate in psychology.

This fall, Aller and his pretty wife, Sharon, a graduating senior here at PLU, will start three years of teaching psychology in Beirut, Lebanon. Admittedly, it was a difficult decision. The different response he receives when he adds "under the Presbyterian Board of Missions" worries him. What difference should it make who leads them, if God is in all things?

As a teacher Aller hopes to train his students to be disciplined to the scientific method by learning to isolate variables. Psychology, he maintains, can be scientific in method.

Above all, however, he wants to challenge his students. "I'm not used to the students who don't fight for themselves. Students must be shaken up enough to really search for the truth, which one must discover for himself."

"The status quo can be challenged religiously, socially and culturally. Each person is called to his own excellence, but few respond to their full capacity."
