

Col. Stack Will Speak At Banquet

Civic Officials Also Invited to Dec. 15 Gridders' Dinner

Colonel Stack, former aide to General Dwight Eisenhower, will deliver the main address at the football banquet to be held at the "Tap O' The Ocean" Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. Mayor Val Fawcett of Tacoma will make a few introductory remarks in behalf of the city.

Mr. Jerry Waechter, retiring president of the Tacoma Athletic Commission, sponsors of the affair, will be the toastmaster. Other city officials who have been invited to attend with their wives are Commissioner Robert Tenme, department of public safety; Commissioner Clifford Enahl, department of public utilities; Commissioner Jack Roberts, department of public works; and Commissioner L. W. "Roy" Crank, department of finance. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolf will come as guests of Colonel and Mrs. Stack.

College Officials Invited

Notables of the school and athletic department who have been invited to share the speakers table are Dr. and Mrs. S. C. Eastwood, president and Mrs. Clifford Olson, Mr. and Mrs. Mars Tommervik, Mr. and Mrs. Mars Harshman, and Rev. and Mrs. Milton Nesvig.

Special invitations are also out to Mr. and Mrs. Dan Walton and Mr. and Mrs. Elliot Metcalf, who represent the sports department of the News-Tribune and the Tacoma Times, respectively. Several sports announcers from local radio stations are also expected to attend.

The TAC, which grew out of an athletic organization for servicemen during the war, has turned over its entire facilities at its restaurant for the event. Approximately 500 people can be accommodated.

Recognize Champs

In so honoring PLC the commission hopes to establish a precedent for all such outstanding organizations. PLC was chosen, according to Mr. Norman Iverson, football chairman of TAC, because of its three-fold victories: at the Pearl Bowl, with CPS for the city champion, and as co-champions of the Wingo league.

Tickets for the banquet are on sale to the entire student body and may be secured from either Dick Haglund or Joe Cromarty. They are $2.58 each (including tax). Football players and their companions will be guests of the TAC and the ASB. No reservations will be accepted after December 12.

Proper attire for the evening will be formal for the girls and suits for the men.

Though there are no regulations concerning all-day parking on the streets of Parkland, many of this community's merchants have requested that PLC students reserve the space in front of their business places for customers. Ample space is provided for PLC students' cars.

Students Conduct Devotions at Jail

Pierce county jail in Tacoma was the scene of devotions conducted by several Lute students last Sunday evening.

Corlie Hanson, a freshman from Ray, N. D., sang several hymns, including "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder," at the request of Mr. Charles Poole, an inmate who is awaiting the death penalty for murder. At the service, Mr. Poole, a recent convert, was baptized and received the "Lord's Supper."

Robert Ericson, freshman from Richland, Wash., led the devotions at the informal meeting.

The Rev. Claude Pellet; Lutheran Welfare director in Tacoma, is in charge of this group.

Allen Warns Of Threats To Athletics

"When we find our athletic enterprises less concerned with the welfare of the young people involved than with the provision of a mass spectacle, we'd better mend our ways or get out of the athletic business altogether."

Thus Dr. Raymond B. Allen, president of the University of Washington, highlighted his address at the dedication of the PLC Memorial Gymnasium before the Lute-Husky basketball game last Friday night.

He pointed out that although there is a considerable and desirable character-building potential in properly-conducted athletic activity, there are tendencies in collegiate athletic affairs which not only negate the fine results to be expected of sport, but will in the process bring great discredit to the institutions which permit them to develop.

"I refer," Dr. Allen explained, "to the tendencies for colleges to become so solely guided by the desire to win each and every athletic contest that they stoop to proselytizing, to professionalism in what passes for amateur sport and to the compromising of academic standards."

"When athletic supremacy is built upon such a base, it cannot help but corrupt not only those who are directly responsible for the deception but many innocent bystanders as well."

"Patently games are played to be won," he continued. "The perfectly normal and healthy desire to win gives rise to the major objectives of sport, competitive spirit, team play, the whole idea of giving one's best in terms of strength, endurance and dexterity."

"But, it and when this normal desire is so distorted as to compromise the participant and circumvent the rules that have been established to make games fair and equal, these ideals are impossible of attainment. They are, indeed, replaced by deceit and poor sportsmanship."

In conclusion, Dr. Allen emphasized that he was confident that the highest athletic ideals will prevail at PLC as it will in most other educational institutions, because teachers and educational administrators generally are sincerely devoted to the all-around, healthy development of the young men and women of America.

The Opening Tip-Off

Of the PLC-U. of W. Gymnasium dedication basketball game is shown in the larger photo. Jack Nichols Husky, and Harry McLaughlin, Lute, are the two centers vying for the ball. The smaller cut shows the three dignitaries who took part in the dedication ceremony preceding the game. They are Dr. Raymond B. Allen, president of the U. of W.; Dr. H. L. Foss, president of the PLC Board of Trustees, and Dr. S. C. Eastwood, president of PLC.

Ex-Lute Coed Lives In Luxury In Guatemala, Reporter Finds

PLCites were surprised to pick up the Tacoma Timeslast Monday to find a big three-column front-page picture and feature about Senora Guillermo Rivera Salazar, a student from St. Ann's academy in Vancouver, B. C.

Today Bernice is living a life of leisure, according to the article by Ted Morello, United Press writer who recently returned from a month's vacation in Central America.

While Mr. Morello was checking in at a swank hotel on Lake Atitlan in Guatemala, the clerk mentioned that the hotel manager's daughter-in-law was from the States, too. Two days later he was presented to the senora. He was surprised to find out that she was from Tacoma and a PLC high school graduate.

She is the only ex-North American member of a wealthy and prominent Guatemalan family. Attended by servants, Senora Rivera has little but swimming, boating, canoeing and horseback riding to

Lute Casualties Take Heavy Toll In Skiers' Ranks

The National Park rangers at Mt. Rainier had a field day in emergency treatments as the PLC Ski Club, eighty members strong, literally took over the mountain last weekend.

Monday morning was "Blue Monday" on the Lute campus for these ski enthusiasts as they limped wearily into their classes. Dolores Berg, Stan Elbertson, and Jim Williamson are still hobbling around the aid of crutches.

Milton Jeter suffered a lacerated arm as the result of a bad spill. Perhaps Frank Berry's spill was the most spectacular of any. However, he seems to have survived, much to the amazement of all who witnessed the near-catastrophe.

Saturday evening the skiers gathered at Longmire for a mixer. A number of the fellows and girls aged a snowball fight in the newly-fallen snow, according to reports. Shirley Wall, Jim Cooper, Pat Kluener, Paul Ineson, Maxine Rusniko and John Roksvam got the worst of it.

Except for the casualties, most of the Lute skiers have forgotten the aching and tired muscles and are anxiously looking forward to the next trip. With this in mind, the Ski Club will meet Thursday, Dec. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Student Union.

Ahrens to Address Mission Group Again

Earl and Lois Ahrens, ex-missionaries to Africa, will again address the Mission Society group at 7 p.m., Dec. 17 in the Chapel.

Last month the Ahrens talked and showed moving pictures of their mission field in Africa. This time their topic will concern the difficulties which confront the missionary in the field.

Ice Skating Party At Lakewood Tonight

Tonight's the night for the Roller Blades club ice skating party at Lakewood Ice Arena. The time is 10 to 12:30 p.m.—second session.

Transportation will be furnished by buses which will leave the school at 9 p.m. Round trip fare will be 20 cents. Committee members who worked on the event are: Bonnie Heen and Elaine Knutson; tickets: Inez Larson and Phyllis Brynstad; publicity: Lewis Loper and Pete Nordyck; transportation:

Except for the casualties, most of the Lute skiers have forgotten the aching and tired muscles and are anxiously looking forward to the next trip. With this in mind, the Ski Club will meet Thursday, Dec. 18, at 7 p.m. in the Student Union.

Mr. Avery Richardson of Richardson's Ski Shop of Tacoma, will be the featured speaker. Ski movies will be shown and the entertainment committee has a skit in mind for presentation at this time.

LDR, Viking Club, Stage Christmas Festivities; DRG Party Tonight To Include Kitchen Shower

Age-old Christmas traditions were described by Mrs. E. B. Steen at the Christmas party of the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation Wednesday night in the Student Union lounge.

"The Littlest Angel," a contemporary Christmas story, was read by Marian Savage.

Lois Jean Pearson sang "Gesù Bambino," by Pietro Yon, and Anita Ekberg sang a Christmas song by Van Dyke. Devotions were conducted by Teha Metzger.

Refreshments consisting of coffee, meat bread, and cookies and Christ were served to the girls by Mrs. A. W. Ramstad, hostess.

Swedish National Anthems

First on the program was Helen Ramstad, who sang a Norwegian song. Following her number, Dick Swarc sang a song, also in Norwegian. Duane Nordstrom then played several selections on his accordion. Last on the program were Helen and Dick again, this time singing a duet, in Norwegian of course.

Following the presented program the club members themselves sang Christmas songs in Norwegian as they walked around the tree. Preceding the opening of gifts, refreshments in the form of home-made Scandinavian foods were served, thus concluding the Viking Club's Christmas party.

DRG Christmas Party

The holiday spirit has filtered clear up to the DRG garret, where final touches are being added to plans for the annual Christmas party tonight at 7 o'clock in the Delta Room. Ganna room.

Jacqueline Stephenson, general chairman, has planned an informal program covering all phases of the Christmas season. Marie Haglund will sing. Ruth Johnson will give a reading; and Marilyn Pilgruer will lead devotions. As an added event, movies of a holiday nature will be shown through the courtesy of Dolores Hall.

Since the new Day Room is still inadequately supplied with some necessities such as cash operators and Old Dutch Calendar, gift-giving will not be of a personal nature; instead, there will be a kitchen shower with an eye to filling up those empty drawers and cabinets.

On the committee for games tonight are Grace Carlson and Charlotte Martens. Refreshments will be planned and served by Doris Shaw, Gussie Benton, and Mary Jean Bowen. Anne Demers, Elaine Knutson, Bonnie Heen, Marjorie Anderson and Ardyth Olsen are respondents for the festive Christmas Day Room and also for the little lounge, the balcony overlooking the lounge.

Sunday Set For Yule Concert

Malmn, Gestantas To Direct Groups In Annual Musicales

Ushering in the Christmas season on the PLC campus, the annual Christmas concert will be presented Sunday, December 14, at 5 P.M. in Memorial Gymnasium. Members of the Little Symphony, directed by Mr. Charles Gestantas, and the Choir of the West, chorus, and Messiah Lutheran Junior Choir, all directed by Prof. G. J. Malmn, will participate in the Yuletide program.

Following a prelude by the Little Symphony, the combined choirs will march into the auditorium to the processional "O Come All Ye Faithful." The choirs will then sing "O Come, O Come Immanuel," Bortniansky; "Et incarnatus est," Palestrina; and "Sweet Angel Voices," by Joseph Edwards, former director of the PLC Choir.

Christians Numbers

Two well-known Christmas anthems by F. Melius Christiansen, "From Heaven Above" and "Lullaby on Christmas Eve," followed by "Salvation Is Created," Tachenkoff; and "The Bells at Speyer," Ludwig Senfl, will be presented by the Choir of the West.

Next on the program are scheduled "Hark! What Mean Those Holy Voices" and "Rejoice, Ye Christians," Mozart; and "The Happy Christmas Comes Once More," Balle, by the Messiah Lutheran Junior Choir.

After the chorus sings "Day-spring of Eternity," Christiansen; "Lo, How a Rose Ever Blooming," Praetorius; "Hosanna," Christiansen; and "Cherubim Song," Glinka, the audience will join in the singing of two Christmas carols, "All My Heart This Night Rejoices," and "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Will Read Gospel

Dr. J. P. Pilgruer will read the Christmas gospel after which the audience and choirs will sing two carols, "Now Sing We, Now Rejoice" and "Joy to the World."

A second group of selections to be sung by the Choir of the West include "Beside Thy Cradle Here I Stand," Bach; "Praise to the Christ Child," G. Malmn; and "Advent Motet," Schreck.

Following the presentation by the three choirs of "Beautiful Savior," Christiansen; and "Silent Night," Gruber, the audience, symphony, and choirs will all join in the recessional, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing."

The nativity scene and other appropriate Yuletide trimmings will provide atmosphere for the Christmas musicale.

DPK to Sponsor Christmas Dinner

A DPK-sponsored semi-formal Christmas dinner for Boarding Club members is planned for Thursday night at 6 p.m. Since the Christmas season arrived so soon after the Thanksgiving banquet, also sponsored by DPK, the kitchen crew has promised to prepare a special dinner minus the trimmings necessary for another banquet. The dining hall will be decorated with a Christmas theme.

Take A Little Time

What you can't do when you have to, could be put in your eyes! This isn't going to be an optimistic flight on how anybody can become a second Einstein if he only applies himself—such things depend to a large extent on having grade A-1 gray matter in the space bounded by the ears, nose and back of the head.

But have you ever realized how much of this world's work is done just before deadlines? Somehow the sound of a ticking clock methodically dropping off minutes seems to have the effect of wearing away, tick by tick, the mental dam that blocks our ideas (and muscles some times).

This last minute desperation is beautifully manifested before tests but can be seen in many day-to-day instances.

Perhaps it has its advantages—it does make one think quickly, but the work turned out under such stress of brain could often be done far better if a little more planning and deliberate thinking were involved.

Why is it that we like to leave things undone until the eleventh hour? It's hard to say. Perhaps it's the excitement and the suspense involved in wondering if we'll be able to finish in time; perhaps it's the feeling that everyone else does it, why shouldn't we, and perhaps it's because it seems to be just an old human custom.

However, when we stop to think a little, we realize that what we can do if we have to, we could probably do much better if we took more time to do it.

The Real Christmas Spirit

It is not news that Christmas is coming. Since October, stores have been displaying gift suggestions; in the last two weeks streets have burst forth with holly and the ~~decor~~ where you are reminded by the profit-minded business men that this is the season for merriment and gift-giving.

You might be tempted to wonder what has happened to the real meaning of Christmas.

Last Sunday evening, however, some 1400 people left the trappings behind, and filled to overflowing the Jason Lee auditorium to hear once again the story of the birth of our Saviour. The stirring music of Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah," was performed by a choir from five city churches together with the orchestra, choir and four soloists from the music department of the College of Puget Sound. Just as when the work was first performed, the audience rose spontaneously as the final "Hallelujah" chorus rang out. Some sang along. The worried lines on faces caused by harassing thoughts of budgets and gift difficulties smoothed out. The simple story of the Christ-child had again brought peace.

Yes, you might be tempted to wonder. But as long as people can and will get together to sing praise to God out of the love of their hearts, we will always have Christmas in the real sense.

Guyot the Guyot

Parkland, USA.

To keep in step with the times and to preserve our position as a progressive newspaper, "The Mooring Mast" is about to survey the township in which it reigns.

From the vast rolling plains to the south to the dingy, smoke-clogged air of the industrial district to the north, Parkland is a beehive of activity lately. The unaccustomed visitor finds himself stunned with the aura of strength and vitality that pervades the atmosphere. We are coming alive here: even the more lethargic students find it difficult to sleep in class without twitching a time or two. Pulses beat faster and hungry eyes search even more eagerly for life's meager leavings. The clock seems to fairly strain itself in its eagerness to overcome the hour and toll another step on the swatchbacks of eternity.

Industries rise and reach to the sky carrying on their shoulders the overlords of their destinies. They fling themselves at the heavens only to tumble and fall, carrying creator and creation alike down to the mass... only to be replaced by another. They stand, squat, and stretch one on the next in a veritable monkey ladder, striving to bridge fate's abyssal maw.

The heart and core of the community, the college, is awake too. Either that, or there is an overabundance of somnambulists in attendance. The campus is set ringing by the gleeful shouts of students rushing happily from class to class, where they gorge themselves in an unsatiated forage for truth. They sweat and toil for great periods of time, pausing only to sleep and eat, so great is their motivation. They do this thanklessly and selflessly, hoping that when they are called upon to play their roles in the drama of life, they will be rewarded with little things such as friendship, loyalty, fidelity, and money.

You would think, that under conditions such as these, that the young scholars would find time for nothing but study. This, however, is not true as is evidenced by the numerous amusement centers and recreational facilities that dot the landscape and fill the extra-curriculum to overflowing. In fact, there is never a time when there isn't some activity or other... walking, running, breathing, and the like.

This isn't all there is to Parkland, but we always strive to uphold a high standard of propriety in this column.

Say no more Guyot, you idiot!

Dear Editors . . .

We, the Day Girls, feel that we have been left out of too many school activities. The list of those to decorate the buildings for Christmas was posted Wednesday. There was not a single Day Girl's name on it, in spite of the fact that one of the DRG's was responsible for initiating this year's project. Aren't we just as much a part of the school as the other students or are we going to be always put on the sidelines.

We want to become as much a part of the school as the Dorm students. We like to work and mix with the students just as much as anyone else.

Won't you please count us in on the work and play activities at PLC? We want to be made part of the school and not considered as outsiders.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Pfeuffer Inez Larson
Phyllis Brynnestad Elaine Knutson

Former Lute Couple Now Proud Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Don Anderson (Helen Marie Lund) became the proud parents of a daughter, Ann Marie, November 28, according to word received by friends at P.L.C. Helen Marie attended PLC for the past three years and Don entered in 1945 for two years. They are now in Salt Lake, Utah, where Don is attending the University of Utah. Once again comes the time to slush down the case of "The Missing Birthdays," as the Mooring Mast in all boldface publishes the names of the PLC students who will become one year older this coming week. The MM wishes a most happy birthday to Carolyn Kirkeide, Ross Everett, Robert Lund, Riith Johnson, Doris Steiro, Leslie Thompson, Henry Anderson, Ludovic Siqueland, Grant Whitley, and Laura Sperstad.

Sports Slants

By DICK WEATHERMON

Last Friday evening marked a red-letter occasion for athletes and sports-fans of Pacific Lutheran College and the surrounding area.

The dedication and formal opening of the Memorial Gymnasium sounded the starter's gun for a bigger and better athletic program and greatly increased spectator appeal.

That athletic plant below the hill is a living tribute to those who paid the highest price for freedom.

It is a tribute to the far-sighted group of citizens who pitched in with a will and helped make the new gym a reality.

It is a tribute to Cliff Olson, PLC's grand old man of football, who refused to slow up until the plant was complete.

And incidentally, the Gladiators couldn't have picked a huskier bunch of Huskies to tangle with in the first game in the gym.

Anyway, it's hats off and many thanks to the entire group who are directly or indirectly responsible for Pacific Lutheran College having one of the finest athletic plants in the Pacific Northwest.

GENE LUNDAARD, freshman from Anacortes, displayed a cool head and a fine brand of ball against the U. of W. last Friday. It is easy to see why he gained All-Star honors at the State basketball tournament last season.

JUDGING from the number of crutches being utilized on camp, it would seem that skiing conditions at Paradise were exceedingly fast last weekend.

Our sympathies, ski clubbers! IT IS RUMORED that Willamette University and Pacific Lutheran are negotiating for a home and home football series for the next two years. Willamette is a perennial powerhouse on the gridiron.

THAT PAIR of bleary eyes that Jack Guyot is wearing to such good advantage is a direct result of the midnight arguments between the Boys and this scribe concerning the decision in the recent Louisville mix.

And, you must admit, there is lots of room for controversy.

ers. Associated Press sports writers from coast to coast picked the modest Lute lad as the best center in the group.

At 27, Don is the oldest man of the dream team, and at 284 also the biggest.

Don was the only gristler from the Northwest on the team, as well as the second and third teams also.

Eldon Kylo, Gladiator tackle, and Chuck D'Autremont, Southern Oregon College back, received honorable mention.

Marv Tommervick received Little All-America honors in both 1940 and 1941.

Frosh Cagers Take Loop Second Spot

The freshman hoop squad is now holding down second place in the Tacoma City League by virtue of a 43-32 loss to first place 36th Street last Tuesday night. The 36th Street club is composed principally of ex-collegiate players, among them PLC Alumni Marty North and Harry Lang.

Don D'Andrea Wins Honors On AP Team

"Don D'Andrea on A.P. Little All-America Grid Team."

Thus read the banner headline in Tuesday's News Tribune. For the third time in Gladiator history, a Lute had gained the highest distinction that can come to a small college gridder.

Huskies Trounce Glads In Opener

A cleverly planned Lute defense failed to keep the rampaging Husky basketball team in check last Friday, as they scored 61 points to the Gladiators' 36. A crowd of 2,700 plus watched the dedication game of the new quarter-million dollar PLC gymnasium.

Coach Art McLarney's Huskies wasted no time in building up a lead, which after the first few minutes.

Lutes, Loggers To Begin Series Wed. In Armory

The Lute hoopers, returning tomorrow from the wars with Montana and Washington State, will have but a few days to rest up before their next Wednesday night's battle with the College of Puget Sound on the mapsles of the State Armory in Tacoma.

This game will mark the opening of a four-game series between PLC and CPS for the city championship. Game time is 8 p.m.

Coach John Heinrich, who has won laurels again and again in many sports, will undoubtedly floor an excellent Logger squad, with 12 returning letter winners. Among these are Bob Angeline, ex-sharpshooter for Stadium high; "Old Al" Danielson, forward in '42 and last year, who has been shifted to the pivot spot this season; Bob Finham, conference high scorer in the '45-'46 season, who was held down by a bad ankle last year; Bill Richey, 6-foot, 6-inch ex-Clover Park prepster, who turned the tide in last year's CPS-Pacific U. tilt with his deadly set shots; and Bill Stivers, all-conference honors winner last year and all-around athlete.

More Than 100 Tilts Scheduled As Intramural Hoop Play Begins

Clover Parkers, DR's Boys, Puyallup Squashers, and the Lucky Loggers opened the lid on the intramural basketball race Tuesday with victories over their opponents.

The intramural league this year is divided into two sections, "A," and "B," with 21 teams vying for top honors. Over 100 games are scheduled, with more than 200 boys taking part; making this year's campaign the largest in Lute history.

In the "A" sections are the 23rd St. Torpedoes, Puyallup Squashers, Misfits, Lucky Loggers, Ballard Bums, Doc's Boys, Ballard Mudders, Clover Parkers, Swistles, and Gophers. The "B" hoop consists of the Meat Packers, Specials, Boiler-makers, Globe-squatters, Missing Lynx, Hoosier Hoopsters, House No. 332, Wipperwills, Castle Rockers, Oregon Quacks, and the Outsiders.

In the opening four tilts, all in the "A" section, Ballard's Bums dropped a 33-14 decision to Doc's Boys; the Puyallup Squashers shaded the Misfits, 18-16; Clover Parkers rolled over the Gophers, 31-21; and the 23rd St. Torpedoes, after holding an 8-5 halftime lead, lost to the Lucky Loggers by a one-sided 22-9 count.

The remaining schedule up until Christmas vacation is: Monday, Dec. 15, "B" section games at 4:45: Oregon Quacks vs. Outsiders; Castle Rockers vs. Missing Lynx. Tuesday, Dec. 16, "A" league games at 4:00: Ballard Bums vs. Swistles; at 4:45: Clover Parkers vs. Ballard Mudders. Wednesday, Dec. 17, "B" league; at 4:00, Specials vs. Meat Packers; Globesquatters vs. House No. 332; at 4:45, Hoosier Hoopsters vs. Outsiders; Oregon Quacks vs. Wipperwills. "A" league games on Thursday, Dec. 18, at 4:00, Misfits vs. Doc's Boys; at 4:45, 23rd St. Torpedoes vs. Gophers.

Gladiators Break Even In Montana Series; Move On To WSC Games

The Lute cagers gained a split in their two-game series with Montana University in Missoula Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Tuesday night the Grizzlies swamped the Gladiators, 68 to 47, but the following evening the invaders turned on the Montanians to the tune of 51 to 47. Gene Lundgaard led the Lutes in scoring 15 points in the first game, and Harry McLaughlin was high point man in the second tilt with 16 counters.

Last night and tonight Coach Marv Harshman's boys are at Pullman for a two-game series with the Washington State Cougars. Last night's contest with Jack Friel's Cougars ended with the Parklanders on the short end of a 67-34 count. Coach Harshman took 12 men along with him.

Chapel Quiet Hour To Be LSA Project

As a Christmas-time project, the members of the Lutheran Students' Association are sponsoring a quiet-hour period of meditation in the Chapel between 7 and 9:30 p.m. next Monday and Tuesday, and Wednesday night after Mission Society meeting.

LSA members feel that such a period might provide opportunity for students to sandwich some of the true spirit of Christmas in between the hustle and bustle of material preparations for the Christmas holidays.

To add atmosphere and background, the Chapel will be lighted by candles, decorated with Christmas greenery, and soft Christmas music will be played.

Students are invited to use the Chapel for this purpose at any time within the aforementioned hours.

UW Downs Glads; Saxton Scores 13

utes was 'never challenged. All-coast Jack Nichols and Bobby Jorgensen led the invaders' attack offensively and defensively, between them bagging 26 points.

The speed of the second half caused both teams to call heavily on reserves but the Husky squad of 18 players kept the power and punch in their drive, scoring 37 points in the last half after being held to 24 in the first period.

Wes Saxton and Gene Lundgaard were the main cogs in the Lutheran attack. Saxton proved to be a scoring threat, garnering 13 points, while Lundgaard did some fine backboard work along with the eight points he bagged.

Coach Harshman was pleased with the fine floor work of several capable reserves. They should be a handy factor on the road engagements this week with Montana and Washington State.
