

Speech Teacher Creates Opportunity; Wins Award

Among the many fine additions to the faculty this fall we find a young lady who could boast a fine success story if she were so inclined. The successful lady is Mrs. Pauline Schaffer who hails from Dallas, Texas, where she used a large amount of initiative and perspicacity in choosing her work, creating a position at it, and then making it a whale of a success.

Mrs. Schaffer, then Pauline Wright, noticed during the darker days of the depression that the finest department store in Dallas was being left behind by a shifting shopping district. Business was poor and it would have been a financial risk to move the store to a new building, and Miss Wright hit upon a plan for creating the type of work that she enjoyed and at the same time bringing the store the business it needed. She convinced the management that it would work, and soon she had possession of the entire lower floor of the block square building to do with as she would.

Soon the store was featuring oral book reviews with such famous writers as Elsa Maxwell present, and enjoying every minute of it, too. Monodramas, dramatizations of the latest best-sellers and Broadway plays soon boosted the popularity of our Mrs. Schaffer, and the sales of the store, to the point that she wound up with seven assistants to help her put on as many as three plays in one day. While all this was going on behind the modest title of Public Relations Director, Mrs. Schaffer found time to travel to four adjoining states where she tage in Romeo and Juliet before the first western convention of the Modern Languages Association. The association is composed of outstanding language and dramatic literature scholars. She left Stanford for PLC at the end of this summer with the highest praise that could be given by Dr. Hefner, who is the leading authority on educational drama on the Pacific coast.

When this reporter dug up the information on Mrs. Schaffer, he found that she was honored by a presentation that few people, man or woman, have ever been privileged to receive: With the words "The first lady of the United States in oral interpretation," Dale Carnegie personally presented her with a loving cup for her outstanding work in Dallas.

The loss of Texas is the gain of PLC, and only the more so because Mrs. Schaffer will be the last one to tell you of her achievements in her chosen field.

Speech Dept. Groups Meet

The Speech department, under the direction of Professor Theodore O. H. Karl, began gathering steam for the coming year by convening its dramatic and speech organizations in their first formal meetings of the season.

Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatic group, Curtain Call Club, campus dramatic society, and Pi Kappa Delta, national speech honor society, met during the past two weeks to outline their programs for the coming semester.

Alpha Psi Omega and CCC have laid tentative plans to sponsor a joint program of one-act plays for the homecoming celebrations in November. The plays are expected to be cast and to be put into the first stages of production at an early date.

Pi Kappa Delta met Monday and established a permanent schedule of regular meetings for every second Monday at 4:00 p.m. The next meeting will be held on October 3, pending approval of the dates by the Inter-Club Council. The chapter instructed its executive committee to investigate the possibility of another joint initiation ceremony with Alpha Psi Omega this fall. PKD has held only spring initiations in the past.

A meeting of competitive speech and debate entrants will be scheduled for next week, and prospective entrants are advised to watch for announcements in chapel and in the Mooring Mast.

15 Instructors Added To PLC Staff; 3 Ph. D.'s

The middle of this school year will find the twentieth century half gone. With registration marking the largest number of students in the history of the school, our faculty family has been increased by fifteen members. Three of these are the possessors of Ph.D.'s, while three more are candidates for that degree.

Mr. Franck is now Dr. Franck, having received his Ph. D. at the University of New York this summer. Dr. Franck has been on the campus for fifteen years.

Dr. Melvin S. Monson, from Colorado State College of Education, will be in charge of the new "fifth year" activities in the field of education.

Mrs. Pauline Schaffer, candidate for Ph. D., comes to us from Stanford University, "the coming college in speech." She will work with Mr. Karl and Miss McGregor in the ever-expanding Speech department.

Our language department has the honor of gaining Dr. Alo Raun from Tartu University, Estonia, Europe. Dr. Raun reads twenty languages and speaks more than twelve fluently.

Dr. E. C. Knorr, from the University of Washington, has joined the staff of the sociology department.

Rev. T. O. Svare, M.A. and candidate for the Ph. D. degree, University of Washington, will join the language department. Rev. Svare will teach German and Norse.

State's New Education Laws Met by PLC Courses

Upon returning to the old Alma Mater this year, many students were somewhat surprised to find that in their absence the educational system of the State of Washington had been slightly revised. No doubt most of the education majors understand the new program, but there have been remarks floating around campus which indicate that not all students understand the reasons behind and the purpose of the new method. To clarify this confusion, the Mooring Mast hereby attempts to publish a sort of rule-of-thumb key to elucidate matters. In the event that any student feels that perused at his leisure. The purpose behind the phrase "broad area of concentration" is that of giving the future teacher the widest possible background of knowledge to be used in teaching the youth of Washington state from kindergarten

Miss Ruth J. Michaelson this is a little over-simplified, information to the tune of approximately fifteen standard size mimeographed sheets is on file in the Library, to be

Dr. Melvin S. Monson through the twelfth grade. It is a program designed to present broad, general knowledge rather than that which would be disseminated by a specialized instructor. There are five of these broad areas: Health, Language Arts, Social Studies, Sciences, and Fine and Applied Arts. The student preparing to teach has an option of three programs which he may study under this system.

Following September 1, 1951, all teacher education programs, except those for teachers holding emergency teaching certificates, are to lead to the general certificate.

Briefly, there are three phases of the new teacher education program. The first phase is the general certificate program, which is given to all students who graduate from the college. The second phase is the preliminary certificate program, which is given to students who graduate from the college with a minimum grade point average of 2.0. The third phase is the professional certificate program, which is given to students who graduate from the college with a minimum grade point average of 2.5. The program is designed to provide a broad background of knowledge and skills, and to prepare students for the teaching profession.

A careful study of the new program by all education majors will be of invaluable aid to understanding the responsibilities resting on the shoulders of those who will some day be directing the thoughts and actions of America's children.

Mission Society Outlines Plans

Ronald Josi and one other person were chosen last week to plan services at the Midland old peoples' home and Bill Williams was selected to direct the Pierce county jail service by the executive committee of the Mission Society, Merlin Zier, president, announced recently.

A representative of the World Prayer League addressed last Wednesday evening's meeting which included Scripture reading by Jens Knudson and a solo by Alan Laurson.

The next meeting will be October 5, when an election will be held to fill the vacancies left by Don Teggis, former vice president, and a Lutheran Students' Association Council representative.

The new officers and representative will complete the executive committee. Until the election, Merlin Zier, secretary-treasurer Janet Olson, LSA representative Otto Reitz and Interclub representative Marcus Reitz

Homecoming Set For October 29

In order to insure the success of Homecoming Day and to present to the alumnae a program which they will enjoy and store among their memories was the reason given by Del Zier for the change of date from October 15 to October 29.

Gerhard "Gez" Rosin has been named chairman of Homecoming. He will be assisted by Phil Falk. Plans are underway for a continuous round of events which will begin Friday evening, October 29, and continue through mid-afternoon of the 31st.

A few of the highlights will include a huge parade, a pep rally, entertainment by Alpha Psi Omega and the Curtain Call Club, and crowning of the Queen. There will also be other special events. At this date it has not been decided who will conduct the Sunday sermon, or officiate at the coronation.

Mrs. Pauline Schaffer established and fostered buying clubs on a dramatic-interest basis for the store.

The energies of Mrs. Schaffer were soon directed into the task of working toward her Ph. D., and she enrolled at Stanford University after attending other universities for her M.A. She played the part of Mrs. Zero in The Adding Machine at Stanford, and while there she also played Lady Mon-

EDITOR ANNOUNCES POLICY

CONFIRMATION CLASS CONVENES TUESDAY

Reverend Kellmer N. Roe announced this week that the college Confirmation Class will meet each Tuesday evening, beginning September 27, at his home which is located at 334 120th Street, Parkland. The class will convene each Tuesday at 7:45 p.m., and will meet 11 times during the semester.

Reverend Roe explained that this training prepares a student for membership in his home church or the local church, and that the class meets a need that the college is happy to provide. During the last school term the class resulted in a total of 22 students being confirmed at Trinity Lutheran Church.

The faculty Publications Committee met Tuesday morning and selected Lou Inerarity as the new editor of the Mooring Mast. After a consultation with Mr. Milton Nesvig, MM adviser, Inerarity announced the following policy for the paper:

"The Mooring Mast will make every effort to be a truly representative student newspaper during this coming term. The paper belongs to the students, they pay a one-dollar fee for it when they register, and it should serve their desires and interests. We will be interested in receiving the students' opinions on the worth and service of the paper, and their desires will be closely considered in adjusting our policy as necessary in the future. The paper will be printed on a basis of as complete coverage of student activities as possible, and with the excellent cooperation that has been received at this early date we can expect to serve our proper function as the students' news agency."

The Mooring Mast staff has not been completely determined, but the following positions have been filled: Ed Hanson, business manager; Bob Ferguson, sports editor; Alan Hatlan, Religious editor. The remainder of the staff will be announced in next week's issue.

LSA-ers Entertain New Students With Games, Refreshments at SUB

"I've been working on the railroad all the livelong day—" was sung boisterously by a group of 130 LSAers Sunday night in the Student Union when the old members entertained the newcomers. After the session of "lung exercise" games were lead by Beverly Wigen who managed to keep the boys diving for the girls or vice versa with her revised version of "musical chairs," a rousing "drop the keys and watch out here comes Marcus Ritz flying low," and a "hold the bean on the knife relay" followed. (The flying beans only added to the gaiety).

Refreshments were then served to the panting and just slightly bruised players who seemed rather glad for a moment of relaxation and a chance to get acquainted with their partners. The partners were assigned by number at the door. After the hymnning, Jack Hatlen, president of LSA at the U. of W., was introduced, and Elaine Eide, retiring president of PLC's Lutheran Student Association, gave a greeting. In candlelight the devotional service emphasizing the Church Year was read by Rolf Lunde, with organ background music by Evelyn Peterson, and duets by Connie Aune and Doris Johnson. Following the singing of a hymn the meeting was concluded with a prayer by Herb Neve.

"Welcome, Freshmen"

To all of the freshmen and new students, Welcome!

It is always a pleasure to see new faces (and figures, of course) on the campus. It isn't that we become indifferent or bored with the old ones, but the new ones seem to make a good situation just that much better. In the natural course of time during the semester the staff of the Mooring Mast will know most of the new people. We have the advantage of knowing a lot of names from work on the paper, and of course the disadvantage of not seeing too many of the faces. BUT, we are interested in you, in what you are doing here on the campus, and if you will let us know about it we will use it wherever it fits.

This is a fine campus. The student body is composed of friendly people, and, as you have undoubtedly learned, it is easy to get acquainted. We look upon you not as strangers, but as friends and fellow-students. You have chosen to come to PLC, and that makes you as much a part of the Student Body now, as if you had been here for one or two years already.

We are proud of our campus, our college, and our reputation in all fields, but we realize that there is always room for improvement and are not unable to accept constructive suggestions. A good place to start would be the Mooring Mast itself, either by a letter to the editor, or by a personal visit to the Mast office; lower floor, Student Union building.

You will find that PLC has some fine departments and some excellent services, and you will also find that we are a sports and intercollegiate-competitive-minded school. We are playing our annual King's-X game with CPS (our cross-town rivals) tomorrow night at the Lincoln Bowl in Tacoma. This game is always one of the big "thriller-dillers" of the year and is more important from a psychological point of view than the others.

In short, we would rather beat CPS than any other team in the conference.

Your guide-book that was issued during registration has a lot of useful information on campus activities, and you will find that the clubs on campus are active, interesting, and that you will be welcome to participate.

You will find that your principal sources of information, notwithstanding the never-failing grapevine, will be the Mooring Mast and the daily chapel announcements. It shouldn't be long before the press of studies and chosen activities have you pretty well snowed under, so during this relatively lax period at the beginning of the semester, here is the first copy of your campus paper. Look it over, and we hope you enjoy what you find.

Letters to the Editor

It is the opinion of the editors that no newspaper can be truly representative of its readers unless the readers themselves have an opportunity to express themselves through the same medium of contact. It shall be the policy of this paper to print any reasonable letter to the editor that bears the signature of the writer. We are sorry, but we cannot print unsigned letters.

The Editor

President's Message

"It is with genuine enthusiasm that we welcome back to the campus all former students, faculty and staff. In the same spirit we hasten to welcome all freshmen, transfer students, and new faculty people who have come to the campus of Pacific Lutheran College for the first time.

"We will 'build upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the Chief Cornerstone'—Ephesians. 2:20.

"To one and all we bid a very hearty welcome.

"Cordially yours in the Name of Jesus Christ,

"S. C. EASTVOLD, President."

Lutes Close An Active Summer

With the beginning of a new school year, PLCites are bringing to a close three months of glorious summer vacations, and for many, these vacation days brought novel experiences and valuable preparation in chosen fields.

Parklandites Luther Steen, Marilyn Pflueger, and Carolyn Johnson, a sophomore from Yakima, attended the Lutheran Students International convention, the Ashram, held this year in Interlocken, Michigan, in addition to twenty-eight students from foreign countries.

Also journeying eastward across the states this summer were Gerard Carlstrom, a sophomore from Antioch, California, and Howard Shull, who calls Portland, Oregon, his home. Their first stop was the Marine Reserve Officers Training camp at Quantico, Virginia. During their stay they were instructed in weapons, tactics, and maneuvers. Before returning home, these vacationing Gladiators visited Washington, D. C., touring such spots of interest as the Smithsonian Institute, the Lincoln Memorial, the Capitol, and the White House.

A number of PLC's fairer sex seemed to be attracted by the quiet corridors of the hospital. Doris Johnson, a junior from Everett, assisted as a tissue technician in the Everett General Hospital. Evelyn Peterson, a Portlandite in her sophomore year at PLC, spent her summer in an X-ray lab at Emmanuel Hospital in Portland. June Nysteen, sophomore from Bend, worked as a nurse's aid in a Bend hospital after returning from a trip to southern California.

Dareld Sater, a senior from Silverton, Oregon, spent his three months of freedom as recreational director for the youth of his home town, teaching swimming, coaching softball teams, and directing other activities. Also counseling young 'uns was Myla Lund, a freshman from Renton, Wash. Myla was a counselor at a Girl Scout camp situated near the Canadian border.

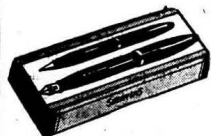

Several of the more studious members of the PLC family spent their summers at various colleges and universities. Bonnie Heen, a junior from Tacoma, attended the University of Mexico during the summer. Closer to home, at the University of Washington, were Duane Fads, senior from Seattle, Dick Svare, senior from Parkland, and Jeanette Larsen, also a senior from Seattle.

Doubless Jens Knudsen, a sophomore from San Fernando, California, and Herb Neve, a freshman from Everett, Washington, worked under the most happy conditions of all—they spent the summer digging graves.

Enrollment Represents Far-Distant Places

All trails meet at Pacific Lutheran College. From Lithuania and Estonia to Maine and Michigan, young people have congregated here in pursuit of an education. In a hasty glance through registration cards some interesting facts were uncovered. Practically all parts of the United States and its territories are represented in our student body.

Of course most of our students hail from Washington state, but Oregon is very well represented here with Idaho pulling a close second. Following geographically as well as numerically, California comes third on the list of out-of-state students. Moving eastward we find Montana well-represented as are the North-central states of North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Illinois, and Michigan.

To simply list some other far-away places from which students journey to PLC includes such places as Michigan, Ohio, Iowa, Maine, New York, Pennsylvania, Nebraska, Wyoming, Alaska, Hawaii and a number of others.

Not all of the new students are freshmen by any means. Among their ranks we find many restless but wise transfers from other colleges and universities throughout the country.

A fact which many of us will find amusing and typical of the college is this: Students of Scandinavian descent far, far outnumber any other nationality group. The lists of Petersons, Larsons, Olsons, etc., are long ones.

Just as Scandinavians outnumber other national groups, so do education majors outnumber all other study groups. This perhaps will sooner or later lead to the production of a quantity of Scandinavian teachers. But many other majors are represented also. We have pre-meds, pre-nursing, pre-law, liberal arts, students of engineering, architecture, social work, business administration, and a large number of those vacillating individuals whom we shall group together under the label of undetermined.

From Caribou, Maine to Oahu, Hawaii, all trails are meeting here. Engineering students and would-be veterinarians study under our faculty. Many places and many groups are represented in the student body of Pacific Lutheran College as it goes into its fifty-sixth year.

Evelyn Peterson New Soho Prexy

At a meeting held Tuesday evening, Evelyn Peterson was chosen president of Sohos, the sophomore girls' honorary society. Other officers elected were: Vice-president, Jo Ann Nodtvedt; secretary, Mildred Foege; treasurer, Evelyn Mikkelsen; editor, Jo Ann Trioie; historian, Gladycy Busacker; Inter-club Council, Ruth Moe.

One of the main projects of the coming year will be to initiate a probation program towards membership in Spurs, the national college sophomore club. It will enable this year's freshmen girls to membership and entitle them to wear the uniform and pin when they are sophomores.

Again this year, the girls will decorate the goal posts, make pep signs, and help to improve school spirit.

WANTED—One or two ambitious young men or women to sell ads in the Mooring Mast to local merchants. See Ed Hansen, MM Business Manager, in the Mast office, SUB.

Two Students Buy Newspaper

The Prairie Pointer, which has been published at the former Beard Printing Company plant in the basement of the chapel, has been sold to two PLC students.

Malcolm Soine and Paul Arlton will serve as business manager and editor, respectively, in full partnership in the publication of the paper, which will now be known as The Parkland Times.

Malcolm Soine was business manager of the Mooring Mast last year, and Paul Arlton served as its editor last spring semester. They expect to publish their first issue in the very near future, and are already hard at work in the new undertaking as newspaper publishers.

PLC--CPS To Battle At Lincoln Bowl Tomorrow

Lutes Rally; Catch Badgers

Behind 20 to 0 after only one play of the second quarter, the Pacific Lutheran College Gladiators came roaring back to gain a 20 to 20 tie against Pacific University in Forest Grove, Oregon, Saturday night.

The Badgers from PU scored in the first minute of the game with a 27-yard Russell to Bakkus pass. A few minutes later they intercepted a Lute pass on the PLC 35, and with Russell throwing to End Lukoszyk, good for 21 yards, then bowling over from the 2-yard line. The try for point was good and it was 13 to 0 at the end of the first quarter.

Then on the first play of the second quarter Russell passed to halfback Mary Buntin on the PLC 35 and he outraced the secondary to score. The try for point was good and the Badgers had an imposing 20-0 lead.

Seconds before the half ended, Jurkovich passed from his own 27 to End Vern Morris on the PU 19 with Morris being pulled down from behind. The half was supposed to be over but the officials ruled one more play, and on this one Jurkovich fadred back to his own 45 and threw one of his long spiral passes to Leland Amundson in the end zone. Harold Lyckman kicked the extra point.

The third quarter was even up and not until late in the fourth quarter did the Lutes get rolling again. Starting from their own 26 a Strandness to Guyot screen pass ate up almost 30 yards. Jurkovich then threw one to Knutson in the end zone. And again Lyckman kicked the extra point to make it 20 to 14.

With around 3 minutes to go the Lutes started a drive from their own 21. The same Strandness to Guyot screen pass moved the ball way up the field to the PU 27. Then the play of the evening unfolded as Strandness took the ball from center, lateraled to southpaw Knutson who tossed a perfect one to the waiting arms of John Jurkovich in the end zone. But this time Lyckman missed the try for point.

Both teams never gave up but the game ended after PU intercepted a Lute pass on the Badger 35.

"Time Out"

By "Stretch" Ferguson
In Forest Grove, Oregon, the rosters of PLC saw two players rush out on the field after we scored a touchdown and try the extra point. Holding the ball was Art Swanson and kicking was Harold Lyckman. These two have been inseparable since last year when they played together at Puyallup High School where this combination made 25 out of 28. This year they have 2 out of 3 and they tied the game in Forest Grove. We wish them all the success in the world on their future kicks.

Jack Guyot played one of his best games offensively and defensively in a Gladiator uniform. He was all over the field and helped set up the two touchdowns in the fourth quarter.

John Jurkovich looked very good throwing those long passes and with ends like Morris, Schrupp, Amundson and Dinsmore we hope for a lot of touchdowns through the air.

The Spokane paper, the Spokesman Review, rates Eastern as probable champs with Central second and Whitworth third, and the rest of the teams to fight it out for other positions. We will have to see what they have to say after the season is over.

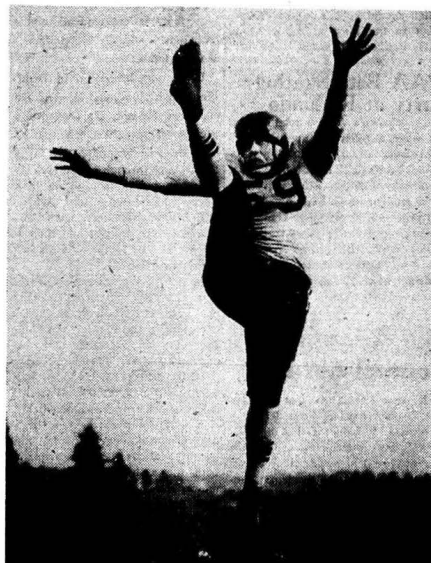

Approximately 200 loyal Lute fans attended the game in Forest Grove, and this shows that no matter where the team plays a lot of the students and teachers always manage to be there.

If anybody is planning on turning out for basketball this year the gym is open every afternoon and it always pays to get in shape early or Harsh will run you ragged. Harry McLaughlin, brother Willie and speedball Hefly are turning out already.

The Imperial Hotel in Portland has some pretty weak beds in it. One of the guards rolled over in his sleep and the bed fell in on him.

The yell leaders this week been practicing every night they have and are really looking good.

Please accept apologies for lack of games in the recreation room. Some were purchased but disappeared. Plans are underway to acquire more so have patience, gals n' guys.

Pictured above is John Jurkovich, who with Captain Jack Guyot, sparked the game against Pacific University last Saturday. John's passing and quarterback talents are expected to weigh heavily in the contest with CPS at the Lincoln Bowl tomorrow night.

Tomorrow night in the Lincoln bowl the College of Puget Sound Loggers and Pacific Lutheran College Gladiators will clash in a King's-X game, but both teams will be out to win. PLC, fresh after a thrilling 20 to 20 tie with Pacific University last week, will be out to avenge the defeat handed to them last year by the Loggers.

The Loggers, coached by John Heinrich, tied for the Evergreen flag with Eastern last year and are expected to do the same this year. The biggest turnout in the history of the school was this year with 70-some aspirants trying for positions. There are lettermen at every position and tomorrow's game promises to be a thriller all the way.

The Lutes came through the PU game with a few bruises and are ready to go for this big game. The passing is good and tomorrow night, if the weather is dry, a lot of passes will probably be thrown.

This is the home game for the Loggers and they will sit on the West side of the bowl. The rooters for PLC will sit on the East side of the bowl or the school side. A big pep rally will be held tonight and the whole school is in a "Beat CPS mood."

Hallucinations

By Bob Ericson
As time goes by, changes are seen everywhere. There are new shingles atop Old Main and a dearth of ivy on her sides; shiny roofs and new paint give a new look to "pneumonia gulch" and Jojo Farness is no longer found at the Grill drinking coffee in the evenings with "the boys." Jojo is now just another married man and "them days are gone forever."

As always, at this time of year, there are quite a few cats around campus. That, however, will cease to be when the anatomy courses get rolling. But dogs seem to be safe. The canine population is still with us. Last year's mutts are still underfoot. I think that the one with the white hair and black bald spots calls for some adjective that is not at my command. Let's just call him unique. His name, by the way, is "Stinkin' Sam."

Seen at the PU game: Malcolm Soine and Paul Arlton escorting two cow-bells which were silent for the first half of the ball game. Miss Jean McGregor and a box of Kleenex. Bill Finkle being told by Mary Ann Stacy about the difference between daylight saving time and standard time. Jack Guyot carrying a football and five PU players. Jon Ericson falling through the bleachers when he forgot about a sprained ankle. Twenty-five PLC students congregated at Waddle's drive-in after the game. Two hundred-odd PLC students, faculty members and graduates.

Did you ever read over a menu at the SUB Snack Bar? It makes good reading. Two hot rolls, fresh and scrumptuous, and a cup of coffee for fifteen cents. Or try something like a tenderloin steak for fifty cents. Harry, the owner, bought a bake-oven this summer which he donated to the school. Said bake-oven paid for itself in a month. Harry is the best pastry cook this side of practically anywhere.

C.W.C.E.-P.L.C. Game Thursday

The snarling Wildcats of Ellensburg Central come slinking to Lincoln Bowl next Thursday night to do battle with the Gladiators. Fresh in their minds is the 7 to 0 defeat handed to them last year on the Rodeo grounds at Ellensburg. Already on their record is a 32 to 0 battering they received from the Pilots of Portland U., which will serve as a further goad to their efforts. But to those that have seen the Wildcats play they know that they will be one of the strongest teams in the Evergreen Conference this year.

Both teams will be putting their all in this game as a defeat would practically eliminate the loser from the championship.

Request for Press Representatives Goes Through Inter-club Council

Through its editor, the Mooring Mast explained to the Inter-club Council this last week that a system has been devised for giving adequate coverage to each organization. The Mast's representative explained that the paper's staff would appreciate the appointment of one person from each club to act as a press representative for that club. The Mooring Mast does not have, and probably never will have sufficient reporters to cover each club adequately, and the press-

quate space if the clubs will go along with the program cooperatively and turn in the information. The information should be left in the editor's basket in the Mast office, which is clearly marked with a label, "editor."

WAA Sets Skating Party at Redondo

The Women's Athletic Association will stage a roller skating party tonight from 10:30 to 12:30 at Redondo. Buses will leave about 9:15, or directly following the pep rally in the student union building. Admission price will be sixty-five cents.

The party is under the direction of Shirley Wall, with Margie Anderson and Anne Demers in charge of advertising. Mrs. Young and Miss McGregor will chaperone.

Zier Announces Council Set-up

The time for meetings of the Student Council has not been definitely established. President Del Zier made the following statement, "If at any time any student would like to attend a meeting of the Student Council he may do so. The first part of the meeting will be open to any who may wish to attend. Announcements of meetings will be made in Chapel and will be placed upon bulletin boards in convenient places." Del also emphasized that a student has no actual voice in the Council proceedings but may present ideas and suggestions for consideration by the Council.

The executive committee is made up of Del Zier, president; Gene Strandness, vice-president; E. M. Shulst, secretary; and Stan Elberson, treasurer. Class representatives are: Freshmen, not elected; sophomores, Luther Stern; juniors, Rolph Lunde; seniors, Sig Skartland. Other members include Ken Storaasli, business manager of the Saga; a representative of Inter-Club Council, and the editor of the Mooring Mast.

Alpha Psi Omega Elects Falk Pres.

Alpha Psi Omega held its first business meeting of the semester on Wednesday, September 21, to elect officers for this national honorary thespians organization. Phil Falk was elected to the position of cast director, which holds the same responsibility as president. Roberta Schoessler assumed the position of stage manager, while Walt Worley is business manager and acting treasurer. Adult advisorship will be given by Mr. Karl, Miss McGregor and Mrs. Schaffer.

Outgoing officers are Eleanor Hellbaum, LaVonne Densow, and Dick Svare. Miss McGregor was the advisor last year.

Tawasi Helps Orient Frosh

The Freshman class, who last week underwent an orientation program to familiarize them with their instructors, their fellow students and the school, are gradually becoming a part of the campus.

Under the leadership of Dean of Men, Mr. Eklund, and Dean of Women, Miss Hedahl, all freshmen students were given English and Math aptitude tests Monday. Tuesday saw them going through a thorough physical examination in addition to personality and interest tests. With the aid of Tawasi members, 311 freshman students were profiled and their profile sheets sent to the advisors before registration began.

As part of the orientation program, Miss Gertrude Tingelstad acquainted the new arrivals with methods of operation in the library. Mr. Gunnar Malmrin tried out choir and chorus aspirants and Mr. Theodore Karl outlined the different fields in the speech department and invited all freshmen to participate in any chosen field.

A social hour was held in the Student Union Lounge, Tuesday night, where students became acquainted with the school through colored movies shown by Malcolm Soine and Paul Arlon. Student Body President Del Zier welcomed all new students after which refreshments were served.

On Wednesday, pre-registration began, as freshmen received schedules and consulted with their advisors. Thursday proved to be an anxious time for all freshmen as they had to select their first collegiate programs.

By Thursday evening when the college was formally opened by Dr. Eastvold, the freshmen were all ready for classes to begin the following day. As a formal gathering Friday evening in the Student Union Lounge all new students met their instructors and faculty at PLC. By now, we hope all new students are firmly entrenched in the "PLC family," and are looking forward to a wonderful year in all respects.

Last, but not least—a group of volunteers are needed to help the yell leaders at pep rallies and at games. If interested in forming such a group, please contact Del Zier or a member of the Student Body. Bye now.

Senior Class Elects Soon

The senior class met last Tuesday to nominate officers for the coming semester. Nominations for president consisted of Ed Dorothy, Lloyd Clevlen, and Edna Haglund. Vice presidential nominations included Larry Hauve, Odven Aakre, Ed Bennet, Milt Hansen, and Leif Knutsen. Nominations for secretary were Shirley Ravang, Helen Kylljo, and Phyllis Andersen. Bob Crumbaugh, Swain Arneson and Jess Thompson were nominated for the position of treasurer, and Milt Fuhr was nominated to be Interclub council representative. The elections will be held at the next meeting.

Pre-game Rally

The Pep Club will hold a pre-game rally tonight in the Student Union building for the annual PLC-CPS King's-X game in Lincoln Bowl tomorrow night at 8 p.m.

With Bill Morgan as the capable Emcee, the rally will get under way with a variety of skits and it will feature a musical personality parade that promises to be fantastic, and we have Marianne Stacy's word for it. Al Kluth and his band will offer the musical entertainment and inspiration with Jim Nylander and Marv Johnson, and the stagers will be Roberta Schoessler and Howard Shull of dramatic fame.

Student Health Service Expands

An expanded Student Health Service greeted the student body with physical and dental check-ups during registration week. Two complete information cards on family and personal history, and actual medical findings, in addition to a student health card to be used for medical assistance was made up for each student.

The cards are kept on a numerical and alphabetical filing basis for quick reference whenever necessary, and for analysis of the health of PLC enrollees.

The Student Health Service is under the direction of Dr. William Strunk of the Biology department, and Drs. Cowen, Bondo, and Rosenblad, in addition to Dr. Lerasas, made the actual examinations with the assistance of Miss Esther Ordahl who was recently appointed as the new school nurse.

Pacific Lutheran now boasts a health service that is as fine and as complete as any to be found on a small college campus, and it even exceeds those services to be found at some larger institutions.

You won't want to miss Student Body days in Chapel nowadays. A minimum of business and a heap of good entertainment is being planned for the future. Don't forget, fellow students, speak up at these meetings. The executive committee is eager to hear your suggestions.

One of the favorite off-campus gathering spots at the Ohio State University is the Pantry Cafeteria, Inc. At the Pantry, as in college shops everywhere, ice-cold Coca-Cola is always on hand to complete the enjoyment of a between-classes pause or an afternoon date. As an important part of student life—Coke belongs.

MM Deadline
In order to publish a newspaper of some worth, and in order to distribute it during the noon hour on each and every Friday, the Mooring Mast management has established a deadline of 8:00 a.m. Tuesday, for all material that is to be published in the issue of the following Friday. The printer's deadline makes this entirely necessary, and the editors regret that no assurance of publication exists for articles that appear in the Mast office after the deadline, at least until the following week, and in that event the newsworthiness of the article may be lost.

representative proposal grew out of the need for that coverage.

The system is simple, and it is easy for the press representative to get his job done because he, or she, is not asked to write any stories. The representative is asked only to list the information from which a story is to be written and the MM will do the rest upon receipt of such information. The list should include, however, dates, times, places, activities and the names of the people participating in the activities. The Mooring Mast would like to receive information on all of your activities, because much of it may be newsworthy in other respects, but the usual things that they are interested in are elections, parties, get-togethers, outside speakers, special programs, changes in membership, and feature articles on the clubs will be entirely acceptable.

The Mooring Mast staff feels that the activities of the clubs are important, that they are news, and will make every effort to give them ade-
